Current Tax Statements Not Based On Recent Evaluation

To avoid any misinterpretation or misunderstanding among taxpayers concerning tax statements, which local residents have received during the past ten days, Marshall county officials call attention to the fact that the recent statements of real estate taxes due are not based on the new reassessment values.

At the time they were mailed Harold Rose, treasurer issued a statement calling attention and explaining and interpreting the new method of notifying each taxpayer of taxes. Local residents who have paid their taxes through the State Exchange Bank may continue to do so and Treasurer Rose has indicated that tax receipts will be sent to the Bank late next week.

With regard to the notices of the new reassessment valuation of property, William Oberlin, county assessor points out that all real estate owners will receive statements this month setting out the newly appraised property valuations, and the date for the appeal. The new evaluations, based upon the law passed by the 1949 General Assembly, will be the basis for the real estate property tax payment in 1951.

Burglars Again Break Into Culver Store; Take Guns and Ammunition

Burglars entered the Culver Sports Centre on Lake Shore Drive last Friday evening making away with firearms and ammunition. It was the second time in less than thirty days that the Sports Centre had been entered, thieves having broken in on February 18th when they stole firearms and ammunition. Bob McFarland is owner of the establishment.

Authorities state that the latest robbery was committed sometime between five thirty and midnight and that the thieves entered by breaking a window at the front of the building. Merchandise stolen includes: 22 pistol, 32 automatic, 41 colt revolver, 25 automatic, 3 boxes 25 caliber ammunition, 250 rounds of 22 shorts, 100 rounds of 22 longs, 3 pocket flashlights and $6.00 in money.

Local Veterans Initiate Parkview Hospital Project

Through the combined efforts of all members of the Finney-Shilling Post No. 6919 V. F. W. of Culver, a project has been initiated at Parkview Hospital, the County Medical Center at Plymouth, which will result in the addition of one room in the Clinical Laboratory section. The remodeling and cost of equipment is estimated at $900.00.

The project was originally set up by request of the Medical Board officered by Dr. A. A. Thompson, president, Dr. P. R. Irey, vice-president, and Dr. R. L. Witham, secretary. The remodeling includes a fire resistant partition, ceiling lights, venetian blinds and complete redecorating of the rooms. In addition, the V. F. W. Post at Culver has authorized the purchase of an electric cast cutter and will make further equipment purchases as funds become available consisting of an examining table, otoscope, ophthalmoscope, adhesive tape dispenser, binocular loop, eye specula and suitable cabinets.

To raise funds for the accomplishment of the project which will benefit Marshall County, the Culver V. F. W. held a grand send-off party at the Post Hall on March 11. Volunteer workmen were recruited and agreed to donate their services to erect a partition which will enable emergency and basal metabolism cases to be administered to at the same time in separate rooms. Formerly the emergency room was used for both purposes and posed a problem when two patients requiring attention arrived at the same time.

On Sunday, March 19, trucks and cars carrying materials and volunteer veterans arrived at Parkview Hospital and completed the major part of the remodeling. Those in the group were Mark Steenbergen, Joe Morrison, Jack Sanders, Norman Baker, Vern Snider, George Babcock, Wayne Hissong, Eugene Walker and Sergeant Lee Ross. The boys did a fine job and will be recommended to their wives as being capable artisans come house cleaning time.

Members of the Medical Hospital Trustees Boards were present to witness what was done by this civic minded organization and wish to publicly express their appreciation to the members of the Finney-Shilling Post No. 6919 V. F. W. Culver.

