Worse than an Air Ship.

Hon. Daniel McDonald last week added a new experience to his repertoire of reminiscences by sharing with Nick Busart the thrilling emotions of a runaway. Busart's horse, drawing a light wagon, took fright at the rattling of some tinware in the vehicle and sprang into a furious run which was punctuated by kicks and the flopping of the thills above his head. He ran at top speed for nearly a mile until he encountered two wagons passing each other where the road was too narrow for three, and thus blocked came to a stop. It was a hair-raising ride, and among all the methods of transportation which Mr. McDonald has tried he puts this at the foot of the list. The horse is a strong, nervy animal, but has been considered safe even for women to drive.

Church News.

Union services at the Evangelical church Sunday evening. Rev. A. J. Michaels will preach.

Rev. B. F. Walmer will preach at Rutland Saturday evening and at Trinity Sunday morning.

There will be no more regular meetings of All Saints' guild during the summer season.

Base Ball.

Culver went to Flora Friday and was defeated by a score of 9 to 1. The locals were ahead until the sixth, the score being 1 to 0, when Smith was put out of the box with an injured finger in attempting to catch a hot one off the bat. Wilson made a three-bagger. It is claimed the decisions of the umpire were not all as fair as might have been.

ROBBERY CHARGED

Two East Side Young Men Languish in Jail in Default of Necessary Bonds

Last Friday night the store in Maxinkuckee was broken into and about $35 worth of small articles taken. Saturday, on affidavit of Miss Walsh, the owner of the store, Judge Voreis issued a search-warrant against Tony C. South and T. Giles Loudon. The warrant was served by Marshal Fred Cook on the boys at Hibbard, and the booty found in their possession. They were taken before Justice Kirk of Plymouth to answer to a charge of petit larceny. After hearing the evidence, Justice Kirk bound them over to the circuit court fixing their bonds at $300 each. As no one has gone on their bond they are still in jail.

A Prominent Man Killed.

Oliver P. Bair, one of Marshall county's prominent citizens, met an awful death Sunday forenoon, when he was struck and almost instantly killed by a train on the L. E. & W.

Mr. Bair had started to Plymouth on his bicycle and when nearing the American hotel in the south part of the city, and which stands so near the tracks that view from the south is entirely shut off, he met the train. It is supposed he did not hear the train at all, for some who saw the accident say he rode upon the tracks very much unconcerned with his head dropped. The legs and arms were broken in many places and he was injured in various other ways.

Deceased was born about 50 years ago near Argos. For years he has been a traveling salesman, but lately devoted his attention exclusively to his farm west of Plymouth. He was a Knight Templar which order will conduct the funeral.

Mussel Industry.

Barton W. Everman of the fishery department of the government at Washington, D. C., will arrive in Logansport in a short time and make a complete investigation of the mussel industry in the Wabash river. The river is navigable as far as Lafayette and therefore belongs under Uncle Sam's jurisdiction, but the investigation which Mr. Everman will make will extend to the mouth of the Wabash river. Just when he will arrive to begin his work is not known, but it will be very soon, perhaps this week or next.

He is perhaps the best posted man on fish in the United States and his opinions carry great weight with the government.

The mussel industry has been followed in the Wabash by individuals in the past two months and several tons have been taken out. While the clams do not sell for a big price, yet the search for pearls increases the source of revenue wherever they are found in abundance.—Pharos.

Richmond Phone Trouble. A. C. Lindemuth Shows Displeasure Over Merger.

Richmond—That serious troubles are to arise locally, at least, out of the recent merger of interests of the Central Union and the Richmond Home Telephone company was evidenced by the fact that A. C. Lindemuth, president of the International Association of Independent Telephone companies, sent in his resignation as president of the Richmond Home company. The local officers of the company admit this is true, but they said that no action would be taken on President Lindemuth's resignation. It is possible that an attempt will be made to undo what already has been done in the consolidation matter, though no information as to the probable action of either the Central Union or Home company could be obtained. That President Lindemuth and his associates in the International intend vigorous as well as immediate action is believed here. It is asserted that the merger with the Central Union was brought about without the consent or even the knowledge of President Lindemuth, who has not been in close touch with local conditions since going to Chicago, four months ago.

HOOSIER BREVITIES

NEWS OF THE WEEK IN THE STATE OF INDIANA.

JOY AT END OF SALOONS

"Temperance Sabbath" Observed at Winona Lake Because of "Dry" Victory—Indiana W. C. T. U. Day.

Winona Lake.—The people of Winona park and of Kosciusko county joined in a "temperance Sabbath" at this summer resort, which marked the finish of a fight against the saloons of this county, which resulted in every one of them going out of business. For the first time in the history of Winona park the gates stood ajar throughout this Sabbath day and the force of speakers to be heard, together with the crowds of people made the occasion an extraordinary one for this place, which has had many unusual Sabbath observances. For years the Winona people allied their oratorical forces with the energy of the voters of the county and one by one the dooms of the saloons have sounded. The last saloon in Warsaw, two miles away, poured its surplus liquor into the gutter, to the disgust of many men who saw it done, and now there is only one saloon in this county, while a year ago there were a score or more. The last one is at Mentone, about twelve miles from here, and its lease on life runs out soon. The Winona temperance workers are credited largely with the change in temperance conditions, for the orators from here held street meetings, and many of them in Warsaw, and were very active in remonstrance work. Now the lid is on in truth, and "temperance Sunday" was the day of celebration.

Escape Worthless Check.

Wabash.—Because they did not have enough money in the store to cash it is all that saved Gaylord & Baumbauer from losing $176 on a worthless check. A man, representing himself to be D. E. Stacy, purchased a valuable Wabash county farm, and bought $124 worth of paint, and then produced a check for $300, signed by C. Clark, and drawn on the United States National bank of Pittsburg.

Discovers Half-Brother.

Columbus.—Robert Brown did not know that he had a relative until he received a letter from E. Brown of Omaha, Neb., who stated that he was a half-brother and came here. The two are sons of William Brown, a former resident of this city, who went to the civil war and did not return. Mrs. Brown died and Robert was left in the care of others.

Hearing Restored After Years.

Columbus.—Frank Pfeiffer, 93 years old, the oldest man in Bartholomew county, who has been deaf many years, suddenly heard distinctly. He has been dangerously ill for several weeks as the result of a sunstroke, and while lying in bed he called to persons in the adjoining room not to talk so loudly, as he could hear their conversation.

Lays Pipe Line in Shelby.

Shelbyville.—The Standard Oil company is laying a pipe line from the oil fields in Illinois to connect with the main line in Ohio which runs to New York. Part of this line will cross Shelby county in the northwest. The line will pass through Moral and Van Buren townships. The farmers through whose land the line passes receive 50 cents a rod.

Mrs. Lucinda Cooper Dead.

Wabash.—Few women have given more for their country than Mrs. Lucinda Cooper, 78, who is dead at her home here. Her husband lost his life in the civil war. Two brothers fell, side by side, at Missionary Ridge. Two grandsons were killed by Filipinos and another brother was killed in the Mexican war.

