A committee of five citizens was appointed to confer with the water company relative to procuring city water and to locate the fountain.

Baseball.

Culver lowered its colors on Sunday to Flora in a 4-2 game. It was a snappy, interesting game from start to finish. Both sides put up some good playing, and Culver lost through the good luck of their opponents rather than through superior playing. No game next Sunday.

Poor Apple Crop.

The outlook for the apple crop is not very promising. Otto Breunlin, the cider man, who is authority in this neighborhood, states that not over a one-fourth crop can be expected.—Bremen Enquirer.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

A Large and Flourishing Temple is Organized in Culver.

Pythianism, already the strongest fraternal influence in Culver, has sent its roots still deeper into the social life of the community by the organization of a temple of Pythian Sisters. The project has been enthusiastically promoted during the past three or four weeks, and on Friday night the effort witnessed a splendid realization when Culver temple, No. 360, was instituted with 26 active members and 24 associated members—the latter being the brethren of Marmont lodge, 231.

There was a large attendance of representatives of the order from outside of town. Mrs. Harriet R. Fuller of Knox, the district organizer, was the guiding spirit of the occasion. The Plymouth degree team completed the initiatory work on Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Porter. The officers of Knox temple installed the new officers as follows:

STORM BRINGS RUIN

A Cyclone Tears a Portion of the Big Ice House to Pieces—The Loss is about $5,000

A cyclone wrecked half of the big ice house of the Maxiakuckee Lake Ice Co. on Tuesday afternoon, causing a loss estimated at $5,000 at least.

The storm came from the southwest at 1:30. The gale blew at a 70-mile gait and the air was so filled with dust that buildings across the street could hardly be seen. Nothing like it has ever been witnessed here before, and it equaled the famous sand storms of the desert. Small trees were broken down and a number of buildings in this vicinity were damaged. Barns on L. C. Dillon's and G. W. Plotner's farms were partially unroofed. A porch on Porter's lake cottage was taken up, carried over the house and deposited on the other side. The porch of the Heller cottage was wafted across the road and left in the trees, and the porch of the Wheeler cottage was unroofed.

The disaster to the ice house was caused by a funnel-shaped cloud which came with a roar like a railroad train. Clark Ferrier, Ed Hawk, George Smith, Levi Bash, and two or three others were engaged in painting the big structure. The frightful appearance of the clouds and the black wall of dust which followed gave the men sufficient warning and they had time to get away from the building before the crash came. First the roof of the whole house was ripped off in sections, several of which were carried far out into the lake, and others dropped down on the railroad track making a pile of debris four or five feet deep. The three south rooms, each 30x140 feet, were smashed down into a mass of wreckage, and the next room to the north had a portion of the south wall twisted out of line. The railroad section hands were immediately called out to clear the tracks and repair the telegraph line. Ferrier's men were also put to work. Mr. Ferrier has ordered new material and will rebuild at once. The two south rooms of the ice house were empty and the third was nearly empty. The remaining two houses are full.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miltonberger had a narrow escape. They had just landed their row boat in front of the ice house and were hurrying north along the railroad track when the cyclone struck. A section of roof fell on the boat completely smashing it.

BURR OAK CHURCH BURNED IN STORM

[Reported by C. V. Mancy.]

Lightning struck the belfry of the Church of God about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, setting fire to the building and entirely consuming it. The townspeople quickly gathered and went energetically to work to remove the contents. The fire burned with sufficient slowness to enable them to remove the seats, carpets, organ, lamps, chairs and pulpit. As there was no insurance on these articles they will be of value when a new building is to be erected which will be in the near future.

The burned structure was constructed of brick eight years ago. It was insured for $1,200. It will probably cost about $1,500 to replace it.

Sunday school was held as usual on Sunday morning in a room rented of Mr. Wilhelm. Neither Sunday school nor preaching will suffer interruption on account of the fire. It is hoped to secure one of the rooms in the school building until the new church is built.

FAMILY REUNIONS.

Bonds of Affection Perpetuated by Annual Gatherings.

Dr. Julia G. Clayson of Indianapolis and her family, consisting of one single and two married sons and their wives and children, and the only daughter, Miss Una Clayson, pianiste of the Metropolitan School of Music of Indianapolis, have been enjoying a family reunion at Maple Grove House on the lake. Some members of the family had not seen each other for 18 years.

