A WET TIME.

Last Sunday's Excursionists Pursued Pleasure Under Difficulties.

Last Sunday wasn't a very good day for our excursion visitors. Off the Peoria branch from Elkhart came a train of four coaches, and the 11:28 from the south brought nine coach loads. Along about noon it commenced to rain and kept it up for a couple of hours; then there were two hours of sunshine, and after that came more rain which lasted until 6 o'clock. It was a "sobby" time, as an old friend of ours used to call it. The steamboats were the principal beneficiaries, for the people had to keep under shelter and the steamers were their only resource.

MATRIMONIAL.

A Recent Wedding which Brought Life-Long Friends Together.

A marriage which is of interest to Culver people and which has in it the attractive element of romance was celebrated at Plymouth last Thursday night. The principals were Thomas Leak and Mrs. Sallie Deemer. The bride is a sister of Mrs. W. E. Hand of Culver, and the groom is a well-known and prosperous fruit grower at Lake Odessa, Mich. Mr. Leak and Mrs. Deemer have been acquainted with each other since childhood and each long since selected other life partners, whom death has removed, but they have not forgotten their early attachment, and when Mr. Leak sought a companion for his declining years his thoughts naturally went out to his life-long friend, and his proposal was accepted by her, and a happy union is the result. Mr. Leak has three children and Mrs. Deemer has two. The marriage was a surprise to their respective families. Even the daughter of Mrs. Deemer knew nothing of the event until arriving in Plymouth from Culver on Thursday evening, after the wedding party had assembled. Mr. and Mrs. Leak will reside at Lake Odessa.

The French in the Sahara.

The activity of the French in the Sahara is the marvel of recent exploration. They claim more than two-thirds of the great waste, and the present prospects are that they will seek out and map every sand dune, well and grazing area throughout their domain within the next two or three years. The latest flying trip has been made by Capt. Flye Sainte-Marie, who has traveled west and east through the heart of the desert, his outgoing and return routes being from 50 to 100 miles apart and nearly every mile of the way leading through regions never seen before by an explorer excepting where he crossed the north and south tracks of other travelers. He ascertained the lay of the land throughout this long unknown tract and discovered a number of excellent wells that are believed to have been the source of water supply for the nomad robber bands that have made a practice of swooping down upon merchant caravans which had time to wonder, even as they were being plundered, from what mysterious source those fellows managed to replenish their water bags. The French have practically put an end to banditism in the Sahara, and one of their most effective expedients is to guard the wells against all those whose business on the road is not manifestly legitimate. If the development of the Amazon basin does not take a more rapid pace, says the New York Sun, large areas of it will still remain untraversed and unknown when every important feature of the Sahara will have been spread out on good maps for the information of the world.

Baseball in England.

Baseball seems as slow in taking root in England as cricket is in this country. Yet it has a good start and the prediction is made that before the summer ends there will be 20 league clubs in Great Britain. The game was introduced in England in 1874, when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Bostonians made a tour of the country. In 1889 a game of baseball was played on the historic Kensington with the present king in attendance. Buffalo Bill's cowboys played several games in England afterwards. Later the National Baseball association was formed and also the incorporated London Baseball association. During the nineties, five clubs were playing regularly in and about London. A few weeks ago a match game was played in London, in which all the players were English except the catchers. The American boys who are in England with Rhodes scholarships are doing much to develop the game there. As yet the Englishmen do not seem able to master the art of the catcher. Neither do they understand the slang of the game, which adds so much to its enjoyment. The spectators also miss many of the fine points of the sport, says the Cleveland Leader. Baseball may grow on King Edward's islands, but there is little likelihood that it will supersede cricket.

All Like to Travel.

In fact, the bulk of the summer exodus business is pure restlessness or the result of the ordinary human love of travel. The practice of "going somewhere" in summer is a mere excuse in the majority of cases for the gratification of the nomadic instinct. We lack the frankness in this respect that the poor Mexican peon possesses. Since railroads were introduced in Mexico, with their amazingly cheap third-class cars, which the roads are compelled by law to carry, all Mexicans travel when they can rake or scrape the price. It does not matter to them where they go. If somehow the peon becomes possessed of 75 cents, he takes a bag of acorns and a blanket, goes to the nearest railroad station, puts down the silver and says: "Vale por seis reales!" which means, "Six bits' worth of travel!" And the agent sells him a ticket to any point that he can reach with that amount of money. Thither, blissfully, he goes, and trusts to the Lord to get him back again, somehow, some time. We are not exactly like this Mexican peon, says the New York Mail, because he takes his idle voyage at any old time. We take ours in the hot weather and call it a "summer outing."

Tunnels continue to grow in favor.

It begins to look as though the Alps might be honeycombed. The construction of the St. Gothard, the Simplon and other tunnels has led to numerous additional enterprises of the same character. The latest is a tunnel through the Bernese Alps to connect with the Simplon bore and to improve the railroad facilities between Switzerland and Italy. Science is rapidly doing away with the natural obstacles to intercommunication of this sort.

HOSTILITIES BETWEEN MEXICO AND UNITED STATES OBJECT OF DISSENTERS.

Mexico City, Aug. 29.—Considerable interest has been aroused here by the publication of sensational articles in leading American journals depicting Mexico as on the brink of a revolution which is to take form at the first anti-foreign uprisings on September 16, national independence day.

This is alleged to be a part of the plot to involve Mexico and the United States in hostilities which is said to be the object of the conspirators.

High official authorities are behind the statement that there is absolutely no revolution impending and that public peace was never better assured in this country than now.

TEN MILLION TRUST CONCERN IS CLOSED

PRESBYTERIAN FUNDS TO THE AMOUNT OF $1,000,000 MAY BE LOST.

Death of Frank K. Hipple, President of Institution, Leads to Disclosure of Loose Methods in Loaning Money on Inadequate Security.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—The Real Estate Trust company organized in 1885, the depository for nearly a million dollars of the funds of the Presbyterian church, and holding $500,000 of the money of the city of Philadelphia and $175,000 of state deposits Tuesday closed its doors.

The failure was caused by heavy loans made by the late president, Frank K. Hipple, to Adolf Segal, a promoter, on insufficient security.

A desperate effort was made to save the institution by the board of directors through an appeal to the clearing house association, but that body declined to subscribe a guarantee fund of $7,000,000 because of insufficient security.

Liabilities $10,000,000.

The liabilities are placed at $10,000,000, with quick assets of $3,000,000, and doubtful collateral amounting to $8,000,000.

George H. Earle, Jr., president of the Finance company of Pennsylvania, was appointed receiver and in a statement to the public he expresses the hope that he may soon be able to recommend a plan to the depositors that will better serve their interests and terminate his services.

President Hipple was always regarded as a conservative financier, but following his sudden death last Friday, an investigation by the directors developed the fact that his loans to Segal had been made regardless of proper security, and that he had made false statements to the directors of the bank's condition. Friends of the president express the belief that Segal exercised a hypnotic influence over Mr. Hipple.

May Have Been Suicide.

Although the cause of Mr. Hipple's death was given by his physician and the coroner as cerebral hemorrhage, it is intimated that he may have committed suicide.

GEN. MIN'S BODY IS INTERRED

Russian Revolutionists Fail to Keep Threat to Create Disorder.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—In spite of the threats of the revolutionists the transfer of the body of Gen. Min from Peterhof to St. Petersburg for interment in the regimental chapel of the Seminsky regiment took place Tuesday without incident, though with imposing military ceremonial.

The body arrived here late in the afternoon, its departure from Peterhof having been preceded by another religious service at Peterhof, at which the emperor, empress and Grand Duke Nicholas again participated.

The casket was escorted to the barracks here by the entire Seminsky regiment and by deputations from other guard regiments.

Troops and Strikers Clash.

Madrid, Aug. 30.—Dispatches from Santander report serious conflicts with the troops and strikers and numerous casualties on both sides. Two brigades of troops have been ordered to the scene. Official circles fear an extension of the strike to other great cities. The government is making preparations to meet the situation.

To Double Cotton Area.

Manchester, Eng., Aug. 30.—Sir Daniel Morris, imperial commissioner of agriculture for the West Indies, said the cotton area under cultivation there would be doubled next year.

STANDARD OIL TRUE BILLS

TEN INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY TWO GRAND JURIES.

Allege 6,428 Separate and Distinct Offenses of Receiving Rebates on Shipments From Railroads.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Ten indictments, charging 6,428 separate offenses of receiving rebates, were returned against the Standard Oil company by two federal grand juries Monday.

Each jury returned five indictments to Judge Bethia.

The possible maximum fine against the Standard Oil company is $64,280,000.

The charges—the most serious and the most numerous ever brought against the oil concern—will, it is thought, end in a complete revelation of the intrigues through which the oil company secures its freight and tank car reductions.

All of the offenses charged by the grand jurors arise from rebates given at the Whiting, Ind., refinery.

It is alleged that the Standard Oil company has been receiving, contrary to law, from 27 1/2 to 33 1/3 per cent. reductions on the published prices that are applicable to independents.

The railroads accused, though not indicted, with the oil trust and the number of offenses named in the indictments are: Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, 544; Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, 1,890; Chicago & Alton, 984; Chicago & Alton, 1,053; Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Evansville & Terre Haute, Illinois Central and Southern railroad, 103; Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Evansville & Terre Haute, 1,915; Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, 25.

In a summary of the indictments made by District Attorney Morrison, it is shown that while independent oil refineries are made to pay the published interstate commerce scale of 18 cents from East Whiting to East St. Louis the Standard Oil company pays only six cents.

The rate to St. Louis is 19 1/2 cents to the general shipper of oil.

The Standard Oil company, however, pays less than 7 1/2 cents.

The indictments are expected by the federal prosecutors to prove the first effective move to stop the oil company's system of rebating and shutting off competition.

PACKERS ARE CLEANING HOUSE

Secretary Wilson Finds Better Conditions Throughout the West.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Secretary Wilson returned Wednesday from an extended trip through the west and northwest. He inspected personally many meat packing plants in the various cities he visited, making it a point always to call at the plants of a given city without previous notice.

In a majority of instances, the secretary found the plants in good sanitary condition. The packers everywhere, he learned, were disposed to meet the requirements of the law without quibble or protest, their desire being simply to learn definitely what was expected of them by the government.