Drowns While on Picnic.

Goshen.—Mannie Holland, 35 years old, was drowned in Hunter's lake, where he had gone with a picnic party. Holland, accompanied by his family, had taken a boat and in a playful mood jumped into the lake, swam alongside the boat and splashed water on his wife and children. Suddenly he sank.

Win Fight for Pavement.

Anderson.—After a bitter controversy the residents of Piety Hill have won in their contention for bitulith instead of brick pavements. The board of works declared the remonstrance filed by the brick advocates insufficient and ordered the advertising for the improvement by bitulith paving.

Hoosier Dives to Death.

Covington.—Jesse P. Whitte, aged 22, of Milledge, was drowned while swimming in the Crumley gravel pit near that place. Whitte dived off of a ledge and swam about ten feet when he was seized with cramps and sank to the bottom.

Volunteers Are Promoted.

Shelbyville—Maj. Gen. Fielding of the Volunteers of America has promoted Capt. O. C. Myers and wife, who had charge of the work in this city and Greensburg, to the rank of traveling evangelists.

Fire Works Havoc.

Winchester—Fire starting in Albert Rupe's poultry house here destroyed 300 feet of shedding, several car loads of fowl, 1,500 pounds of live

RICHMOND PHONE TROUBLE.

A. C. Lindemuth Shows Displeasure Over Merger.

Richmond—That serious troubles are to arise locally, at least, out of the recent merger of interests of the Central Union and the Richmond Home Telephone company was evidenced by the fact that A. C. Lindemuth, president of the International Association of Independent Telephone companies, sent in his resignation as president of the Richmond Home company. The local officers of the company admit this is true, but they said that no action would be taken on President Lindemuth's resignation. It is possible that an attempt will be made to undo what already has been done in the consolidation matter, though no information as to the probable action of either the Central Union or Home company could be obtained. That President Lindemuth and his associates in the International intend vigorous as well as immediate action is believed here. It is asserted that the merger with the Central Union was brought about without the consent or even the knowledge of President Lindemuth, who has not been in close touch with local conditions since going to Chicago, four months ago.

JAMES S. SHERMAN

SIDELIGHTS ON NOMINEE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

Is Very Popular in His Home City of Utica, N. Y.—Fond of National Game and an Inveterate Reader of Fiction.

Utica, N. Y.—"Jim" Sherman, the Republican candidate for vice-president, is very popular here. So is his family. He has several brothers and one of them, Richard W., finished a second term as mayor of Utica last January. The mayor is a Democrat. So is the whole Sherman family excepting Jim. He, too, used to be a Democrat, but in 1876, shortly after serving as a Democratic delegate in the state convention, he became a Republican. Ten years later his new party sent him to congress and he has been there ever since, except for the two years 1891-93, having been one of the many who were swamped in the Democratic tidal wave of 1890.

"Jim" is chairman of the local ice trust, and his brother, while mayor, got after him in warm style, making sensational charges against the trust. However, all the Sherman brothers are the best of friends.

Mr. Sherman came most widely in national repute when in 1906 he was chairman of the Republican congressional committee in charge of the campaign. It was in that campaign that he earned the sobriquet "Send Your Dollar Jim," or "Dollar Jim," as the solicitor and recipient of dollar contributions, suggested by President Roosevelt when so much was being said in criticism of great campaign contributions by corporations.

Sherman had the fight of his career in that same campaign to retain his own seat, for there was strong opposition organized in his district. Samuel Gompers personally campaigned against him. Also opposing him were the anti-organizations Republicans, the Democrats, united laborites and independence leaguers, besides the candidates of lesser parties, and the campaign was active. Sherman's plurality two years earlier had been 5,765. Sherman won the election by 4,270.

When the rain keeps Mr. Sherman indoors he can usually be found engrossed in a piece of fiction. He is an inveterate fiction reader. Not that he has neglected the classics, but he prefers something lighter for his recreation hours. Once when Reed was speaker of the house he telegraphed that he would go to Sherman's home in New York to discuss a matter with him, and asked him to have a certain report ready.

When the speaker arrived at the Sherman home he found the congressman poring over a book, deeply interested in it.

"Ah, looking up data on our matter?" commented Mr. Reed.

"Yes," replied Sherman. "Just wait a minute; I want to see if the heroine really weds this fellow or not. I'm interested."

A story is told of Mr. Sherman that he was in his committee room at Washington one evening dictating a report to his stenographer while two pages were carrying on a discussion as to the relative batting ability of Lajoie and the late Delehanty. Mr. Sherman apparently was engrossed in the reports and figures in front of him, and baseball scores and averages seemed the furthest from his mind.

"Lajoie batted .402 last year," said one of the pages, "and Delehanty has not hit more'n a double this year. He's batted about .200, if that much."

"He batted .416 up to yesterday, sonny," came the sudden interruption from Congressman Sherman, "and he leads the league in extra base hits. And you've got the Lajoie base wrong. He batted .406." And then he resumed his dictation.

Mrs. James S. Sherman is a woman of attractive address, who is in no sense a social butterfly and who has in Washington confined her social efforts and attentions to the congressional set and such matters as are required of a representative's wife. Her health is not such as to permit a strenuous social campaign.

Of the three Sherman sons, the oldest, Sherrill, is 25, married, something of a golf champion, and is note teller in the Utica Trust Co. bank. Richard W. Sherman, the second son, is professor of mathematics in Hamilton college, and is the youngest professor in the institution. The third son, Thomas

A Sure Remedy.

A young man who experienced much trouble in managing a head of hair which manifested an unpleasant inclination to stand on end, wrote to a weekly paper for a plan by which his troubles would be at least lessened.

He was given the following recipe: "One part molasses, three parts beeswax, four parts India rubber, four parts glue, 12 raw eggs; boil on a slow fire for two hours and 15 minutes, and while cooling stir in enough cod liver oil to make the mixture slab and good. Apply hot, and while gradually cooling pass a lawn mower back and forth over the head."

LANGFORD of the THREE BARS

By KATE AND VIRGIL D. BOYLES

SYNOPSIS.