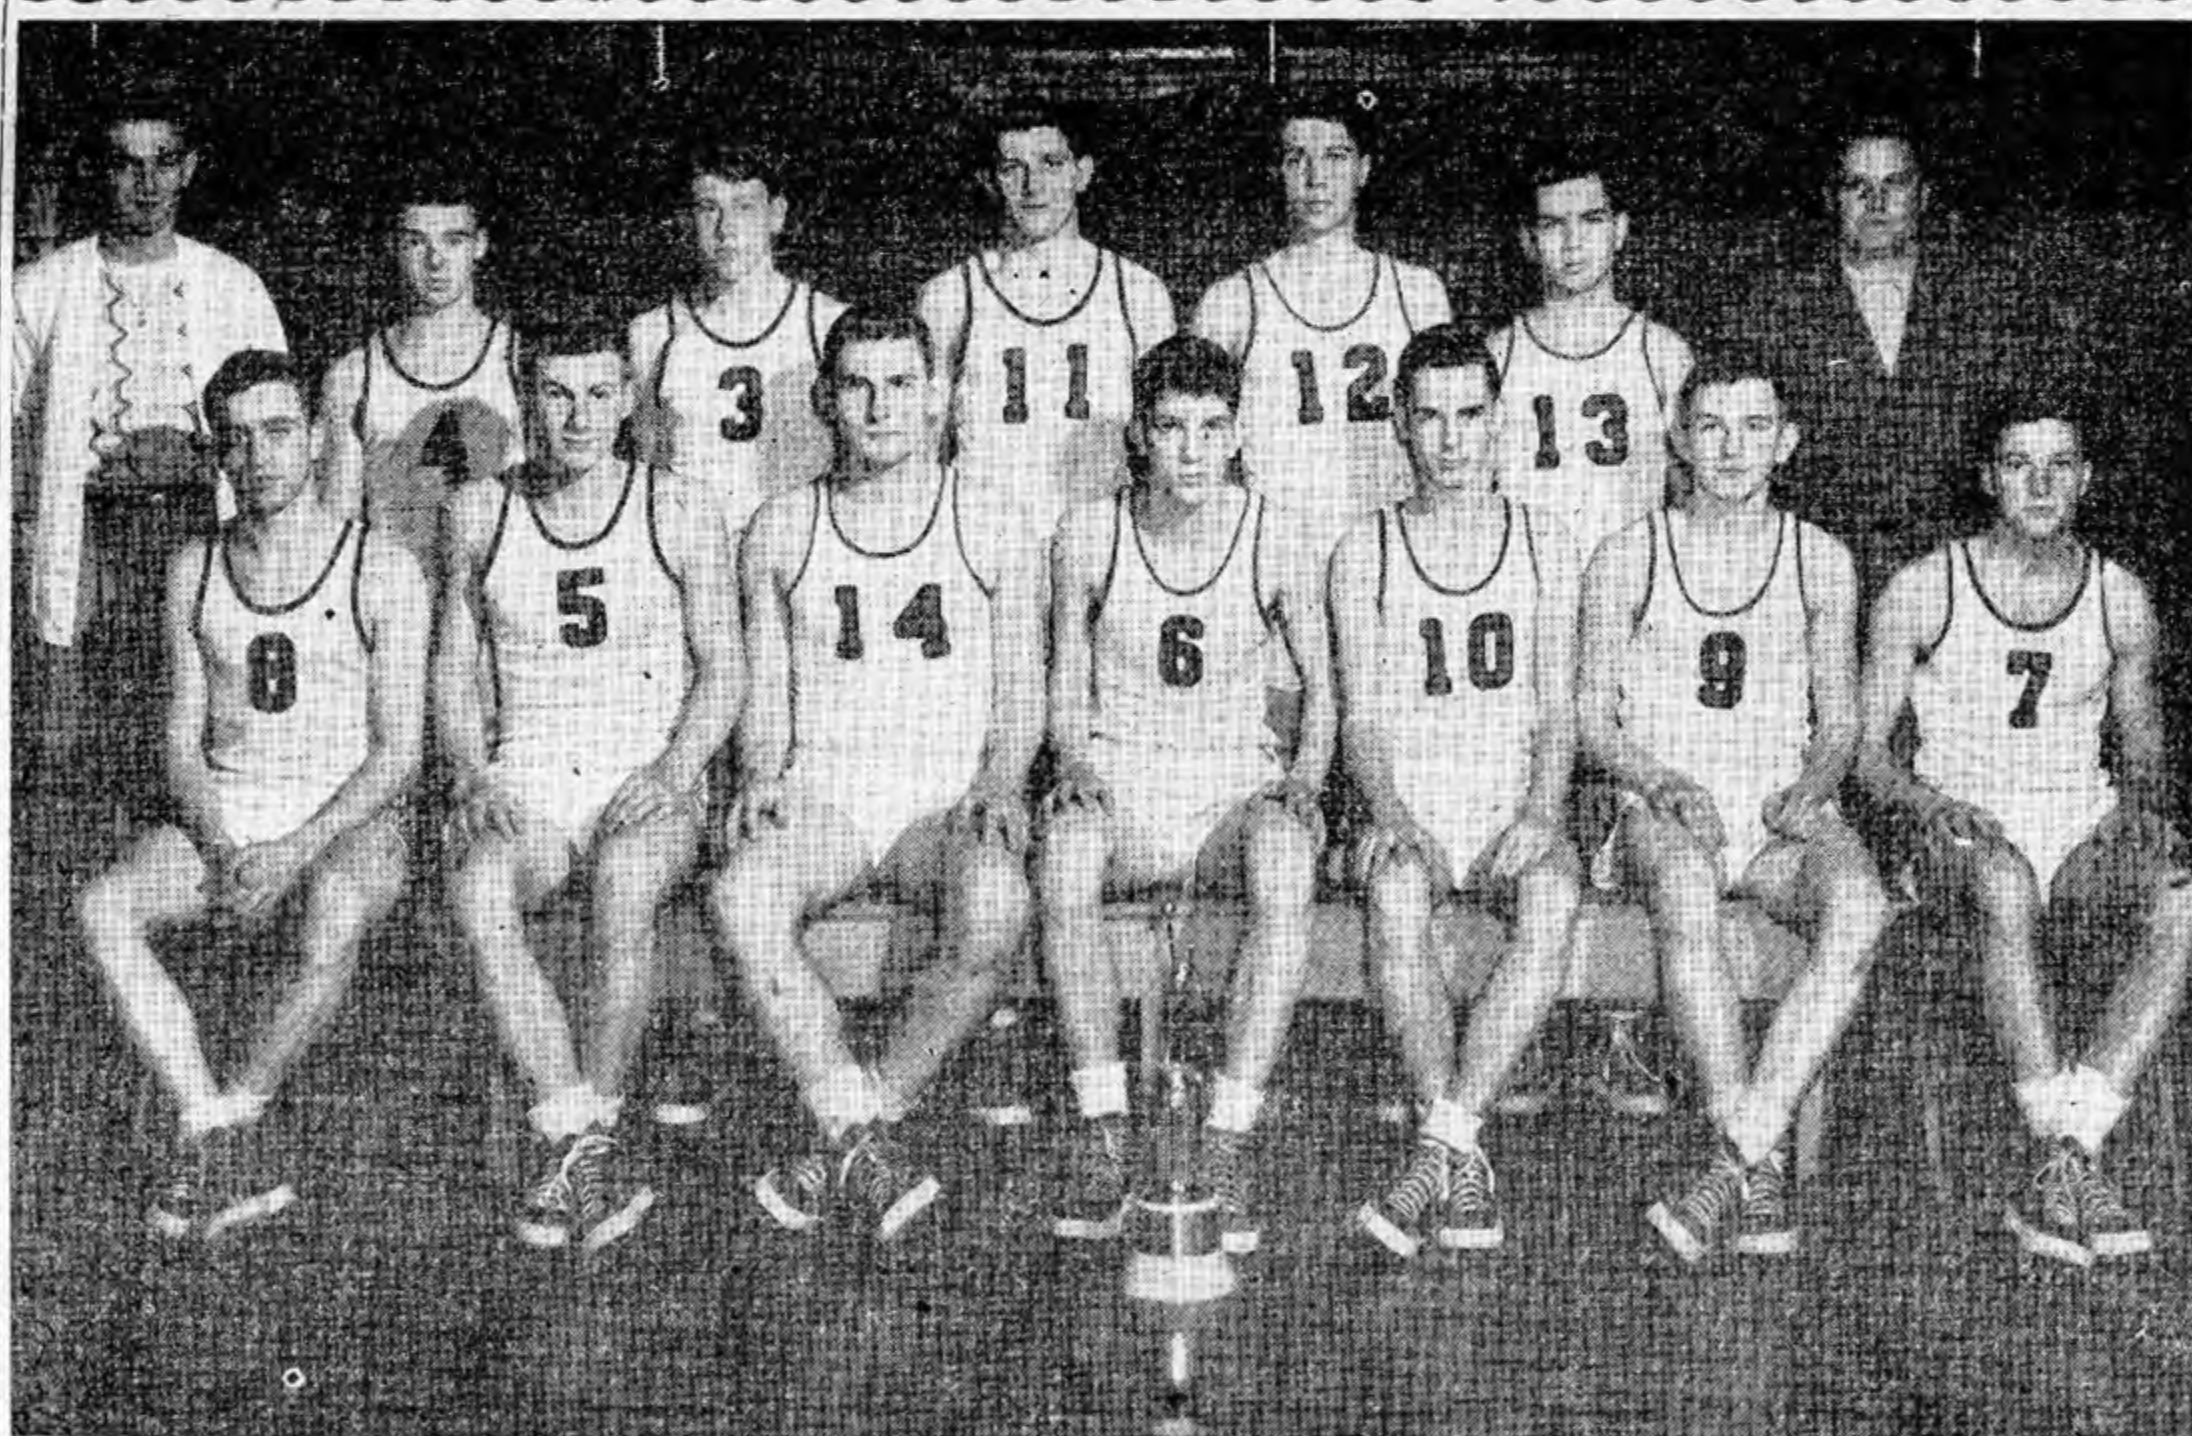

Besides the club party projects to raise funds the V. F. W. has initiated a plan whereby ads will appear on the tops of twenty-four card tables. These tables, when finished, will be available for use free to any group so desiring. Watch this paper for further particulars.

DANCE

A dance, sponsored by the Junior Class, will be held Saturday, March 25, in the Lions Den. It will begin at 9:00 and continue till around 11:45.

Fans Honor High School Net Team

Members of the 1949-50 Culver High School basketball squad were feted last Thursday evening when a capacity crowd of more than 225 persons assembled at the Lions Den for the annual Lions Club sponsored banquet. The team, Coaches Sering and Ervin, and cheer leaders were honor guests for the occasion.