By the first of October, when the inspection of domestic products will take effect, the secretary believes that the majority of the packing plants of the country will have completed their arrangements for full observance of the provisions of the new law.

Secretary Wilson says that everywhere throughout the west and northwest evidence abounds of the great prosperity of the people, particularly of the farmers. The crops, he says, are enormous, the oats crop being one of the largest in the history of the country.

Fire Renders 2,000 Homeless.

Kamysein, Aug. 30.—A disastrous conflagration has occurred at the township of Mordovo, near here. About 2,000 persons have been rendered homeless.

CHANCE FOR CUBAN REBELS TO BACK UP

AMNESTY DECREE IS ISSUED BY THE SECRETARY ON ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT.

Simultaneously With Its Publication Loyal Troops Defeat Insurgents, Killing Seventeen Men and Losing One Man in Fight.

Havana, Aug. 28.—At the moment Monday when the government was issuing its proclamation offering pardon to rebels who would lay down their arms its forces were dealing the most telling blow that has yet been struck against insurgents in the field.

For several days it has been stated that Gen. Guzman's force of insurgents, which was variously estimated at from 200 upwards, contemplated an attack on Cienfuegos. Col. Valle with a detachment of rural guards and volunteers was dispatched to Cienfuegos for the purpose of engaging Guzman and breaking up the band. The encounter of the two forces resulted in the worst disaster which the insurgents have sustained up to this time. They lost 17 men killed and many wounded, while the loss to the government force was one man killed. The government is without further particulars of the fight.

Insurrection in Decline.

That the insurrection is in a shaky condition seems to be a fact, although the end may not be as near as members of the government profess to believe. Ex-Congressman Faustino (Pino) Guerra, the insurgent leader operating in the province of Pinar Del Rio, in a signed statement telegraphed to the press Monday night declares that he is as determined as ever that the last presidential election shall be annulled before there can be peace in Cuba. That Guerra's force of 2,000 men is well armed and supplied with ammunition and food is amply verified. Their greatest drawback now is the lack of money; but the people of the western part of Pinar Del Rio are furnishing them with all the supplies needed, taking in return therefore orders on the "Cuban government" and in many cases refusing to accept any consideration.

Regarding Amnesty.

The government's offer of amnesty is variously received. It is impossible to say what its effect will be upon those to whom it is addressed. Alfredo Zayas, president of the senate and leader of the liberal party, stated that he was unable to express any opinion as to whether the insurgents would grasp the opportunity offered them of surrendering, but said in his opinion as a lawyer, Secretary Montalvo could not legally issue such an order, for the constitution provides that only the president may make such a proclamation which must be countersigned by some member of the cabinet.

Secretary Maintains Legality.

Secretary Montalvo, on the contrary, stated that the offer of amnesty was issued by the direct order of President Palma and also gazetted officially. The secretary added that the document was in reality an order of the secretary of the interior, issued by direction of the president to Gen. Rodriguez, commander of the rural guards.

The foreign element, including many Americans, criticize the offer of amnesty as a weak and disappointing action, showing a desire for peace at any price and a willingness to sacrifice the possibility of future security to a present expediency.

MELON PATCH RAIDS SERIOUS.

Seven Men and Boys Wounded, Three Perhaps Fatally, Near Boone, Iowa.

Boone, Ia., Aug. 28.—Seven men and boys were wounded, three perhaps fatally, Monday in fracas over raids on melon patches.

Newton Phipps, William Phipps and James Moreland, prominent farmers, were set upon and badly stabbed by a gang with whom members they had remonstrated for smashing melons on the Phipps farm. William Phipps probably will not recover.

Oliver Wright, Fred Phillips, Fred Morecow and George Webb, four boys, were discovered upon the farm of William Coleman. Coleman thought they intended to raid his melon patch and opened fire with a shot gun. All four of the boys were wounded, two perhaps fatally.

HETTY GREEN'S SON CAN'T RUN

Nomination for Governor of Texas Held to Lack Authority.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 29.—The attorney general of the state of Texas Wednesday rendered an opinion nullifying the nomination of E. H. Green, son of Mrs. Hetty Green, of New York, as the gubernatorial nominee of the Republican party. Because of a split in the party, separate conventions were held, one faction being known as the reorganized Republican party and the other as the regulars. Mr. Green was nominated by the reorganized faction.

Get at the Cause—Cure the Kidneys.

Don't neglect backache. It warns you of trouble in the kidneys. Avert the danger by curing the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills. J. A. Haywood, a well known resident of Lufkin, Tex., says: "I wrenched my back working in a sawmill, was laid up six weeks, and from that time had pain in my back whenever I stooped or lifted. The urine was badly disordered and for a long time I had attacks of gravel. After I began using Doan's Kidney Pills the gravel passed out, and my back got well. I haven't had backache or bladder trouble since."

State monopolies are more than ever in favor in France as a means of raising revenue to the prejudice of private enterprise. ## England Mourns Dairy Butter.

The London Times asserts that genuine dairy butter is a thing past praying for. Four-fifths of the population of London, the Times asserts, have never seen it in their lives. Those who know what it is have great difficulty in procuring it, and cannot obtain it in many cases at any price. What is called genuine butter in London, the Times says, is blended and reworked butter.

Has Been Buried for Centuries.

The body of a young woman has been discovered in the ancient Priddy lead mines in Somersetshire, England, some 16 or 17 feet deep in the waterborne silt that has been accumulating since the days before the Romans came. The hair is wonderfully preserved, and remains in the plait in which it was worked. Beside the body were found five large blue and green glass beads.

His Only Concern.

A well known member of the New York bar, a man of most patronizing manner, one day met John G. Carlisle, to whom he observed loftily: "I see, Carlisle, that the supreme court has overruled you in the case of Mullins versus Jenkinson. But," he added, in his grand way, "you, Carlisle, need feel no concern about your reputation."

Carlisle chuckled. "Quite so," he agreed. "I'm only concerned for the reputation of the supreme court."—Harper's Weekly.

GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP.

No Medicine so Beneficial to Brain and Nerves.

Lying awake nights makes it hard to keep awake and do things in day time. To take "tonics and stimulants" under such circumstances is like setting the house on fire to see if you can put it out.

The right kind of food promotes refreshing sleep at night and a wide awake individual during the day.

A lady changed from her old way of eating, to Grape-Nuts, and says:

"For about three years I had been a great sufferer from indigestion. After trying several kinds of medicine, the doctor would ask me to drop off potatoes, then meat, and so on, but in a few days that craving, gnawing feeling would start up, and I would vomit everything I ate and drank."

"When I started on Grape-Nuts, vomiting stopped, and the bloating feeling which was so distressing disappeared entirely."

"My mother was very much bothered with diarrhea before commencing the Grape-Nuts, because her stomach was so weak she could not digest her food. Since using Grape-Nuts she is well, and says she don't think she could live without it."

"It is a great brain restorer and nerve builder, for I can sleep as sound and undisturbed after a supper of Grape-Nuts as in the old days when I could not realize what they meant by a 'bad stomach.' There is no medicine so beneficial to nerves and brain as a good night's sleep, such as you can enjoy after eating Grape-Nuts."

Lavender Creighton's Lovers

By OLIVIA B. STROHM

CHAPTER VIII.—CONTINUED.

Winslow continued: "If, as I understand, this gentleman has lost, then, according to the laws of gambling—for I believe, there are laws of gambling—the woman is yours." He indicated the winner by a polite bow. Then may I inquire the amount staked against her?" he added.

A pause followed this abrupt question.

The planter, whose courage gradually rose with his springing hope, muttered: "One hundred dollars."

"One hundred dollars? A pitiful sum! You gave frightful odds. But of course you felt sure of winning." Winslow added, with suave sarcasm. Then turning to the captain, he proceeded: "It appears, then, that the woman is yours, but she is evidently an unwilling prize. Does not this fact considerably lessen her value? Suppose we play again, she the stake on your side—this time."

He drew a small sack from his pocket, and laid it upon the table. No sound followed the clink of metal, but a woman's shuddering sigh.

Under gloomy brows her old master stared at the new. The latter stood for a moment, a frown of baffled rage distorting his sinister face.

"She was fairly staked, and fairly won," he declared. "The odds are not my business, and I—d—d if I'm to be bamboozled out of the profit of a fair game!"

"But what profit is there in an unwilling slave? You might sell her, to be sure, but that would not be sportsmanlike, and—here Winslow stepped nearer with insinuating clink of money: "Come, you are no Shylock; stick to the letter of the bond; come!" and he slowly counted out $100 which he slid to the table. The sack he replaced in his pocket.

All eyes were upon the boatman as his hungry glance sought the glittering pile. All the lust of the cards was on him. Winslow had counted upon this, and upon the gambler's faith in success.

"Done!" cried the captain, and with the scraping of chairs and a shuffle of cards, the game was on.

In breathless silence the spectators huddled about the players—the one frowning, his close-cropped head held rigid in the thick, short neck, his eyes gleaming like small coals out of a red-veined face.

The other was paler than usual, but placid, self-contained.

The Spaniard looked on with an amused, cynical smile. That this eastern gallant, with the bow of a Chesterfield, and the air of a student, should break a lance with so hardy an opponent, aroused feelings of admiration and pity.

The woman crept nearer, her heart in her eyes.

Two or three loungers strolled in, and there was an interested ring about the players.

A few more turns of the cards, and both men pushed back their chairs—the game was over!

"She is yours, take her, and go to the devil!" roared the captain. Then, hiding his rage and discomfiture under a grim laugh, he strode from the room.

There was some excited talk, and a stifled scream from the octoroon. For the first time Winslow addressed her: "I believe they call you mine, since the cards have so decreed, but pardon me, if I decline the honor. It would save me responsibility if you would remain under the care of this gentleman," and he waved his hand toward the planter.

Without a word, but with a world of gratitude in her deep eyes, the woman glided to her old master's side. He murmured a half-articulate "Thank you" to Winslow, and together they left the room.

"Well, you are a sofie!"

"What are you sneered of?"

But Winslow was glad to escape the jeering congratulations, and quickly made his way out and up to the deck, followed only by the Spaniard.

"This is Mr. Winslow, I believe?" the latter said. "My name is Gonzaga."

After a few preliminary words, he said, admiringly: "You play well, sir, for an American," adding, with a smile, "I think my countryman must have had a glimpse of you revealed to him when he wrote his story of 'Don Quixote.'"

