Tony Young accompanied A. J. Morrow of Twelve Mile, Cass county, to Chicago last week. Mr. Morrow bought a 22-horse power Buick car which Young drove back on Thursday. It was an all-day trip on account of slippery roads which required careful driving. Mr. Morrow remained here until Saturday, taking instruction in handling his machine, and on Saturday left for his home in charge of the car. Mr. Morrow is 68 years of age.

The Osborn Road Again.

Remonstrators to the Osborn road petition deny that the conditions are as have been published. The Citizen has no desire nor intention to misrepresent the matter in any way, shape or manner. The parties in the controversy make statements that are directly in contradiction of each other, and both parties assure the Citizen that they are right. The case is now before the commissioners of the two counties where the arguments will have a full hearing and the preponderance of evidence will decide the matter.

Elevator Improvements.

Work is beginning on a systematic improvement of the Culver elevator which will make it equal to anything of the kind in this section. A 1,000-bushel dump is being constructed and the entire interior is to be remodeled and new machinery installed. Additional sidetrack will be laid from the ice house track north to the street to afford facilities for the building which is to be erected for the storage of cement, lime and plaster.

Improvements.

Frank Crabb will next week commence work on a $600 cottage on his lot in the Henry Zechel addition.

Stephen Edwards is building a porch on what is known as the Chandler cottage on the east side of the lake.

Ladies' Underwear Bargain.

We have secured three styles of ladies' underwear in the 50-cent grades that we can offer you at 40 cents per garment. Call at Porter & Co.'s and ask to see them.

WIN TWO FAST GAMES

Academy First Eleven Down Crane High School While Second Team Defeat Town Boys.

The past week has been a football carnival with games for both first and second teams and with one company game played. Six teams practicing every evening have absorbed practically all the available material and made the scene on the field a lively one.

The first team placed another victory to its credit Saturday by defeating the heavy boys from R. T. Crane high school of Chicago by 17-4. Crane kicked off to Culver and the ball went flying down the field nearly to the goal line. The academy then started their fast playing and on the first line-up the forward pass was successfully used and Yarnell was off with the ball and had soon distanced all the Crane men and scored a touchdown. In a few minutes another one was scored and before the first half ended a third had been made. From two of them goals were kicked giving the academy a total of 17 points. Crane then took a brace and so great was their improvement that they succeeded in preventing Culver from getting another point in the game and themselves made a drop kick in the second half scoring four points.

There was an unusual amount of difference of opinion between the officials and both sides were heavily penalized in the course of the game for off-side plays, hurdlings etc. Haekins, on account of a slight wrench to his ankle early in the game, was taken out and Chambers put in at half.

Before the first team game the second team met the town team in a hard fought and interesting struggle in which the academy boys finally won out by a score of 17-6. The town boys put up a good hard game but the academy finally scored a touchdown and afterwards added two more to their side. The second team played sluggishly and did much better on defensive than on offensive work. Levering, Easthope, Gass and Lavell were the best players on the academy team.

Following is the lineup:

Culver Town	Academy 2d

Items by Mrs. Col. Steere.

Mrs. Melvin Osborn and Mrs. Amos Osborn entertained Col. and Mrs. R. A. Steere last week.

Saturday of last week Mrs. Amos Osborn, Mrs. George Osborn and Mrs. R. A. Steere took a trip to South Bend. Then in the evening we went to Elkhart to visit a cousin, Mrs. Carrie Matsdorph, returning home Sunday evening. We all had a fine trip.

A former school teacher, Walter Jones of Knox, was entertained by Ernest Osborn Sunday afternoon and over night.

Elijah Robertson of Rochester called on Jesse Voreis and family Sunday night, returning home on Monday.

My, you ought to see what fine potatoes Melvin Osborn is turning out with his new potato plow! It is worth one's while to go and see the plow work, also to see the handsome layout of potatoes.

A number of nice breeding ewes for sale. John Osborn.

On Monday morning Co. C and D opened the series of inter-company games. The game was fought equally hard by the twenty-two men on the teams and the hundred and fifty enthusiastic rooters on the side lines. C Co. had a little the best of the struggle, however, and finally succeeded in scoring two touchdowns, a safety and a goal making 13 points while D Co. did not get across their opponents' line. Every point was hard fought and it was due largely to the fine handling of his team by quarterback Young Q. that C Co. owes its victory. Tranchant also showed up well in his ability to advance the ball.

Mr. A. H. Godard, general secretary of the Indianapolis City Y. M. C. A. made a splendid address to the cadets Sunday morning upon "The Man that Counts." Character, enthusiasm and equipment were the essentials which he presented in a crisp, forceful speech.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday night Mr. Godard spoke to the members and others present upon bible study, giving to the boys some of the reasons why during the present year they should be enrolled in some of the numerous classes being formed for that study.

A vocal instructor is the latest addition as announced by the superintendent at chapel on Tuesday morning. The academy has secured Professor Stiller, one of the recognized leaders among Chicago vocal teachers and trainers of glee and singing clubs. Mr. Stiller will spend Saturdays and Sundays at the academy, meeting his pupils at this time, taking charge of the singing in the Sunday services, and working up a glee club among the cadets.

The members of the first class held a meeting Oct. 2 to elect class officers and to formulate the usual request for the special privileges which are bestowed upon the prospective graduates when their rank is clearly established and the class is organized. Following are the officers: President, Carstein; vice-president, Elliott; secretary, MacCarthy; treasurer, Keplinger.

The Olivares brothers and Madero E. of Mexico City returned Friday to their old places in the ranks of Culver cadets.

Cadets Boon and Kennedy were on leave in Chicago over Sunday.

Parks After Senatorship.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 2.—John W. Parks of Plymouth was here yesterday, and formally announced that he will be a candidate for reelection to the joint senatorship of Kosciusko and Marshall counties. He has as opponents for nomination on the republican ticket John N. Runyan of Warsaw and Postmaster A. C. Scott of North Webster.

Early Closing.

We, the undersigned, hereby agree until further notice to close our places of business every night excepting Saturday nights at 8 o'clock, commencing Oct. 14, 1907: Porter & Co., D. G. Walter, J. Saine & Son, The Surprise Store, Goss & Replogle, Wm. A. Foss & Son, Culver Dept. Store, Mitchell & Stabenow, W. E. Hand, John S. Gast, H. Oyler, W. S. Easterday, E. A. Poor, Charles Pettis.

Wait, Wait.

Annual stove demonstration and sale at the Culver Cash Hardware Nov. 4 to 9.

CHURCH NEWS.

Items Pertaining to the Work of the Local Organization.

The following are the subjects to be discussed at the series of meetings now in progress at the Christian church:

Wednesday evening, Oct. 9—What Think Ye of Christ as a Sinner's Friend?

Thursday—What Think Ye of Christ as a Shepherd?

Friday—What Think Ye of Christ as a Teacher?

Saturday—What Think Ye of Christ as a King?

Sunday Morning—What Think Ye of Christ as an Author?

Sunday Night—What Think Ye of Christ as a Brother?

You are invited to attend these services.

The Sunday evening service will be of especial interest to members of fraternities.

Services begin each evening at 7:15; Sunday at 11.

Preaching at the M. E. church next Sunday morning and evening.

The Ladies' Christian union will meet with Mrs. David Hemminger Thursday, Oct. 10.

Preaching at the Evangelical church in Culver Sunday morning and at Washington in the evening.

Road Supervisors.

Under the law of 1907 it becomes the duty of every trustee to redistrict his township for road purposes. The law provides that there shall be not to exceed four in any township which contains thirty-six square miles or less. On the second Saturday after the first Monday in December an election shall be held in each of these districts to select a supervisor who shall serve for two years. The election is held in the same way as the elections were held for the same purpose in 1905.

The new law provides for an increase in pay to $2 for each day's work, but fails to specify whether it is to become effective after the election of new supervisors in December, or is to apply to supervisors now in office. Most of the trustees have sought legal advice, and some are pursuing one course and some another. Attorneys say frankly that the law is ambiguously worded.

The Bremen Fair.

