RICH FARMER ASKS DIVORCE.

Says He Was Wheedled into Wedlock by Leap-Year Spouse.

Crawfordsville .- That his wife, Mary E. Wilkinson, exercised her leap-year prerogative and proposed to him is substantially the charge made by James E. Wilkinson, 80 years of ago. in a cross-complaint for divorce filed in the Montgomery circuit court.

In the summer of 1904, the aged complainant alleges, his wife, then 52 years of age and twice a widow, coaxed him to take her buggy riding. While they were on the road, he alleges, she suddenly threw her arms around his neck, kissing him and fondling him until he was so aroused that he scarcely knew what he was doing. He avers that she then told him that her life was dreary and lonesome and that he needed some one to love him.

Under such treatment, he alleges, be readily became subject to her influence and when she begged him to come and call on her he did so. After a few months, he says, she reiterated her pleas for him to espouse her as his wife and when he seemed somewhat reluctant she threatened him with breach of promise proceedings. With the agreement that he was not to be nothered with more than one of her children, he says, and finally accepted her proposal and they were married in September, 1904.

Following their marriage, he says, his wife brought her three children into their home and one of them sometimes ate so much that after the meal he would go out and disgorge. Their married life within a month became very unhappy, he alleges, and she finally left him, threatening divorce proceedings unless he deeded her some of his property. He avers that he deeded to her rea) estate valued at almost $5,000, only to have her leave him a few months later. Mr. Wilkinson is a wealthy farmer. He has been twice married and his wife has gone up against the matrimonial buzz saw two times.

Buildog Refuses to Recognize Insignia of Government's Authority.

Hartford City .- The local mail carriers have lived in dread of a buildog in this city, which seems to entertain a mortal hatred of the uniform, and not the man. The other day Jesse Carter had his hand badly bitten by the animal, and he applied to the prosecuting attorney for permission to go armed. The prosecuting attorney thereupon haled the owner of the dog into court for keeping a vicious animal. The question of whether the dog native of Germany, who came to shall be killed, chained up or muzzled is in abeyance. IN ANCIENT TIMES.

Onions and Garile, Hot Roast Pears and Apples, and Water for the Bride-Whole Families Among the Venders.

Rome .- The majority of the lower classes in Rome do most of their marketing and shopping in the streets, and this custom accounts for the large number of peddlers, hucksters and itlnerant venders who crowd the city. These street merchants are divided into two classes, those who cater to the foreigner and sell mosaics, old coins and fragments of marble of dubious authenticity, flowers, bits of brocade, shawls of Roman silk, picture post cards and even alleged Turkish carpets, and the others, who are more numerous and whose wares are for the exclusive use of the native householder. To the latter class, for instance, belongs the buscolinaro, or seller of dried pumpkin seeds, which are greatly relished by the Romans, who are in the habit of eating them during the long waits between the acts in the theaters and in the public parks while the band plays, as well as in the wine shops, where their sale is encouraged by the host, who knows full well their thirst increasing property. The origin of the custom is said to date back to classic times, when pumpkin seeds were sold during the gladiatorial games in the Circus Max-Imus and Coliseum.

A frequent sight in the streets of Rome is that of men, and very often boys, with strings of plaited onions and garlic slung over their shoulders, who cry their wares with the full force of southern lungs. They come from Naples and the Abruzzi, and if you question them they assure you that they are selling the produce of their own little farms.

But no genuine Roman will believe such a statement, as the conviction prevails, based probably on the cheapness of the price, that the onions and garlic sold in the streets of Rome have been purloined.

Although summer is the season of the itinerant vender who travels about from street to street calling on the passerby to buy his wares, which he carries on a wooden tray strapped to his shoulders, still there are certain men who only come in winter. On ries.

MUSIC STUDENTS

Should Have Steady Nerves.

The nervous system of the musician is often very sensitive and any habit like coffee drinking may so upset the nerves as to make regular and necessary daily practise next to impossible.

"I practise from seven to eight hours a day and study Harmony two hours," writes a Mich. musle student. "Last September I was so nervous I could only practise a few minutes at a time, and mother said I would have to drop my music for a year.

"This was terribly discouraging as I couldn't bear the thought of losing a whole year of study. Becoming convinced that my nervousness was caused largely by coffee, and seeing Postum so highly spoken of, I decided I would test it for a while.

"Mother followed the directions carefully and I thought I had never tasted such a delicious drink. We drank Postum every morning instead of coffee, and by November I felt more like myself than for years, and was ready to resume my music.

"I now practise as usual, do my studying and when my day's work is finished I am not any more nervous than when I began.

"I cannot too highly recommend Postum to musicians who practise half a day. My father is a physician and recommends Postum to his patients. Words cannot express my appreciation for this most valuable health beverage, and experience has proven its superiority over all others." "There's a Reason."

HURT HOME TRADE

WHAT GREEDY, SHORT-SIGHTED PEOPLE DO.

WAYS THAT KILL CUSTOM

Fair Treatment by Tradesmen Assists In Building Up Towns and Increases Business for All.