Winslow laughed. "You flatter me, and yet in the matter of ridicule, perhaps I do share his honors."

The Spaniard did not reply to this, and the two men smoked in silence.

At last Gonzaga spoke. "You have been knight-errant to fairer dames than this octoroon—is it not so?"

At this meaning tone Winslow frowned; it was plain whither the question tended. He had observed this stranger's eyes following Lavender in bold admiration. It was only a matter of time when, in the little privacy afforded by the crowded boat, he would have an opportunity to through his acquaintance upon them. This Winslow meant to defer as long as possible, for motives he could not have explained.

But this foreigner was not to be lightly turned from his purpose. "I quite envy you, sir," he persisted, "you are not dependent for society upon the rabble of the boat. Would it be too much to ask an introduction to your charmed circle?"

At that moment Lavender appeared on deck. Seeing Winslow engaged with a stranger, she would have turned back, but Gonzaga spoke loud in an affection of civility: "Pray, do not let me disturb you," and in his manner was evident expectation of the introduction, which Charles grudgingly gave.

Lavender courted low, then, turned to Winslow with a teasing smile: "I hear you have been gambling," she said, "but in such a cause we won't scold you."

Gonzaga interposed: "Truly, the woman seemed well worth the effort."

But the suspicion of evil in his tone was too carefully veiled for Lavender's understanding. "Indeed, she is," was her simple comment. "Such gratitude I have never seen. We are all grateful, for humanity's sake."

Charles waived further discussion of the subject, and as soon as possible

"I HEAR YOU HAVE BEEN GAMBLING," SHE SAID, "BUT IN SUCH A CAUSE WE WON'T SCOLD."

found an excuse to take Lavender below.

The Spaniard stood alone, pensively watching the smoke from his cigar, as it idly curled above his head, or with a sudden faw was blown away in whirling rings.

Shrugging his shoulders, he said, half aloud: "A rose blossoming in the wilderness!"

His teeth showed in a sardonic smile. "Nor is this rose without its guardian thorn. Well, so much the better worth plucking!" and he joined the others in the cabin.

CHAPTER IX.

Thenceforward the little party was augmented by the unfailing presence of the Spaniard, Gonzaga.

Yet the newcomer bore himself in such quiet, gentlemanly fashion, as to disarm objections. He was never obtrusive, and contrived to make his society so agreeable that to none was he unwelcome. Even Winslow, who secretly deplored his coming, could not but admire his tact, his graceful, flowery conversation, his knowledge of the world.

To Mrs. Creighton one day the stranger said: "I have no plans, madam, and when I hear you talk of your future home, and of all you mean to do there, I feel like a wanderer, a good-for-naught. And in truth, I am. A long sojourn in New Orleans became fatiguing; I heard a great deal of this wonderful new land which my own country was foolish enough to let slip from its crown. One day a boat started, thither bound. I embarked—I am here, your servant."

And that was all he ever vouchsafed in explanation of his presence.

There were, however, two of the party to whom this new acquaintance was most unwelcome. Though American and the Indian guide kept ever in the background, they were alert and watchful; keen to observe the slightest change in the situation.

In spite of the antipathy of race and habit, there was a bond uniting these two—a bond stronger than creed or custom. Red skin and black covered hearts that beat in unison to the same refrain, love for those they served. They would sit apart from the others, native antagonism bridged by this common interest.

The stranger they eyed with disfavor, with that instinctive dislike which needs no warrant. With the Indian this was suspicion—a habit of blood. With America, a conservative fear of change.

"I ain't got no call to complain," she said to Owatoga, "an' dis yer Spain man may be all right. But we don't need 'im. We done come so far wid-out his com'ny, an' I reckon we kin go de res' ob de way."

And Owatoga grunted assent, for what of America's words failed to impress his untutored ear, her gestures and manner conveyed.

But there was another on board for whom the Indian felt a far deeper aversion, and that was the captain, Finch. It was plain to Owatoga that ever since the gambling episode, this man had cherished for Winslow a secret grudge. Over his every movement, therefore, he kept anxious watch.

Quarters on the boat were so crowded that in sheer necessity of rest and change, Mrs. Creighton and Lavender spent much time on deck. Here games were indulged in, principally matches for rifle practice, with the captain for leading performer. His aim was unerring, and he was reckless in its display. Many a luckless pig on shore cowed the loss of his tail to this man's it's range, gaze fascinated at the gleaming barrel. Then her glance ran like lightning to the cruel eyes behind it. There was a flash, a report, and the thud of a falling body. Both Winslow and the slave he had redeemed lay prostrate at the foot of the post.

Instantly there was an uproar, and the rush of excited men to the rescue. With a scream of terror, Lavender darted forward, but before she could reach the spot, and to the general amazement, both rose and faced the crowd.

In the silence Winslow stared at the woman beside him. Her olive skin was darker with horror, and she staggered to the post as if for support. "What's the matter?" demanded Finch, striding forward.

"I can offer no explanation," Winslow returned, calmly, "except that the young woman," he indicated the octoroon, "was overcome and fell against me. Not expecting the weight, I toppled ignominiously," he concluded, with an apologetic smile.

Then, at the captain's urging, he replaced the cup on his head. But the dark woman snatched it away, and threw it out far over the water. "No, no, not again; no, never!" she poured out the words in a torrent of feeling. "The rifle was not aimed true! I saw it, but it was too late. I saw the flash, and then—then I pushed you—out of range. I—I could think of no other way," she concluded, with a burst of sobs.

A hush fell upon the company, sobered by the sudden snapping of the wings of Death.

A voice from the crowd at length broke the spell: "Well, Pat, I reckon ye're glad the wench saved ye from bein' a murderer; but how in h—l come ye to make such a mistake?"

DIAMONDS FOUND IN MAINE

Valuable Gems Taken from Boulder That Contains Many Poor Garnets.

People who have visited Fryeburg and who have, of course, interviewed that immense boulder in the woods known as Jockey Cap, will undoubtedly be much surprised to learn that the old rock contains diamonds within its mass, reports the Portland Argus. For many years it has been known that Jockey Cap was stuck as full of garnets as the average plum cake is filled with raisins, but the garnets are of little value since their cleavage is such that they cannot be polished without breaking into fine powder. Then, too, their color is not of the best, so that a Fryeburg garnet that amounts to anything is a genuine rarity.

Recently, however, a man while prospecting on the old boulder came across a small piece of crystal which seemed to him to possess qualities that admitted of professional treatment. He gave a piece of it to Gardner Walker, the Portland manager of Prince's express, a former Fryeburg man, suggesting that it was susceptible of treatment that might result in making a beautiful gem.

Mr. Walker thought so, too, and after he had secured professional advice he was led to send a piece of the crystal to a laboratory to have it cut into gem form. The result has now been arrived at and it is even better than was at first thought to be possible. Mr. Walker's daughter, Miss Catherine Walker, is the proud possessor of two as handsome diamonds as were ever seen provided they were not precisely the real thing from Africa. One of the stones cut to about 1½ carats and the other one to about a carat, or a trifle less.

They are cut in the so-called rose form and show all of the beauties of native diamonds together with beautiful reflected color lights, but no streaks of color within themselves. They are far and away ahead of any of the so-called Brazilian diamonds or other forms of rock crystal which are so largely exploited, and when mounted in rings, as they will shortly be, they will be genuine gems in every sense of the word.

There is no knowledge at present of the amount of this material that is to be found on Jockey Cap or in that vicinity. The rock called Jockey Cap is of the same material that the other ledges in and around Fryeburg are, and as there are garnets everywhere in that section, there may also be crystal diamonds everywhere.

Absent-Minded Minister.

At the Chautauqua assembly a number of stories about absent-mindedness were being told.

There was the story of the absent-minded doctor who handed his patient a fee and took his prescription himself; the story of the professor, who, coming home to dinner too early, and seeing the table cleared, went back upstairs again, muttering that he had quite forgotten having dined; and there were many other stories told.

But Bishop Vincent, among all these anecdotes, carried off the palm with a story about an absent-minded minister.

"There was a minister," the bishop said, "who was so absent-minded that he once lathered and shaved his reflection in the mirror."

Not Experienced.

A judge in a southern town of Kentucky, hearing a case where a colored woman had been arrested for beating her child cruelly, and who, after hearing all the facts of the case, was about to pass sentence, remarked:

"I don't see how you could have the heart to beat your own child that way."

After a pause the woman answered, "Look here, Master Judge, is you ever been the mother of a black rascal like that?"

"Why, no," answered the judge. "Well, then, how do you know how to treat one?"

NEWS FROM INDIANA

EVENTS OF GREATEST INTEREST THROUGHOUT THE STATE

SCHAEFFER SUSPECT HELD

Ernest Tanksley, Arrested for Abduction of a Heltonville Schoolgirl, Believed to Know Something of Famous Murder.

Evansville.—Ernest Tanksley, of Bedford, who has been arrested and Miss Nellie Rainey, a schoolgirl of Heltonville, a small town near Bedford, were taken to Bedford by Bedford officers who came after them. Though the present charge against Tanksley is the abduction of Miss Rainey, the police will seek to learn if he has any knowledge as to who murdered Miss Sarah Schaefer, the young school teacher who was killed more than two years ago and whose slayer is still unknown to the police.

When charged by the police with guilty knowledge of Miss Schaefer's murder Tanksley stoutly proclaimed his innocence. Miss Rainey says she will commit suicide rather than testify against him.

Bedford, Aug. 25.—Marshall Meyers arrived late Friday with Ernest Tanksley and Nellie Rainey, the Heltonville girl whom Tanksley is charged with having kidnapped. Prosecutor Fletcher denied many of the statements made in the story sent out from Evansville which attributed to him knowledge of certain evidence against Tanksley which tended to connect Tanksley with the killing of Sarah Schaefer, who was found murdered in a shed here on the night of January 21, 1904. Mr. Fletcher is preserving silence as to what evidence if any, he has in his possession. He admitted he had some letters written by Tanksley to Miss Rainey, but added that not even his associate officials knew their contents.

The prosecutor said he would not secure a warrant charging Tanksley with the killing of Miss Schaefer, but would place what evidence he might have in the hands of the grand jury. The prosecutor is much disturbed at the publicity given the matter at this time. He said he carefully cautioned Marshall Meyers about talking before the latter left for Evansville to bring back Tanksley and Miss Rainey.

