Erza Koontz went to Chicago Tuesday on a few days' business trip. Harry Mense came home from South Bend Friday evening and remained over Sunday. Miss Jessie Rogers, a school teacher at Kewanna, visited Culver relatives and friends Saturday and Sunday.

PLYMOUTH HAS A MODEL OFFICIAL

Plymouth has a city official who is a rara avis. Evidently he believes that his service to the public is not wholly discharged by performing the duties which are thrust upon him; but that he can enhance his usefulness by exercising a wide-awake interest in whatever pertains to the public welfare.

FIRE DRIVES OUT FARMERS AT NIGHT

Awakened at 1 o'clock on Sunday night by the smell of smoke Lafayette Vories, occupying G. W. Osborn's farm in North Bend township, 3/4 miles northwest of Culver, discovered on opening the stair door that the upper part of the house was on fire.

SIGHTS IN SOUTHLAND

An Entertaining Narrative of a Culver Pastor's Recent Trip to North Carolina.

It is but a little while after you leave Cincinnati until you begin to climb skyward. First along the streams as they wind down through the mountains, and when the heights are gained traverse some ridge, for miles following its curves, bridging its chasms down which dashes some mountain stream clear as crystal, and tunneling its bluffs and extending spurs.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENTS ON THE BIG FOUR

On Saturday morning at 2 o'clock the Chicago-Cincinnati flyer on the Big Four ran head-on into a north bound freight at Fowler, Ind., within 400 yards of a siding where the freight expected to pass the other train.

LOCAL ITEMS

The lake is again frozen over. — Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rannells of North Bend, on Jan. 22, a son. — The Saine garden has been furnishing pansy blossoms within the past week.

The fire undoubtedly originated from the chimney flue though just where the defect was is not known.

There was an insurance of $600 on the house, but none on its contents.

Mr. Vories' family are staying at Mr. Overmyer's.

Another Farmer Burned Out.

A small house on the Edgar Shilling farm, a mile north of Ober, caught fire Monday morning at 6 o'clock in the roof where a stove-pipe passed through, and was totally consumed with the household effects.

Smith Must Refund Fees.

The commissioners made an order for Ex-Sheriff D. C. Smith to appear before the board of commissioners on the first day of the February term and refund about $160 of "in and out" fees which he received and to which he is not entitled.

Hereafter the public will be charged an admission fee of 50 cents to all track meets and basketball games in the academy gymnasium.

The roads in this neighborhood are fairly good since the rain.

The Southern seems afraid of grass; he fears he could not break up the sod; his cultivator would pull up pieces of it and drag it along, etc. The grasses of the South are mostly annuals.

And the homes in those mountain wastes! The log cabin with two rooms, one down stairs, its clapboard roof, the shingles in some cases held on by stones or logs.

The Southern railroad passes through some very good country as it goes into the foothills.

On Sunday night at 8:50 on the Indianapolis-St. Louis division of the same road an accommodation train from Indianapolis to Mattoon was blown to pieces at Sanford station by the explosion of a car of gunpowder while passing a freight train.

The last accident may be classed as unavoidable; the first was not. The train dispatcher gave exactly enough time for the trains to meet at Fowler and then relied wholly on the red light to give the passenger the information the freight was so near.

A foggy night is a bad time to take chances. Accidents resulting from a failure of engineers to see or heed signal lights are so numerous that the roads must be compelled to adopt some automatic device which will make it impossible for two trains to be within the same block.

The thermometer dropped to 6 above zero on Monday morning.

PROPOSED LAWS.

Coming Session of Legislature Will be a Busy One.

Among the many measures that will come up for consideration at the state assembly this session are the bills for a pure food law; to give the school teachers more wages; the election of school superintendents by popular vote, and the repeal of the metropolitan police law. The township trustees will have several bills, the most important of which will be to allow themselves to be re-elected and to get more pay. There will be a contest between Purdue and Indiana universities over the medical school; the garnishee law will have a round with the labor committee; the sheriffs will have a lively lobby to get themselves more fees. Of course the regular appropriation bills will take up considerable time and there will be some changes in the laws governing the state institutions asked for. The usual effort will be made to abolish the state board of charities, or at least cut down its expenses.