Cliff Wells, popular Tulane University basketball coach, presented some highly interesting comments on the development of basketball, its present place in the field of sports, and some highlights of college basketball as viewed from the coaching angle. In congratulating the team and coach on an excellent record, Coach Wells urged members of the team to seriously consider continuing their education following graduation from high school.

The speaker stated that winning was important, but players should think first of their education; second, they should have fun in playing; and third, they should be gentlemen. He spoke glowingly of the past year's varsity play of Ralph Pederson, former Culver H. S. player now at Tulane; and of Bob Reed, Tulane freshman. He also told of the fine performance of Ray Manis on the McNeese Junior College squad.

When W. O. Osborn, capable toastmaster for the banquet, suggested that dame rumor has it that Coach Wells may leave Tulane for a post in the Big Ten Conference, Wells replied "No Comment." Movies of the Tulane-Louisiana State game were shown and fans showed a particular interest in the play of Pederson.

Toastmaster Osborn effectively pointed out that wholesome enthusiasm combined with a hearty co-operation on the part of the team, the fans, the school administration, the businessmen, the parents, the caretakers of the building, and fans, contributed to the success which Culver high school basketball teams have enjoyed.

Coach Harold Sering expressed appreciation for the efforts of the team. He introduced members of the team commenting on each player. Vern McKee, captain of the 1949-50 squad responded for the team. Assistant coach Ted Ervin told of the work of the second team. Hampton Boswell, president of the Lions welcomed the guests. Fred Adams was chairman in charge of arrangements.