Says Wife Is Too Hasty.

Terre Haute.—Information has been received from Adrian, Mich., that P. C. Close has brought suit for divorce from his wife, who he discovered on a visit here recently was married at the time she married him.

As the wife of Edward Kendall she was a dashing member of society at Clinton, 15 miles from Terre Haute. She was an heiress and spent her own money for so much hilarious entertainment that Kendall left her, and is now a traveling salesman for a Cincinnati jewelry house. She went to Indianapolis to attend a commercial college, and Close was there at a dental college and they were married, she as Miss Helen Kendall.

She left home for a visit to relatives in Terre Haute and Clinton, and was gone so long her husband came after her. She eluded him. He returned to Michigan and caused a warrant to be issued for her on a charge of bigamy, but she has not been found.

Found with Gashes in Throat.

Indianapolis.—Eugene Pierce, quartermaster sergeant of the Second Illinois regiment, which left Fort Benjamin Harrison for home Saturday afternoon, was found in his tent at daylight with two deep gashes in his throat. He contends that some one attacked him, but the officers think he tried to commit suicide while temporarily insane. He was unconscious when found, but recovered consciousness soon after. No evidence has been found that Pierce was attacked, by Maj. H. L. Raymond, in charge of the field hospital, has reported the case to Lieut. Col. W. B. Davis, chief surgeon, as an attempted suicide.

Broken Glass Severed a Vein.

Columbia City.—Edward Abbott, of Roonoke, was found dead in Cow creek, in a pool of blood as the result of injuries received from a fall from a bridge. He was seen to fall by two companions, who assisted him to his feet, and after his assertion that he was all right, left him and went to their homes. Afterward he was found by a night watchman, having bled to death. He fell on broken glass, which severed his jugular vein.

He Walked Off His Drunk.

Terre Haute.—John Huchey, arrested at Jackson Hill, a mining settlement, and taken to Sullivan in a buggy, made his escape and returned to Jackson Hill to renew his stunt of shooting up the town. The magistrate sent another officer for him with orders to walk him to Sullivan, seven miles, on that trip. The walk had the desired sobering effect.

Judge Prohibits Plumber's Strike.

Hammond.—Judge H. B. Tuttle has granted a temporary restraining order enjoining the Journeymen Plumbers' union, No. 397, from calling a strike on the Reynoldson Plumbing company of this city because one of the proprietors cut a thread in a gas pipe himself. Reynoldson, his men allege, cut a gas pipe himself, and for this the shop foreman was ordered to quit work for four months, though the company and the local had agreed to the union scale by contract.

MISSIONARIES NOT OVERPAID

Traveler Refutes Statement That They Live in Luxury.

Winona Lake.—In a lecture before 5,000 people attending the Bible conference here, William Edgar Geil, of London, speaking on the subject of missionaries, refuted the statement that missionaries live in luxury and have an easy time. He stated he was not a missionary himself, neither was he a secretary of any board, but after observations taken the world over, he made that statement frankly.

"I have yet to find the missionary who lives in luxury," he said, "but I have found thousands who do not have the ordinary comforts of life. In China there are 1,000 of these devoted men and women, who are earning less than $250 a year, and most of them are university graduates."

"I had to travel 6,000 miles to the Friendly Islands to see a perfectly kept Christian Sabbath. Here, under the southern cross, they kept God's day. I have traveled 120,000 miles, and with one exception, I never have traveled on Sunday. Then it was because my life was in danger."

"In the island of Narciso 80 per cent of the native Christians have daily family prayers."

SUPERIOR GENERAL HOLY CROSS ORDER.

Notre Dame.—Rev. James J. French, who was elected superior general congregation of the Holy Cross and rector of the seminary at Notre Dame, is at present president of St. Joseph's college, Cincinnati, O., a position which he has held for the past year. Previous to that time he was vice president of Notre Dame university and director of studies. He is a man of middle age and high intellectual attainments.

Democratic Chief Arrested.

Knightstown.—George Hazzard, said to have been at one time chairman of the Democratic state committee, of Washington, is under arrest at Newcastle on a charge of forgery as a result of alleged fraud in publishing a "History of Henry County." He secured hundreds of fessional men and farmers to an indorsement of the proposed work, and after its publication he is said to have attempted to compel each of the signers to pay for a copy of it. He demanded from $50 to $250 each from men whose pictures and biographies appeared in the volume. In nearly every case payment was refused on the ground that the work was not ordered. Hazzard is said to have turned over the alleged subscriptions to John R. George, of Chicago, who has begun filing suits to compel payment.

Would Gladly Die to Save a Soul.

Winona Lake.—At the Bible conference being held here 2,500 people rose to their feet and promised that during the remainder of their lives they would make soul-winning their chief business. Many also determined to become Christians.

All this was done at the invitation of Rev. Reuben A. Torrey, the world famous evangelist of Chicago, who was the preacher. Among other things he said:

"If I knew that by dropping dead on this platform to-night I could be the means of saving a single soul, who, if I lived 20 years longer, would not be saved, I would be willing to die this instant."

Find Dynamite in Satchel.

Terre Haute.—A suit case and a satchel left by a man who registered as T. M. Jamison at the Boyer house in Kansas, Ill., has been opened and the checkroom boys are in a nervous condition over the knowledge that the baggage contained enough dynamite to raze the hotel building. Jamison said he was to be out of town for two days and would leave his baggage. Finally the suit case and satchel were opened and found to contain a dozen pounds of dynamite, powder, fuses and caps, besides a complete set of burglar's tools. There was also a letter to G. The clothing was marked L. M. Travis.

"After all, now what is a knocker?" Well, after all, a knocker is a jackass who never has discovered that the decent way to live is to attend strictly to one's own business and leave every other person free to attend strictly and decently to theirs. The man who will do this can look other people in the face without experiencing a sense of shame, and even respectable people will at least seem to be comfortable if they happen to have to walk with him on the street.—Ex.

Very often we hear complaints that the representation in congress is deteriorating in point of ability. The assumption is not well founded. There is as large a percentage of able men in both branches as the country has ever seen. This fact would be thoroughly demonstrated if a critical and trying situation should arise. The habit of thinking of former times and persons as superior to the present rests in part on ignorance and in part on imagination. As a rule, the present times and people are always the best.

Hon. Benjamin F. Shively of South Bend was unanimously nominated by the democrats of the Thirteenth Indiana district as their candidate for congress in the convention held last Thursday at Plymouth. Mr. Shively is about 50 years of age. He has served three and a half terms in congress. In 1896 he was the democratic candidate for governor, and it is said would have been nominated for vice-president on the Bryan ticket at Kansas City in 1900 had he consented to the use of his name. He has twice been nominated in caucus for U. S. senator.

Railroad Rate Law.

General Provisions—The railroad rate bill requires all interstate carriers to make through routes and reasonable joint rates. It makes oil pipeline companies, express companies and sleeping car companies common carriers and subject to the law. Railways are forbidden from engaging in any other business than transportation. Pipelines are excluded from this prohibition.

Private Cars—While permitting railways to use private freight cars, it requires that all incidental charges arising from refrigerating and other services be incorporated in the transportation charge.

Public Rates—It requires publication of all rates, fares or charges and forbids changes save on thirty days' notice. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the Interstate Commerce commission to hear complaints of unjust and unreasonable rates, and to fix rates that are just and reasonable.

Rebates—Rebates and other discriminatory practices are forbidden and subject to penalties.

Court Review—A limited review of orders or requirements of the commission may be made by courts, but no injunction, interlocutory order or decree suspending or restraining the enforcement of an order of the commission shall be granted except after not less than five days' notice to the commission.

No Passes—Free transportation is limited to certain specified persons.

The Interstate Commerce commission is enlarged to seven members, whose compensation is fixed at $10,000 annually.

Kline Family Reunion.

The Kline family reunion was held Saturday at the home of Will Kline near Maxinkuckee lake and was attended by about fifty relatives and friends of the family. As is customary on such occasions the intention was to have an appropriate program and sufficient luxuries for a good dinner, but the latter feature was so far overdone that all were compelled to remain and assist in disposing of a bounteous supper before the day was called closed.—Argos Reflector.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Station Agent and Wife Run Into by a Passenger Train.

THE LADY INSTANTLY KILLED

Accident Occurred on the Erie R.R. Near Germany Station.

Mrs. Lester Ralston, aged 21 years, was cut to pieces by an Erie passenger train, while riding with her husband on a speeder last week Tuesday evening.

Mr. Ralston is the day agent of the Erie at Germany.

After working hours Mr. and Mrs. Ralston thought they would go to Leiter's Ford to do some trading and spend an hour or two with friends. Taking their railway speeder they were soon on the way and when they were through at Leiter's started on the return trip. When they reached a point near the Gene Nafe farm, traveling east, they encountered a west bound passenger train.

Mr. Ralston was driving the speeder and Mrs. Ralston sat on the machine immediately back of him. Just before the train struck them they were remarking about the brilliancy of the switch lights and it is supposed the headlight of the approaching locomotive was mistaken for a switch lamp at the Germany switch. The impact knocked Mr. Ralston down the embankment where he lay unconscious for some moments. His wife was thrown to the track and the locomotive literally ground her to pieces. The speeder was splintered. Mr. Ralston was not hurt to any extent and when he came up the bank after the train passed a horrifying spectacle met his gaze in the semi-darkness. He then ran to the store at Germany and notified the proprietor, E. H. Spurlock, and returned with Ben Nofsger, Calvin Spurlock, Lon Sheets, Arthur Walters, John Walters, Ward Paxton, Don Nafe, John Mathias, John Noonguesser and others, who gathered up the remains.—Rochester Republican.

[From the Rochester Sentinel.]

After careful probing into all the details of the accident, Coroner J. Richards returned a verdict to the effect that the accident and death was due to the carelessness of her husband.

In speaking of the verdict and his meaning of the same, Dr. Richards said he could not possibly see how a man would run a hand car toward a train and remain on it until the front of the speeder was struck by the coming train.

