Murray, the Balloonist, Makes a Beautiful Ascension.

HE DESCENDS INTO THE LAKE

Most Spectacular and Fascinating Sight Witnessed Here.

When, on the stroke of five o'clock Saturday afternoon, Fred Murray cut loose his big airship from Main street he started on as beautiful an ascension as an aeronaut ever made. To his almost perpendicular rise of 2,000 feet he added the unusual spectacular act of dropping into the lake in full sight of the hundreds of breathless spectators standing on the shore watching his flight.

The day had been a windy one, and it was feared that the risk would be too great for him to brave the adventure, but as the afternoon waned the west wind died down to a soft breeze just sufficient to carry the bag slowly eastward. As the balloon shot skyward Murray was hanging by his hands to the tra-Tim Wolf, good-natured and pop- peze. have carried him across.

Murray had prepared for the plunge which he knew was inevitable by putting on a cork jacket, and Jake Saine was at the dock to start the Saine lannch into the lake a few minutes before the balloon sailed; but in starting the engine a gasket blew out and Saine and Monton Foss took to a row boat. They were too late to be of service, but the Peerless was out Judge Bernetha today sustained in the lake lying to waiting for Murray to drop, and when he cut loose from the balloon the steamer struck the water.

> This was Murray's third ascension. Its success establishes him as a fearless and skillful aeronapt, and if he cares to continue the business he should be able to fill a jarge number of dates next season.

Under the Yoke.

New occupations for American women are frequently described in the household magazines. Meantime many women of the old world steadfastly cling to their old tasks. A traveler with good eyes may see in a single summer day in Belgium enough to make him wonder what are really the boundaries of "woman's sphere." At five o'clock in the morning he may see a red-cheeked woman, a rude harness over her shoulders, pulling, with a big dog for a helper, a heavy cart of vegetables three miles from garden to market. The cart holds several bushels of potatoes, carrots, cabbages, topped by a great bundle of dewsprinkled roses; and before the woman and the dog trudge home with it again, everything will have been sold. Our traveler may come upon two muscular women transferring a load of coal from sidewalk to cellar, shouldering the baskets as easily as men would do. If he lingers to watch them finish their task, he will see a girl of 16 swing a wooden yoke over her shoulders, and carry pail after pail of water from the town pump, two squares away, for the scrubbing clean of the dusty sidewalk. Three women toss bundles of oats upon a high cart, and themselves drag it up from the field to the yard, where the grain is to be threshed, and where later they will build the straw into symmetrical stacks. A great herd of cows cluster round the milkers in the field, and from the group the talk and laughter of girls mingles with the sharp whistle of the milk in the palls. So, in the little kingdom of Belgium-where wages are low and taxes are highwomen toil at what we have come to consider work fit only for men, says Youth's Companion. But it must be said that they do not look unhappy under the yoke. Perhaps the freedom of farm and market and street is really better for their peace of mind than the "too much kitchen" which often makes our more fortunate women weary in body and depressed in Simple Life Natural in Japan.

Many of us dream of the simple life. Some strive for it; few attain it. An eminent author has said only those with great wealth and enormous strength can live it. With the Japanese this is so. The simplicity of their daily existence has been cultivated until it is an art. Each man's status in society is definitely fixed. It is the grade in which his forefathers lived and in which his children's children will live. There is no striving for a higher place. He is satisfled with his position, accepts it as a matter of course, and makes the most of it. Only by some overt evil act will be drop into a lower grade, and it must be a phenomenal deed or service to the state that will raise him even one degree higher in social rank. This stability of position has an important influence upon the nation. No one wishes to appear different from what he really is, and as a consequence there is no greed for wealth. You will say this must kill ambition. If ambition is a struggle solely for money and position, then it does kill ambition, but it does not kill ambition to excel in one's own craft or calling. . . The fact that a Japanese is content in his own sphere, says the Craftsman, is the keynote of the success of their simple life. It is of no value for him to make a false impression, so the element of show or push is left out.