James Williston, a poor ranchman, high-minded and cultured, searches for cattle missing from his ranch—the "Three Bars." On a wooded spot in the river's bed that would have been an island had the Missouri been at high water, he discovers a band of horse thieves engaged in washing over boards on cattle. He creeps near enough to note the change in the "J. L." brand, Paul Langford, who is the owner of the "Three Bars," is informed of the operations of the cattle thieves—a band of outlaws headed by Jesse Black, who long have defied the law and authorities of Kansas county, South Dakota. Langford is at the head of the party, and is in a predicament with the beauty of a young woman known as "Williston's little girl," Louise Dale, who has followed her uncle, Judge Hammond Dale, from the east to the "Three Bars," and who is living with him at the ranch. He is requested by the county attorney, Richard Gordon, to come to Kansas and take testimony in the preliminary hearing of Jesse Black, Jim Munson, in waiting at the train for Louise, looks at a herd of cattle being shipped by Bill Brown and there detects old "Mag," a well known "forger" after belonging to his employer of the "Three Bars" ranch, Munson and Louise start for Kansas, Crowds assemble in Justice James R. McAllister's court for the preliminary hearing. Jesse Black surprises the first of many great surprises, waiting examination. Through Jack Sanderson, a member of the outlaw gang, he had learned that the "Three Bars" had been recovered and thus saw the uselessness of fighting against being bound over. Richard Gordon, the county attorney, who is unpopular because of his many failures to secure convictions in court, wins the admiration of Louise, which is mutual. County Attorney Gordon accompanied Louise Dale on her return to Wind City. He tells her of the disappointments of his office, of witnesses that can be bribed and of the system of tampering with justice which prevents him from securing a conviction. He has the girl's sympathy. While Williston stands by the light in his door at night, a shot is fired at him. The house is attacked and a battle ensues between Williston and his daughter, on one side, and the outlaws on the other. The outlaws are set on fire. An outlaw raises his rifle to shoot Williston a shot from an unknown source pierces his arm and the rifle falls to the ground. Aid has come to Williston, but he and his daughter are captured and borne away by the outlaws.

"It beats the devil—for a fact," he looked helplessly over his shoulder. The man was beyond sight and sound. "If he hadn't said he was going for doc and belonged to the X Y Z," he pondered. He was swearing because he could not think of a way out of the maze of contradiction. He was so seldom at a loss, this braggadocio Jim. "Well, I reckon I won't get any help a moonin' here less'n I wait here till that son-of-a-gun comes back from seeta' doc. Lord, I'd have to camp out all night. Guess I'll be a movin' on. But I'm plumb a-foot for an idee as to how that idjit got here from the X Y Z."

He shrugged his shoulders and picked up the fallen bridle rein. He kept on straight ahead, and it was well for him that he did so. It was not the last of the affair. The old, prosaic trail seemed fairly bristling with ghostly visitants that night. He had gone but a scant quarter-mile when he met a second horseman, and this time he would have sworn on oath that the man had not been on the forward trail as long as he should have been to be seen in the starlight. Jim was not dozing now and he knew what he was about. The fellow struck the trail from across country and from the direction of Williston's home cattle sheds.

"The devil!" he muttered, and this time he was in deep and terrible earnest.

"Hullo!" the fellow accosted him, gently.

"Too damned pleasant—the whole bunch of 'em," found quick lodgment in Jim's active brain. Aloud, he responded with answering good nature, "Hullo!"

"Where ye goin'?" asked the other, as if in no particular haste to part company. If he had met with a surprise, he carried it off well.

"Home. Been to town." Jim was on tender hooks to be off.

"Belong to the Three Bars, don't you?"

"Yep."

"Thought so. Well, good luck to you."

"Say," said Jim, suddenly, "you don't happen to hang out at the X Y Z, do you?"

"Now! What d'ye suppose I'd be doing here this time of night if I did?" There was scorn in his voice and suspicion, too. "Why?" he asked.

"Oh, nothin'." Thought I knew your bull, but I guess I was mistaken. So long."

He had an itching desire to ask if this night traveler, too, was in quest of the doctor, but caution held him silent. He had need to proceed warily. He rode briskly along until he judged he had gone far enough to allay suspicion, then he halted and dismounted. Very wide awake was Jim now. His hand rested unconsciously on his revolver.

Paul Langford dropped one shoe nervously to the wolfskin in front of his bed. Though his bachelor room was plain in most respects, plain for the better convenience of the bachelor hands that had it to put in rights every day—with the exception of a cook, Langford kept no servant—the wolfskin here, an Indian blanket thrown over a stiff chair by the table, a Japanese screen concealing the ugly little sheet-iron stove that stood over in its corner all the year round, gave evidence that his tastes were really luxurious. An oil lamp was burning dimly on the table. The soot of many burnings adhered to the chimney's inner side.

The sound of galloping hoof-beats on the hard road below came up to him. A solitary horseman was coming that way and he was putting his horse to the limit, too.

"Who the—dence," began Langford. "It's Jim's cow pony as sure as I'm a sinner! What brings him home at that pace, I wonder? Is he drunk?" He peered out indifferently. The hoof-beats rang nearer and nearer, clattered through the stable yards and, before they ceased, two or three revolver shots rang out in rapid succession. Jim had fired into the air to arouse the house.

Springing from his reeking bronco, he ran quickly to the stable and threw wide the door. Here the boss, the first to gain the outside because already dressed, found him hastily saddling a fresh mount. Langford asked Langford rode slightly in advance, no question. That would come later. He stepped silently to Sadie's stall.

In an incredibly short space of time the rest of the boys came leaping out of the ranchhouse, slamming the door behind them. To be up and doing was the meat they fed on. In less than ten minutes they were all mounted and ready, five of them, silent, full to the brim of reckless hardihood, prime for any adventure that would serve to break the monotony of their lives. More than that, every fiber of their being, when touched, would respond, a tenuous, sounding string of loyalty to the traditions of the Three Bars and to its young master. Each was fully armed. They asked no question. Yet there could be no doubt of a surprise when the time came for action. They were always prepared, these boys of the most popular ranch outfit west of the river. Right in the face of this popularity, perhaps because of it, they were a bit overbearing, these boys, and held fellowship with any outside the Three Bars a thing not to be lightly entered into. It was a fine thing to work for the boss, and out of the content accruing therefrom sprang a conservatism like that of the proudest aristocrat of the land.

Langford took the trail first. Jim had said but the one word, "Williston." It was enough. Nothing was to be heard but the rapid though regular pound of hoof-beats on the level trail. It is a silent country, the cow country, and its gravity begets gravity.

Langford, riding slightly in advance, was having a bad time with himself. The keenest self-reproach was stabbing him like a physical pain. His honor—his good honor, that he held so high and stainless—was his word not given by it that the Willistons might count on his sure protection? What had he done to merit this proud boast? Knowing that Jesse Black was once more at liberty, fully realizing of what vast import to the state would be Williston's testimony when the rustlers should be brought to trial, he had sat stupidly back and done nothing. And he had promised. Would Williston have had the courage without that promise? Why were not some of his cowboys even now sleeping with an eye upon that little claim shack where lived that scholarman who was not fit for the rough life of the plains, a scholar, but who had been here what he knew for right's sake. And the girl—

"God! The girl!" he cried aloud.

"What did you say, boss?" asked Jim, bounding alongside.

"Nothing!" said Langford, curtly.

He spurred his mare savagely. In the shock of surprise, and the sting that his neglected word brought him, he had forgotten the girl—Williston's "little girl" with the grave eyes—the girl who was not 10 but 20 and more—the girl who had waited for him, whom he had sent on her long way alone, joyously, as one free of a duty that promised to be irksome—the girl who had brought the blood to his face when, ashamed, he had galloped off to the spring—the girl who had closed her door when a man's curious eyes had roved that way. How could he forget?