"I think the accident is due totally to carelessness," Dr. Richards told a Sentinel representative. "In the first place the night was very light there being a bright moon at the time of the accident. The track from a mile west of where the accident happened, to about eight miles east of the scene is perfectly straight and a person can see trains coming for fully that distance. I do not see how he could have taken the head light on the engine to be a switch light as it was so bright and not in the place where a switch light stood. Mr. Ralston is a railroad man and has been for years and his experience ought to be enough to enable him to tell a head light from a switch light. Then another reason I fix the blame on him is that he was facing the train, the seat on the speeder he occupied facing the front, while the one his wife occupied faced in the opposite direction. As Ralston explains the accident, the train struck the front wheel of the speeder, raised it up and in that manner he was thrown off backwards. He does not tell of having done anything to rescue his wife."

Until Sept. 10 we will pay 7 1/2 cents each for Peerless Portland cement sacks; after that date they will be worth 5 cents.

DILLON & MEDBOURN.

FOR ENGAGED PEOPLE.

Information which Nuptial Candidates Must Furnish.

A county clerk remarks that general ignorance seems to prevail about the new marriage law. He says that almost every day people come to the clerk's office to get a marriage license and express the greatest amazement when they are shown the new blanks which are required to be filled out. There are blanks for both the male and female, and it is necessary for each to answer, and each must be prepared to answer questions about their parents as to name, birthplace and occupation. Each must answer as to their previous history, that is, if either has been a public charge within the last five years. Statement must also be made as to former marriages, and whether or not the applicant is afflicted with any contagious disease. Finally a disinterested person must make affidavit that the answers made by the applicant are true. The clerk says that if the people generally would take the trouble to look into the requirements a little in advance of the time much annoyance might be avoided. Very often, he says, people say: "Why the thing comes off this very afternoon; what am I to do?" A little forethought, the clerk explains, would have saved many such distressed expressions as this.

CHIPS FROM "THE LOG."

Matters of Interest in Connection with the Summer School.

Tuesday afternoon was devoted to the review of the fleet and the address by Hon. George E. Foss, congressman from the Tenth district of Illinois and chairman of the House committee on naval affairs. Mr. Foss reached Culver at 2 o'clock and was brought at once to the school in the "Togo." Twelve cutters were in line as the distinguished visitor passed down their front and received the salute of five guns. He then took his place in the reviewing stand and the fleet in three divisions passed in review, making sail immediately afterward.

The telling feature of the speech was the summary of the arguments for a large navy. Mr. Foss himself is a firm believer in building and maintaining a large and first-class naval armament. The reasons upon which he based his appeal were: To help preserve the world peace; to support the Monroe doctrine; to defend the Panama canal; to back up the foreign policy of the nation; to command respect in the orient; to protect American citizens; to extend and protect American commerce; to maintain our position in the Pacific; to be ready for any national emergency. Historic incidents in support of each argument were narrated from the days of John Paul Jones to the Pericardis incident of recent years. The argument of extravagance or needless expenditure of tremendous sums in this direction was answered by figures showing the annual appropriations for new ships and for maintenance. "This total naval program," said the speaker, "will cost each citizen of the United States about one dollar and a quarter per year, and I hold that it is the cheapest insurance in the world."

The awarding of the medals Wednesday morning was preceded by a brief talk by Captain Ross, commandant of the Naval Training station of the Great Lakes. Captain Ross came at the invitation of the commandant to act as judge in the naval features of final week. It was, therefore, with the keenest pleasure that all friends and members of the academy listened to his unsolicited praise for the Culver Summer Naval School. Its thoroughness, its efficiency, its development of the cadets in the short eight weeks term were pronounced by him wonderful. He said that he had not the least idea that any institution existed where such work was being done, and he took special pleasure in commending what he had seen in his three days' visit to Culver. That we do in eight weeks practically the same work which the naval training station aims to do in five months was the most surprising statement as well as the most gratifying which he made.

No occasion has been complete this summer without the band. Rain or shine, in camp at Winona, or in barracks at Culver, at dress parade on shore or at boat review on the lake the band has been a necessary adjunct. Its membership of fourteen have proved themselves equal to all these demands, and in addition have furnished a weekly concert that has been one of the most satisfactory features of the summer. At these weekly concerts a program of seven numbers has been the regular thing, and during the entire summer the only repetitions have been by request. Captain Wilson makes the statement that the band has played a better grade and more music than any previous summer school band.

The selection most called for by the band's admirers has been "Chicken Chowder." Some have attributed this to Sheller's secret influence, but further than this dependent sayeth not.

COMBINING THE SCHOOLS

Schools Abandoned and Merged Into Adjoining Districts.

WAGONS TO CARRY PUPILS.

Union Township to Make First Trial of Consolidation Plan.

Two large handsome carryall wagons each with a seating capacity of 20 to 25 children were received here last week by Trustee Parker to go into service as an auxiliary in the plan of consolidating three small schools with those of adjoining districts. These wagons cost $175 each and were manufactured at Pittsboro, Ind.

The schools which will go out of commission are No. 4, the Shaw school just north of the academy; No. 12, the Hillside school 4 miles northwest of town; and No. 2, the Sickman school, 2 miles northwest.

The pupils of No. 4 will come to Culver; and those of Nos. 12 and 2 will go to Burr Oak.

No. 4 had 25 pupils, but the building is old and unfit for use. To continue the school a new building would have been necessary.

No. 12 had become reduced to an attendance of 7 pupils, and the building had been condemned.

No. 2's enrollment was 8 to 10.

Under the new management the town will save at least 50 cents a day on each school. The average cost of the teachers in the three districts was $2.47 per day besides the cost of otherwise maintaining the schools. The expense of transporting the pupils will not be over $2 per day, and may be less.

The plan of school consolidation has been successful wherever tried. Aside from the saving of expense in attempting to keep up a public school, there will be a distinct advantage to the children in placing them in graded schools. The wagons will lay out their routes in such a way that the children will be gathered in rotation, and at night delivered to their homes or to a point near their homes.

MOTOR BOATS.

A Sport Which is Rapidly Developing on Inland Waters.

Rapid development of interest in motor boating throughout the Central West this season, encourages motor boat builders all over this country in the belief that the water sport is at last beginning to be appreciated at face value. They welcome the announcement that a gigantic motor show on international lines is to be held in Chicago during the first week in January.

The fact that a wood motor boat fully equipped may be purchased for from $100 to $500, warrants the belief that motor boating will, within three years, be as much of a fad as automobiling is today or bicycling a decade ago.

School Book Prices.

Governor Hanly has issued a proclamation declaring that from the 29th of May, 1906, the physiologies, grammars and spellers selected by the school book commission are the adopted school text books for use in the public schools of Indiana for a period of five years: The books and prices are: Introductory physiology, 30 c. (exchange price 15 c.); elementary physiology, 60 c. (exchange price, 25 c.); Lessons in English, book 1, 25c. (exchange price 17c.); spelling book, 10c. (exchange price, 7c.); history, 65c. (no exchange). The history is the same that has been in use for a number of years.

The Champion Corn Raiser.

The champion corn raiser in the world is David Rankin of Atchinson county, Missouri. He uses "pedigreed" corn for seed—that is, corn that by careful selection gives the biggest yield and the most nutritious kernels. According to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he began his independent life with only a yoke of cattle and an inferior plow, but by industry and intelligence has advanced until he has the largest corn farm in the world. Corn and cattle have made him a millionaire. He feeds the corn and sells the cattle. His farm embraces about 40 square miles, or 30,000 acres. On his farm this year over 1,500,000 bushels are grown. This equals the combined corn crop of Utah, Washington, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Rhode Island, Wyoming and Nevada.

Tile Mill Burned.

The tile and saw mill of John W. Thomas near Lapaz, was burned to the ground about 4 o'clock Saturday morning. After they were through burning tile Friday afternoon it is believed that hot tile were left sitting on some pine boards and that the flames started in that way. When the fire was discovered it was impossible to save any of the machinery or anything of value. The property was valued at about $8,000 with no insurance.—Plymouth Independent.

The Winter School.

In three weeks the next session of Culver Military Academy will open and already the enrollment is very close to the capacity of the school's accommodation. It is a gratifying fact, too, that this year the summer school is contributing a score of new men to the winter battalion, thus bringing the two sessions into closer relationship. The summer school naturally looks to the more highly trained cadets of the military school for most of its officers and it is only a matter of reciprocity that the summer school should supply each year a considerable number of men to the larger battalion.

Uncle Sam Going Into Show Business to Induce Young Men to Join the Navy—Boston Man Will Lead Federation of Labor's Campaign Against Certain Congressmen—Other Happenings.

WASHINGTON.—Recruits to man Uncle Sam's new warships have become scarcer and scarcer in recent years and the navy department has at last decided to go into the show business with the hope of inducing young men to join the sea service of the government. Arrangements have been made to place a biograph outfit out on the road for the purpose of exhibiting to young landlubbers in the interior all the features of a sailor's life upon the boundless deep. Photographs by the dozen have been taken, showing all phases of a sailor's life aboard a battleship, and these are to be thrown upon the canvas at entertainments to be given throughout the country, where recruiting officers are to be sent.

TO MANAGE LABOR CAMPAIGN.

The American Federation of Labor has decided to go actively into politics. Officials of the organization believe that the needs of the workman, as regards legislation, can best be served in this way and the federation will make a hard fight this fall on all members of congress who have opposed legislation introduced in the interest of the laborer.

To manage the campaign a Boston man, long a labor leader in that city, has been chosen. He is Thomas F. Tracey, and will make his headquarters in this city. Since 1903 Tracey has been chairman of the national legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor, and he has held numerous offices in labor organizations. In 1895 he was president of the Cigar-Makers' label League and in 1897 was president of the Central Labor union of Boston. In 1899 he was sent by the American Federation of Labor to the congress of the British trades unions. Two years later he was elected fourth vice president of the Cigar-Makers' International union, and later was sent to Washington as special legislative committee man to watch the interests of labor in congress.

LOOKS AFTER HEALTH OF PLANTS.

Mrs. Flora W. Patterson, mycologist of the agricultural department, is a graduate of Harvard Annex, now known as Radcliffe college. Her brother is a professor in Harvard university. Mrs. Patterson worked in Harvard in connection with the Grey herbarium for several years before coming to the agricultural department at Washington. That was ten years ago, and since that time Mrs. Patterson has done an immense amount of good for the people of this country.

Nothing in the line of plants can be imported into the United States unless it has first passed her inspection, and been pronounced absolutely free from all fungus growth or disease.