The state of Washington has made an advance in the line of social reform by having arrested and indicted for manslaughter a young man who succeeded in drowning some of his friends by vigorously rocking the boat in which he and they were taking a short water trip. This is a form of homicide by means of which a great many people have in years past been brought to an untimely end. It is, of course, a case of idlocy on the part of the boat rocker, who always looks upon the act as a humorous proceeding, but, says the Boston Herald, in view of the past experiences the authorities of the state of Washington are no doubt justified in taking the initiative in declaring that this form of life taking has ceased to be tolerated as a joke, and that those who willfully indulge in the sport must be held to a criminal accountability if for any reason it results in loss orf life.

A Philadelphia bacteriologist says there are at least 20,000,000,000 mlcrobes in every pair of trousers. We wouldn't mind the microbes if wo only had some old ten-dollar bills in our clothes to keep them from going hungry.

With its pigtail off and clad in "pants" and a constitution, China will not know itself. But it will make itself known to other folks, one of these days, and then we will be sorry we were not better friends with it.

NATION MUST BUILD, SAYS ROCKEFELLER

OIL KING ASSERTS WE ARE TOO YOUNG TO BEGIN TEAR-ING DOWN.

"Frenzied Attacks" Denounced and Agents of the Law Scored-Declares Attack on Packing Business Hurtful in Foreign Markets.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 5 .- "We are still too young a nation to begin tearing down. We must build up, build up, build up, for years to come. The very children in the schools should be taught the need of our development." This defense of big corporations was the keynote of an important interview given Thursday by John D. Rocke-

Speaking further for the demand for government regulation of so-called private industries, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"If we limit opportunity we will have put the brakes on our national development. Will the individual strive for success if he knows the hard-won prize is to be snatched from his fingers at the last by his govern-

"We are too young a nation, as I said, for this tearing down. Our position is by no means secure. It is like repeating A, B, C to say that we can not consume our total production. We must sell abroad or do less business. Reducing the volume of our production means less work, less wages, less business transacted, at the very least.

"It is checking our development instead of furthering it. Is it common sense, then, to handicap our export trade at home, to attack the good name of our business for the benefit of our foreign rivals?

Denounces "Frenzied Attacks."

"Is it common sense to tell our young men, on whom the future must depend, that they can hope for no other reward for carrying our commercial flag forward than frenzied attacks at home, and all the handicaps their own government can pile upon their business to satisfy the violent prejudice excited against them?"

French Hate Americans. Speaking of his recent visit to France, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"The French people hate us and they will crush us if they can. They want our money. They want the patronage of our tourists. But they hate us. They never let slip an opportunity to take quick advantage of our mistakes. This is a struggle for supremacy. We must win, or they will, and there will be no quarter for us if they win.

"And now there is Japan, rising in the east to a power we can not estimate. We can not foretell what her competition will be; we do not know the resources of the new territory which she controls; we can not guess the commercial and industrial possibilities of the Japanese.

"At this critical stage we are giving the enemy ammunition to fire at us. He is quick to seize this advantage. Take the attack we made upon our own packing business, for instance. I know none of the men in the beef trade, I never dealt with them, nor was I ever associated even indirectly with their business or themselves. But it is safe to assume from the prosortions of their industry that they are sound business men. And it is safe to assume, too, that no business could have been built to such proportions on such false principles, or by such unsound methods as they were charged with.

"I do not believe there was a line of American goods sold abroad that was not injured, or an American agent doing business abroad whose work was not hampered by this."

OPPOSES FEDERAL OWNERSHIP President Scores Class Hatred, Rancor, Brutality and Mob Violence.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 5 .- President Roosevelt denounced government ownership of public utilities Thursday in his address at the dedication of Pennsylvania's $13,000,000 capitol. He also declared Wall street should not rule the nation.

The president was introduced by Gov. Pennypacker. Copies of his speech, which were distributed, showed the president had used the simplified spelling in writing it.