The little cavalcade swept on with increased speed, following the lead of the master. Soon the sound of shooting was borne to them distinctly through the quiet night.

"Thank God, boys!" cried Langford, digging in his spurs once more. "They are not surprised! Listen! God! What a plucky fight! If they can only hold out!"

At that moment a tiny tongue of flame leaped up away to the front of them, gleaming in the darkness like a beacon light. Now there were two—they grew, spread, leaped heavenward in mad revel. Langford's heart sank like lead. He groaned in an exceeding bitterness of spirit. The worst had happened. Would they be in time? These claim shanties burn like paper. And the girl! He doubted not that she had sustained her share of the good fight. She had fought like a man, she must die like a man would be the outlaws' reasoning. He believed she would die like a man—if that meant bravely—but something clutched at his heart-strings with the thought. Her big, solemn eyes came back to him now as they had looked when she had lifted them to him gravely as he sat his horse and she had said she had waited for him. Was she waiting now?

The boys rallied to the new impetus gloriously. They knew now what it meant and their hardy hearts thrilled to the excitement of it, and the danger. They swept from the main trail into the dimmer one leading to Williston's, without diminution of speed. Presently, the boss drew rein with a suddenness that would have played havoc with the equilibrium of less seasoned horsemen than cowboys. They followed with the precision and accord of trained cavalrymen. Now and then could be seen a black, sinister figure patrolling the burning homestead, but hugging closely the outer skirt of darkness, waiting for the doomed door to open.

"Boys!" began Langford. But he never gave the intended command to charge at once with wild shouting and shooting to frighten away the marauders and give warning to the besieged that rescue was at hand. For at that moment the door opened and Williston and his daughter stepped out in full view of raider and rescuer. Would there be parley? A man, slouching in his saddle, rode up into the circle of lurid light. Was it Jesse Black? There was something hauntingly familiar about the droop of the shoulders. That was all; hardly enough to hang a man.

Langford raised his rifle quickly. His nerves were perfectly steady. His sight was never truer. His bullet went straight to the rifle arm of the outlaw; with a ringing shout he rallied his comrades, spurred his pony forward, and the little party charged the astounded raiders with a fury of shots that made each rustler stand well to his own support, leaving the Willistons, for the time being, free from their attention.

The desperadoes were on the run. They cared to take no risk of identification. It was not easy to determine how many there were. There seemed a half-dozen or more, but probably four or five at the most would tell their number.

The flames were sinking. Williston had disappeared. The boys scattered in wild pursuit. Wheeling his horse, Langford was in time to see a big, muscular fellow swing a girlish form to the saddle in front of him. Quick as a flash he spurred forward, lifted his heavy Colt's revolver high over his head and brought it down on the fellow's skull with a force that knocked him senseless without time for a sigh or moan. As his arms fell lax and he toppled in his saddle, Langford caught the girl and swung her free of entanglement.

Interesting Use of Gas.

A very interesting use for producer gas is made in a factory in Jersey City, where tempering of metal to be made into certain springs is successfully and economically done with its heat. Coke fires were formerly utilized for the purpose, but the temperature varied to such an extent that a great deal of the material was spoiled. With producer gas an absolutely constant temperature is secured and the work is done in a more cleanly manner, with no possibility of error as to the degree of heat. Consequently the waste heretofore encountered has been reduced to a minimum and the quality of the product is absolutely uniform.

Serious, Indeed.

"Lady," said the tattered tramp at the gate, "can't yer spare me a dime on a very urgent collection?" "What do you call an urgent collection?" asked the busy housewife. "Why, yer see I have just been born $29.10 and

Evening Blouse for

Girl from 14 to

16 Years.

In this group we have three girlish pretty dresses. The first is in navy serge, the skirt is a plain gored shape, with a deep hem at the foot. The yoke of bodice is continued into a straight strap to the waist in front, and is edged with passementerie; the material is tucked for about three inches down before being joined to the yoke, the sleeves are also tucked at the wrists.

The second costume is for a girl of 16 years; our model is in a brown and blue checked material; the skirt fits the waist without fullness, and is trimmed at the foot with a crosswise strap of brown velvet. The bodice has a fitted lining to which the small yoke or vest of lace is fixed, also the sleeves are sewn to the lining only, the material for bodice being cut with epaulettes edged with velvet and plaited ribbon, the center of front is arranged in a triple plait, and the neck is outlined by a velvet strap.

The third illustration shows a simple school dress for a girl of nine years; it is suitable to be made in any fine woven material, and is trimmed with fancy black braid. The skirt is slightly full, being gathered into the waistband; the bodice also is gathered, and is fixed to a pointed yoke trimmed with braid.

CHILDREN'S HATS EASILY MADE.

Comfortable and Pretty Headgear Constructed of Pique.

The pleasant little hats may be made for the children of the family, with the least expense and trouble, of pique. It is only necessary to cut two circles of the material for the brim, sew them together and bind them with white tape. Cut a smaller circle from the center of this to fit the head of the child, and bind this in the same way. The brim is then finished.

To make the crown, cut another circle of the pique about the same size as the brim. This does not need to be lined; bind it and make buttonholes around the edge. Then sew small buttons around the inside circle of the brim, and the whole hat is complete.

Needless to say, a machine does wonders to help the making of these easy little hats, and, when they are finished, they need only be unbuttoned to make the cleansing process simple to the extreme.

Sometimes clever mothers prefer the hats to be made of material to match the dresses, and then scraps may be utilized. A yard square will make a hat. When really dressy ones are desired, they are made of linen and scalloped round the edge with a buttonhole stitch. But, after all, children's garments are pretty if neatly made without much trimming.

The "Grandfather Frill."

Every tailor-made costume nowadays must have its attendant grandfather frill or cascade of creamy lace with which to set it off to the best possible advantage. In cases when the "grandfather" frill is chosen in preference to the lace cascade, snow-white net or tulle is the only material permissible, the frill being of the most exaggerated dimensions at the top, where it is caught with a tiny bow of black velvet. The new coat which is scooped out considerably at the top and caught together with a couple of buttons, permits of a full view being obtained of the frill in conjunction with the genuine dreford coat with its long swallow tails and short open jacket.

Linen and Cloth.

One of the oddities in the present season's styles is putting cloth and linen together. This is done in small or large quantities.

A green cloth skirt, perfectly fitting, quite long, and without trimming, carries a loose long skeleton coat of green linen. The collar and cuffs are of cretonne with pink, green and yellow combined.

Linen is much cooler than cloth for a coat, and as it is of the handsome hop-sacking weave it does not so badly above a skirt of satin broadcloth.

Trimming a Shirtwaist.

Long bands of embroidered linen can be placed as insertion in an otherwise plain linen or batiste shirtwaist, while the finer pieces of embroidery make most attractive frills for the new severely simple bodices of striped and figured lawn, while if a quite heavy piece of embroidered linen is discovered it can be pressed at once into service as a belt for a

PROPER CARE OF FINE LACES.