A Champion of Woman.

In an issue of the Citizen of a year ago there was printed an article on "Woman" in which the perplexity of Adam over his new possession, Eve, was made the subject for a humorous and satirical analysis of the traits of the "eternal feminine." In response to the following challenge contained in the last three lines, "But what would women say, if they wrote philosophic legends and gave in words their views of man?" Mrs. Jane Castleman consults her muse and sends the Citizen the answer herewith appended:

In the days of the creation,
 When the grand old earth was made
 And all things therein created—
 Hill and valley, glen and glade;

Methinks that the Creator
 Spied a heap of yellow clay
 That he, after meditating,
 Thought not best to throw away.

So of that was Adam moulded,
 Kneaded, worked and rolled about,

Until he, crude man, presented
 Man, a form of faults throughout.

When unstretched for close inspection,
 There he lay upon the grass,
 "Man of mud," "loquacious object,"
 Plain 'twas seen he would not pass.

Then he was at once remodeled
 Or dressed down in better style,
 And 'twas thought another being
 For his company worth while.

Thus the rib from his side taken,
 And perhaps some clay as well,
 Kneaded, moulded, 'til refinement
 Did its presence plainly tell.

Then at once was Eve created,
 And full well 'tis understood
 Greatly pleased was the Creator
 Saying, "good" and "very good."

And methinks that the Creator
 Just suppressed a humble laugh
 When presenting her to Adam—
 She his nobler, better half.

Speak of woman's true refinement,
 They possess it yet today,
 But poor Adam was created
 Of the crude and yellow clay.

Hence man's crude, rough disposition
 Might be better understood
 When we think of Eve, the "Woman,"
 First called "god" and "very good."

Then dominion gave he Adam
 Over all that he had made,
 And retired from all his labor
 To the peaceful quiet shade.

In the garden he had placed them,
 There to dwell so pure and free,
 Saying, "Don't you touch the apples
 On this here forbidden tree."

But we know 'tis not man's nature
 With this life to be content,
 And we truly think of Adam
 That his head toward mischief bent;

For he slipped away from Eve,
 To the far end of the walk,

Thus to give the vile old serpent
 A much better chance to talk.

Now if he had turned his footsteps
 Toward that one forbidden tree
 Where his faithful wife was standing—
 He no doubt the snake could see.

Did he spurn the serpent's counsel?
 No, indeed! we plainly see
 He just hurried up the matter,
 Boosted Eve up the tree.

Then she handed him the apple,
 And no doubt the sly old elf,
 While his faithful wife stood watching,
 Munched the largest half himself.

Had he been a faithful being
 To Creator and to wife,
 He'd have said "you vile old serpent,
 I will trample out your life."

But of yellow clay a mortal
 Truly, he had not the "sand"
 To reject the serpent, Satan,
 From their lovely Eden land.

Hence of Adam there's a picture
 That presents itself to mind,
 Where he's driven from the garden,
 Eva walking close behind.

Next we see him, poor old Adam,
 As to labor he did go
 With his quaint old wooden shovel,
 For he ne'er had seen a hoe.

And his wife, poor lonely woman,
 Wept in silence and distress
 As she sorted o'er the fig leaves
 For to make herself a dress.

Sadly grieved was the Creator,
 And to Adam thus he said,
 "By thy strength and avoating
 brow, sir,
 Thou shalt earn thy daily bread."

Oh we hear of the transgression,
 Of the sin and fall of man,
 But the woman is not mentioned—
 Some the reason thus explain:

Speaking of a tribe or nation,
 Or a multitude or race,
 Of the sex we make no mention,
 Hence man, woman doth embrace.

When we speak of Adam's apple,
 Should that not our minds impress
 With the thought he was the leader
 And did first God's law transgress?