Mr. Ernest G. Clayson is with the great music house of Lyon & Healy, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Clayson reside in Brooklyn, N. Y., Mr. Clayson being identified with the large contracting house of J. G. White & Co., New York City. This firm built the electric railways and the electric light plants in the Philippine islands. Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Clayson and their two children, Dorothy and Harold, reside in Detroit, Mich., where Mr. Clayson is identified with J. D. Peterson & Co., wholesale furs. Miss Una Clayson is well-known in Southern Indiana as a pianiste of brilliant attainments. She is one of the most successful teachers of the Metropolitan School of Music in Indianapolis. Dr. Julia G. Clayson, mother of the family, is a homeopathic physician of Indianapolis.

The annual reunion of the Smith and Hittle families was held at Vandala park on Sunday, with an attendance of about 100. Speeches were made by Jap Lake, George Smith and John Price. Peter Smith settled near Poplar Grove in 1831. Joseph Hittle came to the site of the present Hickory Grove school house in 1832, and Charles Smith located on the present Phil Pontius farm in 1836.

A barn was raised Tuesday on the Ransom Morris homestead now owned by Rev. Schuyler Norris, pastor of the M. E. church at Macy. The house is being remodeled also.

Frank F. Myers died at his home, 4 miles west of Argos, Friday afternoon after a long and painful illness, at the age of 54 years. Funeral services were held at Poplar Grove Sunday afternoon. Rev. Shoemaker of the Christian church at Argos officiated. Deceased had resided in this vicinity for seven years.

Fell from Ladder.

George Voreis has been confined to the house for several days as the result of a fall from a ladder last Thursday afternoon. He was painting under the eaves of the Park cafe building at a height of 25 feet. He was in the full glare of the sun and suddenly lost consciousness and fell to the ground. His injuries consisted of a 5-inch cut on the head and a jarring of his system which left him sore for several days. That he escaped broken bones or even death is a piece of good fortune which George's friends are all rejoicing over.

THE WEEK IN CULVER

Little Items of Local Happenings of Interest to People in Town and Country

The school library will be open during the summer on Monday afternoons from 2 to 3.

Bush & Co. of Ft. Wayne bought about 2,000 pounds of wool from farmers in this neighborhood on Monday, paying from 13 to 17 cents per pound.

Floyd Davis had a gash cut in his right hand last Saturday at the Medbourn ice house by a pike pole with which Alvin Crider struck at a cake of ice and missed.

Murray's new balloon, which he is now constructing at Argos for his Fourth of July ascension at Culver, will be ball-shaped, 60 feet in diameter, one of the largest ever used for a hot-air bag.

The Stodabaker club excursion from South Bend brought 350 persons to the lake Saturday. Most of the day was spent on the academy grounds where baseball and other sports provided an entertaining program.

Tony Young came over from Kankakee, Ill., Tuesday evening driving a Winton car which Capt. Morgan has bought. The roads were heavy and instead of an 8-hour trip Young and Morgan were two days on the road.

A new variety of lake fly has made its appearance. It is larger than a moth miller, which it somewhat resembles, and has white, gauzy wings shaped like a butterfly's. There now, someone tell us what to name this insect.

The business men have made up a fund and are getting two blocks on Main street wet down twice a day by John Smith who has made an arrangement with the water company and the town board for the use of water and hose.

It is not surprising, perhaps, that the Argos Reflector's version of the little fracas at the ball game is diametrically opposed to the Citizen's. We believe, however, that the Reflector and Citizen will agree that such occurrences are regrettable and unnecessary.

The ordinary smoking car is an impressive example of the indifference of railroad officials and the nastiness of some men's habits. The discomfort of riding in these hog cars would be mitigated considerably if the railroad companies would provide spittoons for each seat.

Tony Young has fallen heir to John E. Barnes' auto. During his two or three years' ownership of the car Mr. Barnes has been the constant victim of its inborn, incurable, and finally in a spirit of righteous revolt told Young he might have it and make it go if he could. And Young seems to be getting the go-out of it.

THE FOURTH

Arrangements for the 4th of July celebration are practically completed, and the indications point to one of the biggest crowds ever seen in Culver. There will be plenty of amusement for everyone. The two balloon ascensions by Murray will alone be worth coming a hundred miles to see. There will also be ball games, races and sports of all kinds, ending with a display of fireworks from the center of the lake. Make arrangements to be here early and stay all day.

AN ASSESSOR TALKS.

Relates his Experience and Vows He Wants No More.