Most Careful Handling Necessary to Preserve Appearance.

Real laces rarely are washed, because they are almost sure to thicken slightly, and they require careful handling to make them appear like new. When not in use fine laces should be kept in powdered magnesia, between folds of blue tissue paper.

Wash white lace in warm water with white soap and a little ammonia added. Soak it for an hour and then use fresh water. Do not rub, but squeeze in soap lather, and thus get the dirt out.

If yellow put soapy water over the lace and set in the sun for a day or two. When it is clean rinse thoroughly. If you wish the lace cream color add strong coffee to the last rinsing water and if you wish it white add a little bluing.

To give lace the body it had when new stiffen it in gum arabic water, made by dissolving a piece of gum arabic the size of a pea in one pint of boiling water.

Lay the lace between dry clothes to absorb the moisture, then clap it until nearly dry and pull it into shape and pin it on to flannel, straight and true.

Be sure that each point is in shape and that every loop of the pearl edge has a pin to hold it in place.

A NEW BATHING SUIT.

Here is a chic bathing suit of brown mohair, than which there is nothing better looking nor more stylish. The bands across the front of the low-cut neck are plain white mohair stitched with brown silk, as is the sash and girdle arrangement about the waist. The buttons are white pearl.

Couldn't Fool Him.

A custom house clerk, who, to his entry into Uncle Sam's service was a schoolteacher, "a good years yet," as he proudly informs associates, was standing on the corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets one day last winter, deeply engrossed studying a legend which appeared a dairy man's wagon, as full "Pasteurized milk," etc.

His face wore a puzzled expression but finally betraying evidence of a ing intelligence he remarked to a stander:

"Ain't these here Philadelphia men a-gettin' to be just as deceitful as anything!" Pasteurized milk, as anything! fool me, 'cause I'll But they can't, and know you c in the country, winter," pasture cows in.

A Man's Tact.

Nobody but Mr. Henley would have asked such a question in the place.

"Miss Fairley," he said, "it could make yourself over what of hair and eyes would you have?"

"If I could make myself over," Miss Fairley, "I would look just as I do now."

"You would?" exclaimed Henley honest surprise, and to this day can't understand why Miss Fairley thinks him a man of little taste less tact.

An Odd Plant.

One of the curiosities of plant life is the peculiar nepenthes or pitcher-plant, an herb whose leaf forms a perfect cup with a cover. This "pitcher" is really a development of the petiole, or leafstalk, while the true leaf forms the lid or cover of the cup. There is a liquid found in the pitcher which is secreted by the plant itself, and which seems to attract small insects. As these insects apparently disappear in the secretion the plant is popularly supposed to have absorbed them, and is classed among the "insectivorous" or insect-eating plants.

The pitcher-plant is a native of the swampy lands of India and China, but some varieties are found in our woods. Robbie Hawk brought a fine "pitcher," several inches long, into the Citizen office a few days ago. Although the lid, or true leaf, is not separated from the pitcher by a short portion of stalk as in the oriental variety, it is apparently a true nepenthes.

More Corn.

The farmers of Indiana, says the Logansport Pharos, according to statistics on the acreage of the wheat in the state this year compiled by the state bureau of statistics, turned their attention from raising wheat to that of corn and other grain for stock.

Last fall a heavy acreage was sown in wheat, but it was not nearly as heavy as that sown in the fall of 1906 for the year 1907. The bureau's figures for 1906 show a total of 2,059,615 acres of Hoosier soil sown in wheat as against 2,391,478 in 1907. However, reports indicate that the wheat this year is threshing out in good quantity and quality and it is not unlikely that the deficit in acreage will be overcome by the quality and quantity of the crop. The total wheat crop in Indiana in 1907 was 34,874,726 bushels. The average yield per acre was 14.58 bushels.

Kodol will without doubt help anyone who has stomach disorders or stomach troubles. Take Kodol today and you will find the relief that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by T. E. Slattery.

Improvement in Horses.

One very noticeable fact in connection with the horses of this section, where special pains is taken in the raising of the heavier types, is the marked improvement of the draft horses that are offered at our public sales, horse sales, etc. For the past fifteen years and more thoroughbred sires of very good general traits have been used and the character of horses raised materially graded up, with the result that it is today no uncommon thing for a well matched team to fetch from $400 to $500.—Exchange.

The work with the crews is coming along satisfactorily and the results are very encouraging. Mr. Hendricks, the coach, is getting the men rounded into fine shape, and the prospects are bright for a favorable outcome of the first race of the summer against the Illinois Naval Reserves on Aug. 1.

The men who are striving for places on the crews are not living on downy beds of ease by a good deal. Every morning at 4:30 they are awakened and after imbibing a cup of hot coffee "man" their cutters and prepare for a race which is sometimes over a one-mile, but generally over a two-mile course. The races have been pretty ones and intensely exciting. A dip in the lake ends the morning work-out.

In the afternoon there is simply practice, the boats usually covering about three miles.

The start this year, as taught by Mr. Hendricks, shows a change and an improvement even over that of last year. Instead of three quick strokes to get the cutter in motion there is one long followed by five short strokes; the six together certainly putting the cutter under good headway.

Captain Rossow on last Sunday morning made a real distance swim by crossing the lake in its greatest length. He started from the Academy boat pier and two hours and eight minutes later chambered into the accompanying Pretty dances are plenty but dances such as we had in the gym the other evening are very scarce. Almost the whole student body attended and those who didn't dance viewed the spectacle from the balcony. The couples as a whole wore full dress. The white duck trousers and military coats of the men are much prettier than dress suits for evening dress and where all the fine looking girls came from we cannot see. None ever came around during the week but they were on hand all right Wednesday night and every one of them had her dancing program filled in a few minutes after the grand march.

Those in the receiving line were Major and Mrs. Gigolbat, Lieutenant Boon and Miss Henton. There were at least seventy-five couples in the grand march and perhaps thirty more arrived afterward. At the close of the march, the programs were given out. These were square in shape covered with mottled blue and white.

One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was the barn dance, and as there are several different ways of dancing this fascinating dance it made a very pretty spectacle. A great many danced the three-step for the first time and acquitted themselves very creditably.

The dance lasted until about 11:30 and ended with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The "practice dances" will be held, this year, on Tuesday evenings from eight until nine. They will be conducted by Prof. Gaynor who has given so many successful lessons in the past. The regular classes will be given on Wednesday morning in three sections of two periods each.

Human faces, animal forms, vistas of trees and Italian lake scenery springing into being by a few magic strokes of his crayon was the spectacle presented to the cadets Friday night, July 10, by Director W. M. R. French of the Chicago Art Institute in his chalk talk upon "The Wit and Wisdom of the Crayon." Under his deft fingers lifelike figures appeared upon the paper which but a moment before was blank. The copy of Sturfield's Lake Como was the most finished and most complicated piece of work presented but the cuts and the skeleton which developed into a Bowery bully proved favorites with the cadets. Incidentally Mr. French succeeded in teaching a good deal about art and its laws, by laying down those of perspective, balance, curvature, continuity, radiation, repetition, contrast, interchange and simplicity and by his drawing offering illustrations of the working of each.