One of the troubles in small towns seems to be that petty jealousies keep the business men from working in harmony. There is just so much business to be had, and it either goes to the home stores, the mail order houses, the department stores or some nearby city, or perhaps is let go to a more progressive neighboring town. It should be the aim of every town to make its trade territory as large as possible. It is the attitude of the business men that counts. One good, live man in business in a small towa is a benefit to the whole place. He brings trade to all. People are swayed to and fro by opinions that are formed sometimes without careful reasoning. It is the best policy to treat each and every one fairly and honestly.

Let the average farmer think that he has been given the worst end of a bargain, and he will ponder over the matter for years. It is not a good idea for a merchant to have a scale of prices for different customers. Charge John Jones $12 for a suit of clothes, and sell the same sult to his neighbor, Jim Smith, for $11, and Jones will find it out and feel that he has been treated unfairly, and Jones is right about it, too. There is one town, a county seat, in a western state, a place of nearly 3,000 population. Its trade territory extends for a dozen miles in each direction. The country has a large foreign population. They are the hest classes of customers, liberal buyers and not quibblers over prices. Still, they desire just treatment. A few years ago thousands of dollars in trade was diverted from the town through a dealer in agricultural implements being a poor business man. A wealthy German purchased from him several hundred dollars' worth of agricultural machinery, wagons and other goods. The farmer wanted a harrow. A price was made-$33. A few days later the farmer was at a town where there were but two stores and an elevator. He saw the same kind of harrow and was told that $28.50 would buy it. He visited the county seat a few days later, called on the man from whom he purchased his implements and again asked the price of the harrow, and was told the same as before. He then stated that the same make and kind of harrow had been offered him for $4.50 less. After some talk he was told that he could have the piece of machinery for the his team to the post in front of Smith's same price. He did not take it, but store and go over to Green's to do his secured the one offered him man in the smaller town. He did not like the style of the dealer in the larger town. In fact, he concluded that the other storekeepers of the place were of the same callber. He quit trading, and not alone was his trade lost to the county seat town, but the trade of a score of his neighbors. and even they changed their post office addresses to the smaller place. The trade of this one farmer lost to the county seat was the means of building up a healthy trade in the smaller town and bringing to it other business places. D. M. CARR. Nonprogressive People. A commercial club, a business men's association or whatever it may be called, that is useful in furthering the interests of any city or town is a highly useful organization. The field for work is unlimited. Its extent is only limited to the power of the members to act and accomplish. One of the chief aims of all such associations should be to advance the varied interests of the towns in which they are started. Sometimes these organizations fall in their purpose because they are not started rightly. Some person who has nothing to do but collect rent, pay his money for supplies to some mail order house, and collect interest from the bank, or the ones whose property is mortgaged to him. is made the president, or given a place on the executive board. What is the result? The club goes under. Its usefulness has been destroyed even before its organization. The only successful clubs are the ones that are under the control of the live business men of the towns, who have made their money by their business connections and who depend upon the growth of the town for their continued success. Keep the knocker out of the commercial club. He is sure to be a disturbing factor. His place in the club affords him a place to further his own selfish interests, which in ninety-nine cases out of the hundred is in keeping back every enterprise that will possibly increase his taxes.

PRICES OF COMMODITIES.

"Labor Should Reap Its Reward" Is the Key-Note of Commerce.

The matter of prices and profit is always interesting, not alone to retallers of merchandise, but to consumers as well. 'There has been nothing that has been so troublesome to every class as the matter of prices. It is all easy, there is no great problem to solve. and it all reats in the little phrase, "labor should reap its reward." Cost is an all important thing in every product. There is the raw material, the expense of putting the manufactured article in mercantile form. It matters not what the product is, it is the expense of preparing it for the consumer, the price of the raw material, cost of manufacture and distribution that counts. Allowance must be made for an equitable compensation to all having a part in the production of any article of commerce. We hear of cut prices, of cheapness in this or that staple, but when it is given consideration, where is the cheapness? Every article has or should have a standard value. There is no good reason why the worker in the shop should not have fair and equitable compensation for his labor. The manufactorer who has thousands of capital invested should have interest and pay for his time; the man who places the product in the hands of the retailer is entitled to pay according to his ability as a salesman, and the retailer should have equitable interest on the capital he has invested and compensation for his time and labor. Here you have all in a nutshell. The elimination of the middleman destroys one of the established customs and industries. When any article of commorce is placed on the market at a lower price than cost of manufacture and the expense of placing it before the consumer, somebody is the loser. Here is food for reflection, and it behooves the merchants and consumers to think the matter over.

THE OLD HITCHING POST.

It May Be Useful, but Is Unsightly and Generally a Town Nuisance.

That good old hitching post! What a familiar object to all of us who had the good fortune to be reared near a country town. Still, while tender memories hang around the old post, there is much about it at times worthy of condemnation. There is nothing that makes a main street of a small town look so shabby and thoroughly countrified and back-woodish as a row of rickety old hitching posts on each side of the street. Constant tramping and pawing near them makes holes in the ground, unsightly mud-holes in damp weather and ill-smelling and offensive in numerous respects. It may appear a bit of enterprise on the part of the merchant to erect a number of posts in front of his store, but does he gain business by it? How often do you see Farmer Shortcrop drive in, tie trading? As long as hitching posts are allowed to occupy places in front of stores on main streets it will be impossible to keep the streets in the neat and good condition that they should be in. Far better to have on some unoccupied street within easy reach of the business sections posts where the farmers can hitch their teams. Every town which has the power to control its own affairs should make regulations that will keep the main streets.