If such a case of disease is discovered on a certain plant the latter may be sent to quarantine, where an effort will be made to cure the disease; or if it is too far gone the plant is immediately destroyed.

Not the least important of Mrs. Patterson's work is what she does in connection with mushrooms. Under her direction good, sound mushrooms are propagated by the agricultural department and distributed over the country, and if anybody has a specimen of fungus which he is doubtful about being edible he can send it to her department and Mrs. Patterson will examine it microscopically and pronounce upon its safety as an article of food.

COMMERCE PAYS HIGH WAGES.

The Interstate commerce commission is becoming a rival of the isthmian canal commission in the matter of paying high salaries. Prof. Henry C. Adams, of the Michigan State university, who has just definitely accepted the position of "expert in charge of statistics and accounts," will be paid $10,000 a year. He will devise a system of bookkeeping for the railroads. He will be permitted to retain his place with the university. Prof. Adams will be the highest-salaried employee the commission has ever had, but it is the determination of the body, now that it will have an effective law, to make no mistake on the score of undue economy.

The commission has in mind several other jobs that will pay about as well, and the right man could likely get two or three times $10,000 as general counsel for the commission if he could only be found. The commissioners do not want to seem extravagant, but they do intend to have as good brains hereafter as even the railroads get if it is possible.

The commission has employed a special field agent and sent him out to the grain to make investigation under the La Follette railroad grain elevator resolution. Much information concerning this subject of this inquiry continues to reach the commission through the grain and railroad companies.

NOW PRIDE OF NEW YORK ZOO.

Big Constrictor's Appetite for Pets Led to Its Capture.

The new boa constrictor from Venezuela added to the New York Zoological park is one of the largest of its kind and has an interesting history. It began, says the Zoological Society Bulletin, with a series of depredations about a small Venezuelan town, stealing chickens, pet dogs, turkeys and occasionally a favorite cat. The visits of the reptile were invariably nocturnal and so irregular that it repeatedly avoided capture. At length the snake became a terror to housewives and a watch was kept for it. It was finally captured by working a noose over its head and dragging it into a box.

When the Trinidad steamer arrived at New York during one of the cold waves of early spring and the box was opened an apparently dead snake was revealed. A bathtub was quickly filled with water heated to a temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit. In this the snake was placed and it was energetically rubbed and massaged. After half an hour, during which it showed no signs of life, the tail moved slightly. This was a good sign, showing the snake to be actually alive, though by no means sure to recover, for with large snakes thoroughly chilled the lungs entirely collapse. If the dormant condition continues the lung tissue becomes so congested that the first inhalation coming with the return of necessary warmth tears the delicate membranes, when there is an immediate hemorrhage and the reptile dies.

This condition was feared with the Venezuelan boa, and the effect of the snake's first indrawn breath was watched with anxiety. Massaging brought the desired result. The snake was seen to take a deep breath and then exhale. It. Regular breathing followed, showing the snake to be in good condition. It required a period of nearly ten days for the snake to regain its normal vigor. Then it struck viciously at whoever approached, evincing every symptom of a hearty interest in life. Along the body of the snake are numerous deep scars, telling a mute story of battles with denizens of the South American forest before they finally succumbed to its constricting powers.

WONDERFUL TENACITY OF LIFE

Vital Spark Is Slow to Leave Its Human Tenement.

The astounding tenacity with which life clings to the human body is a good thing to remember in these summer days when the bathing resorts are taking their annual toll of human life. The case of Robert Mooney, reported by the life-saving service of the third division, is a good illustration of this fact. He was brought to terra firma after being under water for 30 minutes. The life savers worked over him for an hour and three-quarters before the first sign of returning life was obtained, and he did not regain consciousness until the next day. If his body had been recovered by ordinary untrained men there is little question that he never would have regained consciousness at all. After 15 or 20 minutes of artificial respiration hope would have been given up and the faint little spark of life which evidently remained allowed to die out for lack of perseverance. After the removal of water from the lungs artificial respiration should be resorted to and continued for several hours if necessary, a physician of course being summoned at once.

Some Hints as to Diet.

To know whether your market man is selling you oleo or butter ask him what he is charging you for it.

The theory that pumpkin pies are unhealthy in July has never been put to the test, except with canned pumpkin.

Onions should be eaten only at an hour when you are sure no friends will call.

The Irish potato is recommended for food in cases of German measles. The theory is that the racial antipathy of the vegetable and the measles will distract the attention of the germs from the system.

If you should bite your fingers while eating corn on the cob, excuse yourself and tie up the fingers.

The best time to eat a hearty meal is when a wealthy friend invites you to take dinner with him at his club. —Chicago Post.

Murderous Act of Parisian.

A few days ago a carpenter named Letourneur was walking along the St. Martin canal, in Paris, when he seized a boy of 12 and threw him into the water. As it happened the boy could swim, but when he reached the bank, the brutal carpenter kicked him back into the water. Some burges ran up in time to save the boy, and after thrashing the would-be murderer, handed him over to the police. Letourneur's defense is that he wanted to earn a reward for saving the boy from drowning.

Before Their Day.

First Chappie—I wonder now, Bertie, how the donkey ever came to be used as the emblem of stupidity?

Second Chappie (with a yawn)—Don't know, I'm sure, dear boy; must have been before our day.—Tit-Bits.

"But I do not approve of his ways," protested the pretty girl.

"Never mind about his ways, my dear," replied her mother. "He has unlimited means."—Chicago Daily News.

SUGGESTIONS FOR NOVEL AND PLEASING ENTERTAINMENTS.

Guessing Game That Has Some New Features—"Mother Goose" Luncheon Enjoyable Event.

A Guessing Game.

This clever little game was offered at an affair given for a recent bride-elect. The questions were written in white ink on heart-shaped cards of rose color, and the guests were told that the answers all began with the word "heart."

QUESTIONS.

- 1—What she takes from us?
- 2—How she greets us?
- 3—Where we sit?
- 4—What disease threatens?
- 5—Oftentimes what is her conduct?
- 6—What then comes of us?
- 7—How do we feel?
- 8—Describe the catastrophe?
- 9—What flower consoles us?
- 10—Under its influence what then do we become?

ANSWERS.

- 1—Heart.
  - 2—Heartily.
  - 3—Heart.
  - 4—Heartburn.
  - 5—Heartless.
  - 6—Heartache.
  - 7—Heart-sick.
  - 8—Heart rending.
  - 9—Heart's ease.
  - 10—Heart whole.
- The prize was a heart-shaped box of "Vienna" candy which is imported, and is very delicious.

The Seven Ages of Woman.

A series of impromptu tableaux was enacted in a hotel parlor the other night, which was worthy of a far larger audience, although the sum realized for charity was a good one, owing to the generosity of the appreciative audience. The pictures shown represented "the seven ages of woman;" first, "Infancy" was a real live baby, hastily borrowed for the occasion, with a real live angel bending over it; the second scene, "Childhood," was modeled after Jessie Wilcox Smith's charming picture, called "The First Love." Then the "School-girl" came next, with books and slate; "Maidenhood" showed a young girl daintily gowned with a letter in her lap and a box containing a diamond ring; "Wifehood" and "Motherhood" were followed by "Old Age."

Space forbids going into the details of each scene, but it will be easy to work the pictures out with very little preparation. It is a simple matter to have colored lights, and they will greatly enhance the beauty of the pictures. If music is played very softly during the scenes, it adds to the pleasure in a marked manner, and suitable selections may be found, such

MONOGRAM EASY TO WORK.

Made in Satin-Stitch and Outlined with Cording-Stitch.

Here is a bold, distinct monogram of S. P., worked in satin-stitch, outlined with cording-stitch.

The letters must be well padded by running out with soft cotton before the satin-stitch is worked, then the entire outline is worked with fine cording-stitch, close up to the edges of the satin-stitch.

Easy to Make Tints.

A secret worth knowing is how to tint laces, chiffons, silk or crocheted buttons, feathers, slippers, gloves, etc., to a given shade. The materials required are oil paints in tubes and benzine. The benzine is placed in a porcelain bowl and the paint is dissolved in it. The work has to be done quickly and of course in a fireless room. Mix the paint to the required shade in a saucer, comparing it with the goods until the right color. When the exact tint is reached mix with the benzine and dip the articles to be dyed quickly in it before the paint fails to the bottom. A hairpin comes in handy to hold the edge of the goods. Shake out quickly and hang up to dry. It is well to make a few experiments before risking costly materials, but the process is really not at all formidable.

as "Auld Lang Syne" or "Long, Long Ago," for "The Old Age," the "Wedding March" for "Wifehood," and "Hush-a-By Baby" for "Infancy."

A "Mother Goose" Luncheon.

A "Mother Goose" luncheon is indeed an affair out of the ordinary. In the invitations, which had quaint little pen and ink sketches on them of "Mother Goose" in peaked hat and a broom, ready to "sweep the cobwebs down from the sky," the guests were requested to wear something to indicate a character in the dear old nursery rhymes. The centerpiece on the table was an enormous "pie," with a ribbon radiating to each plate, where a little woolly lamb was tied to it. The place cards had tiny "spiders" attached to them. Each guest was called upon to recite the rhyme she represented when she was correctly guessed. This was the occasion of much merriment.

When the dessert course was brought in the hostess asked all to pull their ribbons, and out of the "pie" came all sorts of birds. They had been found at the favor counters, and elicited much comment. "There is no telling what can be found until you begin to look," said this indefatigable hostess, who is ever on the alert for something new. The souvenirs, which were a joy to the guests, were small Japanese teapots, bearing a cord on which was written: "Polly, put the kettle on and we'll all drink tea."

A copy of "Mother Goose" for grown folks was the prize of the person who guessed the most characters. It was a very jolly party that departed, and proved without doubt that we are all only children of a larger growth.

A correspondent signing the initials "M. B." asks replies to the following questions:

When one is entertaining a sister and a cousin, and wishes to give a luncheon in their honor, will the visiting card of the hostess be proper to use for invitations, writing "given for Mrs. Blank and Mrs. Jones" on it, with the day and date?

Where should these guests be seated at the table?

In returning the call of a young lady whom you know, and have entertained, should a card be left for her mother, whom you do not know, or should just your card be left without the husband's card?

Information on these subjects will be much appreciated.