The editor of the Waterloo, DeKalb county, Dawn has just concluded a two years' term as assessor and tells his readers something of what he has discovered in his official capacity.

No man can do his duty in this office according to the law and equity without incurring the ill will of some one.

A large percent of the people want their neighbor to pay the burden of taxation and they are ready to furnish a long list of reasons why they should not figure conspicuously on the tax list.

When some people face the assessor they forget their religion and send their conscience out on a vacation.

An assessor can tell you how many liars there are in his community if he dared, and the list would create a sensation if it were published.

Years of experience in the world and newspaper business made us think we knew something of the world, the flesh and the devil.

NOTED INDIAN'S BONES.

Remains of Aubeenaubee Discovered by Capt. Crook.

About ten years ago while Capt. Crook was in conversation with the late Major McFaden of Logansport (the latter a great friend of Aubeenaubee) in speaking of the noble deeds of the noted chief pointed out the identical spot to Capt. Crook where Aubeenaubee was buried.

It has been Capt. Crook's aim ever since to own the lot that furnished the last resting place for the chief, and not until a year ago were his fondest hopes realized.

This season he decided to build a dry dock on this lot, having a double purpose in view—to get his dock and, in making the excavation, to find, if possible, the bones of Aubeenaubee.

The work was progressing nicely; each shovel of earth was being watched closely; but the deathlike silence was broken one day recently when Capt. Fisher was heard to scream, followed by fainting.

After the excitement was over there lay the coveted treasure, the bones of the great chief. All gathered around with bowed heads and solemn faces to view the remains of the once noble chieftain who chose his burial place at the edge of the lake whose waters he loved so well.

The bones are being carefully guarded by Capt. Crook, but can be seen at any time by calling on him. Letters are pouring in from different institutions all over the country offering fabulous prices for them, but they have all been turned down.

But few are aware of the tragic death of Chief Aubeenaubee who stood 6 feet 6 inches in his moccasins, straight as an arrow, a giant in strength, a cyclone when angry.

Our View Exactly.

The curse of America is its lack of discipline. In the family, the school and the college, youngsters grow up to do as they please.

Bad Backache

Such agonies as some women suffer, every month, from backache!

Is it necessary? No. It can be prevented and relieved, when caused by female trouble, by taking a medicine with specific, curative action, on the female organs and functions, which acts by relieving the congestion, stopping the pain and building the organs and functions up to a proper state of health. Try.

'Tis a True Word.

William E. Curtis, the famous correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, has the following to say regarding a truth which applies to every newspaper writer of either high or low degree:

A newspaper correspondent is always at the mercy of his informants. The reader does not often think of that. If he discovers a misrepresentation or an inaccuracy in a newspaper article, he blames the writer of it for carelessness or accuses him of unfair motives without considering that every reporter and correspondent is compelled to rely upon the truthfulness and knowledge of others. An experienced reporter can apply the personal equation to almost all his sources of news, and is almost always able to make the proper allowances for personal prejudice and the ordinary carelessness of statement. Few men can speak the truth. It is remarkable how much half a dozen people will vary in their descriptions of the same event. Only a trained mind can give an exact account of what the eyes may have seen or the ears may have heard. Therefore misrepresentation is due more to involuntary inaccuracy than to ignorance or malice.

All Nice Fellows.

Joseph Fitz, obstructions to view; indictment quashed.

The Indianapolis Star reports District Passenger Agent Cartice as saying that the Vandavia is doing an excellent passenger business despite the efforts made by some of the officials to speak despondently of business. The tendency of officials to "speak despondently of business" seems to be a studied attempt to make the people believe that the railroad legislation was a mistake. The people, however, have made up their minds on this point, and the railroad officials are not making friends by their "spunky" attitude.

To be Resold.

All that portion of the real estate of Emma Lord, deceased, consisting of thirteen lots, which was not decided by Administrator Shugrue to Mrs. Oliver Crook, is to be resold at private sale on July 15 at Plymouth. Following the first sale to Mrs. John S. Bush at the appraised value, Mr. Shugrue made an offer of 10 per cent over the price at which Mrs. Bush bought it, and under the law the court took cognizance of the offer and declared the sale void. Subsequently, however, a deed for the house and lots connected with it was given by Administrator Shugrue to Mrs. Crook.

MICHIGAN ROAD.

History of a Thoroughfare that Was Ceded by the Indians.