CLIMATE IS IDEAL

GREAT WEALTH ACQUIRED IN GROWING GRAIN.

Writing from Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada, W. H. Ellwauger, who was formerly a realdent of Green Mountain, Iowa, says: 'The climate in summer is ideal for growing grain. Long, clear days of sunshine, no bad storms. We never need to guard against cyclones; I never saw a better climate in my life. We made more money during the season of 1906 than any previous five years in central lowa-one of the hest districts in the state." But Mr. Ellwanger was a resident of the town, and it might be more interesting to read what a farmer has to say about Western Canada. From hundreds of letters all filled with words of praise, recounting success in Western Canada there has been one selected. It is as follows:

Paynton, Sask., Canada, Dec. 10th, 1907. To Whom This May Concern:

I moved to this address February 3, 1907, from Montgomery, Iowa, and took a homestead 35 miles north of Paynton. It was cold when I moved here but it did not stay cold long; it broke up the 8th of February, and was not so cold after that but the spring was late on account of the heavy snow fall, but in spite of the late spring I saw better grain than I ever saw in the states, raised this year. I helped a man finish sowing oats the 4th of July and they made fair oats. In a good year oats will go 100 bushels to the acre and wheat 25 to 50; all root crops do well here. I saw turnips weigh 7 and 8 pounds. I raised potatoes this year that measured 1114 inches one way and 1855 the other In circumference. This is a fine stock country; hay in abundance, good water. plenty of fuel, free and plenty of building material-the government gives us timber to saw into lumber and we can get it sawed for about $6.00 per thousand. All small fruit grows wild here, then there are ducks, geese, grouse, pheasants, deer, moose, elk and fish in abundance. I was over to Turtle Lake yesterday where there is lots of fishing being done this winfish in one pile. I gave 25 cents for 86 pounds of fish. What do you think of that, Brother Yankee? I think this and to live. There was an old man up here visiting his brother-in-law. Now lly embroidered with gold thread. At this man owns land close to Des Moines, Iowa, and is in good circumstances, but he took a homestead and says he will be contented if he can nite enough as a foundation for a net in places and makes a pretty curve only put in the rest of his days in Canada. He would get up in the mornand look out of the door and say: "Well, who wouldn't live in Canada?" Now I have been in 12 different states in the United States, and I never saw the chance that there is here for a man that has a little muscle and a little brains. Three cheers for Cana-

WEAR COLORS THAT COMBINE.

Giving Bonuses.

The siving of a bonus to gain trade is prima facie evidence that the dealer is selling goods at a price which affords the giving away of a portion of his profits. Would it not be better to reduce the price, and with the saving to the customer he could buy whatover he wants? But the people want something for nothing, and think that they are getting it when they pay ten or filteen per cent more than they should for goods, and in recognition of their ceals receive a coupon or ticket for some article valued at about half the extra money they paid this way it commo that thats

Merit vs. Prizes.

Premlum schemes and prize offerings held out as bait to the people to ret them to use certain brands of goods should be very carefully considered. The most common plan is the certificate deal, by which is promised some article represented to be worth the total amount paid for goods, if only a certain number be saved. Common business sense assures that when such a proposition is made the goods must be of an inferior quality, or that there is a catch somewhere. Goods of merit do not have to carry a prize in order that they be in demand. People are quick to buy goods of merit, particularly in the staple line, if they know of them. Of the standard brands of foodstuffs, of cigars, of thread, of different other things, how many are giving prizes? This is not the case with numerous classes of goods that are sold with a premium attachment. Most of them are of inferior quality and the price paid for them more than cloth, on materials stalwart enough to covers the cost of the premium given. It is the old glimmer of getting something for nothing, and the women who want trading stamps, or a prize with their purchases, pay pretty dearly "for their whistles,"

Unwise Competition.

There cannot be a doubt but that competition stimulates trade; but trade is the natural outgrowth of civilization and found its origin when intelligent man discovered that he had a few wants, and that they could be supplied by commodities others possessed and which he did not have himself, and that he had a surplus of things that he could trade for articles others had and which he needed. Thus it can be seen that want, demand, supply, all go to make up that which is the life of trade. Competition is merely an indication of a man's ambition to excel his neighbor, to gain more in barter and trade than what would in ordinary channels come to him. It is merely to seek, to reach out after things desired. From the fact that 90 per cent. of those who engage in the It is lined only as high as an ordinary mercantile business fail, it seems corset cover would come, has long more appropriate to say that competition, unhealthy and not directed by front with six pearl studs. The Bordered Gown.