The fair at Bremen last week proved to be all that its promoters and patrons anticipated. The exhibits in all departments were up to the Bremen standard and the races were exciting. The attendance on Thursday was very large, amounting to nearly 5,000 paid admissions.

Sale of a Farm.

Mrs. Zink has sold her 75-acre farm north of Burr Oak to Dr. Hopper of Lafayette for $3,500. Dr. Hopper's son will occupy the place. The Zinks will remove to South Bend.

THE WEEK IN CULVER

Little Items of Local Happenings of Interest to People in Town and Country

—The new bank building will be heated by steam.

—L. C. Dillon is placing about a mile and a third of wire fence on his farm this week. He will have between three and four miles when he has fully covered his farm.

—The saloon remonstrances in North Bend and California townships have secured a majority of about 30, and in the near future saloons at Bass lake will be a thing of the past.

—Knox was in the midst of plenty of excitement last Saturday with the North Judson festival, the Winamac shooting and the saloon remonstrance victory in North Bend and California townships.

—Just a year ago yesterday, Oct. 9, this section witnessed the phenomenal snowfall of 8 inches—the earliest, by one day, ever remembered. It was further remarkable from the fact that up to that time there had been no frost.

—A pair of Delong lovers caused an Erie express to stop last week. The couple were seated upon the track, and they were too busy making love to notice the train approaching. The engineer brought the train to a halt, and saved their lives.

—The editor of the Royal Center Record was given a surprise party by his friends on his 43d birthday, and the evening was spent in the mad revel of progressive dominoes. A feller has to go a pretty swift pace to keep up with Royal Center society. That's the trouble about living in a place so near Logansport.

—The old maple tree in the center of the walk on Main street—the "noblest Roman of them all"—gives evidence of failing vitality. From the time the foliage came out last spring the leaves have been wrinkled and not fully developed. This fall the foliage has been the first of all the maples to turn, and its brilliance faded to a dull brown in a few days. Apparently the roots of the tree are not getting sufficient nourishment. The splendid old tree will be missed when the time comes for cutting it down, for it not only lends a rural charm to the street but it affords a comfortable rallying place for town and country people on hot summer afternoons.

Trains Crash at Bourbon.

Two Pennsylvania freight trains crashed together at Bourbon at 4:30 Monday morning resulting in the instant death of a brakeman and fatal injuries to a fireman. The other fireman and two engineers were hurt, but will recover.

ELECTRIC ROAD SUBSIDY SNOWED UNDER SATURDAY

The proposition to vote a subsidy of $41,000 in Center township and $12,000 in North township to the projected South Bend-Logansport electric road was defeated by a vote of 1087 against to 292 for. The taxpayers took the position that a subsidy is in itself wrong, that the promoters were asking an exorbitant amount and that the road would be built anyway. Either one of these objections was a strong one and sufficient to defeat the proposition.

In Center township where many persons believed the sentiment in Plymouth was favorable enough to the road to carry the election there were 251 votes for and 836 against, and in North township there were 41 for and 251 against. There was a three-fourths vote polled, showing the active interest which the taxpayers felt in the question.

The promoters now declare that the road will be built anyway. A meeting of Plymouth citizens was held on Monday night to consider the question of subscribing to the stock of the road. Plymouth wants the road, and certainly that is the business-like way of getting it.

Union township will eventually have the proposition to consider when the extension south of Plymouth is ready for construction. There is a general belief among the people that Lake Maxinkuckee is too important a point to be overlooked by the company, and among the business men of Culver a road through the village will be looked upon with approval. Just what Culver will be asked to do remains to be seen.

SHERIFF OF PULASKI COUNTY SHOT BY ESCAPED CONVICT

Charles G. Oglesby, sheriff of Pulaski county, was shot and killed by a desperado at Winamac on Saturday morning.

A telegram from Logansport had been received by him asking him to meet a north-bound freight train and arrest three men who were believed to have blown a safe at Burnettsville. As the train slowed down at Winamac Oglesby climbed upon a car and motioned for the men to get off. One of them fired at him and he jumped off the car while the tramps got off on the other side. Dropping to his knees Oglesby fired under the car at the men, wounding two of them, one of whom is in a dying condition. They were captured in a cornfield by a posse who followed close upon their trail. The prisoners are now in the jail at Knox, Pulaski county having no jail.

Sheriff Oglesby died within two hours of the shooting, and it required determined resistance on the part of citizens to prevent a large mob from storming the doctor's office where the men were under guard and taking them out to a tree. Among those who defended the prisoners were Congressman Brick, Editor Moorman of Knox and Sheriff Laramore of Knox.

It is believed that the two prisoners who were wounded are escaped convicts from Colorado.

The man who shot Sheriff Oglesby died Tuesday morning without revealing his identity. The other wounded prisoner is in a critical condition, threatened with blood-poisoning.

THROUGH THE STATE

NEWS GATHERED FROM VARIOUS INDIANA POINTS.

LABOR MEETING IS OVER

Convention of State Federation Comes to an End—Closing Hours Taken Up with Reports and Speeches.

Muncie.—Although nominally the conservatives, who objected to the Indiana Federation of Labor's becoming a political body, were successful, in the convention which adjourned here the other day, in reality they were routed horse, foot and dragons by the radicals who were easily in the majority and who merely made concessions for the purpose of harmony.

A notable example of this was the passage, in the closing hours, of a resolution attacking Gov. Hanly and Congressman James Watson for the appointment of William Blakeley, of Shelbyville, to be state factory inspector, replacing D. H. McAbee, of Muncie, a union labor man. The resolution declared that Watson, backed by the manufacturers, influenced the governor to oust McAbee, who was objectionable to the manufacturing interests, and to place in the office Blakeley, who is notoriously unfriendly to organized labor.

Every one of Delaware county's representatives in the legislature and many representatives and senators of other counties of the state as well, were denounced at various times by speakers and in reports of committees.

The federation virtually placed itself on record as favoring free school books for children when a resolution introduced by John Chamberlain, of Gas City, asking that inquiry be made into the free school book laws of several states was passed without dissent. The federation committee was asked to collect data from all states having free school book laws and to use this in preparing a bill to be presented at the next meeting of the Indiana legislature, this bill providing that the state shall furnish school books free of cost to pupils.

It was resolved to send a letter of congratulation to William D. Haywood, who was recently acquitted of the charge of murdering ex-Gov. Steunenberg, of Idaho. The resolution also provides for the raising of a fund to assist in the defense of Moyer and Pettibone when they are called to trial.

A resolution also was passed to petition congress to put wood pulp on the free list for the benefit of the newspapers.

A committee was appointed to draft a memorial to be read at the unveiling of the monument to be erected by organized labor to the memory of Edwin F. Gould, the labor leader who died recently.

John Haggerty, former treasurer of the Terre Haute Central Labor union, spoke to the federation in his own behalf, he having been ousted from the Terre Haute organization for alleged conduct unbecoming a trade unionist. So favorable an impression did Haggerty make that he was restored to membership in the federation, which will allow him now to reopen his case before the Terre Haute body.

An incident that occasioned considerable comment was that of a number of prominent delegates who found a crippled woman selling cigars in the street. Finding that these cigars were of nonunion manufacture, the delegates purchased the woman's entire supply and threw it into the street. The latter part of the session was devoted to routine business.

Thirteenth Wife is Freed.

Fort Wayne.—Mrs. Mary Holden has been granted a divorce from "the reverend" Edward F. Holden. She testified that she was the thirteenth wife of Holden, who is doing time in Columbus, O., for bigamy. He married her last October and left in 40 days. She has located at least 12 other wives and says several bigamy charges are pending against Holden when he serves his six years.

Vanquished Sues Victor.

Frankfort.—As a result of an alleged assault with intent to kill recently made by Curt Goff, a wealthy citizen of the county, upon John Pruitt, Goff is sued in the circuit court for $5,000 personal damages by Pruitt. The complaint alleges that Goff knocked Pruitt down, jumped on him and stabbed him six or eight times with a knife.

City Will Have Daily Paper.

Alexandria.—The Daily Tribune has resumed publication after a suspension of one week. During that time the city has been without a daily paper. A stockholders' meeting was held to decide the future policy of the paper, which has not been a success since the downfall of the Republican administration five years ago.