The visiting card is perfectly proper to use with the names of your guests upon it, and your sister may be seated at your right, the cousin on your left at the table.

If you wish to call on the young lady's mother, it will be right to do so, asking for her and leaving a card; on the other hand, you will be correct in simply asking for your friend and leaving your own card for her. MADAME MERRI.

DAINTY AND USEFUL TRINKET

Wash Leather Purse a Gift That Will Be Appreciated.

For a dainty and useful little present, or as a small article for sale in a bazaar, the purse, of which we give a sketch, is a thing to be remembered. It is intended for the waistcoat pocket or a lady's bag, and is made of wash-leather. The mouth is bound with ribbon, and the neck is gathered, and pulled together by means of a small silk cord with a little tassel. Initials can be worked in silk on either side; those of the donor on the one side, perhaps, and the recipient on the other. One and three-fourths inches wide by 2 1/4 inches deep is quite large enough size to make this purse, and it may be lined with soft silk if desired. The purse, from which this sketch was made, was lined with a light blue silk, the mouth bound with darker ribbon, and the initials and cords matched the latter.

Wire for the Register.

So often people tell of the many things they have lost down their registers. Money, buttons and thimbles are sure to roll straight for the register. Place a fine wire netting in the top of the pipes, just below the register, then when anything is dropped into it, all you need to do is to lift out your register and take out the articles.

PROTEST ON BEHALF OF BOYS

Writer Cries Out at Martyrdom Suggested by Writer.

For the sake of the future of the race it may be hoped that the modern mother does not take half, no, nor quarter, of the modern advice placed at her disposal. Here is an authority on the rearing of the young, volunteering this recipe in a Philadelphia periodical:

"To arrest the darkening of a boy's light hair, put a half ounce of salts of tartar in the first wash water when washing, and let the child sit in the sun a good deal."

By all means let him sit in the sun. A healthy boy enjoys the sun, and if he is given to understand that he is sitting in it in order to bleach his hair the idea will fill him with rapture and he will remain motionless for hours at a stretch.

If there is anything that a boy should have for his own it is his hair—that and the freckles and scratches and blisters and stone bruises which he accumulates. His time he can't have to himself, at least he couldn't in the old days, because he had to run errands and do certain fixed stunts, called "stints" or chores. But he ought to have a clear title to his hair, surely.

If he is compelled to devote most or even a few of his waking hours to processes whereby he may wear flaxen hair that will curl prettily, he may become a thoughtful, attentive and "perfectly lovely" young man, who can pass things at an afternoon reception without spilling them; but heaven help him!

The only thing a normal, energetic boy asks to have done with his hair is to have it let alone when it isn't being clipped close to his scalp. And the talk about the first wash water! It might be supposed that the boy was being put through three washings and was to be rinsed, rough dried and hung on a line. It's a watchful mother who gets a boy with legs under him to the second wash water.—Providence Tribune.

INVISIBLE LAND OF OLD AGE

Country Which is All About the People of the Earth.

The Land of Old Age is an invisible country which is all about us. However young you are, you have been near it, and I should count you unfortunate indeed if, in the heat of the day, you had not turned into its shady by-paths and lingered a moment with its quiet dwellers. It is a very peaceful land; there is not much work there to be done; duty is rarely seen—so seldom, in fact, that sometimes those of us who have gone there to live for good feel that we have passed our time of usefulness and have moments of hot resentment that we are not out in the world doing its work for it. I feel that way myself often, for it such times make excursions and at such times make excursions outside. Always the gentle hands of my children lead me back to my own country; and I sometimes feel that the reason we resist taking up our places there is this sense that we are not allowed to come out when we wish, that we are kept prisoners—not through our own weaknesses, but because there are certain conventions as to what is suitable or unsuitable for us old people.—Harper's Bazar.

Her Secret Out.

Robert Watchorn, the commissioner of immigration, has made a sympathetic and thorough study of the immigrant types that reach New York. Discussing these types the other day, he said: "The most naive are the Germans from the smaller and remotest states. They have the charmingly simple and quaint minds of children. A beautiful German girl disembarked here the other day. She was tall and strong, blue-eyed and yellow-haired. She wanted to know at once if there were any letters for her. The postmaster at the pier, after getting her name, said, by way of a joke: 'Is it a business or a love letter that you expect?' The girl faltered: 'A business letter.' 'Well, there's nothing here,' said the man after looking over the assortment. 'The girl hesitated. Then, blushing as red as a rose, she said: 'Would you mind just looking among the love letters now, sir?'"

He Owed It to Himself.

"Do you think I look well in this dress?" she asked. "Um," her husband replied, "who made it?" "I did, but I'm afraid—" "My dear, I never saw you have on a more becoming gown than that one is. By Jove, you look so slim, and graceful and young that I can hardly realize we've been married seven years." "O, Alfred, do you really mean that? I believe I'll make all my clothes after this."

As soon as he could decently get away, Alfred went out and treated himself to several of the best cigars he could find.

Mr. Masterson Answered.

Rev. Mr. Masterson, a summer resident of Marblehead Neck, for reasons best known to himself, wears in the hottest weather a long coat and a handkerchief around his neck. Thus dressed he frequently takes long runs about town, but has decided objections to being stared at. One day recently he was running along, and, noticing a small boy gazing at him, he stopped and asked querulously: "What are you looking at?" The boy promptly replied: "I'm looking at a d-n fool."

WILLIAM J. BRYAN LANDS IN GOTHAM

DEMOCRATS WELCOME LEADER
ON RETURN FROM HIS TRIP
AROUND THE WORLD.

Standing by Rail with Wife, Daughter and Friend, Nebraska Man Waves His Broad-Brim Hat in Response to Cheers by Multitude.

New York, Aug. 30.—Browned by the suns of other lands, and happy to see their own, the Bryans arrived in the United States Wednesday on board the steamer Princess Irene, after a trip around the world.

The last part of the voyage was not an entirely pleasant one as the big steamer last Saturday encountered a heavy storm which proved all but too much for many of the passengers.

Mr. Bryan did not suffer much from the severe weather but he was greatly fatigued when he boarded the steamer and during the entire voyage suffered from indigestion and headache. He was much better Wednesday, he said, and was certain that his health would permit him to attend all the functions which have been planned for him.

Welcomed by Friends.

Mr. Bryan's welcome home began almost before the Princess Irene reached the quarantine station and when the steamer came to a stop several tugs and harbor steamers crowded with members of the welcoming committee and others were alongside the steamer.

Mr. Bryan stood by the rail with Mrs. Bryan, Miss Bryan, and Lewis Nixon and waved his wide-brimmed hat in response to the cheers that rolled up from the small boats.

Mr. Bryan was dressed in black frock coat, vest and trousers. A turned-down collar with a black bow tie and a black felt hat.

With him were Moses C. Wetmore, M. F. Dunlop, Mrs. Dunlop and Miss Dunlop of Chicago.

Favored by Inspectors.

The delay while the health officers were making the customary examination was quickly over. The customs officer immediately began an inspection of the Bryan baggage, and five minutes later the transfer to the yacht was begun. This was by no means a simple matter as the party were obliged to board two tugs before reaching the wharf.

In making the transfer to the yacht Mr. Bryan made quite an extended visit with his Nebraska friends who were on the Eugene F. Moran and the Julia C. Moran the flotilla was finally up the harbor before the party finally reached the yacht. The pleasure steamer then headed for Stapleton, and prepared to dock at the Ocean Yacht club.

At the club waiting to transfer the visitors to Nixon's home on Pavilion Hill.

Compliments Ship's Officers.

Aside from the storm of Saturday there was little out of the ordinary in the passage across the ocean.

Mr. Bryan kept very much to his room and spent much of his time in preparation for the functions arranged for the few days following his arrival.

After dinner Tuesday evening Mr. Bryan delivered a brief address in the dining room. He did not touch upon political questions at all. He complimented the captain, his officers and crew on their seamanship and the excellent care accorded the passengers under their care.

REFORM SPELLING FOLLOWED

Secretary Taft Gets First Letter From President Under New Rules.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Secretary William H. Taft received the first letter from President Roosevelt written in accordance with the rules of the reformed spelling board. The letter was dictated Monday night and pertained to the business of the government, which fact rendered its publication impossible. All of the executive correspondence will be spelled in accordance with the recommendations of the reformed spelling board. The list of three hundred words which is the present accomplishment of this board, has been for several days in the hands of the president's stenographers and Secretary Loeb waited until Monday before putting the new spelling into effect, that all might have time to become familiar with the new rules.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR KILLED

Young Woman Steps on Glass Floor and Is Precipitated to Basement.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 30.—Lena Jeffries, a telephone operator 23 years of age, in the employ of the Nebraska Telephone company, was killed Wednesday by falling from the third story of the Douglas street exchange building.

Miss Jeffries was in the rest and cloak room, which is located on the third floor and which has a glass floor. One of the sections of glass was cracked. The young woman stepped on this defective portion and was precipitated to the basement, killing her instantly.

PRISONERS TO CLEAN CITY

WILL BE PUT TO WORK AT PORT OF VALPARAISO.

Food is Plentiful and Distribution is Being Made to Needy, Under Supervision of Authorities.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 29.—The prisoners in the Valparaiso jail, except such as are known to be dangerous and those who are serving second terms, have been set to work on the improvement of the port.

Commerce is picking up, and matters are beginning to move with regularity.

The government continues to buy building material for use in repairing public buildings.

The president eulogizes the work of the authorities in the procuring and distribution of food, of which there is an abundance. Distributions of provisions are made daily, but every able-bodied man is required to work.

It is believed that the number of wounded in Valparaiso will not exceed 700, most of whom are being cared for by their own people. It has been decided to remove the sick in the Valparaiso hospitals to Santiago. It is impossible to state exactly the number of casualties.

In a few days the railroad service between Santiago and Valparaiso will be restored to its normal footing. President Riesco believes that as a consequence of the preventive measures taken by the authorities immediately after the earthquake danger of an outbreak of sickness has been averted. The water supply of Valparaiso has been completely restored and the sewerage system soon will be reestablished.

Thousands of people are leaving Valparaiso for fear of a recurrence of earthquakes.

The rains having ceased most of the inhabitants of Valparaiso are taking up their abodes in the campments, at least during the night.

ARMS BROKEN IN AUTO SMASH.