An original white frock of the 'youthful simplicity" order struck a new note the other day, being worn by a golden-baired girl in slight tened to the back. This gives a mourning. It was a soft filminess of brighter look to the whole work and very fine white net resembling tulle, and both the upper skirt (short to the knees in front and apparently caught up at the back of the waist to fall in irregular edged box plaits) and the hitching post from "ornamenting" the lower one was bordered with a deep hem of black velvet, above which was embroidered in a jet running design of round garlands and ribbons, looping over and under a band of silver tissue luid beneath the net.

This idea could be varied and carried out in all sorts of colors, or in one or two shades combined with a the off-expressed objection to decwhite or ivory gown, or all in one pale orated leather, "It is too dark and hue.

The difference in material is often sufficient contrast; velvet on chiffon or crepe de chine, for instance.

Something Original.

Extremely pretty and new was a little frock destined for a girl to wear At one of the balls. Of fine white net, it was mounted upon soft satin and trimmed with many deep bands of what looked at first like braiding, but in evidence. Even for lingerie the which proved to be a closely-woven design of narrow satin roaleaux, arranged in a geometrical pattern of the "maze" description, exactly like soutache on cloth. The same idea has been carried out in velvet or even stand the weight of it. A dear little pale pink tulle frock was "braided" thus with chenille.

Undersleeves in Color.

It is said that Parisian style makers are concealing their original designs because Americans steal them, as if style isn't anybody's property. Word comes that the favorite sleeve in Paris just now is finished by an undersleeve, not the sheer white undersleeve with which women here have long been familiar, but an undersleeve of satin, velvet or silk, of relieving color from the loose outer sleeve, They don't seem to be worn around here as yet, but women should be on the lookout for them, as they may be attractive.

Waists of Wash Tulle.

This idea is carried out in leather boxes and picture frames, in these bright-green and red satin being used. The result of the combination is rare-13 ly beautiful and it at once overcomes plain."

Fashion Favors Coarse Laces,

All the old laces are at present fashionable in Paris, and it is the coarse mesh that is most sought. We see handsome blouses of nothing save Cluny lace sewed together, and even when the finer meshes are employed, big medallions and anemones are put on, so that the coarse lace is always conress of meshes and threads are sought. Material for such purposea cannot be too beautiful, and the daintiest and sheerest of batiste is used; but with the laces-that is another matter.

False Idea Rebuked.

The editor of the Ladies Home Journal protests against his readers according all articles which appear in his magazine as being the editor's views or endorsed by him. Many articles are published in magazines and newspapers because they throw light on a subject or represent a view which. while it may differ from the reador's-and the editor's as well-is nevertheless of value and entitled to a hearing. Because the Ladies Home Journal has published articles favorable to the Catholic church, to osteopathy, to vegetarianism, to Christian Science, etc., the editor has been accused of endorsing those cults, while articles on Protestantism, allopathy and other more commonly accepted beliefs and practices have been complacently received. If it were true, the editor says, that he endorses everything he publishes he would be the most remarkable specimen of a "turncoat" the world ever saw. He then fires a broadside which hits us all-not only those who criticise editors, but a host of other individuals who pass superficial and unjust judgments on the beliefs and acts of their fellow men generally. He says

Just so long as we print articles which echo the notions, the beliefs and the convictions of the largest venient place from which his seed number of persons, we are right and we are applauded. But the moment we depart from those lines that are deemed "right" we are "faithless to our trust;" we are "dangerous in our influence"-we are just plainly and simply wrong! We must go along the lines of least resistance; we must usten to the views o the largest number of people, and then echo only what they think, what they believe! SEED CORN PATCH.

An Easy Method for Each Farmer to Improve his Seed Corn.

One way in which every corn grower can do much to improve and maintain the quality in a variety of corn is by planting a seed corn patch. For this patch he should select about twenty-five of the best and most typical ears of the seed to be planted this year. A germination test should be made of each ear in order that no weak ears may be planted. Shell off and discard the small and irregular tip and butt grains. Then shell the ears together and mix thoroughly. At the usual time of planting, plant this corn on the south or west side of the field to be planted with the same variety. This location should be changed if it is near a field planted with another varie. ty. Give this usual good cultivation. When the corn is five or six inches high go through the patch and remove all weak or backward plants. Also when the tassels begin to appear go through and remove them from all stalks which are either weak, barren, smutted, badly suckered or for other reasons undesirable. When the corn is mature, and not later than Oct. 15, the seed should be harvested. Select the seed ears from the strongest stalks with a large leaf development and those bearing the ear four or five feet from the ground and holding it in a right position.

Through the seed patch the farmer can do much to fix a desirable type in his corn and to reduce the number of barren, diseased and suckered stalks that appear in his field. It also furnishes him a concorn in the fall can be selected. and he knows that it is from the best seed that he planted.

SYNOPSIS.

<text><text> Chip McGuire, m 16-year-old girl living

Somehow this strange wanderer, this unaccounted for walf, bad crept into his life and love as a flower would, and "Pattycake," as he had named her, with her appealing eyes and odd ways, was never out of his thoughts. ctAndcourse winter dragged its slow. the brook oncepring finally unlocked cherry blossoms came, the apple and gan nest-building, and the robins be-Jud returned from the one day Uncle glad smile on his face. corner with a

And then "Pattycake" arrived. Nearly a year before she had been brought here, a weary, bedraggled, dusty, half-starved waif. Now Uncle Jud met her at the station, his face shining; Aunt Mandy clasped her close to her portly person; and as Chip looked around and saw what had been done in her honor and to make her welcome, her eyes filled.