Gets Pension for Lost Man.

Anderson.—The pension department has granted a pension to Mrs. Elizabeth Benefield of Elwood on the grounds that she is the widow of James E. Minor, who disappeared in 1879. Five years ago the woman was married to Mr. Benefield, and two years ago he died. The widow immediately applied for a pension, but the appeal was denied, as she could not prove that her soldier husband was dead. The pension department waived the court proceedings and granted the request.

HIT HARD IN PULASKI.

Saloonkeepers Indicted and Reward Offered for Egg Throwers.

Winamac.—The grand jury of this county, which has just adjourned, made a return of 65 indictments, principally against saloonkeepers. Public sentiment at last became aroused because of violation of the laws governing the traffic, and the indictments are the result, the first time in years because of similar offenses. The indictments against Winamac saloon men include: William Sanders, 10; George Shorter, 12; John Gibson, 8; Charles Monemith, 6. Eight indictments each were returned against Henry Hoover and Michael Link, of Pulaski, and three against John DeArmond, of Star City. Oliver Yocum, this city, was also indicted for selling tobacco to children. The offenses range from selling to minors through all the limitations of the law, and the defendants have been placed under bond.

Two of the six saloons in this place have closed during the last two weeks by the expiration of license and other causes. The last saloon in this place will be closed in June, after which the four principal towns in the county—Winamac, Medaryville, Star City and Franceville—will be "dry," owing to successful remonstrances.

Sheriff Oglesby has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the persons who showered bad eggs on a temperance meeting at Pulaski. The meeting was being held in the streets, with Rev. E. M. Barney, of Indianapolis, speaker, and several persons were struck by eggs believed to have been thrown by sympathizers with the saloons.

Buggy Falls from Bridge.

Fairmount.—Dr. J. W. Patterson, a leading physician, while returning from a call to the country east of town, became lost in the darkness and, in trying to pass a string of wagons ahead of him, drove his horse off the end of the bridge across Barren creek, precipitating the horse, buggy, himself and wife down the eight-foot embankment and into three feet of mud and water. The buggy turned a complete somersault and landed on top of the occupants, pinning them to the bottom of the ditch, while the horse added to the confusion by its wild struggles to gain its feet. Neither Dr. Patterson nor his wife was injured.

Forced to Act as Juror.

Richmond.—Ellwood Morris, a prominent merchant, declined to obey a summons from the city court to act as a juror in an assault and battery case. Judge Converse issued a bench warrant for Morris and he appeared, was held in contempt, but not fined. Judge Converse showing leniency. The court made a statement, however, in which he said the custom of business men shirking jury duty on the plea that they were "too busy" could not be tolerated. It was a plain duty of good citizenship, Judge Converse said, to answer a jury summons.

Work on New Trolley Line.

Columbia City.—J. H. Graesser, secretary of the Fort Wayne & South Bend Traction company, has given out word that actual work on the construction of the line will begin this week. He also stated that Perry Randall of Fort Wayne, president of the company, had succeeded in making arrangements with the American Trust company of Indianapolis to act as trustee for the bondholders of an issue of $2,000,000 in six per cent bonds. The construction work is to begin between Syracuse and Napoleon.

Larger Acreage for Wheat.

Newcastle.—Farmers are now engaged in plowing and sowing wheat and it is estimated that the acreage will be considerably larger than that of last year. This year's acreage was the largest for many years and good prices are encouraging farmers to give wheat a still larger acreage. Ten days more will see the corn crop safe.

Elks Will Build New Home.

Bluffton.—The Elks lodge here met and discussed arrangements for the erection of a new Elks home in this city, to cost $30,000. A plan was submitted by which the lodge will raise by subscription $9,000 a year, or the total in three years. The plan will likely be adopted.

Cow Bites Off Woman's Ear.

Laporte.—Mrs. J. W. King, of Starke county, is in a critical condition as the result of being attacked by a cow, which knocked her down, bit off one of her ears and trampled her until she was unconscious. Physicians fear she has suffered internal injuries which will prove fatal.

Murder Charge Must Stand.

Evansville.—Thomas Harry, accused of first degree murder in the killing of Gustav Meehler, will be tried November 11. Meehler was shot while escorting two girls home from a steamboat excursion, September 11.

Rejects New Enumeration.

Terre Haute.—The city school board has served formal notice on State Superintendent Cotton and County Superintendent Hubbard that it will not accept the enumeration of the city's school population as given by the special men chosen by the state superintendent to conduct the count. The board demands another count on the grounds that if the state superintendent was not satisfied with the enumeration he should have instructed the county superintendent to conduct the recount.

TIRED BACKS.

The kidneys have a great work to do in keeping the blood pure. When they get out of order it causes backache, headaches, dizziness, languor and distressing urinary troubles. Keep the kidneys well and all these sufferings will be saved you. Mrs. S. A. Moore, proprietor of a restaurant at Waterville, Mo., says: "Before using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered everything from kidney troubles for a year and a half. I had pain in the back and head, and almost continuous in the joints and felt weary all the time. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought great relief, and I kept on taking them until in a short time I was cured. I think Doan's Kidney Pills are wonderful." For sale at all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

First Aid.

A Washington doctor was recently called to his telephone by a colored woman formerly in the service of his wife. In great agitation the darky advised the physician that her youngest child was in a bad way. "What seems to be the trouble?" asked the doctor. "Doc, she does swallered a whole bottle of ink!" "I'll be there in a short while to see her," said the medico. "In the mean time have you done anything for her?" "I done give her three pieces o' blottin' paper, Doc," said the negress, doubtfully.—Harper's Weekly.

Sheer white goods, La fact, any fine wash goods when new, owe much of their attractiveness to the way they are laundered, this being done in a manner to enhance their textile beauty. Home laundering would be equally satisfactory if proper attention was given to starching, the first essential being good Starch, which has sufficient strength to stiffen, without thickening the goods. Try Defiance Starch and you will be pleasantly surprised at the improved appearance of your work.

Fanciful Finance.

"Haven't you loaned that De Broke a good deal of money?" "No, I've let him have a number of small sums." "Knowing his reputation, why did you give him that last five?" "It was this way. He said if I'd let him have it he'd pay me something on what he already owed me." "Well?" "So I let him have the five and he paid me one dollar on account."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have secured a patent for this cure, and they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CLEGG & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Revenge is a momentary triumph, of which the satisfaction dies at once, and is succeeded by remorse; whereas forgiveness, which is the noblest of all revenge, entails a perpetual pleasure.—Mountford.

Give Defiance Starch a fair trial—try it for both hot and cold starching, and if you don't think you do better work, in less time and at smaller cost, return it and your grocer will give you back your money.

The Mystery OF Carney-Croft

By

JOSEPH BROWN COOKE

(Copyright, 1907, by Story-Press Corporation.)

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

She leaned forward weeping bitterly, and I said nothing until she began to control herself once more and choke down her sobs in an effort to speak again. Then I said gently:

"Don't say anything more about it now, Miss Weston. I am sure you will do what is best, and though I am utterly at a loss to know what you mean, I am, of course, willing to wait a reasonable time until you are able to tell me. I will trust you without question, and in every way, but you will understand that we both owe it to Miss Carney to do away with all this mystery as soon as we can. It is spoiling her pleasure in life and ruining her property, too, and, as her friends, we must not let it continue if we can possibly put a stop to it."

"Oh, yes, I know," she said, "but we mustn't stop it now. It's too soon, Mr. Ware, and if Florence should learn the truth now it would break her heart."

"Why, what do you mean?" I exclaimed. "You surely do not expect me to believe that this affair could affect Miss Carney in any way, do you?"

"Yes," she moaned, rocking back and forth in her seat and speaking with difficulty. "It would affect her and all of us here, but me, most of all, Mr. Ware; me, most of all. When the time comes it will be easier for everybody, but nothing can be done now, or things will be even worse than they are. Oh, I do wish I could tell you what little I know about it, Mr. Ware, but I cannot, and I know that you will trust me for a few days anyway."