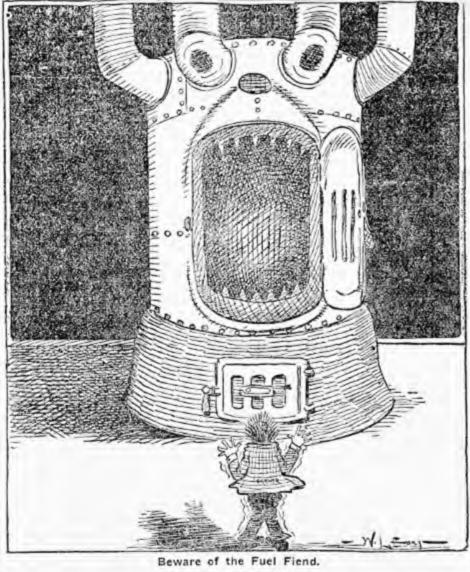

"It behooves us Americans to look ahead and plan out the right kind of civilization, as that which we intend to develop from these wonderful new conditions of vast industrial growth." said Mr. Roosevelt in his address. "It must not be, it shall not be, the civilization of a mere plutocracy, a banking house, Wall-stret-syndicate civilization; nor yet can there be submission to class hatred, to rancor, brutality and mob violence, for that would mean the end of all civilization.

"We need to check the forces of greed, to insure just treatment alike of capital and of labor, and of the general public, to prevent any man, rich or poor, from doing or receiving wrong, whether this wrong be one of cunning or one of violence."

To Appoint Robb to Bench.

Washington, Oct. 5 .- It is learned from perfectly trustworthy sources that the president has determined to appoint Assistant District Attorney General Charles H. Robb, of Vermont, to fill the vacancy in the District of Columbia court of appeals caused by the resignation of Justice Duell. The appointment will be announced in the course of a few days.

URGE PROTECTORATE BY UNITED STATES

FOREIGNERS IN CUBA WANT CON-TROL OF AFFAIRS VESTED IN AMERICA.

Favor Plebiscite in Which All Residents of the Island Shall Be Permitted to Express Views on Future Method of Government.

Havana, Oct. 5 .- Now that the disarmament of the revolutionist and the government volunteers is progressing steadily, the thoughtful portions of the public of all nationalities are animately discussing the possibilities of Cuba's future form of government. The desire for annexation, which has been carefully concealed for the past four years, is now voiced openly, and the wish that the United States retain some measure of actual control in Cuban affairs is heard more insistently than ever.

Representatives of leading element both Cuban and foreign, have been asked to attend a meeting next Sunday to discuss the feasibility of holding some sort of plebiscite by which all classes of the population would be enabled to express their ideas on what the future form of government should be. One plan suggested is the formation into groups of the various foreign elements, each of which will formulate its own project of govern-

Reports of the disarmament operations show considerable delay and confusion, but no real opposition. On the whole the work is proceeding smoothly, and the only complication encountered was met and disposed of by Brig. Frederick Funston, assisted by Gen. Agramonte, of the disarmament commission. It appears that Gen. Asbert's agreement to disarm and disband was conditional on the surrender and disarmament also of all the policemen in the town of Guines. Gens. Funston and Agramonte went in an automobile to Guines to straighten out the matter.

Leaders Anxious to Disarm.

Gen. Asbert, like other rebel commanders, is particularly anxious that every man of his command lay down his arms. The reason is that these commanders aspire to and expect to be prominent factors in political control after the next election, and they do not desire the presence of large bodies of men who might rise against them should they be permitted to retain their arms.

Troops Are Disbanding.

There were some shots in the vicinity of Santa Clara Wednesday night, fired by volunteers who had not yet been disbanded, but Gov. Aleman telegraphed Gov. "Gerald," she moaned beneath her breath, and she stroked his arm with a pitiful little caress as if to assure herself that he, at least, was spared. Then she knolt over her dead father's body.

Winslow opened his eyes to see a others only seeking a fresh sensation. For this furnished keen zest to the fronand death.

With the pain of being lifted, Winslow procession which, taking the opposite road, followed the dead man and his child to the lonely cabin on the branch.

All unconscious of the journey on the litter, and still half-delirious, Winslow opened his eyes again. This time they rested upon dull rafters above his head, studying the antics of a spider pendent there. Then his unseeing eyes traveled down the walls where grotesque shadows leaped in obedience to the flicker of candles. A murmur of voices and the click of glasses reached his ears, but as echoes from a distance.

An impious voice proposed a toast: "Here's to the soul of old Jabes Miller! May he keep the fires all hot till we get there!