There's one question I will ask you;
 Answer, please ye, "honest man,"
 Truly 'twill give you no trouble,
 For to answer it you can.

Who has caused such world-wide trouble,
 Brought our nation twice to grief?
 Thrice did man the vile transgressor
 Boldly kill our nation's chief.

Oh, the robberies and murders
 That the cruel men commit—
 Of their faults there are a million,
 So I guess I'll have to quit.

If in the future, Mr. Writer,
 "Woman" you would compliment,
 You should speak in noble terms,
 sir,
 Or your language we'll resent.

Place to Look for Graft.

If the postoffice department, instead of contemplating advancing the rate of second-class matter from 1 cent per pound to 4 cents, would investigate the exorbitant price paid the railroads for delivering the mail...

This colossal graft is emphasized by the fact that the service the railroad charges the government $8.01 for, the same road delivers for the express company for $2.424.

An exchange quotes Wm. C. Green, president of the Typothetae of America, as saying: "In the last ten years the railroads have been paid $356,821,639, of which at least one-half was over-payment."

The Weather.

The weather is a puzzle even to the oldest inhabitants. There was a general belief that this winter would be a cold one, based on the fact that last winter was exceptionally mild and that as a rule seasons alternate—cold following warm and vice versa.

Last Sunday was one of the most uncomfortable days of the winter. It followed a remarkably warm Saturday when the thermometer stood at 60 and people were compelled in many cases to keep doors or windows open to modify the heat from even a low-burning stove.

The rain has been a good thing for the wheat, but the freeze which followed is justly regarded as endangering it.

Pension Bill Passed.

The United States senate passed the McCumber service pension bill without division. The bill was so amended as to make it applicable to the survivors of the Mexican as well as the civil war, and so as to prohibit the payment of fees to pension attorneys.

The bill grants a pension of $12 a month to survivors of the civil and Mexican wars who have reached the age of sixty-two years; $15 to those who are seventy years of age and $20 to those who are seventy-five and over.

A subscriber once received a dun through the postoffice, and it made him mad. He went to see the editor about it, and the editor showed him a few duns of his own—one for paper, one for type, one for fuel and several others.

A Case of Smallpox.

A case of smallpox developed last Monday in the family of O. A. Bennett, the newsleader, whose wife, about 7 years of age, showed unmistakable symptoms of the disease. Dr. Parker took prompt measures for the protection of the public with the result that the entire family were quarantined. The town health officer, J. G. Fisher, will see that the family have all the necessary isolation to make so comfortable as is possible. County Health Officer L. D. Ely was here Tuesday and found that all the requirements of the law are being complied with.

The boy was seen last Thursday night by the doctor who discovered some eruptions, but the eruptions were not sufficiently developed until Sunday to warrant a diagnosis of smallpox. The little patient has not yet been confined to the bed and Dr. Parker thinks that there is a small danger of contagion to those who had come in contact with the members of the family up to the time they were quarantined.

Injured by his Horse.
The horse which Grover Castleman was riding in the Verona fire Sunday night stumbled and fell. Mr. Castleman's right leg was caught under the animal and severely lacerated. It is possible that some of the animal's bones are broken. He will, at any rate, be laid up for a couple of weeks.

From every view point the farming class of this country is in better shape now than at any period since the civil war. More people own their own homes and little farms; more are free from the yoke of bondage inflicted by burdensome debts; more are becoming independent each year by making a comfortable living for their families; more are waking up to the necessity of giving their children better educational advantages, and, without, prosperity and contentment seem to prevail throughout the country. Last progress still be our watchword.

The Great Western

Endless Apron Manure Spreader

Who has selected for our trade the Great Western spreader because we know it to be the best spreader on the market. We know this because we have looked over other makes of spreaders and compared them piece for piece, and we know there is no other spreader as good as the Great Western. We have found this out just the same as you can find it out, and when you buy a manure spreader you should know just how it is made, as a spreader is a machine, not a mere hand truck and a big strain.