The band concert and open air "sing" of Tuesday evening was voted a great success by all who attended and especially by those who, knowing a beautiful thing when they see it, went down and sat on the shore of "old Maximukkee." Such nights are rare even here, and it will remain long in the memories of those who saw it. The full moon was casting her yellow bars across the rippling black waters; there was a sweet damp smell as the light gray mist rose just shutting out the darker blue of shore beyond. Then with the martial music of the band to complete the scene, who could ask that old infamous question, "What's the use?"

The selections the band rendered were:

Chicago Bells March, F. Warren. Van's Lament, Vandercok. Love-Land Waltz, Holzman. Reed Bird, Gustave Linder. "Isle of Spice" selection, Fulton. Red Wing, Kerry Mills.

Obituary.

Fred Faulstick, son of Philip and Elizabeth Faulstick deceased, entered into the life beyond at 9:15 Wednesday evening, July 8, 1908, aged 63 years, 9 months and 27 days. He was confirmed in the Lutheran Evangelical church at Monterey, Ind., June 26, 1877, in which church he continued a member as long as the denomination maintained a church. On June 12, 1901, he was joined in holy wedlock to Miss Mary Hester. Death parted this happy union, but only for a short time as God's sweet, blessed promises are so comforting and assuring. He was a kind, affectionate husband, a dutiful son, tender brother and a true friend. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, four brothers—Philip, George, Willard and Albert; three sisters—Mrs. Philip Swigart, Mrs. Caroline Hartman, Mrs. Fred Miller; and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held in the Reformed church of Delong July 10. The interment was in Lester's Ford cemetery. Those who came from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gray, Mrs. John Walters of Rochester, and Mrs. John Calantone of South Bend.

HICKORY BUSH HAPPENINGS

The ice cream social given by the Cantoria club on Friday night was a brilliant function as well as a financial success. An amusing incident was the finding near the center of the can of ice cream the corn cob pipe which Horatius Pillsbury accidentally dropped while freezing the cream. Horatius was much pleased at its recovery.

Some sneak thief entered Willie Peters' room Monday and purloined his letters of instruction on the cornet. Willie thinks he knows who did it, and threatens to make trouble if they are not returned, although Doc Dope says he don't believe there is any law against taking a course in music.

As a result of the recent quarrel between the Swartzbauers and the Finnegan, Gottlieb Swartzbauer has decided not to plant any Irish potatoes this season and Pat Finnegan indignantly denies that one of his children has the German measles.

Little Bonami Kettle indulged too freely of cascades one day last week and has been on the sick list as a consequence. She was able to attend Sabbath school however, but looked rather peaked.

The Dewberys entertained Prof. Garlick, our chiropodist, at dinner Sunday. As a special honor to their guest corn on the cob and pigs' feet were served.

Hank Buddinger has composed a bride march, as a prelude to the barn dance he is now teaching. Hank's class in the St. Vitus dance has attained great proficiency.

The Aid society will give a public reception next Tuesday night in honor of Mrs. Jim Peters, who leaves this fall for a two days' visit with friends at Banker Hill.

Aunt Sally Hopkins has started a slip from a century plant, and has promised the preacher a bouquet as soon as she blooms.

Boys Build Wireless.

Boyd McConnell, 2144 Broadway and Albert Jackson, 1311 High st., Logansport and George Taylor, formerly of that city, but now of Jacksonville, Ky., are at work on a wireless telegraph device by which they hope to connect the two cities. Taylor perfected some instruments which could be used at short range when he was in school in Logansport and when he moved away the three boys decided to attempt the building of an apparatus which would communicate between the two cities, several hundred miles apart. They are doing the work without the aid of professionals and are spending their own savings during vacation in the work. When the instruments are perfected the boys will build a tall receiving tower out of gas pipes over 100 feet high to work with Jacksonville. Exchange.

Sunday on the Diamond.

Angered when touched out during a closely contested game between Winona Lake and Plymouth last Thursday at Winona lake, Billy Sunday, baseball evangelist, who is spending the summer at his cottage, turned on Pitcher Tobay, offender, and threatened chastisement, but changed his mind when the visitor showed fight Sunday walked away to avoid trouble.

Winona won 4 to 3, on Sunday's long drive to left in the sixth and a sacrifice in the ninth.—South Bend News.

Prolific Variety of Wheat.

Emory Cobb has threshed wheat that goes 36 bushels to the acre. Mr. Cobb sowed a new variety this year, the famous "Pool" wheat of Southern Michigan, and from 12 acres he secured a total of 432 bushels.—Kankakee (Ill.) Gazette.

Do Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is especially good for all kinds of skin diseases. Sold by T. E. Sinsley.

SPONGE DIVERS.

Hardly a Single Lappander of Tripoli Escapes Paralysis.

There are a great many varieties of sponges, most of which are found in the warm parts of the ocean. The bath sponges are chiefly obtained from the eastern half of the Mediterranean, where they occur at all seasons down to 200 fathoms and are obtained by diving, dragging or harpooning.

Writing in Harper's Magazine, C. W. Farlow gives an account of the work of the Greek sponge divers off the coast of Tripoli in north Africa. Attacks by sharks and dogfish have gradually frightened away the common divers, who dive naked with a piece of fat mutton and a rod, and the sea is left clear for the "caphandiers," as the men are called who use air pump, suit and basket.

The greatest enemy of the caphandier is paralysis, hardly a single diver escaping from it in some form or other. The great cause of this disease is the sudden relief of pressure due to the rapid ascent, the dangerous symptoms appearing when the diver emerges into the fresh air.

Strange as it may seem, a partially paralyzed diver on descending into the water recovers the use of his limbs again, and his circulation becomes normal. To battle with this scourge the Greek government has issued regulations as to the depths to which a diver shall go and has also provided a hospital ship and a sponge divers' hospital on shore.

FREAKS OF RAZORS.

The Way the Grain of the Blades is Sometimes Reversed.

The finest grades of razors are so delicate that even the thinnest Damascus sword blades cannot equal them in texture. It is not generally known that the grain of a Swedish razor is so sensitive that its general direction is changed after a short service. When you buy a fine razor the grains run from the upper end of the outer point in a diagonal direction toward the handle. Constant stropping will twist the steel until the grain appears to be straight up and down. Subsequent use will draw the grain outward from the edge, so that after steady use for several months the fiber of the steel occupies a position exactly the reverse of that which it did on the day of purchase. The process also affects the temper of the blade, and when the grain sets from the lower outer points toward the back you have a razor which cannot be kept in condition even by the most conscientious barber. That is why another curious freak that will take place in the same tool. If you leave the razor alone for a month or two and take it up, you will find that the grain has assumed its first position. The operation can be repeated until the steel is worn through to the back.—Strand Magazine.