Sale of Easter Seals Brings Hope to the Crippled

Willis B. Conner, Jr., vice-president of the Merchants National Bank and the Indiana Trust Company, and treasurer of the Indiana Society for Crippled Children, has announced that approximately 100,000,000 Easter seals were mailed to Hoosiers on March 9th.

Mr. Conner says that the purchase of Easter seals means that physically handicapped locally and throughout the state, will receive aid not otherwise provided for. "Our organization does not duplicate the work of other agencies, public or private, but is concerned with the unmet needs of crippled children and handicapped adults."

This means that persons with all kinds of crippling conditions have the special assistance they need to bring them medical care and treatment, artificial appliances, walkers, wheelchairs, education for homebound children, as well as for those who can attend school with special help, pre-school centers, Occupational Therapy and Physical Therapy, sheltered workshops, vocational training and homebound employment. Crippled children can have recreational programs and real camping.

Dollars spent for Easter seals literally means buying health and happiness and the opportunity for many crippled children to become useful, self-supporting citizens. 90.7 per cent of all money derived from the sale of Easter seals stays in Indiana. The forty-six organized county chapters have 60 per cent of all raised in their county to spend for service for the handicapped.

Earle Hitch Is Author of Book On Rural America

Earle Hitch, formerly Director of Publicity at Culver Military Academy, is the author of a new book which was issued by Harper and Brothers on March 15, entitled "Rebuilding Rural America." A widely known newspaper man and free lance writer, Mr. Hitch was a member of the Academy staff from 1926 to 1936.

Largely unnoticed in the clamors of the cold war and the hydrogen bomb is the expanding movement to preserve the rural community. One goal is to stop the squeeze on city jobs by creating new kinds of employment in the country.

The country church, small town chambers of commerce, a few key figures in big business and adult education are lending a hand. Their work, in the form of practical experiments with rural enterprise is spreading through the United States and Canada. The story of these experiments and their aims is told in the new book by author Earle Hitch published by Harper and Brothers and released on March 15.

In this book, the author's first words are: "Next to war the peril most dreaded on this side of the Atlantic is men without jobs," and the early pages are provocative with conclusions that job problems in this country are getting more acute as farm work shrinks and growing masses must somehow find ways to get on pay-rolls in the big towns and cities.

Agriculture's new and astonishing production capacity is creating a surplus of efficiency, the author believes. Each year more people are being pushed off the land. The ratio of farm jobs to city jobs is now about 8 to 50, the book relates. Consequently the population is out of balance and self-sufficiency is disappearing. In the beginning, the book recalls, 9 persons out of 10 in the United States lived and worked on the land.

Today only about 30 millions are left on the farms, and half of the farmers are not needed. So far as efficient agriculture goes the United States simply has more farmers than can be profitably occupied. About one third of the nation's 5,800,000 farmers, the author maintains, are only a jump ahead of the dole, notwithstanding the recent big farm boom. These farmers are needed because they produce little or nothing for the market. They are the inefficient, the short-of-cash and the under-employed. Three fifths of the people who work now live in cities and must depend on jobs which are subject to sudden ends. If widespread unemployment comes, the book concludes, greater numbers than ever before will consequently be on public relief.

The solution to this economic threat is what the book undertakes to present. Economic safety, it declares, can be had only by creating more job opportunities and more self-employment in the country where families can make at least some part of their own way if lay-offs or shut-down occur.

To find out what's being done at the cross-roads in the grass roots experiments Hitch spent four years in travel and research on the spot. Projects in sixteen states and several Canadian provinces are reported in the book. The successes are cited as examples of what can be done to create a fresh rural economy and halt migration to the city. Notable among the examples are those at Penn Craft, Pa., Tupelo, Miss., Bloomington, Ill., Granger, Ia., Alpine and Big Lick, Tenn., Brasstown and Bricks, N. C., Little River, near Abbeville, S. C., Wooton, Homeplace, and Morris Fork, Ky., Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and Barrie, Ontario. There are others at Queen Acres Homestead, Hamilton, O., Yellow Springs, O., and in Mississippi, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

These are what the book calls the "laboratories of rural survival." Each is pioneering in its own particular way in the movement to rescue the country church, the family farm, and the country town, and to preserve some balance between the conservative rural point of view, and the radical political trends in the industrial centers.