I walked slowly with her back to the house, and, when dinner time came and she sent down her excuses, I learned that no one in the house was aware that she had been out during the day. Carney looked pale and careworn, and said that she had spent the best part of the afternoon lying down and nursing a severe headache. Mrs. Randolph seemed reticent and depressed and the meal passed off slowly and without incident.

When we rose from the table I had formulated a plan which, I thought, might relieve the situation somewhat and, apprising no one of my purpose, I set out in the direction of the Widow Bruce's cottage. It was my intention to put the matter squarely before her and ask her, not necessarily an explanation of affairs, but a friendly co-operation with me in putting an end to the annoyances she had been causing.

I had not formed a had opinion of the woman from her appearance, and the new turn things had taken made me wonder if she, like Miss Weston, might not have been drawn into this business unwittingly and in all innocence. Moreover, I was convinced that matters were far from being as tragic as Miss Weston, in her hysterical emotion, would have me believe, for I could not conceive how a staid, respectable place like Carney-Croft could, by any possibility, be drawn into an affair that might not be satisfactorily explained in one way or another.

In a word, I had no doubt that a quiet, good-natured talk with Mrs. Bruce would accomplish all that I could wish, and I was prepared to offer her money or any other inducement that she might name if she would let the matter drop. I confess that my curiosity was greatly excited, but I was willing to forego all knowledge of the underlying facts in the case if the Bruce woman and the rest of them would only depart and leave us in peace.

I approached the cottage from the rear, coming down by a short cut through the fields, and as I turned the corner of the house by the open sitting-room windows I heard a woman's voice sob out:

"Oh, I must! I must, Mrs. Bruce! I cannot live unless I do!"

Mrs. Bruce made some reply in a gentle, soothing tone of wonderful sweetness, and then she emerged from the door of the cottage with her arm affectionately around the waist of Annie Weston, who was weeping as if her heart would break. The two passed on down the little gravel walk toward the gate, while Mrs. Bruce continued to pour words of comfort into the ear of the agonized girl; and I turned and retraced my steps to the house that I might be there before Miss Weston arrived.

CHAPTER XVII.

A Vale of Tears.

By walking rapidly and taking the short path over the hill, I was able to reach the house several minutes before Miss Weston, and just in time to see Miss Carney come out of the door and peer into the darkness in a timid, hesitating way.

"Oh, it's you, Mr. Ware," she exclaimed, with a nervous little laugh. "I am so glad I couldn't see who it was at first, and I'm in such a fidgety state to-night that I am almost ready to start at my own shadow."

She came down the steps and stood by my side, while the light from the open doorway streamed out and touched her face so softly that it poised in the surrounding darkness like some faint, angelic picture idealized by a master's hand.

"I came out to try and find Annie," she went on, "she does not answer when I rap at her door and I thought she might be here. My! what was that?" she gasped, coming closer to me and grasping my arm.

It was only an owl far away in the timberland and, when I told her, she laughed quietly but almost hysterically, and still clung to my side while we listened to the weird, unearthly sound that was wafted again and again to our ears from out of the blackness of the opposite river bank.

She shivered slightly and I said: "You are cold, Miss Carney. Let me get you a wrap, and then, won't you take a little walk? There's a chill in the air to-night and the exercise will do you good."

She made no reply, but looked at me gratefully, as if I had done her some great service. There was a warm woolen golf cape just inside the door, and, snatching it up, I hastened back and threw it over her shoulders, clasping it myself at her throat while she drew her hands under it and nestled comfortably in its generous folds.

We turned and walked slowly down the path under the stars, away from the house and with our backs to the road along which I knew Miss Weston would pass in another minute.

After a few moments' silence, broken only by the drowsy splashing of the river and the cheerful, friendly hum of the insect bands that make half the charm of an October night, Miss Carney said, with a contented little shrug:

Walked Miles and Miles.

"Oh, how delightfully warm and comfortable this cloak is, Mr. Ware. You always seem to know exactly what I need, for I am not nervous any more and I really believe it was nothing but the cold after all. We mustn't go far, for I ought to be looking for Annie this very minute. We can turn at the tennis court, can't we?"

"Whenever you wish," I said, with an effort, for I was becoming intoxicated with the glory of her presence and her slightest hint served me as a command.

"I really must not stay a minute longer," she murmured, almost apologetically. "Annie has had such a hard day of it and I must see if there is anything she wants. I suppose she is asleep and did not hear me tap, for I've looked everywhere for her and was just going back to her room when I saw you come out of the night like a—like a—Oh! I mustn't say ghost, Mr. Ware! It's no longer a joke, is it?"

We had stopped at a little rustic arbor by the side of the walk and my hand rested on the trellis in front of Miss Carney. She did not speak, and I thought she was laughing softly to herself when suddenly she leaned forward and a hot tear fell on my wrist and was followed by another and another as she gave up entirely and choked with convulsive sobs.

"Why, you mustn't do this!" I exclaimed, solicitously, laying my hand instinctively on her arm and then drawing it away in a guilty fashion. "You are completely unstrung, Miss Carney. The day has been too much for you, and you need rest and quiet. Shall we go back into the house?"

"Not yet," she sobbed. "Not yet, Mr. Ware. I must not go until I have control of myself again. Oh, it is awful—awful! I don't know what I shall do!"

"Why, what is it?" I asked anxiously, as I stood helplessly by her side.

fair of the morning take such a hold of you?"

"Oh, no—no—no—" she moaned. "I am going to tell you in a moment, just as soon as I can talk coherently. You will forgive me, won't you, Mr. Ware, but there is no one else to whom I can go, and yet I seem to do nothing but take up your time with my trials and worries."

I led her out into the path again, thinking she would grow calmer as we walked, and she said no more until we were nearing the house, when she resumed in a plaintive tone, broken occasionally by a half-suppressed sob:

"It's about Annie, Mr. Ware, and I did not tell you at first, for I thought I could see her myself and find out what it all meant. Ever since this morning she has been walking up and down her room crying and sobbing, and this afternoon I heard her say such dreadful things that I almost feared for her reason."

"What did she say?" I asked gently. "Oh, I hardly know," she went on, "but she seemed to be calling upon heaven to forgive her for some dreadful sin that she had committed, and she was so wrapped up in her anguish that even my knocks at the door made no impression upon her. Then she would grow more calm and only sob and moan for a time, but soon those awful words would come again and it seemed as if she would go mad. She has always been subject to occasional attacks of melancholy and when I would try to learn the cause of her trouble she would put it off as a mere fit of the blues."

"You don't mind my telling you all this, do you, Mr. Ware, for you have always helped me out of every difficulty, and it is second nature for me to turn to you now. At first I thought I could straighten it out myself, but she wouldn't even let me see her, and then, Mr. Ware, since dinner I have not heard a sound from her room and can get no response when I rap. Do you know," she whispered, touching my arm in a frightened way and shuddering as she spoke, "I can hardly bring myself to say it, but I—I—almost fear she has taken her life!"

Her eyes filled with tears again, and I lost no time in saying, reassuringly:

"You mustn't take such a gloomy view of it, Miss Carney. There's nothing to worry about, I am sure, and as to Miss Weston's having taken her life I can promise you most positively that she not only has done nothing of the sort, but that no such idea has ever entered her mind."

"I knew you would cheer me up as you have always done," she exclaimed gratefully, "but how can you be so certain about Annie, Mr. Ware? Remember, you don't know her as well as I do."

"Look!" I replied, pointing to a window of Miss Weston's room, and there, in the full glow of the lamp within, she sat at a table writing rapidly.

Miss Carney gave a glad little cry and started away toward the house, but turned in an instant and extended her hand, saying:

"You have cheered me up, Mr. Ware, just as I knew you would. Thank you so much, and—good night."

As her hand lay in mine she turned it until its back was uppermost and then raised it slightly. I had already been sorely tempted, but this was more than I could bear, and, bending forward, I touched it lightly and reverently with my lips.

"Good night," she repeated, softly, "and thank you again."

I watched her until she had disappeared into the house and then I turned and walked miles and miles over the deserted country roads, my head bowed down and my mind nearly dazed. When I returned to the house the cold gray morning light was breaking in the eastern sky.

FOR HEALTH'S SAKE

SEE THAT YOUR FOODSTUFFS ARE PURE.