Old Scottish Sanctuary.

The old sanctuary of the Abbey and Palace of Holyrood House to quote the full description, was an interesting institution. The doctor was free from arrest during the week. On entering the sanctuary he enclosed himself in a formal manner and obtained a room—that is, if he could pay for it. There was a public house within the boundaries, and it was not uncommon to see the doctor in the bar playing dominoes and his creditor standing looking in at the window with watery eyes. The doctor was safe, and he knew it, and the face of the creditor told the same tale. Sunday being a day when the doctor could leave his sanctuary and visit his family, but he had to be careful to get back to Holyrood on Sunday night. Sometimes a debtor had the temerity to leave on a week day, but he did so at his peril.—London Globe.

The English of It.

A lady, accompanied by her son, was making various purchases at the army and navy stores in London. The boy grew tired.
"Who are you buying those for?" he asked.
"Why, for father," was the reply.
"Father in heaven or father in India?" the boy persisted.
"The lady mentioned the remark to a friend, who, thinking it amusing, repeated it to an Englishwoman at church a few days later. The English woman listened sympathetically. "Poor woman!" she sighed. "She was married twice."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Problem Unsolved.

A story is told of a young man in England, a great chess enthusiast, who was so annoyed at his failure to solve an apparently simple problem that he roared he would neither sleep nor eat until the solution was found. He shut himself up in a disreputable room and was found four days later by his relatives terribly emaciated and out of his mind. He spent a year in a lunatic asylum as a result of his rash vow, and the problem remains unsolved.

No Envy.

"This village enjoys the reputation of being the birthplace of two members of the legislature and one congressman, does it not?" politely inquired the stranger within its gates.
"None," replied the landlord of the Pettysville tavern, who was a pessimistic old grocer anyhow. "It just has it, that's all."—Puck.

Adding to His Offensiveness.

The man who told us so is always doubly offensive if he comes around after the arrival of our troubles and tries to look as if he had forgotten all about it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

When a young lady and gentleman have a controversy about kissing, they generally put their heads together.

DISTRIBUTING DEPOT FOR

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fences

For some time we have been investigating a New Idea in Wire Fencing. After a most careful examination we have been convinced that we have found the best field fence manufactured. "Pittsburgh Perfect" is made of all galvanized steel wires. It is the only fence welded by electricity. Every rod is guaranteed perfect. All large wires, the stays being the same size as line wires. It has no wraps to hold moisture and cause rust.

If You Are Looking for a Fence

That will stand HARD USAGE;
That will not SAG DOWN or CURL OVER on the top;
That has stays that WILL NOT SLIP;
That will CONFORM TO UNEVEN GROUND;
That has no SLACK WIRES;
That does not require an EXPERT TO ERECT;
That is LOW IN PRICE—

Then Read What We Guarantee

1. The stays are ELECTRICALLY WELDED to strands, forming a perfect union and an amalgamation with the strands not found in any other fence.
2. No wraps to get loose, or hold moisture and cause rust.
3. No projections to injure stock or tear wool from sheep.
4. Stronger at the joints than any other fence; welded together by electricity.
5. Guaranteed that the wire is not injured at the joints.
6. Guaranteed adjustable to uneven ground.
7. Guaranteed that stays will not separate from strands.
8. Guaranteed all right in every particular.
9. Made by the most modern process and on the latest improved machinery.
10. Most of the weak points in other fences are on account of the way the stays are fastened. Our stays are amalgamated with the strands by means of electricity and the strength of the fence increased a hundred fold over the strength of a fence where the stays are wrapped or clamped on the strands.

If by this time you are interested, come and see this fence and get in your order. If you are skeptical come and be convinced. We add our personal guarantee to everything claimed for it and would be pleased to submit prices. Don't fail to see us before buying your fencing. Don't put it off until you are ready to use it, but place your order in advance, as we cannot carry all sizes in stock.

NOTES OF THE SUMMER SCHOOL

The first Sunday has passed and once more service has been held out of doors under the shade of the campus trees. Culver's old friend, Dr. W. K. R. Bryce of South Bend, had the service and said many helpful things. The doctor took his text from Luke 7:1-10, and spoke upon the qualities of the soldierly man.

Miss Robinson and Mr. Dougherty of Indianapolis rendered some very pleasing vocal music which added greatly to the service. Mr. Dougherty will lead the singing through the rest of the summer as he did a year ago.

Following is the program for the remainder of this week:

Wednesday, 22—Weekly dance; hosts, cavalry cadets.

Thursday, 23—Forenoon, Junior track meet; evening, band concert and open air "sing."

Friday, 24—An Hour with the Caricaturist; illustrated by W. M. R. French.

Saturday, 25—Junior and Senior aquatic meet; baseball between Cavalry and Navy.

The first of the "sings" was held Thursday night on the grounds in front of the Main barracks. Although but few of the cadets outside of the glee club did much singing for the first one it can be considered a success.

The band was the mainstay of the evening, playing many popular pieces, the glee club and cadets chiming in on the choruses. A tenor solo by Mr. Dougherty won the applause of the assembled troopers and middies.

The first call for candidates for the Glee club was issued on Tuesday, 14th, and brought out twenty-seven who promise to form the best glee club C. S. S. has ever had. Fortunately, the lack of tenors, which has always heretofore been a drawback, will not be felt this summer. The club is under the direction of Mr. C. H. Carson of Indianapolis, whose wide experience in choir and glee club leading makes him eminently fitted for the position. Mr. Carson will be assisted by Mr. Dougherty, who had charge of the club last summer, and whose faithful work made possible the praise the Glee club received on all sides on the Jamestown trip.

From an interview with Lieut. Gignilliat the following was obtained:

There will be an innovation in the naval work this year in the organization of a junior flotilla. For the small cadets of the naval battalion 12 row boats have been obtained completely equipped with 4 oars and a rudder, each, and these will be used to train the smaller cadets in rowing. This flotilla has been procured to give these cadets an opportunity to learn boat work without the necessity of handling the heavy oars in the big cutters.

At present the drill period will be the same as for the cutters. They will be under the command of Cadet Lieutenant Boon. When the cutters are under sail cadets of the junior flotilla will have the privilege of sailing with their regular crews. This little organization has been received with a great deal of enthusiasm both by the officers and all cadets and by their parents.

A 10-dollar medal has been offered by Captain Glascock to the coxswain organizing the best crew in the little fleet. The winner will be decided as soon as convenient by an open boat race.

To anyone comparing the first boat drill of a week ago and the one of today the improvement in the way the men handle their oars must be very marked. In most cases the men have given up doing all the work with their arms and have learned to make their backs and legs do their share. They have all taken on a healthy coat of tan from their contact with sun and water, and their muscles have hardened to the drill. The race to the pier every afternoon after the drill causes great rivalry between the crews of the different cutters. To date only one cutter has been fitted with sails, and in this a squad of men have been taken out every afternoon and taught the rudiments, "shipping the masts" and "making sail." As soon as the men become a little more proficient in the handling of their oars the other cutters will be fitted out and then the drill will become much more interesting.