And this time the answering shouts were louder to his slowly rousing senses. He heard the gentle remoustrance; "Fush! if you can't let the dead rest in peace, you might have a care for the living."

There was a moment's slience-but for a moment only. What was there to be solemn about in the death of this old man, the sour-visaged hunchback who drank many a bottle, but never asked their company? And this wounded stranger-who was he, that they other stopped him. "One moment, should keep silence for him? A knifewound more or less, a stab in the dark -what did it matter? So the roystering erew drank and made merry while to the sick man, on his bed of boughs in the farthest corner, their shouls were faint and far echoes, bringing struggling reason home.

A step crossed the body bent over him, room, and somesee the outline of a He could dimly slender. One weak hand stole upwards, until it touched hers. His eyes glowed with the light of fever and passion. The unconscious action was a revelation of all his smouldering, secretly cherished love. And the woman bending over him, saw and understood; in his delirium he mistook her for another, for the fair white girl his heart desired. She would let him think so -let him believe it was she who ministered. So she smoothed his hair and bathed his temples, moistening the hot lips that murmured her name.

CHAPTER XV.

When Lavender and the Spaniard left the dance in search of Gerald, they note. "Then there are two dead?" followed the road that led to the inn. "Where are we going?" Lavender demurred; "hadn't we better wait here? He will surely return to the party." But Gonzaga insisted, "It is only a short walk to the 'Sign of the Bat,' and the night is heavenly." "But why should Gerald seek such a place at this hour?" Gonzaga coughed deprecatingly.

"He may have business with some of the village folk, and your brother knows where to find them. Besides, the boat is there."

His argument prevailed, and Lavender walked at his side through the breathless, fragrant night.

Half the distance passed, they were startled by a woman's scream. They could not guess whence it came, for no other sound followed. Instinctively killed, you say. By whom?" Lavender shrank back. The Spaniard took advantage of her fright to put one arm protectingly around her, but watched the crowd ambling to and fro she broke from him and hurried for- about the tayern, her eyes wide with ward. The Spaniard rallied with an effort. Had his deeply laid plan, his deliberate scheme to ruin Winslow's reputation resulted in his death? To win the love of that girl hovering there in the shadow he would risk much, but he had not meant this.

"A friend of mine? Hardly that," he replied. "But I met him on the bont, as you know. Is he-is he dead?" Price shook his head. "Guess not,

"Certainly she does. Winslow was there-Winslow was shot-Winslow was, therefore, the lover. A natural supposition, is it not?"

The other drew himself up with disdain. "It would be too dishonorable, senor. I cannot let an innocent man suffer for me. That he has been wounded through my fault is bad enough; more I cannot permit."

But Gonzaga asked politely: "One question: Did you kill this old man,

COUNSEL FOR THE DEFENSE

Defended a Treasured Tree and Himself as Well and Won His Point.

Charlestown, Mass., was a man of determination, not easily influenced. As an illustration of his firmness, says Youth's Companion, Mr. T. T. Sawyer, in "Old Charlestown," tells the following story: Along High street there stood at that time several remarkably large and fine elm trees. One of these, the grandest of all, was in the middle of the street, nearly in front of the Austin mansion. There came a time when the selectmen of the town looked upon it as an obstruction to travel, and by vote directed the superintendent of streets to cut it down. One pleasant morning, Capt, James

Deblois, who was then at the head of the street department, appeared with as men, provided with axes to carry out the order. Mr. Austin, who had learned what was to be done, had risen early and taken a position by the tree as its defender

"That is so," replied the captain, "I have a copy of the vote of the board of selectmen authorizing and directing me to cut it down, and I shall obey orders." "But you are not authorized, sir," said

Mr. Austin, "to chop off my legs, which will have to be done before the blade of an ax touches this tree." "Squire Austin," said Capt. Deblois,

"I have great respect for you as a man and as a lawyer, but you know you have no right to place yourself in this position, and if you persist you must take the consequences."