ADULTERATIONS ARE COMMON

Unscrupulous Dealers in Large Cities the Medium for Disposing of Such Goods—Purchase at Home.

For years one of the matters which has received the careful attention of the department of agriculture is food adulteration. Who has not heard of the old label on the state of Connecticut—the wooden nutmeg, but there are worse things than wooden nutmegs. Unprincipled manufacturers and dealers for many years have resorted to adulteration of foodstuffs to increase profits. In the matter of spices, only a short time since the food commission of one of the states discovered among 50 samples analyzed more than 30 that were adulterated. In pepper, stems and barks were ground, in every class of ground spice foreign substances were added to give weight, and in numerous cases, particularly flavoring extracts, the articles supposed to be made from pure fruits, were found to be synthetic, or entirely artificial, preparations from coal tar.

These goods were prepared by concerns that have no regular trade, but depend upon agents to sell goods for them to whoever they can. It is rarely that a reliable wholesale grocery house sells such goods, as retailers will not knowingly keep them in stock, as they cannot be legally sold, and some officer of the food department of the state is likely to drop into the store at any time, confiscate the goods, and impose a heavy fine on the dealer.

A short time ago health officers in Philadelphia found a number of Italians in a cellar putting oil in bottles, and labeling the same with a foreign-looking label. An analysis of the oil proved it to be mainly a poor quality of cotton-seed oil, and the lowest grade of olive. Hundreds of cases of the stuff were traced to a city in the middle west, where it was disposed of under contract to houses who sell direct to consumers through agents and by mail. Not alone are spices, extracts, olive oil and similar foodstuffs adulterated this way, but the fraud extends still further. Cheap kinds of fish, such as hake, catfish, etc., are prepared and placed on the market as genuine codfish. Tomatoes are made of a good quality of pumpkin and given the right color by dye stuffs, and favored by the use of coal tar extracts. Hundreds of other articles are "doctored" the same way. It is rarely that such artificial goods find their way into the hands of regular grocers throughout the country, but are disposed of by concerns who depend upon doing business at points distant from their location, and who seek protection in the interstate commerce law, and who seek to dispose of their goods directly to the consumers, as no federal or state officer is likely to call at a private house and make an analysis of foods used.

It seems that neither the national or state laws can be so closely applied as to prevent this evil. If the masses of people would study into this question the buying of foods from others than local dealers, who are known to be honest, would be the result, and the daily reports of people being mysteriously poisoned by eating some article of food would not be so numerous.

Trust "Graft."

One of the practices of the trusts in the marketing of their products, is the prize schemes. In order to induce the consumers to use their various brands of goods, attractive offers are made to exchange different articles for certificates and coupons. But it is always intended that the consumers "pay the freight." Generally where premiums are offered with goods, the packages are short in weight, or a few cents more charged than goods of like kind sell for. Thus it can be seen how the premiums given are paid for by the consumer, and he pays a high price for the prizes he draws. Goods that are given away with purchases cost money. Their cost does not come out of the pockets of the manufacturers, but out of the purses of the people who use the goods. If one desires to buy sugar, he does not care to pay for the scoop or shovel. He wants sugar, and at the lowest price consistent. He knows that if he takes the scoop or the shovel some one pays the bill. Various systems of premium giving have been devised. Some call for a certain number of coupons of some sort, and so much cash, or some article just for the coupons alone. Where cash is required along with coupons there is apparently an additional profit in the deal aside from that made on the goods with which coupons are given. It is well to buy goods on their merits alone. Buy what you want and at the right price, and you will be ahead of the premium plan.

Catch-Penny Advertisements.

Beware of the advertisements in which it is stated that "this article will be sent on approval for one dollar." It means that you will have something on your hands, and a good sized freight or express bill to settle, and perhaps many more dollars to

TRADE'S GREAT MAGNET.

How Some Mammoth Fortunes Have Been Built Up.

Many of the great fortunes in America have been gained by the judicious use of printers' ink. The wealthiest merchants attribute their success to advertising. Millions and millions of dollars' worth of manufactured products are annually sold to the people of the United States through the advertising pages of the public press, the only medium. Consider the new-fangled breakfast foods, the numerous natural food preparations! It is more than likely they would never have become known without their merits were exploited before the people through the newspapers. Great exclusive mail-order houses, institutions that have come into existence during the past 20 years, have been built up entirely through judicious advertising.

As to the mail order houses, there is a loud clamor against their encroachments throughout the country. There is every cause for alarm that they will eventually grow into such mammoth institutions as will monopolize the business that is now the backbone and spine of the country towns. There is one way that the merchants can lessen the evil. It is by persistent use of the public press. Use advertising space, meet the competition rightly and squarely and let the people know about it.

Hundreds of would-be business ventures have failed just because there was no proper advertising. Hundreds and thousands of small merchants fail for the same cause. The paper in a small town is of greater force than the average merchant thinks. If the storekeeper desires to test his home paper as an advertising medium, let him insert an advertisement of some article and put the price lower than it is generally sold at. Then await results. He will find that the people will learn of it, and call to see about it.

Dollars to the editor for advertising space are never lost if the advertising is of the proper kind. The investment will bring greater returns to the merchant than money invested in any other way. One trouble is that the average merchant knows little about proper methods of advertising. A simple card "John Jones, Grocer, sells groceries" is of but little use. Make advertising attractive. Tell about goods, about prices, and everything that a prospective purchaser may want to know. Keep persistently at it. Change advertisements week after week. The people look for it, and it will pay.

HELPING THE TRUSTS.

Systems That Are Opposed to the Welfare of the Masses.

Nearly a century ago, Disraeli, the elder, in his essay on "gaming and gambling," wrote: "The savage and the civilized, the illiterate and the learned, are alike captivated by the hope of accumulating wealth without the labors of industry." In this saying the great statesman and writer sounded the keynote of much of the woes met with in life. It is the desire to secure wealth without labor, to gain something for nothing, that causes many to go to their graves "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

The man who gleefully sings "Make a few dollars earn you a living," will be sure to find many people ready to believe him. They will take a "chance" anyway, and the gullible are so numerous that the promoter really succeeds in "accumulating wealth without the labors of industry," but the others—his victims—generally fail.

During the past few years one large concern that has for long been draining the rural districts of surplus wealth, has built a city of its own, and has erected buildings for the accommodation of 7,000 people. This concern does not draw a cent of trade from the people of the city wherein it is located. All its wealth and the means by which it built up its "own city" has been contributed by people scattered throughout the country.

How few there are who think that when they send money to this great concern for supplies that might as well be bought in their home town, that they are helping to deal a death-blow to the place they call home? Yet such is the fact. Every dollar sent to the large city, assists in the building up of greater trusts, and greater combinations, that seek to control the manufacturing, the mercantile business, and as well the prices of labor and all the products of the workshop and the farm. It means business oligarchy to which the common people should not submit.

D. M. CARR.

Deception Practiced.

Those who would not be defrauded by sharpers who use the advertising columns of the city papers would do well in carefully considering each proposition which attracts their attention. Remember that those who advertise are not philanthropists. They are out after the dollars, and have nothing to give away, unless it is in exchange for money. The concern that offers an exceptional bargain needs to be studied well before investment be made. Everything has a legitimate value, and is worth so much in the markets of the world. When it is offered at less than its apparent real value, look out for fraud and deception. Generally every good town affords the buyer a chance to obtain whatever he requires, and at a price consistent with quality. Those who patronize home stores are

FIGHT FOR FRANCE

SOLDIERS OF FOREIGN LEGION HAVE GLORIOUS RECORDS.

All Nationalities and Types Serve Under the Tri-Colored Flag in the Colonies of the Great European Republic.

In the bloody hand-to-hand fight with the Moors over the dead body of their commanding officer, Major Prevost, the men of the French Foreign Legion were true to the organization's record for gallantry.

Miscellaneous fighting in the French colonies has been the Legionaries' specialty. They campaigned against the Black Flags and filled hundreds of alien graves in Tonkin. In Dahome 800 of the Legionaries bore the brunt of the fighting and earned General Doud's praise as "the best soldiers in the world." By tradition they never serve in France. One of their most brilliant achievements, however, was the defense of the bridge in the first battle of Orleans in 1870, where fewer than 1,000 men held an entire Prussian army corps at bay and made it possible for the French army to retreat without serious loss and save it artillery. The Legion lost 500 men in the action.