"I never thought anybody would care for me like this," she exclaimed, and then glancing at Uncle Jud, her eyes alight, she threw her arms about his neck and, for the first time, kissed him.

And never in all his life had he felt more amply paid for anything he had done.

Then and there, Chip resolved to do something that now lay in her power -to face shame and humbled pride, and all the sacrifice it meant to her in the end, and reunite these two longsuparated brothers. But not now, no, not yet.

Before her lay two golden joyous ing up later. She could not face her own humiliation now. She must wait until these happy days were past, then herself one lota, and then, if she must, go her way, an outcast into the world once more.

How utterly wrong she was in this conclusion, and how little she understood the broad charity of Uncle Jud, need not be explained. She was only a child as yet in all but stature. The purpose seemed all the more impres- it meant loss of love, home, respect, sive. But it was in no wise wasted; and all disc she now valued, and that instead, it was like God-given sunshine to a flower that has never known aught except the chilling shadow of a dense forest.

And now ensued an almost pathetic play of interest, for Chip set herself about the duty of giving inslead of obtaining pleasure.

She became what she was at Tim's let her,-and from early morning until bedtime, some step, some duty, some kindly care for her benefactors, was assumed by her. She worked and weeded in the garden, she drove and milked the cows, she followed Uncle Jud to the hayfield, insisting that she must help, until at last he protested.

"I like ye 'round me all the time, cirlie." he assured her, "for ye're the best o' company, 'n' I'd rather see yer lace'n' any posy that ever grew. But you've got to quit workin' so much in the sun. 'Twill get yer hands all calloused 'n' face freckled, an' I won't have it. I want ye to injie yourself, read books, pick flowers, 'n' slt in the shade. I see ye've got into the habit o' workin', which ain't a bad 'un, but thar ain't no need on't here."

CHAPTER XXVII.

For many weeks now Chip had suffered from a troubled conscience, and, like most of us, was unable to face its consequences and admit her sin.

Time and again she had planned how she could best evade it and yet bring those two brothers together without first confessing. Old Cy must be told, of course. She could explain her conduct to him. He would surely forgive summer mouths. Aunt Abby was com- her, she thought, and then, maybe, find another home for her somehow and somewhere. Oversensitive as she was, to now confess her cowardly concealtell her wretched story, not sparing ment and her deception of those who had loved and trusted her, seemed horrible.

But events were stronger than her will, for one day in the last of August, Uncle Jud returned from the village store, bringing dress materials and startling information. "Cap'n Bemis is failin' purty fast," he said, "so Aunt one most bitter sneer of malicious Abby writes, an' she ain't comin' up she must become a homeless wanderer once more.

But Uncle .Jud thought otherwise, for now he drew the sobbing girl into his the.

"Quit takin' on so, girlie," he said, choking back a lump; "why, we'll all love ye ten times more fer all this, an ez fer bein' z nobody, ye're a blessed Place, a menial, so far as they would | angel to us fer bringin' the news ye hey." And then he bissed her, while Aunt Mandy wiped her eyes on her apron.

The shower, violent for a moment, was soon over: for as Chip raised her wet eyes, a sunshiny smile illumined Uncle Jud's face.

'If Cyrus is alive," he said, "as ye callate, I'll thank God till I set eyes on him, and then J think Fil lick him fer not huntin' me up all these years. But mebbe he found Abby was married 'n' didn't want to," interposed Aunt Mandy, "We mustn't judge him "No, I won't judge him." asserted

"Ez fer you, girlie, an']est to set yer mind at rest, we found out what your right uarae was and where ye run away from last fall, but never let on to nobody. "Twas your business and nobody else's, an' made no difference in our feelin's, ez ye must see; au' now I'll tell ye how I found out.

"I was down to the Corners one day arter ye went to Christmas Cove, 'n' a foller-alce-lookin' feller, too, with honest brown eyes-was askin' if anybody had seen or heard o' a runaway girl by the name o' McGuire. Said she'd run away from Greenvale-That's 'bout a hundred miles from here,' he said-an' he was huntin' for her. Nobody at the Corners knew about ye 'n' I kept still, bellevin' ye had reason fer not wantin' to be found out.

And now another tide-the thrill of love-surged in Chip's heart, and her face became glorified.

And so the clouds rolled away. That night Chip wrote a brief but curious letter, so odd, in fact, it must be quoted verbatim:

Mr. Marilu Frisble. Phone send word at once to Mr. Cyrus Walker that his brother Judson, who lives in Riggsville, wants to see him. No one che musit be told of this, for it's a ONE WHO KNOWS. secret:

But Chip's secret was a most transparent one, for when this missive reached Martin three days later, he recognized its angular penmanship and similarity to the note Aunt Comfort atill treasured, and knew that Chip wrote it.

It startled him somewhat, however, for Old Cy's youthful history was unknown to him, and suspecting that some mystery lay beneath this information, he told no one, but started for Riggsville at once.