This is the way a plebe feelingly alludes to a sensitive situation:

Dear Parents: I now know I am in the cavalry, for I can't sit down as quickly as I used to. I've got raw places at several spots on my anatomy. The cause of it was a 15-mile ride we took Saturday, going half-way around the lake and back, and a Sunday ride to a "spot" called Burr Oak, across to Hibbard and back to the school.

I enjoyed the spectacle of the long lines of black horses mounted by blue bodies and tan helmets moving along. Sometimes we went over the famous Indiana rolling prairies, occasionally through cool, green woods, and on Saturday we frequently followed the edge of the lake.

But two things I can't forget or forgive: One was the terrible moments of trotting with its eternal bumping, rubbing and jolting. How I longed for the command, "Walk—March!" and what a relief it was to haul in on the rein and again drop into the soothing motions of the walk. The other torture was the cloud of dust raised by the horses ahead. When the wind was still or blew to the rear we bit the dust with a vengeance, though our heads were high in the air.

But with all these little drawbacks I like cavalry better every time I go out for there's nothing like riding in the troop.

Where the Honeymoon Is Long.

Marriage among Moslems in India is followed by other ceremonies. The bride with the bridegroom is taken back to her father's house after four days, then again she comes back to her husband's house after ten days' stay, and then after a stay of 20 days returns to her father's house for at least six months. Thus instead of having a short period of honeymoon they make it last almost a year.

Varieties of Learning.

Learning is not indispensable to the power of being able to converse with facility, force and even brilliancy. Some of the best talkers lay small claim to book knowledge. Their best books are men and women and a good understanding of human nature. They can adapt themselves to time and place and make the best of their surroundings.

Butterflies in Cold Climates.

It is a common experience among mountain climbers to find butterflies lying frozen on the snow, and so brittle that they break unless they are very carefully handled. Such frozen butterflies on being taken to a warmer climate recover and fly away. Six species of butterflies have been found within a few hundred miles of the north pole.

Education in India.

Education as now understood in India is an exotic and arouses nowhere any real enthusiasm. The Indian trader, banker or money lender has accumulated his wealth without any very obvious aid from English education, and he probably therefore does not see why he should help others to what he has himself dispensed with.—Calcutta Englishman.

Mental Medicine.

We know diseases of stoppage and suffocation are the most dangerous in the body; and it is not much other wise in the mind. You may take pains to open the liver, steel to open the spleen, flower of sulphur for the lungs, mustard for the brain, but no receipt opens the heart but a true friend.—Lycron.

The Hat.

The modern hat (with brim) can be traced back to the Roman "petasus," which seems to have been worn only when on a journey. Hats with brims were also used, though not extensively, by the ancient Greeks. It was not until after the Norman conquest that hats began to be used in England.—New York American.

Russian Trophy Stolen.

Robbers recently entered the cathedral of the Petropavlovsk fortress, which contains the tombs of the Russian emperors, and stole the enormous key of the Grogulskoe fortress in Poland, which was placed as a trophy on the tomb of Constantine, the son of Paul the First.

Bluing Steel Goods.

A method of bluing small steel goods by dipping is to melt saltpetre in an iron pot, then immerse the previously polished and cleaned articles until sufficiently blued. The goods should then be removed and cooled in petroleum and afterward dried out in sawdust.

Seventy Times Seven.

From a Paris paper we take the following conversation in a police court: The President—"It appears from your record that you have been 37 times previously convicted." The Prisoner (sententiously)—"Man is not perfect."—Home Herald.

Memory Training.

It may be realized how great an asset in life is a retentive memory they would take care to see that their children's were properly trained. The simplest method consists in learning every day a few lines by heart. None of our faculties can be trained so easily as that of memory.

The Great Chicago Fire.

The Chicago fire occurred October 8 and 9, 1871. About 125,000 people were rendered homeless and over 20,000 buildings were destroyed. The loss was estimated at $200,000,000, and the area of the burned district was about 1,800 acres.

Where We Got Yankee Twang.

It was these historic Suffolk families who in the seventeenth century took over with them in America the peculiar Suffolk pronunciation out of which has developed the modern semi-naïve Yankee twang.—London Spectator.

To Clean Bottles and Decanters.

To clean water bottles and decanters mix together half a gill of vinegar and a handful of salt. Shake well in the decanters to be cleaned, and no matter how discolored, this treatment has been tried and found successful.

NORTH BEND NOTES.

Mrs. John Castleman, Correspondent.

Sigel Shumaker is thrashing in our vicinity this week.

The pleasant rain Monday afternoon and night was a great help to crops.

Lots of huckleberries in the marsh on South Stark street owned by Clark Weidner.

Mrs. John Drake, living on North street, has been quite sick since Saturday evening but is better at this writing.

A Mr. Penry of Medaryville who owns the Merit Harrier farm here in Huestown was out looking after crops last week.

Frank Joseph, Alvin Good, Joe Castleman, Samuel Baker, and J. G. Mement went to North Judson Tuesday, all seemed to be deeply interested in the future court judge or "Who shall he be?"

Peter Shrader and wife of Crown Point came out Saturday evening to visit the family of Mrs. Shrader's cousin, Harry Leopold. They all went to Culver Sunday. The Shraders were much pleased with the trip and the neatness and cleanliness of the town as well as its quietness.

DELONG DOINGS.

Mrs. Mae Van Kirk, Correspondent.

The C. W. Shadels and Eunice Baker took Sunday dinner at F. P. McClelland's.

Mrs. Kate Thompson of Weyerhauser, Wis., is visiting Henry Rarrick's family.

John Deek and family and Lee Robinson and wife of Logansport spent Sunday in DeLong.

The DeLong ball team defeated the Logansport team in a double header game Sunday 10 to 4 and 9 to 1.

The M. E. Sunday school will give an ice cream social on the church lawn Saturday evening, July 25. Everybody invited.

JORDAN JOTTINGS.

The thrashing is more than booming.

Leo Martin is now employed at Bourbon.

Miss Ethel Martin spent last week at home.

Grandma Martin is visiting in Argos this week.

Brack Martin made a visit with friends in and around Sligo last week.

Clayton and Mattie Marshman visited Golda and Meurl Moon Sunday.

Herbert Edinger and Crawford Dreese went to Culver Sunday evening.

Mrs. Ed Overmyer and daughter Ola spent Sunday at John Miner's of Argos.

Church at Jordan after Sunday school and at 6 in the evening on next Sunday.

Several from near here attended the ice cream supper at Walnut Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Marshman spent Sunday with the former's aunt who has been very sick.

Mattie Marshman returned Friday evening after a visit of almost two weeks with Venus Marsh of near Burr Oak.

Ola Overmyer came home Thursday evening from a week's visit with her cousins, Misses Verna and Bessie Overmyer of Burr Oak.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dreese of Galva, Ill., Simon Dreese of Chicago and Crawford Dreese of near Culver all spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dreese.