"Ah, sir," said Mr. Austin, "I am prepared for that. I shall defend the tree and defend myself, and it is you who must take the consequences if you advance further in this wicked business. And you have lived long enough in the town with me, Capt. Deblois, to know that I am in earnest," While this was going on around the tree, a remonstrance, which had been signed by many citizens, reached the chairman of the selectmen, who soon appeared on the spot to stay proceedings; and on his assurance that nothing further would be done until after a hearing of the remonstrance, Squire Austin left his post at the tree and went in to a late breakfast,

The old tree was not disturbed until years afterward, but grew on, admired and appreciated by all lovers of the while routine matters were under congrand and beautiful in nature, a con- sideration and the introduction of no tinued joy to its defender as long as he

Surgeon's Nightmare.

Two patients who called in company upon a noted surgeon, found him bemouning a twinge of pain in his right forefinger. The callers smiled.

"Great Scott, doctor!" exclaimed one, 'you don't mean to say that a pain in the finger bothers a man so used to scenes of suffering as yourself!"

"It certainly does," the surgeon answered, with a worried look. "How do I know that it isn't the first symptom of blood poisoning? That is the nightmare of the surgeon. No matter how careful he may be, he is liable to contract poisoning in operating and that kind of poison is of the most virulent type. Any time a surgeon is complaining about a pain in the hand, sympathize with him, for he is doing some hard guessing."-Philadelphia Record.

REFORMER WOULD REFORM.

Disgraced Laporte Pastor Seeking to Purge Himself of Sins by Hard Work in the Open Air.

Laporte,-'I shall never again attempt to reform others until I have succeeded in reforming myself." With these words Rev. S. V. Williams, the disgraced pastor of the First Christian church of Laporte, withdrew from the pulpit to the plow and exchanged the ministerial frock for the farm hand's blouse.

As preacher and reformer for many years he had held that the agricultural life more than any other conduces to the regeneration of man, and It has been his hobby to send to the farms every case of a fallen brother that he could control. In harmony with his theory after having confessed to immoral practices, he has retired to a farm under a self-imposed sentence of at least one year's hard labor in the open air. The situation involves a separation from his wife, herself a successful minister of the gospel.

Sumnel V. Williams Is about 48 years of age, and until recently has been in fairly rugged health. He is a native of El Paso, Ill., where his father was a farmer. After passing William Austin, in 1811 a resident of through the district school he determined to enter the ministry. He graduated with honors at several univer-

> Soon after the couple came to Laporte there reached the official board of the church a rumor, followed shorthad by a direct charge heart Williams suggested the possibility of a damage sult against the accused clergyman. Mr. Wiliams was able to convince the board of his innocence, and there was talk of blackmail with the woman and her lawyers as codefendants. So when she entered the church one Sunday morning one of the trustees quietly hinted to her that her room was more desired than her presence, and she departed.

The predominating trend in Williams' preaching was an appeal for greater purity of life. As an aid of purity he advocated the simple life. plenty of outdoor work and plain food, such as the farm affords. One evening in August at a meeting of the official board of his church other subject was anticipated Elder Williams suddenly arose and with a gush of tears entered upon a nervous and distracted narrative of what he termed his "damnable and no longer bearable double life." He was greatly excited. He declared that throughout his life he had sinned. In disregard of his priestly and nuptial vows he had habitually, he said, made frequent visits to neighboring cities for the sole purpose of carousing. He had just returned, he said, from his latest escapade in Chicago. He resigned his pastorate, renounced his marriage, vowed that he was too great a hypocrite for human association and became so hysterical that it was necessary to stop his astounding tirade and confession. All who were present pledged themselves to secrecy pending an investigation.

Later Williams made public a statement that the widow's assertions about his conduct toward her were

ELECTION POINTS.

What Some of the New Provisions of the Law Require.

An election board consists of the inspector and two judges. The clerks are not members of the election board. As to qualifications of the members of an election board the law provides the following: "No person shall be eligible as a member of the board of elections who has anything of value bet or waged on the result of such an election, or is a candidate to be voted for at such an election, or who is a father, father-in-law, son, son-in-law, grandfather, grandson, brother, brother-in-law, uncle, nephew, first or second cousin, of any candidate at such election.

A new Indiana law requires all election inspectors to make their returns to the canvassing board immediately after proper footings are made by the election board. This is a new law as formerly the inspectors were given until Thursday after election to make their returns.

THE CULVER CITIZEN COLD WINTER FORECAST

A Logansport Weather Observer Tells a Sad Tale.