The tide of emotion that had upset the even tenor of Uncle Jud's home life slowly obbed away, and a keen sense of expectancy took its place.

Chip, after giving him her letter, explained that Old Cy was most likely in the wilderness, and that the letter might not reach him for weeks.

PERUNA EDITORIAL NO. 2.

Dr. Hartman has claimed for many years that Peruna is an EXCELLENT CATARRH REMEDY. Some of the doctor's critics have disputed the doctor's claim as to the efficacy of Peruna.

Since the ingredients of Peruna are no longer a secret, what do the medical authorities say concerning the remedies of which Peruna is composed ?

Take, for instance, the ingredient HYDRASTIS CANADENSIS, OR GOLDEN SEAL. The United States Dispensatory says of this herbal remedy, that it is largely employed in the treatment of depraved mucous membranes, chronic rhinitis (nasal catarrh), atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), chronic intestinal catarrh, catarrhal jaundice (catarrh of the liver), and in diseased mucous membranes of the pelvic organs. It is also recommended for the treatment of various forms of diseases peculiar to women.

Another ingredient of Peruna, CORYDALIS FORMOSA, is classed in the United States Dispensatory as a tonic.

CEDRON SEEDS is another ingredient of Peruna, an excellent drug that has been very largely overlooked by the medical profession for the past fifty years. THE SEEDS ARE TO BE FOUND IN VERY FEW DRUG STORES. The United States Dispensatory says of the action of cedron that it is used as a bitter tonic and in the treatment of dysentery, and in intermittent diseases as a SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE.

OIL OF COPAIBA, another ingredient of Peruna, is classed by the United States Dispensatory as a mild stimulant and diaretic. It acts on the stomach and intestinal tract. It acts as a stimulant on the genito-urinary membranes.

Useful in chronic cystitis, chronic dysentery and diarrhea, and some chronio diseases of the liver and kidneys.

These opinions as to the ingredients of Peruna are held by all writers on the subject, including Eartholow and Scudder.

OF HYDRASTIS, BARTHOLOW SAYS it is applicable to stomatitis

(catarrh of the mucous surfaces of the mouth), follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynx), chronic coryza (catarrh of the head). This writer classes hydrastis as a stomachic tonic, useful in atonic dyspepsia (chronic gastric catarrh), catarrh of the duodenum, catarrh of the gall duct, catarrh of the intestines, catarrh of the kidneys (chronic Bright's disease), catarrh of the bladder, and catarrh of other pelvic organs.

BARTHOLOW REGARDS COPAIBA as an excellent remedy for chronic catarrh of the bladder, chronic bronchitis (catarrh of the bronchial tubes).

BARTHOLOW STATES THAT CUBEB, an ingredient of Peruna, promotes the appetite and digestion, increases the circulation of the blood. Useful in chronic nasal catarrh, follicular pharyngitis (catarrh of the pharynz), increasing the tonicity of the mucous membranes of the throat. It also relieves hoarseness. Useful in atonic dyspepsia (catarrh of the stomach), and in chronic catarrh of the colon and rectum, catarrh of the bladder, prostatorrhea, and chronic bronchial affections.

MILLSPAUGH, MEDICINAL PLANTS, one of the most authoritative works on medicinal herbs in the English language, in commenting upon COLLINSONIA CANADENSIS, says that it acts on the pneumogastric and vaso motor nerves. It increases the secretions of the mucous membranes in general. In the mountains of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Carolina, collinsonia canadensis is considered a panacea for many disorders, including headache, colic, cramp, dropsy and indigestion. DR. SCUDDER regards it highly as a remedy in chronic diseases of the lungs, heart disease and asthma.

These citations ought to be sufficient to show to any candid mind that Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Surely, such herbal remedies, that command the enthusiastic confidence of the highest authorities obtainable, brought together in proper combination, ought to make a catarrh remedy of the highest efficacy.

This is our claim, and we are able to substantiate this claim by ample quotations from the HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

Our Peruna Tablet Is Peruna With Fluid Removed.

she's comin' home," he announced, and Aunt Mandy, her face beaming. made haste to wipe her "specs" and read the joyous tidings.

For a few days Uncle Jud acted as if he had forgotten something and knew not where to look for it. He lingered about the house when he would naturally be at work. He peered into one room and then another, in an abstracted way, and finally Aunt Mandy caught him in the keepingroom, with one curtain raised,-a thing unheard of,-seated in one of the haircloth chairs and looking around.

"Mandy," he said, as she entered. "do you know, I think them picturs we've had hangin' here nigh on to 40 year is homely 'nuff to stop a horse, 'n' they make me feel like I'd been to a funeral. Thar's that 'Death Hed o' Dan'! Webster,' an' 'Death o' Montcalm,' 'specially. I jest can't stand 'em no longer, an' 'The Father o' His Country.' I'm gittin' tired o' that, 'n' the smirk he's got on his face. I feel jest as though I'd like to throw a stun at him this minute. You may feel sot on them picturs, but I'd like to chuck the hull kit 'n' boodle into the cow shed. An' them winder curtains," he continued, looking around, "things so blue they make me shiver, an' this carpet with the figgers o' green and yaller birds, it sorter stuns me.