Few travelers who drive over the Michigan road which runs through this city, may be aware that the road has a history dating back to early times. The name of the highway is familiar to thousands who know nothing of its origin nor that it was originally a state institution.

It was the consummation of a scheme to connect Lake Michigan with the Ohio river. In 1826, under the administration of Gov. James B. Ray, an ardent advocate of internal improvement, steps were taken to secure the right-of-way from the Indians, who continued to inhabit the country between the lake and the Wabash river. Congress authorized the negotiation of a treaty with them for this purpose and it was concluded on October 19.

By the treaty the Indians ceded to the United States a strip of land 100 feet wide from Lake Michigan to the Wabash river, and one section of land for each mile of road. The Indians were to receive from the government $2,000 annually in silver for twenty-two years, a government blacksmith shop, a grist mill on Tippecanoe river, and 160 bushels of salt annually.

The road as surveyed began on Trial creek, on Lake Michigan, running easterly to the bend of the St. Joseph river, crossing and running south to the Wabash river, crossing at Logansport, thence to Indianapolis, and thence to Greensburg and Madison.

As the work progressed, the lands granted for it were sold at public auction. The people were afraid of the Indians, and the sales were not as successful as hoped. Of the original land grant of 17,414 acres all but 1,750 had been sold by 1863, and the money had gone into the construction of the road. By 1834 the road was practically completed. Work on it ceased in 1837, and it was turned over to local authorities to be kept in repair. When finally opened it was 264 miles long, and owing to the land grant was built without cost to the state. The reports of the state auditors from 1829 to 1841 show gross expenditures of $242,000 and receipts of $241,331. It is doubtful if any state enterprise would be as honestly or economically managed nowadays.—Exchange.

A NEST HARD TO FIND.

Remarkable and Artistic Home of the Humming Bird.

The home of the humming bird is one of the most remarkable and artistic creations of all bird architecture. It is a tiny, delicate cup made of the softest plant down, saddled upon some slender branch so delicately that it seems a part thereof. The saliva of the birds is used to compact and secure the material and likewise to coat the exterior with the gray-green lichen so generally found upon trees. This makes it so insensible to the surroundings that it is a very difficult object to discover. And thereby hangs a tale. A gentleman had told me that if I would call upon him he would show me an occupied nest of a humming bird in his orchard. When I came, he was out of town, but I thought I would see if I could not find the nest myself. So I made inspection from tree to tree, and presently the female hummer began to fly about me anxiously. We played a game of hot and cold until it became evident that the nest must be in a certain low apple tree which had many dead, lichen-covered branches. Some of these came down nearly to the ground, and for quite awhile I stood by the tree, running my eyes along each branch in order, trying to make out the nest, while the female kept darting frantically at my head. It must have been nearly a quarter of an hour before I discovered that I was standing almost touching the nest with my hands, having been looking right over it all the time. It contained two fresh eggs, this being in the early part of June. The branch upon which it was built was completely overgrown with lichens, and the nest, being covered with them, too, was wonderfully disguised, though there were no leaves to hide it.—From "Experiences With Humming Birds," by H. K. Joh. In Gairing Magazine.

DISTRIBUTING DEPOT FOR "Pittsburgh Perfect" Fences

For some time we have been investigating a New Idea in Wire Fencing. After a most careful examination we have been convinced that we have found the best field fence manufactured. "Pittsburgh Perfect" is made of all galvanized steel wires. It is the only fence welded by electricity. Every rod is guaranteed perfect. All large wires, the stays being the same size as line wires. It has no wraps to hold moisture and cause rust.

If You Are Looking for a Fence

That will stand HARD USAGE; That will not SAC DOWN or CURL OVER on the top; That has stays that WILL NOT SLIP; That will CONFORM TO UNEVEN GROUND; That has no SLACK WIRES; That does not require an EXPERT TO ERECT; That is LOW IN PRICE—

Then Read What We Guarantee

- 1. The stays are ELECTRICALLY WELDED in strands, forming a perfect union and an amalgamation with the strands not found in any other fence. 2. No wraps to get loose, or hold moisture and cause rust. 3. No projections to injure stock or tear wool from sheep. 4. Stronger at the joints than any other fence; welded together by electricity. 5. Guaranteed that the wire is not injured at the joints. 6. Guaranteed absolutely to curve around. 7. Guaranteed that stays will not separate from strands. 8. Guaranteed all right in every particular. 9. Made by the best modern process and on the latest improved machinery. 10. Most of the weak points in other fences are on account of the way the stays are fastened. Our stays are amalgamated with the strands by means of electricity and the strands of the fence increased a hundred fold over the strength of a fence where the stays are wrapped or clamped on the strands.