NATURE HANGS OUT WARNING

Story That is Told by Animate and Inanimate Things.

It's going to be a long, hard winter. So says Captain Foley, and he knows, for he is the official weather prophet, according to the Logansport Reporter. In the first place, katydids have made their appearance. Look out for frost about the middle of this month. Within six weeks after the first katydid has sung, frost is sure to come, so says N J. FAIRCHILD, Foley, and he points to an unbroken record in proof.

Then there are many signs that next winter will be unusually severe. In the first place there are bushels of nuts on the trees and bushes. This is said to be nature's way of providing food for the birds, and a big crop of nuts means a long and severe winter. This prediction he supports by the statement that via the Nickel Plate road. cruel winter is found in the activity of the barn mice. These little animals have already begun the work of building their nests, and observers agree that they are making them this year unusually cozy and warm. Last year they seemed to give little attention to the building of their winter nests, but this year they are not only beginning to build them unusually early, but are giving remarkable attention and care to their construction. All of which signs point to a severe winter, and there are many who place as much confidence in these homely predictions as they do in the reports of the weather bureau. Some swear by Captain Foley.

Interesting Gossip from Washington by Our Special Correspondent -To Make Alcohol from Corncobs-Rare Act of Army Friendship-To Suppress Bell Ringing.

WASHINGTON.-The manufacture of alcohol may be revolutionized as the result of experiments which have been completed by the department of agriculture. The officials of the department have succeeded in making alcohol from corncobs and cornstalks at a cost so small that they believe it will prove of large commercial value and develop into a new industry. It is proposed at first to manufacture the alcohol as a byproduct in connection with corn-canning factories. In investigations which the department is making at Hoopeston, Ill., it has been proved that the large quantities of corncobs which every year go to waste can be converted into alcohol in sufficient quantities to justify the erection of a distilling plant. The department sent two chemists to Hoopes-ton to make experiments at a large cannery there. They have succeeded by simple methods of fermentation in getting a yield of 11 gallons of alcohol from a ton of green cobs and by similar methods in getting six gallons of alcohol from a ton of green cornstalks. A statement concerning the experiments by one of the scientists of the

'At different times during the last 25 years the department has conducted experiments along the same line, but with common field cornstalks. These tests show that there are 240 pounds of fermentable substance in a ton of green field cornstalks, which will yield about half of their weight in absolute alcohol. In round numbers a ton of stalks will produce 100 pounds of alcohol or 200 pounds of proof spirits. As a gallon of alcohol weight nearly seven pounds, there should be 15 gallons of alcohol in a ton of stalks.

"Not only are the cobs a waste product but the irregular and spoiled ears of corn as well. Hand labor is as yet employed in the husking and all ears are put in, as the wage is based upon a measureful. As the measures of ears are emptied upon the conveyors the ears unfit for use are culled as they go by. These culled ears also are waste. The expense of bringing them to the point where they are cast aside is quite as much as the perfect cars. The addition of the corn on the cob adds further to the possibilities of alcohol obtainable from a ton of cobs and will have its influence in bringing the quantity to a greater figure."

THE SACRIFICE OF GEN. BELL.

Brig. Gen. Jesse M. Lee, a civil war veteran, the only one left among the higher officers of the army, is to be retired by law early next January. There was a vacancy among the major genorals when Lieut. Gen. Corbin retired the other day and Maj. Gen. MacArthur was promoted to

Under the usual operation of the regulations Gen. Bell would have been advanced to fill the vscancy, thus giving him rank equal to that of any other officer assigned to departmental duty at Washington, a condition extremely desirable. But Bell stepped aside in favor of Gen. Lee so that the latter might retire with the higher rank. Gen. Lee has an excellent record, but has always refused to allow influential friends to intercede to hasten his promotion.

BELL RINGING MAY BE SUPPRESSED.

Shall church bells continue to peal in the national capital as in the good old times, or shall they be suppressed, is a question which the district commissioners have decided to take up for serious consideration, and all interested in it pro and con have been requested to submit their

STEVENS' UNAPPRECIATED PUN.