Into the two infantry regiment drifts a steady stream of plain soldiers, bankrupt adventurers, fugitives from justice, political refugees, geese, blacklegs in disgrace, men of little and men of no account, ready to march 30 kilometres a day under the flaming African sun, so they can lose their identity. It is a brigade of mystery and romance.

In one company some years ago were found a Roumanian prince suspected of having murdered his brother; an Italian cavalry officer, dismissed from his country's army for cheating at cards; a Russian nihilist prince who had escaped from Siberia; an canon of Notre Dame of Paris suspended from ecclesiastical functions for the best of reasons; an English major of Hussars and a German count who had held high military rank in Berlin. After a terrible engagement with the Kabyles, in which both the surgeon-major and his assistant were killed, no one was left to care for the wounded. "Assembly" was sounded and riding along the line the major asked, "Any doctors or surgeons among you?" Nine men left the ranks, each of whom had taken a degree in a European university.

A hard-drinking, quarrelsome, double-loving, devil-may-care lot of souls castaways and professional soldiers the Legionaries are ruled with iron discipline. The slightest act of aggression against a superior officer is punished with death. During the war in Tonkin 17 members were court-martialed and shot in one day. But in the face of danger, whatever their vices or their crimes, the wearers of the smart kepi and baggy red breeches never fail to give a good account of themselves. They are always ready and eager to fight. Men like Marsha Bazaine, Gen. de Nesler and Gen. Du pin have led them. Count de Malesherbes, a court favorite in Napoleon III's time, having been disgraced for life sought their command. Villebois-Mareuil, who fought with the Boers, was once an officer in the Legion.

Nothing Doing.

Harrison Grey Fiske discussed at dinner in New York the art of acting.

"I believe," said Mr. Fiske, "in subtlety and restraint. A nod, a shake of the head, a silent pause—these things are often more effective than the most violent yelling and ranting."

"Life is like that, subtle and silent. What, for instance, could be more expressive than this scene, a scene with out a spoken word, that I once witnessed in the country?"

"An undertaker stood on a corner near a noble mansion. He elevated his brows hopefully and inquiringly as a physician came from the house. The physician, compressing his lips shook his head decidedly and hurried to his carriage. Then the undertaker, with a sigh passed on."

Old Relics Found.

Whilst making excavations at the Cape Town railway station for wall building purposes last year, some workmen found several loose stones with inscriptions, such as were used by the captains of ships calling at the Cape before Van Riebeeck had built his little fort, to denote the places where letters might be found. Further search revealed the flight of steps or the old seashore, which constituted the first landing place for persons arriving by sea, and may have been used by Van Riebeeck himself. The stones were found at a depth of over 20 feet and with them a small tobacco pipe and a key. All the relics have now been placed in an alcove on the station platform, erected at the exact spot where they were found, and an inscription in both English and Dutch tells their history to travelers.

Will It Come to This?

It was a bright Sunday morning in 1917. "John," called the impatient woman at the foot of the stairway "please come down. I have been waiting two hours for you to dress."

"Keep on waiting, Martha," shouted her gleeful husband; "you didn't think anything of making me wait for you to dress ten years ago! I told you then that men would some day wear shirt waists that button at the back and not even Rayonne is aware of

NO SUNDAY SPORT.

No More Hunting or Fishing to be Permitted on the Sabbath.

The old Indiana law enacted with a view of prohibiting Sunday fishing and hunting is to be enforced to the letter by Northern Indiana deputy fish and game commissioners, according to an announcement made by Deputies Frank Cornus of Packerton, John E. Rigney of Goshen and James Stoneburner of Warsaw.

According to fish and game warden there has been considerable Sunday hunting and fishing in Kosciusko, Elkhart, Whitley, Allen, Marshall and Noble counties during the past summer and in past years. They declare they are going to put a stop to these violations of the law if it is necessary to bring about a score of arrests.

The deputies are open to the suspicion of having an eye to their fees. Of course they are entitled to all they can get out of their offices, and no one can rightly blame them for enforcing the law and at the same time earning a living. The trouble is with the law which discriminates against a certain class of people. Church members may play croquet on Sunday or go automobiling or go nutting or picnicking—in fact amuse themselves in many ways, but the working man or farmer who gets no other day than Sunday for his recreation must needs be a lawbreaker and subjected to a criminal prosecution if his taste for recreation leads him to the lake or the woods.

Stomach troubles, heart and kidney ailments, can be quickly corrected with a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Slattey's Restorative. The prompt and surprising relief which this remedy immediately brings is entirely due to its restorative action upon the controlling nerves of the stomach, etc. Sold by T. E. Slattey.

The advance styles brought out in Paris and London for the present autumn and coming winter have served as the models for the garments we are ready to display to the critical eyes of the feminine followers of fashions of our city. Styles were never more distinctly American than this season. To be sure they have borrowed from the foreign creations London 'smartness' and Parisian 'chic,' but they have an individuality about them that is purely American.

OUR entire second floor is devoted to ladies' wearing apparel. While this house does not advertise for glory, still we cannot in this case refrain from mentioning that we are showing by odds the largest line of Ladies' and Children's Cloaks, Suits and Skirts that ever was shown by any store in this city. As for their pricings, we are not only showing a good assortment of cheaper and medium grades, but a grand collection of high-priced garments. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Come, inspect, criticize, and admire the handsome collection of women's stylish garments it has been our pleasure to prepare for you. Do not forget the time and place.

HULLS FROM HICKORY BUSH.

Little Willie Peters is again able to take his meals with the rest of the family at the table.

Haak Buddinger has been appointed local agent at Hickory Bush for a big Philadelphia ship-building concern.

Lake Buster, our popular merchant, received a big consignment of straight-front corsets and dill pickles last week.

Misses Tonsillina Spookendike and Helen Blazes of Bunker Hill are visiting the Misses Pearlina and Sapolo Kettle.

Bill Moffat bought a fine-tooth comb last week and the school-marm says Bill's little girl can now write almost an entire sentence without stopping.

Ike Plunket and Uncle Ben Davis were in Chicago last week to take in the Corn Show. As it rained all that day they went down to State street to look at calves.

Doc Dope was called out to see Grandpa Timothy Hay last Friday night. Grandpa Hay is nearly 90 years old and in his second childhood, and is suffering from cholera infantum and worms.

Uncle Ben Davis brought home another gold brick from Chicago last week. This last one isn't near as fine as some Uncle Ben has, but cost more money. Uncle Ben says the price has risen dreadfully.

Owing to the serious accident which befel Mrs. Hypatia Geraldine Bassett, the Ladies' Aid society held a very short session Tuesday. Mrs. Bassett was on the program for a talk upon the subject of "The Moral Hazard in Kamchatka."

There was a rumor last week that the stork was seen hovering over Zeb Mallet's house, and Zeb is now patrolling the premises with a long range double-barrelled shot gun. Zeb has named his last set of triplets Kate, Duplicate and Extricate.

While attempting to kick a cat out of the kitchen Sunday morning, Mrs. Hypatia Geraldine Bassett had the misfortune to sprain her north leg very badly. Doc Dope was hurriedly called and finally succeeded in relieving to some extent the sufferings of the unfortunate lady. Doc is giving the case his almost undivided attention and is issuing hourly bulletins.

Col. Jake Higgins is in rickety bus, this week visiting his daughters, Mrs. Hypatia Geraldine Bassett and Miss Belladonna Honey-suckle Higgins. Col. Jake is a prosperous Ohio manufacturer, being the sole owner of an extensive wooden leg factory in his home town. He reports business to be pegging along lively in his line, having just finished up four dozen black walnut legs for the Mobile nigger trade, besides a special bass-wood leg for a Cincinnati dude. The Colonel is a widower, and our Hickory Bush widows, both grass and sod, are already setting their caps for him.

Have You Tried It?