If by this time you are interested, come and see this fence and get in your order. If you are skeptical come and be convinced. We add our personal guarantee to everything claimed for it and would be pleased to submit prices. Don't fail to see it before buying your fencing. Don't put it off until you are ready to use it, but place your order in advance, as we cannot carry all sizes in stock.

HON. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

TAFT ON THE FIRST BALLOT

The War Secretary Receives Republican Nomination for the Presidency--Minority Report on Platform Is Defeated in the Convention--Wild Scenes in the Big Hall.

Chicago.—Secretary of War Taft was nominated for the presidency on the first ballot amid the greatest enthusiasm. When the necessary votes had been registered the entire convention went wild, and the commotion was so great that it was some minutes before the voting could be resumed. The total vote was as follows:

Taft	702
Hughes	63
Cannon	61
Fairbanks	40
Knox	28
La Follette	25
Foraker	16
Roosevelt	3
Absent	2

The convention adopted the platform framed for it by the resolutions committee, headed by Senator A. J. Hopkins. It voted down a minority report containing radical planks and said to represent the views of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. The minority report was presented by Representative Cooper of that state. The vote on roll call was: Yeas, 25; nays, 95.

Following the adoption of the platform the names of the different candidates for the nomination were placed before the convention. Congressman Boutwell named Speaker Cannon and the demonstration given the speaker lasted fully 15 minutes. The demonstrations were repeated as each favorite son was named, and the presentation of Secretary Taft was greeted by unusual applause, the delegates and the visitors filling the great hall with a deafening noise. The naming of Senator La Follette closed the list, and the convention proceeded to the balloting for a nominee.

Burton Names Taft.

Chicago.—Wild cheers from thousands of throats greeted the placing in nomination of Hon. William Howard Taft of Ohio for the presidency by Representative Theodore E. Burton at the Republican national convention at the Coliseum. More than 700 of the 980 delegates to the convention rose in their seats and yelled themselves hoarse when Mr. Burton had concluded his speech introducing the name of Roosevelt's right hand man to the body of delegates gathered to pick a party representative as a standard bearer in the fight at the polls this fall.

Outbursts of cheers at times during Mr. Burton's speech interrupted him, but after a few moments' pause he continued. It was at the end of his address that the real pandemonium broke loose. Hundreds in the remote parts of the Coliseum had not heard a word of the speech because of the monstrous proportions of the building, but Mr. Burton's resuming his seat on the speakers' platform was signal enough to convey the idea that Taft's name had been placed in nomination, and then the demonstration broke grave responsibility of selecting a presidential candidate with the serene assurance that the Republican party will continue to rule this people. It is especially appropriate that this gathering should be held in this marvelous city of Chicago. Here it was that the righteous uprising against slavery and Bourbonism, sprung from the nation's conscience, raised its first triumphant voice when Abraham Lincoln was nominated. And here, again, with notes of thunderous acclaim, enraptured throats greeted the naming of Garfield, of Blaine, of Harrison, and of Roosevelt.

"Again Ohio presents a candidate to the national Republican convention. In seven stubbornly contested presidential campaigns, sons of her sacred soil have led the embattled Republicans to victory. The Buckeye state has assuredly contributed her share of statesmen and generals for the upbuilding of the nation. But that of which we are prouder still is her stalwart citizenship—the mightiest bulwark of the republic in every commonwealth—made up of America's free yeomen, ever ready to respond to the tocsin of alarm in days of peril, or to crush corruption whenever it raises its menacing head. From this citizenship Ohio, in the supreme emergency of the civil war, sent forth more than 200,000 soldiers for our country's defense, a formidable array easily surpassing in numbers the world-conquering legions of imperial Caesar.

Welcomes Friendly Rivalry. "We welcome the friendly rivalry of candidates from other states—from the great Empire state, the Keystone state, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin, forming with Ohio a broad expanse extending in unbroken sweep from old ocean to the uppermost bound of the continent of inland seas. Each of these thousand times ten thousand who dwell within our borders, I nominate for the presidency that perfect type of American manhood, that peerless representative of the noblest ideals in our national life, William H. Taft, of Ohio."

ROOSEVELT DEMONSTRATION.

Delegates and Spectators Wildly Cheer President for 45 Minutes.