Pittsburg Hotel Man and Wife Seriously Injured in Accident.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 27.—A. L. Richmond, a hotel proprietor of this city and Mrs. Richmond were brought to this city to a hospital Sunday night each with a broken arm, serious contusions and other injuries received in an accident to the automobile in which they were returning from Cleveland.

Mr. Richmond will recover but his wife received internal injuries which it is said will cause her death.

The accident occurred at the hamlet of Hiram Schoolhouse, Ohio, when the machine was going about 40 miles an hour. The steering gear broke causing the car to plunge over an embankment, pinning Mr. and Mrs. Richmond beneath.

His excellency appeared at Portage la Prairie Monday with a covering over his right eye.

ERRORS ABOUT THE WHITE HOUSE.

To the Editor:

I noticed somewhere recently—I would not say positively that it was in your columns—an article on the White House which contained several misstatements.

In the first place it was stated the White House was first occupied in 1800 and that its first occupant was President Madison. The fact is, its first occupant was President Adams, who took up his residence there in 1800.

The original mansion was begun in 1792. In 1814 it was burned by the British and rebuilt in 1818.

Another of the errors in the article referred to was the statement that ready-prepared paint is used on the White House to make it beautifully white.

I noticed this especially because I have used considerable paint myself and wondered that "canned" paint should be used on such an important building when all painters know that pure white lead and linseed oil make the best paint.

It so happened also that I knew white lead and linseed oil—not ready-mixed paint—were used on the White House, because I had just read a booklet published by a firm of ready-mixed paint manufacturers who also manufacture pure white lead. In that booklet the manufacturers admitted that for the White House nothing but "the best and purest of paint could be used," and said that their pure white lead had been selected.

Above all people, those who attempt to write on historical subjects should give us facts, even if it is only a date or a statement about wood, or brick, or paint, or other building material.

Immense Leaves of Palm.

The palm family bears longer leaves than any other known tree. The Inaga palm, growing on the banks of the Amazon, has leaves which reach from 35 to 50 feet in length, and 10 to 12 feet in breadth.

Specimens of the talepote palm, a native of Ceylon, has been met with 20 feet long and 18 feet broad. These leaves are used by the natives to make tents, and, thus employed, they make very efficient shelters from rain.

The leaves of the double coconut palm are often 30 feet long and several wide. The leaves of the cannibal tree of Australia resemble broad planks and are frequently 15 feet long, 20 inches broad and 1½ feet thick at the base. These boardlike leaves all shoot out at the top and hang down so as to form a sort of umbrella around the stem.

The leaves of Ceylon has leaves of such enormous size that a single one will cover from 15 to 20 men, and often serves as a canopy to a boat, or a tent for soldiers. A specimen leaf taken to England measured 36 feet round.

Schools Spreading in China.

A few years ago the foreign missionary schools were practically the only institutions in Foochow offering facilities for the acquisition of western learning. There are now at least 30 native schools fashioned after the foreign model. Foochow is a city of 600,000 inhabitants, and these schools embrace about 2,000 students.

Posters placarded all over the city advertise the opening of various modern schools, which are springing up in every nook and corner of the place. Scarcely a week passes without the announcement of the opening of a new school.

Beware of Serbian Bank Notes.

There is dismay in the Serbian ministry of finance. In the strong room in this department, in a specific safe, were stored the engraved plates from which Serbian bank notes were struck. These plates were engraved in Paris and cost a sum of £1,600.

All these plates have within the past few days been found to be stolen from the safe, without any visible sign of the safe having been tampered with.

DUBIOUS

About What Her Husband Would Say.

A Mich. woman tried Postum Food Coffee because ordinary coffee disagreed with her and her husband. She writes:

"My husband was sick for three years with catarrh of the bladder, and palpitation of the heart, caused by coffee. Was unable to work at all and in bed part of the time.

"I had stomach trouble, was weak and fretful so I could not attend to my household—both of us using coffee all the time, and realizing it was harmful.

"One morning the grocer's wife said she believed coffee was the cause of our trouble and advised Postum. I took it home rather dubious about what my husband would say—he was fond of coffee.

"But I took coffee right off the table, and we haven't used a cup of it since. You should have seen the change in us, and now my husband never complains of heart palpitation any more. My stomach trouble went away in two weeks after I began Postum. My children love it and it does them good, which can't be said of coffee.

"A lady visited us who was always half sick. I told her I'd make her a cup of Postum. She said it was tasteless stuff, but she watched me make it, boiling it thoroughly for 15 minutes, and when done she said it was splendid. Long boiling brings out the flavor and food quality." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE WHITE RIVER COUNTRY.

In the opinion of one who has traveled much and observed closely, the most truly and rightfully contented people in the United States to-day are the small landowners in what is known as the Upper White River Country, anywhere from Newport, Ark., to Carthage, Mo. They are contented because their surroundings are ideal and, until recently, the great, uneasy, disquieting world, with its artificial needs and inadequate compensations, has been to them but little more tangible than a dream. Here, still existent, and by reason of their very rarity at this day and time more delectable than in the past, are the conditions which have ever appealed with irresistible force to the independent-spirited Anglo-Saxon. Every man is the supreme ruler of his own little principality; acknowledging no master save the law—and possibly his feminine helpmeet; clinging to no employer; asking no favors from the world, save those that his neighbors freely extend and expect as freely in return. He lives in a latitude where the extremes of heat or cold are never known, and at an altitude that insures perfect health. The richest bounty of Nature has been showered upon him with unsparring hand, but it is a question whether he more than dimly realizes the fact. He accepts as a matter of course the fertile soil which produces in abundance every cultivable growth common to the north temperate zone, the surrounding forests of valuable woods and the underlying strata of precious minerals, the springs and streams of translucent purity on every hand, the wealth of fish and game at his very door, such as less favored mortals annually travel hundreds of miles to find. He is contented, but small credit is his for that, for how could he well be otherwise than content? It is said that such idealistic conditions may not continue, but it is written that the present possessors of this favored land must soon give place to others more appreciative of its incomparable features. A railroad has recently cut its way through the best of this region, and the unaccustomed rustle of bank notes and clink of coin will eventually tempt the hill-dweller to part with his brightness. So it has always been in the world's history—the good things that are ours without price invariably pass from our hands before we come to understand their value. The White River country will shortly be discovered anew by a class of immigrants better capable of judging its possibilities—the men who seek modest homes where the "lay of the land" will effectively prevent crowding by too close neighbors, where their cattle can fatten on free range, where the wealth of forest and mine awaits development by intelligent workers, and where the game and fish offer enjoyable recreation to all who have leisure and inclination for sport.

DIAMONDS IN UNITED STATES

Stones to the Value of $300 Found in Single Year.

Never in the history of the United States has there been such a demand for diamonds as there was in 1905. Large quantities were imported, but the country produced none.

In 1903 it produced diamonds to the value of $50, in 1901 it had an output worth $100, in 1900 its production was valued at $150, and in 1899 the country boasted native diamonds to the value of $300.

Diamonds have been discovered in the United States in four different regions, but their actual place of origin is unknown. All have been found in loose and superficial deposits, and all accidentally.

It is not at all improbable, however, that some day the original sources of this queen of gems may be discovered. The high price of diamonds has made the recent search for these precious stones in the United States and Canada keener than ever before.—Scientific American.

BABY COVERED WITH SORES.

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—"Would Have Died But for Cuticura."

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since. He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 22, 1905."

Cuba Wants Immigrants.

The Cuban congress, at its recent session, appropriated $1,000,000 to be used for the purpose of inducing immigrants to come to Cuba from Europe and the Canary Islands. It is proposed to pay the passage of each emigrant from his home. The field hands are to be brought from Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Italy.

Alum Baking Powder is Wholesome.

Dr. Herman Reinhold, the expert German chemist, in a recent official report concerning Baking Powders, declares that a pure alum baking powder is better and less injurious than the so-called cream of tartar powders. He says that if the quantity of alum contained in a sufficient quantity of baking powder for a batch of bread or cakes for an ordinary family, be concentrated to one mouthful of food, and taken into the stomach of any one person, no matter how delicate, it could do no harm. On the contrary, alum is wholesome in proper quantities. This is undoubtedly the reason the State of Missouri quickly repealed a law that prohibited the manufacture of the most wholesome of all baking powders. So much for Alum Baking Powders.

How to Put On Gloves.

Open and turn back the gloves to the thumb and powder lightly. Put the fingers in their places, not the thumb, and carefully work them on with the first finger and thumb of the other hand until they are quite down; never press between the fingers. Pass the thumb into its place with care and work on as the fingers. Turn back the glove and slide it over the hand and wrist, never pinching the kid, and work the glove into proper place by means of the lightest pressure, always allowing the kid to slide between the fingers. In finishing care should be taken in fastening the first button.

Another Triumph for X-Rays.

So successful has the application of the X-rays been in the treatment of children suffering from ringworm, that the Metropolitan Asylums Board, London, has been enabled to discontinue the use of one of the two institutions reserved for such cases.

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED.

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so slow that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs. If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation."

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Other talks were given by John Sr., John Jr., Wesley, Maude and Willie Osborn, Mr. Rouch and Mr. Moore. The reunion was closed with a song, and the feeling of best wishes and good cheer for each member of the family prevailed.

AGED RESIDENT GONE.

Old Citizen of Union Township Was Found in Garden.

Joseph Bruce, aged 70 years, a pioneer resident of Union township, was found unconscious in the garden back of his home late Wednesday afternoon by members of the family, and died at 11 o'clock. The cause of his death was apoplexy. Despite his old age Mr. Bruce had been enjoying good health all summer and his sudden death is a great shock to the community.

He was the father of eight children, three of whom, along with his two wives, are dead. The living are Samuel A. Bruce of near Kewanna, Mrs. Frank Lunsford of Aubbeenaubee township, Mrs. W. Berger of South Bend, Mrs. Amos Overmyer of Richland township, and Mrs. Ella Rogers of Silver Lake.—Rochester Sentinel.

Rheumatism is not incurable. Stubborn? Yes! But Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy will if faithfully used drive it out of the system. It's the blood that's at fault. Poisonous crystals like sand get into the joints and muscles. Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy prevents this. It drives Rheumatism from the blood and then Rheumatism dies. We recommend and sell it. T. E. Slatery, druggist.