John F. Stevens, chief engineer of the Panama canal, has been in various limelights in the capital during the investigations, but he carried his point and has been told at last to go ahead and build the kind of canal he has advocated. He is a man to carry points when he makes them. He is an ideal engineer, rugged and strong, and every motion indicates unlimited reserve power. His face is rather handsome, but determination dominates, from the thick, dark hair and heavy eyebrows to the brief, strong mustache, over lips which close like a punctuation mark when he has said his say. He missed it once, however, and told the story as though he rather enjoyed it. He was sitting on the counter in a western grocery store when a cowboy came in, and taking him for a clerk, said: "Gimme some raisins!

There had just been a couple of impromptu hangings in the next town, and looking up without moving the young engi-

Do you want the same kind of ralsin's they had over yonder?" The next instant he was looking into the business hole in the cowboy's shooter. He says that it was as big as a cannon, and he was getting ready to slide off and bunt for raisins when the proprietor came to the rescue, begging the cowboy not to spatter up his place. He took advantage of the pause to apologize.

MAKING A "CITY BEAUTIFUL."

More than $50,000,000 is now being spent upon buildings and bridges of a public character in and around Washington, and when work already undertaken has been completed, Washington will be without a peer as a city of architectural beauty. In addition to the projects amounting to more than $50,000,000 now decided upon and under way, improvements costing an additional $20,000,000 are projected.

When the senate and house office buildings are completed the plaza east of the capitol will be almost surrounded on its four sides by one of the most magnificent groups of public structures in the world, built of granite and marble, The north and south sides of this plaza will be bounded respectively by the senate and house office buildings, which together are to cost $7,000,-000. The west will be bounded by the imposing structure of the capitol, the eastern front of which is to be extended in marble at a cost of $1,330,000. The eastern side will be partially bounded by the library of congress building, which has cost the government $6,920,000. The other blocks of ground east of the capitol plaza and just north of the library of congress, will ultimately be occupied by a splendid structure for the supreme court of the United States. The capitol and its proposed extension, the senate and house office buildings and the library of congress will represent an expenditure by the government of $32.321,849, and this will make these structures the most coatly marble frame in the world for so small a rectangle of follage and grass. Not far from this splendid series of buildings will be the new union railroad depot, which will front the plaza from Delaware avenue on the north at Light blues with brown coin dots is a cost of $12,000,000, with its approaches, making the five structures in this

"I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering bables to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could help her, but she continued to grow worse, Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away; her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were as clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again if it cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents. Mrs. George J. Steese, 701 Colburn St., Akron, Ohlo."

KENTUCKY WOMAN

How She Gained Fifteen Pounds In Weight and Became Well by Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Women at forty, or thereabouts, have their future in their own hands. There will be a change for the better or worse, for the better if the system is parified by such a tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. D. C. Wedding, of Hartford, Ky .. writes as follows concerning the difficulties which afflicted her:

"I was seriously ill and was confined to my bed for six or eight months in all, during two years. I had chills, fever, rhennatism. My stomach seemed al-ways too full, my kidneys did not act freely, my liver was inactive, my heart beat was very weak and I had dizziness or swimming in my head and nervous

"I was under the treatment of several different physicians but they all failed to do me any good. After suffering for two years I learned from an Arkansas friend about the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided that I would try them. The very first box I took made me feel better and when I had taken four boxes more I was entirely well, weighed fifteen pounds more than when I began, resumed my household duties, and have since continued in the best of health. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many people on account of what they did for me, and I feel that I cannot praise them too strongly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills restored Mrs.

Wedding to health because they actually make new blood and when the blood is in full vigor every function of the body is restored, because the blood carries to every organ, every muscle, every nerve, the necessary nourishment. Any woman who is interested in the cure of Mrs. Wedding will want our book, "Plain Talks to Women," which is free on request.

All droggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or they will be sent by mail postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y.

Hindu Moon Lore.

The full eclipse of the moon was observed in Singapore on the night of August 4. According to the Hindus this eclipse is the contact between the moon and another planet called Rahoo, but the masses believe that owing to the will of God, Rahoo, or the serpentlike planet, catches hold of the moon by its hideous mouth and releases it after a short time.

At the first contact the Hindus bathe principally in the sea and anxiously await the release. After the contact they take another bath. During the interval they are not allowed even to drink a cup of water, as their belief is that all things in the world get polluted during the contact .- Singapore Times.