The second day of the Republican national convention brought the long-expected Roosevelt yell, a whirlwind of enthusiasm which raged within the vast amphitheater of the Coliseum for full 45 minutes Wednesday, and for a time presented to the timid the specter of a Roosevelt stampede.

This demonstration was decidedly the feature of a day otherwise notable for a stirring speech from the permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, for much practical procedure in placing the convention on a smooth running basis, and for the final defeat of the plan to reduce the representation of southern states at future national conventions.

Taft Men All Seated. Probably the most important act of the day, and the one having greatest significance, was the adoption of the report of the committee on credentials, seating the Taft delegations practically in toto. If there had been any lingering doubt of the Taft strength it disappeared before this decisive action, which in effect placed upwards of 700 delegates in the Taft column.

Temporary Chairman Burrows called the convention to order promptly at 12:20, but the delay of committees in reporting gave an hour for diversion before the serious work of the day was begun. This time was given over to the visiting clubs, with bands and vocal choruses, bearing banners and strange devices of G. O. P. elephants. In front of the delegates paraded this motley throng, eliciting laughter and applause.

Great Roosevelt Demonstration. Mr. Lodge early in his address launched his sentence which electrified the assemblage into its first real demonstration of wild enthusiasm.

"The president," exclaimed Mr. Lodge, "is the best abused and most popular man in the United States today." This was the long awaited signal. Instantly a shout broke from the galleries and was echoed back from the floor, at first only a tempest of detached yells, and cat-calls, and shouts of "Teddy," but gradually gathering force and volume until it swelled to a whirlwind of sound and motion, as delegates and spectators rose en masse, mounting chairs, waving banners, hats, handkerchiefs, flags, newspapers, anything which could be seized upon to add turbulence to the scene.

For three-quarters of an hour the tumult continued, and then Chairman Lodge finished his speech and the business of the convention was resumed.

Permanent Officers Picked. Permanent officers of the convention were installed as follows during the second day's proceedings:

Chairman—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Massachusetts.
General Secretary—John R. Malloy, Columbus, O.
Sergeant at Arms—William F. Stone, Baltimore.
Parliamentarian—Asher C. Hinds, Washington, D. C.
Chaplains—Bishop P. J. M. McDonnell, Chicago; Rev. William O. Waters, Chicago; Rev. Tobias Schanfarber, Chicago; Rev. John Wesley Hill, New York; Rev. Lorenzo D. Case, Chicago.

The convention then proceeded to the selection of the various committees. The gavel used to open the convention is of more than passing historic interest, being made from a log preserved from old Fort Dearborn. The inside of the cover of the book containing the gavel is left in its rough-hewn condition, showing the deep broad-axe cuts. The mallet is about a foot long and around the head is a silver band, bearing an American flag in colored enamel.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM AT A GLANCE

- ROOSEVELT—The abuse of wealth, the tyranny of power, and the evils of privilege and favoritism have been put to scorn by his simple, manly virtues of justice and fair play. We pledge a continuance of the Roosevelt policies.
- ANTI-INJUNCTION—The Republican party will uphold the authority of the courts, but believes the rules of procedure in federal courts with respect to injunctions should be more accurately defined by statute, and that no injunction should be issued without notice.
- LABOR—The same wise policy . . . will be pursued in every legitimate direction within federal authority to lighten the burdens and increase the happiness and advancement of all who toil.
- THE TARIFF—The Republican party declares for a revision of tariff by a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president. We favor the establishment of maximum and minimum rates to be administered by the president.
- MONEY—An expanding commerce . . . and increasing crop movements disclose the need of a more elastic and adaptable system.
- TRUSTS—The federal government should have greater supervision and control over corporations engaged in interstate commerce having the power to create monopolies.
- INLAND WATERWAYS—We call for a large and comprehensive plan, just to all portions of the country, to improve the waterways, harbors, and great lakes.
- ARMY AND NAVY—While the American people do not desire and will not provoke a war with any other country, we nevertheless desire our devotion to a policy which will keep this republic ready at all times to defend her traditional doctrines.
- GOOD ROADS—We approve the efforts of the architectural department to make clear to the public the best methods of good road construction.
- NEGROES—We demand equal justice for all men, without regard to race or color, and condemn all devices for the disfranchisement of the negro.

What was said to be the "missing link between man and ape" was found by Dr. Dubois in 1895 on the bank of the Bengawan river, in Ceram.