If you are one of those who have not yet tried our Blend flour you should do so without longer delay. We are having the most satisfactory reports from housekeepers of the high quality of this flour, and we want everybody to become familiar with it. It contains just the right proportions of spring and winter wheat to make sweet, rich, nourishing and light bread. We claim that it is better than all winter wheat flour and that you get more real good out of it for the money than from any other flour on the market. COLLIER BROS.

PRESIDENT URGES WATERWAY

Sees Great Good in Canalization of Rivers of Mississippi Valley--Hopes Agricultural Interests May Remain Predominant in the Central States.

Memphis, Tenn.—President Roosevelt spoke to a vast and enthusiastic audience on the subject of a lakes to gulf waterway, an audience composed of delegates to the convention representing every state in the Mississippi valley, of representative business men, public officials, including the governors of more than 20 states, and thousands of citizens of Memphis and the south. He said in part:

The Mississippi valley is a magnificent empire in size and fertility. It is better adapted to the development of inland navigation than any other valley in either hemisphere; for there are 12,000 miles of waterway now more or less fully navigable, and the conditions are so favorable that it will be easy to increase the extent of navigable waterways to almost any required degree by canalization. Early in our industrial history this valley was the seat of the largest development of inland navigation in the United States, and perhaps you will pardon my mentioning that the first steamboat west of the Alleghenies was built by a Roosevelt, my great-grandfather's brother, in 1811, for the New Orleans trade, and in that year made the trip from Pittsburgh to New Orleans. But from various causes river and canal transportation declined all over the United States as the railroad systems came to their full development. It is our business to see that the decline is not permanent; and it is of interest to remember that nearly a century ago President Madison advocated the canalization of the Mississippi.

The Mississippi Valley.
In wealth of natural resources no kingdom of Europe can compare with the Mississippi valley and the region around the great lakes, taken together, and in population this huge fertile plain already surpasses all save one or two of the largest European kingdoms. In this empire a peculiarly stalwart and masterful people finds itself in the surroundings best fitted for the full development of its powers and faculties. There has been a great growth in the valley of manufacturing centers; the movement is good if it does not go too far; but I most earnestly hope that this region as a whole will remain predominantly agricultural. The people who live in the country districts, and who till the small or medium-sized farms on which they live, make up what is on the living, and have developed a standard of life, which are of good augury for the future of the entire republic. No man can foresee the limit of the possibility of development in the Mississippi valley.

Waterways Needed.

Such being the case, and this valley being literally the heart of the United States, all that concerns its welfare must concern likewise the whole country. Therefore, the Mississippi river and its tributaries ought by all means to be utilized to their utmost possibility. Facility of cheap transportation is an essential in our modern civilization, and we cannot afford to longer to neglect the great highways which nature has provided for us. These natural highways, the waterways, can never be monopolized by any corporation. They belong to all the people, and it is in the power of no one to take them away.

Wherever a navigable river runs beside railroads the problem of regulating the rates on the railroads becomes far easier, because river regulation is rate regulation. When the water rate sinks, the land rate cannot be kept at an excessive height. Therefore it is of national importance to develop these streams as highways to the fullest extent which is genuinely profitable. Year by year transportation problems become more acute, and the time has come when the rivers really fit to serve as arteries of trade should be provided with channels deep enough to make the investment of the necessary money profitable to the public. The national government should undertake this work. Where the immediately shutting land is markedly benefited, and this benefit can be definitely localized, I trust that there will be careful investigation to see whether some way can be devised by which the immediate beneficiaries may pay a portion of the expenses—as is now the custom as regards certain classes of improvements in our municipalities; and measures should be taken to secure from the localities specially benefited proper terminal facilities.

Much Money Wasted.

Immense sums have already been spent upon the Mississippi by the states and the nation, yet much of it remains practically unused for commerce. The reasons for this fact are many. One is that the work done by the national government at least has not been based upon a definite and continuous plan. Appropriations by congress, instead of assuring the steady progress and timely completion of each piece of work as it was undertaken, have been irregular and uncertain. As a direct consequence, far-reaching plans have been discouraged and continuity in execution has been made impossible. It is altogether unlikely that better results will be obtained so long as the method is followed of making partial appropriations at irregular intervals for works which should never be undertaken until it is certain that they can be carried to completion within a definite and reasonable time. Planned and orderly development is essential to the best use of every natural resource, and to none more than to the best use of our inland waterways. In the case of the waterways it has been conspicuously absent. Because such foresight was lacking, the interests of our rivers have been in fact overlooked, in spite of the immense sums spent upon them. It is evident that their most urgent need is a far-sighted and comprehensive plan, dealing not with navigation alone, nor with irrigation alone, but considering our inland waterways as a whole, and with reference to every use to which they can be put. The central motive of such a plan should be to get from the streams of the United States not only the fullest but also the most permanent service they are capable of rendering to the nation as a whole.

Railroads Inadequate.

The industries developed under the stimulus of the railroads are for the most part permanent industries, and therefore they form the basis for future development. But the railroads have shown that they alone can not meet the demands of the country for transportation, and where this is true the rivers should begin to supplement the railroads, to the benefit of both, by relieving them of certain of the less profitable classes of freight. The more far-seeing railroad men, I am glad to tell you, realize this fact, and many of them have become earnest advocates of the improvement of the Mississippi, so that it may become a sort of inland seaboard, extending from the gulf far into the interior, and I hope ultimately to the great lakes.

Other Interests to Care For.

There is an intimate relation between our streams and the development and conservation of all the other great permanent sources of wealth. It is not possible rightly to consider the one without the other. No study of the problem of the waterways could hope to be successful which failed to consider also the remaining factors in the great problem of conserving all our resources. Accordingly, I have asked the waterways commission to take account of the orderly development and conservation, not alone of the waters, but also of the soil, the forests, the mines, and all the other natural resources of our country.

Many of these resources which we have been in the habit of calling inexhaustible are being rapidly exhausted, or in certain regions have actually disappeared. Coal mines, oil and gas fields, and iron mines in important numbers are already worked out. The coal and oil measures which remain are passing rapidly, or have actually passed, into the possession of great corporations, who acquire ominous power through an unchecked control of these prime necessities of modern life: a control without supervision of any kind. We are consuming our forests three times faster than they are being reproduced. Some of the richest timber lands of this continent have already been destroyed, and not replaced, and other vast areas are on the verge of destruction. Yet forests, unlike mines, can be so handled as to yield the best results of use, without exhaustion, just like grain fields.

Conserve Public Lands.

Our public lands, whose highest use is to supply homes for our people, have been and are still being taken in great quantities by large private owners, to whom home-making is at the very best but a secondary motive subordinate to the desire for profit. To allow the public lands to be worked by the tenants of rich men for the profit of the landlords, instead of by freeholders for the livelihood of their wives and children, is little less than a crime against our people and our institutions. The great central fact of the public land situation, as the public lands commission well said, is that the amount of public land patented by the government to individuals is increasing out of all proportion to the number of new homes. It is clear beyond peradventure that our natural resources have been and are still being abused, that continued abuse will destroy them, and that we have at last reached the forks of the road. We are face to face with the great fact that the whole future of the nation is directly at stake in the momentous decision which is forced upon us. Shall we continue the waste and destruction of our natural resources, or shall we conserve them? There is no other question of equal gravity now before the nation.

It is the plain duty of those who for the moment are responsible to make inventory of the natural resources which have been handed down to us, to forecast as well as we may the needs of the future, and so to handle the great resources of our prosperity as not to destroy in advance all hope for the prosperity of our descendants.

SEES RAILWAYS MULCTED.

Evidence Intended to Show Monopoly of Lubricating Oil.

New York.—When the hearing of the federal suit for the dissolution of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey was resumed Thursday evidence was adduced which Frank B. Kellogg, conducting the government case, said proved the contention of the government that the oil combine, through its subsidiaries, the Galena Signal Oil company and the Waters-Pierce company, has a monopoly of the railroad lubricating oil business and that it not only charges an excess price but that it discriminates against certain railroads in prices. The Standard manufacturers engine, valve, car and coach oil, and Mr. Kellogg said he would show that it controlled 97 per cent of the business.