"Now Pattycake's comin' purty soon. She must 'a' seen more cheerful keepin' rooms'n ourn, 'n' I'm callatin' we'd best rip this 'un all up an' fix it new. Then that's the front chamber-in fact, both on 'em-with the yaller spindle beds 'n' blue curtains, an' only a square of rag carpet front o' the dressers. Say, Mandy," he continued, looking around once more, "how'd we ever happen to git so many blue curtains?"

His discontent with their home now took shape in vigorous action, and Aunt Mandy came to share it. Trip after trip to the Riggsville store was rolls of carpeting arrived at the station six miles away, and came up the valley. A paperhanger was engaged and kept busy for ten days. The de_th-bed pictures were literally kicked into the cow shed, and in three weeks four rooms had been so reconstructed and filled anew that no one would recognize them.

Meanwhile Uncle Jud had utterly neglected his "craps," while he worked around the house. The wide lawn had been clipped close. A new picket fence, painted white, replaced the leaning, zigzag one around the garden. Weeds and brush disappeared, and only Aunt Mandy's protest saved the plcturesque brown house from a coat of ken in tender influence and loving brave enough to make. paint.

I've known it all summer and dare not tell because I'm a miserable coward and couldn't own up that I fied to you. My name lan't Raymond, it's McGuire; and my father was a murderer, and I'm nobody and fit for nobody. I know you'll all despise me now and I deserve it. I'm next instant she was kneeling before Uncle Jud and sobbing.

It had all some in a brief torrent of pitiful confession which few would be To Chip, seeing herself as she did, here.

And then one day a broad-shouldercitified man drove up to the home of Uncle Jud.

"Does Mr. Judson Walker live here?" he inquired of Aunt Mandy, who met him a the door.

Her admission of that fact was scarce uttered when there came a rustling of skirts, a "Why, Mr. Frisbie!" and Chip was beside her, at which Martin, collected man of the world that he was, felt an unusual heart-throb of thankfulness.

A little later, when Uncle Jud had been summoned into their newly furnished "keeping-room," disclosures astonishing to all followed.

"We have been searching for you, Chip, far and near," Martin assured them, "and Old Cy is still at it. He left us at the camp, almost a year ago, came to Greenvale, found you had run away, and came back to tell ns. It upset us all so that we broke camp at once, taking Amzi with us, and returned to Greenvale. Old Cy there bade us good-by and started to find you. Ray also began a search as well. I've advertised in dozens of papers, have kept Levi on watch for you at Grindstone over since, and now I hope you will return with me to Greenvale."

"I thank you all, oh; so much," answered Chip, scared a little at this proposal, "but I don't want to. I'm nobody there and never can be. I'd be ashamed to face folks there any more."

"I guess she best stay with us," put in Uncle Jud, "fer we sorter 'dopted her, 'n' not meanin' no disrespect to you folks, I callate she'll be more content here. I'd like ye to get word to Cyrus, though, soon's possible. I hain't sot eyes on him fer 40 years, 'n'," his eyes twinkling, "I'm jest spilin' to pull his hair 'n' cuff him."

"I will help out in that matter at once, and more than gladly," replied Martin, again looking at Chfp and noting how improved she was; "but I still think Miss Runaway had better return with me. We need you. Chip," he continued earnestly, "and so does some one else 1 can name, more than you imagine, I fancy, and my wife will welcome you with open arms, you may be sure. As for that foolish Hannah, she's the most penilent person in Greenvale. There's another reason still," he added, glancing around with a smile, "and no one is more glad of it than we all are. It's a sixty-thousanddollar reason-your heritage, Miss Vera McGuiro, for your father is dead and that amount is now in the Riverton Savings bank awaiting you."

moved to ask President Conway of the Irish Athletic association how far a good man could drive the ball.

"Well, I'll tell you," responded Mr. Conway, with a twinkle in his eye that contradicted his serious speech. "In the good old days when Cuchuillin was champion of Ireland, the king and all the nobility were assembled at the great games of Tailtin. Cuchuillin struck up a hurley ball into the sky, and then walked off to his pavilion and took a drink of potheen, and strolled back to the spot in good time to catch the ball on his hurley."-Harper's Weekly,

Purdue University Agricultural Experiment station is again furnishing a limited number of interested farmers with a few leading varieties of corn, oats, cow peas or soy beans to test, and local farmers who care to comply with the requirements can obtain a supply. Four or five varieties which seem to be suitable for the locality where they are to be tested will be furnished, free of cost, in sufficient quantities to plant a quarter of an acre of each variety of corn, and a tenth of an acre of each variety of the other crops, on condition that an honest effort be made to conduct the test according to instructions and report results at the end of the season. Last year nearly 700 such co-operative tests were conducted by farmers in all parts of the state.

Wasteful Country Lighting.

Any regular Kerosene lamp that will give an actual 24 candle power of light for 10 hours must cost about 6 cents for Kerosene, Chimneys and Wicks.

Besides, the lamp will need cleaning, filling, wick-trimming and chimney-wiping 365 days per year.