Pauperism in British Isles.

Indoor pauperism is said, in the British official record, to have grown rapidly in England and Wales since 1900. During the last cleven years the cost of indoor relief has increased 86 per cent., while the increase in the number of paupers has been only 36 per cent. The annual cost of maintenance per head increased from about $65 in 1895 to about $90 in 1905. There had also been a large increase in the average cost of maintenance of work-

BIG PACKERS IN ASSOCIATION

Four Chicago Houses Accept Invitation of Smaller Dealers.

Chicago, Oct. 3 .- The big packers met the little puckers Tuesday with open arms-by proxy.

Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Morris & Co., Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, and the Cadahy Packing company, through various representatives, signed the roll of the American Meat Packers' association at the Grand Pacific hotel. Starting on a small scale, but with plenty of enthusiasm, the association has spent no large sum for stationery. The names of the world renowned packing companies were written in a manila covered blank book, such as retail at a nickel.

The National Packing company was the only big concern that failed to join. Gen. Michael Ryan, president of the organization, said there was nothing significant about this. He had tried to communicate by telephone with Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, but Mr. Tilden always "had just left."

The representatives of the big packing firms made speeches in which they said the association was a fine thing, and should have been organized

WHO PAID FOR THE DRINKS?

Endless Chain Operated by Thirsty Men on the Mexican Border.

"Now, here is the best yarn of the lot and a good puzzle for the Sunday papers to print," said the man with the alkali in his whiskers, when he had settled down in the hotel lobby after a long day on the rubberneck wagon.

"Several years ago American silver coin in Mexico was on the same basis as Mexican silver was at that time and still is in the states; it passed at half its face value. Drinks in El Paso and in Junrez, the Mexican town across the line, were a bit aplece or 12% cents, as you easterners would say.

"In those palmy days a citizen of El Paso could go into a drinking emporium and buy a drink, paying for it with an American quarter. The bartender would hand him back a Mexican quarter, which was, of course, worth 121/2 cents in Texas.

"Then with this Mexican quarter in his hand the citizen could cross the bridge to Juarez and there buy another drink, laying his Mexican quarter on the bar.

"If the Greaser barkeep should give him in change an American quarter worth 121/2 cents in Mexico the joyous citizen could return to Uncle Sam's back yard and repeat the process.

"Now, the question is: Who pald for those drinks?"-N. Y. Sun.

Bird Breding Islands.

During the last year the Audubon Society of Louisiana has rented some 17 bird breeding islands, located in the waters of the gulf. Last year the islands were watched by two wardens, whose wages were paid by the national committee of Audubon societies, and although they were not wholly able to prevent trespassing and egg stealing nevertheless the results attained were wellnigh marvellous. On their own and the neighboring Islands of Breton reservation, owned by the federal government, by these simple preventive measures, there were hatched and raised all of 40,000 birds. composed of the following species: Common terns, foresters, terns, royal terns, laughing gulls, black skimmers. -Country Life in America.

Aunt Mary's "Quiet" Funeral.

A dear old New England spinster, the embodiment of the timid and shrinking, passed away at Carlsbad, where she had gone for her health. Her nearest kinsman, a nephew, ordered the body sent back to be buried -as was her last wish-in the quiet little country churchyard. His surprise can be imagined, when, on opening the casket, he beheld, instead of the placid features of his Aunt Mary, the majestic port of an English general in full regimentals, whom he remembered had chanced to die at the same time and place as his aunt. At once he cabled to the general's helrs. explaining the situation and requesting instructions. They came back as follows: "Give the general quiet funeral. Aunt Mary interred to-day with full military honors, six brass bands, saluting guns,"

Drinking Customs.

Society is soaked in drink. The customs of Europeans in India are all anti-tectofal. It is even regarded as unpatriotic to be a total abstainer, because the government has a direct interest in the sale of drink. It is a or three years that fact that when Indians become Christian it is necessary to have a temperance society, which as heathens or Mohammedans they did not require. This is due to British drinking customs.-World's Women's Temperance Bulletin.

There are two classes of remedies: those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of nuknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers; those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the