C. N. Steimbrenner, auditor of the railway department of the Galena Signal Oil company, was the first witness called Thursday. He said that the only companies which he knew sold lubricating oils to railroads were the Galena and the Waters-Pierce. The Waters-Pierce company, he testified, obtained its oil from Galena, which in turn obtains its supply from the Standard at the price at which it is sold to the railroads. The Galena company gets no refund.

Boni Divorce Is Absolute.

Paris.—The time limit in which Count Boni de Castellane could appeal to the court of cassation passed Thursday and the divorce decree obtained by Mme. Anna Gould, the former Countess de Castellane, is now absolute. Mme. Gould has settled out of court the creditors' claims both against herself and the count.

ROOSEVELT PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF M'KINLEY

President Speaks at Dedication of Mausoleum at Canton—Draws Lesson to Nation from Life of the Martyred Statesman.

Monument Hill, Canton, O. — The McKinley mausoleum, the tribute and gift of a nation to the memory of the martyred president, William McKinley, was dedicated Monday afternoon in the presence of hundreds of distinguished men from all parts of the United States, in the presence of representatives of foreign countries, and in the presence of a crowd of approximately 50,000 gathered from all parts of the country.

A feature of the dedication was the presence of the president of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks, members of the president's cabinet, United States senators and governors of several states.

Addresses were delivered by President Roosevelt, Justice William H. Day, McKinley's secretary of state, and Governor Andrew L. Harris of Ohio.

The president of the day was Gov. Harris, who was introduced by Justice Day. The introduction of the president of the day was followed by an invocation by Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church of Washington, D. C.

The opening address was then given by Justice Day. This was followed by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the Grand Army band of Canton, the Canton Sloggers' club and the entire assemblage led by Mr. Reinhardt.

Gov. Harris then delivered an address, which was followed by the unveiling of the bronze statue of William McKinley by Miss Helen McKinley of Cleveland, the only sister of the late president.

Miss McKinley Pulls Veil.

Miss Helen McKinley of Cleveland, a sister of the martyred president, unveiled the statue. James Whitcomb Riley had a place upon the dedication programme, reading a poem written for the occasion. The dedication ceremonies began at about 2 p. m.

In the course of his remarks President Roosevelt said:

"We have gathered together to-day to pay our meed of respect and affection to the memory of William McKinley, who as president won a place in the hearts of the American people such as but three or four of all the presidents of this country have ever won. He was of singular uprightness and purity of character, alike in public and in private life; a citizen who loved peace, he did his duty faithfully and well for four years of war when the honor of the nation called him to arms. As congressman, as governor of his state, and finally as president, he rose to the foremost place among our statesmen, reaching a position which would satisfy the keenest ambition; but he never lost that simple and thoughtful kindness toward every human being, great or small, lofty or humble, with whom he was brought in contact, which so endeared him to our people. He had to grapple with more serious and complex problems than any president since Lincoln, and yet, while meeting every demand of statesmanship, he continued to live a beautiful and touching family life, a life very healthy for this nation to see in its foremost citizen; and now the woman who walked in the shadow ever after his death, the wife to whom his loss was a calamity more crushing than it could be to any other human being, lies beside same sepulcher."

Nation's Duty to Neighbors.

After paying a glowing tribute to the character and achievements of his predecessor in the white house, President Roosevelt drew a lesson from McKinley's life in the nation's duty to the republics to the south of us.

"Some of these republics," said the president, "have prospered greatly; but there are certain ones that have lagged far behind, that still continue in a condition of material poverty, of social and political unrest and confusion. Without exception the republics of the former class are those in which honest industry has been assured of reward and protection; those where cordial welcome has been extended to the kind of enterprise which benefits the whole country, while incidentally, as is right and proper, giving substantial rewards to those who manifest it. On the other hand, the poor and backward republics, the republics in which the lot of the average citizen is least desirable, and the lot of the laboring man worst of all, are precisely those republics in which industry has been killed because wealth exposed its owner to spoliation. To these communities foreign capital now rarely comes, because it has been found important as the discouragement of a spirit of envy and hostility toward honest business men, toward honest men of means; this is the discouragement of dishonest business men, the war upon the chicanery and wrongdoing which are peculiarly repulsive, peculiarly noxious, when exhibited by men who have no excuse of want, of poverty, of ignorance, for their crimes. Men of means, and above all men of great wealth, can exist in safety under the peaceful protection of the state, only in orderly societies, where liberty manifests itself through and under the law."

Roosevelt Views Tomb.

Immediately upon the close of the programme President Roosevelt and party visited the interior of the tomb. This was followed by a visit by the invited guests and then the general public was admitted. Thousands passed through the tomb.

Deaths and Births.

The vital statistics law passed by the last legislature was put in force Oct. 1, by the State Board of Health. This law requires doctors and midwives to report all deaths, births and infectious diseases they attend upon blanks supplied by the State board. When no doctor or midwife is in attendance, then reports shall be made by the parents or householders.

These legal records are of the greatest importance to families and to the state. In hundreds of instances in the past, inheritances, insurance and pensions have been lost because no legal records existed of death or of birth. In one instance in Indiana an inheritance of $12,000 reverted to the national treasury of Switzerland, because the doctor had not reported the birth of the person. The record would have proved the required relationship. Any family is likely at any time to need records of birth and death, and all are therefore interested in having the same reported and properly recorded. Besides being of the utmost importance and value at unexpected times to families and individuals, these records are essential for the scientific control of sanitary affairs. Boards of health must know who is dying, where they are dying and what they are dying of in order to intelligently conduct disease prevention work. This information is given by vital statistics. The State Board of Health requests all citizens to co-operate with physicians and health officers in this important work by seeing to it that correct records are made of deaths, births and contagious diseases occurring in their families.

Borrowing Phones.

There is a great deal of complaint from telephone subscribers in the residence district that neighbors having no telephones take advantage of those having the telephone to do their daily ordering, gossiping, etc., and even go so far as to use the parties renting the telephones to call other neighbors to their phone. While this practice is a great source of annoyance to subscribers, it also compels the telephone company to render the additional service. At times that free service will no longer be tolerated, and when it is discovered that outsiders are using a borrowed phone the connection will be taken down at once.—Elwood Paper.

The manager of the Culver exchange declares that the practice is becoming so general that it is probable the rule will have to be enforced here.

Kraut Will be Popular.

Truck patch owners say there is going to be a better demand for cabbage this season than there has been in a number of years, this being due to the fact that cabbage is about the only thing within reason as to cost which can be prepared for winter use. "I believe," said one man, "that people who have never before had kraut in their homes will go into the industry this fall and some of them are already putting kraut making under way."

Wheat threshing in the Northwest is reported to be somewhat disappointing and the yield of some of the great states may be cut down from the previous calculations. It seems probable that wheat may remain close to one dollar while continued favorable weather may cause some decline in corn quotations. The wheat is practically all in and can be calculated on while there are possibilities ahead for corn which may change materially the figures now made.

Heart Strength

Heart strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to those weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Silver Teaspoons Free

Our Offer

To every subscriber of THE CITIZEN who pays up to January 1, 1909, we will give, on demand, a set of Magnetic Silver Teaspoons absolutely free. If mailed to a subscriber, add 5 cents to the amount to pay postage.

Each subscriber's account is denoted in plain figures on the colored name tag on his paper, and the amount necessary to set his subscription ahead to the required date can be figured in a moment. For instance, if the tag reads John Smith Jun07 that is the date to which his paper is now paid, and at $1 per year, or 8 1/2 cents per month, the amount required to advance the subscription to Jan. 1, 1909, will be $1.58 1/2, but $1.60 should be sent.

This is the best premium ever offered by a newspaper in this section. The spoons are made by the Hamilton Silver Co., and are guaranteed to be the best substitute for solid silver ever made. They are not plated, but are solid metal and will never tarnish nor wear out.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS—Now is the time for persons not taking the Citizen to subscribe and get the premium. ARE YOU IN ARREARS? Pay up what you owe, advance your subscription to January 1, 1909, and take away a set of these beautiful spoons.

The spoons can be seen in the Citizen's window and we will take pleasure in having you call, take them in your hand and see how nice they are.

Don't wait, but come now, for we will not promise to keep the offer open longer than the month of October.