Now, Acetyleue Gaslight will give an absolutely steady and uniform 24 candle-power light, for 10 hours, on a single pound of Calcium Carbide.

And that pound of Carbide will cost you only 3% cents, in the majority of States.

Moreover, the care of 40 Acetylene lights needs only half an hour's labor per month at most.

Compare that with the half hour per day (or 15 hours per month) of disagreeable labor needed to clean, fiil, wick-trim and chimney-wipe even lamps in a country home.

And when you have weighed these facts, reflect that Acetylene gaslight has no chimney to fog, no wick to char, no mantle to shatter.

Acetylene is all light, absolutely uniform in volume and quality, without wante.

It is the whitest, steadiest, coolest, home, hotel or store, as can be proved.

Which would you have, even if Kerosene light was as cheap as Acctylene Gaslight?

Write me to-day how many rooms you've got and I will tell you how little it need cost you to light them brilliantly with that beautiful eye-saving "Sunlight-at-Night" called Acetylene Gaslight.

Port Huron Man Peculates Funds of United Home Protectors, Using Them in Specuulation.

Port Huron, Mich .- An investigation into the affairs of the United Home Protectors' fraternity of this city, ordered by the state banking commissioner, ended Thursday with the announcement that Supreme Secretary W. L. Wilson of this city is short a sum in excess of $75,000, and his arrest in the afternoon on the charge of embezzlement.

State Banking Commissioner Zimmerman, who took charge of the affairs of the fraternity Thursday, states that Secretary Wilson had been investing heavily in electric railroad promotion and in oil and mining stocks. He says that Wilson's peculations were committed by means of continuing on the books of the fraternity, which operated a building and loan business, as live assets mortgages and certificates of the association which had been paid. Mr. Zimmerman says that the fraternity is hopelessly insolvent and that he will apply for a receiver.

Secretary Wilson, when confronted with the facts discovered, admitted appropriating the funds of the association to his private use for many years," says Mr. Zimmerman.

"The amount of his shortage is uncertain, but as far as the investigation has proceeded it looks as though the shortage will net a larger amount than $75,000."

The United Home Protectors' fraternity was organized 14 years ago under a special act of the legislature. and conducted a building and loan business in the form of a fraternity, doing business only among its own members. There are about 100 subordinate lodges scattered throughout both the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan, with a total membership of about 2,500.

Charlotte Taylor. She was the sister of Evans' chum, and the sweetheart of his boyhood days. They were married in 1871. While their home is in Washington, owing to Mrs. Evans' wishes, they have lived much of their time at their cottage on the government reserve just outside the sea front at Fort Munroe.

Mrs. Evans is a woman of culture and mistress of many accomplishments, not the least of which is playing hostess with charming grace.

She was born and reared in Washington in an atmosphere which fostered her inherent patriotism, a patriotism which prompted her to say to her only son, whom he chose the naval life, "God speed you. May you be as brave a sailor as your father." Probably no woman in the world is so plentifully supplied with war-like relatives, and she glories in them all. HOW TO KNOW PURE PAINT.

A Way In Which It May Be Identified Before Using.

After a building has been painted long enough for a weather test, it is ten years I was in easy to tell if the paint used was made misery with backof pure White Lead or not. But such ache. The simplest belated knowledge comes like locking housework complete- the barn after the colt is stolen.

What one wants is a test that will had no strength or tell the quality of the paint before it ambition and suf- and the labor of putting it on are fered headache and paid for.

Nature has provided a way in which genuine White Lead may be positiveof ever being cured when Doan's Kid- ly distinguished from adulterated or ney Pills came to my notice and their fake White Lead before you spend a cent on your painting.

Pure White Lead is made from metallic lead, and, under intense heat, such as is produced by a blow-pipe, pure White Lead will resolve itself back into metallic lead. If, however, it is not genuine White Lead, or if it contains the slightest trace of adulteration, the change will not take place. Therefore the "blow-pipe" test is an absolute and final one.

The National Lead Company are urging everyone interested in painting to make this test of paint before using it, and they guarantee that the pure White Lead sold under their "Dutch Boy Painter" trade-mark will always prove absolutely pure under the "blowpipe" or any other test. To make it easy for you to perform the experiment they will send you free upon request a blow-pipe and everything necessary for you to make the test, together with a valuable booklet on paint. Philadelphian Submits Design Putting Stars in a Circle.

Washington .- The field of stars on the United States flag is becoming overcrowded with stellar emblems. to make it possible to add the stars from time to time without disturbing the general plun.

This idea has been anticipated by a private citizen, Henry Vogt, of Philadelphia, who has designed a flag for which the thanks of the war department have been extended.

Mr. Vogt would place the stars in a circle, with a keystone design in the center, leaving room for the addition of stars around the circle.

Put Crape In Windows. Passengers on the Second 'cvenue seems peculiar to the people living in the flats along that line of travel. They frequently see streamers of crape tied to the second and third story front windows that open on fire escapes. Somehow the bereaved relatives feel that crape on the flat house door will not indicate with sufficient clearness which family has suffered loss, so to point out exactly the rooms where