These rural experiments, the book maintains, show that a better political and economic balance can be had by creating new kinds of rural communities with an expanding and more flexible economy.

"Among the experiments are some outstanding successes," says the author, "and what those communities are doing, other communities can do. An expanding rural population can no longer exist on farming alone. Efficient farming tends to require less manpower, not more. The farm is no longer just a place to live. It is a competitive business, like retailing and manufacture. Each new crop demands more science, more machinery, and more capital. These trends mean no good to the old rural institutions like the cross roads church, the family farm, and the town meeting on which democracy has leaned since Thomas Jefferson. They are doomed unless new kinds of rural enterprise are introduced to provide jobs for the people who prefer to live and work in the country."

Hints on Seeding and Fertilizing New Lawns

By Lloyd Feller

In making a new lawn it is important to have good growth conditions. We should remember that lawns require a well drained and well aerated soil. A light subsoil may prevent good drainage, resulting in a poor turf. Under such conditions a tile drainage may be advisable.

Friable, dark colored silt lawns, which are well drained, make the most satisfactory surface soil for lawns. Usually sandy soils are too draughty to support good grass in mid-summer unless they are underlaid with heavy subsoil or can be watered often. Mixing such soils with clay and rotted manure or other organic material is recommended.

It is important to fertilize our ground before seeding the new lawns. We should mix the fertilizer with the top five inches of the surface soil. Thirty to fifty pounds of fertilizer per 100 sq. ft. is not too much if thoroughly mixed with the surface soil. It is wise to use a complete fertilizer in most cases such as 3-12-12, 4-12-8, or 2-12-6.

The seeding mixtures commonly used are.

1. Open non-shaded areas:
Kentucky blue grass — 3 parts
Red top — 1 part.
2. Dry shaded areas:
Chewings Fescue — 5 parts
Kentucky blue grass — 3 parts
Red top — 1 part
3. Moist shady places
Rough stalked meadow grass — 3 parts
Colonial bent — 1 part
Red top — 1 part
4. Sandy or draughty soils:
Chewings Fescue — 3 parts
Canada blue grass — 1 part
Red top — 1 part

White clover may be included in the mixture if desired, but not more than one-half pound of seed per 1000 sq. ft. seems advisable. On slopes or when a quick cover is desired, it may be well to sow about one pound of rye grass per 1000 sq. ft. in addition to the above mixture. Rye grass is only temporary and will die out in one or two years.

The usual rate of seeding new lawns is at the rate of 2 1/2 to 4 pounds of good clean seed per 1000 sq. ft.

Mrs. William Lake attended the district Farm Bureau meeting March 14 in Valparaiso.

Smoking Record in 1949

Although U. S. smokers used 3½ billion more cigarettes in 1949 than in 1948 there was a decrease of about one package of cigarettes per capita says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports suggest that the demand for cigarettes may now be leveling off after a series of record breaking years.

Last year, the BAE reports, that the increase of 3½ billion in use of cigarettes was about 1 percent, bringing the total for the year to 352 billion. But population increased more than 1 percent. The increase in cigarettes for the first half of the year was about 2 percent, and for the last half was just about even with the 1948 consumption for those months. With an estimated population increase of more than 2½ million, this figures to a per capita supply of 2,435 cigarettes in 1949 as compared with 2,455 in 1948.

The steady and sometimes sharp upward trend in cigarette consumption in the United States has been under way for many years, the BAE records show. Only one drop in civilian consumption has been noted. In 1944 the civilian use ran below the 1943 record. But the Bureau says that "when allowance is made for the great volume consumed by large numbers in the armed forces and overseas personnel, total consumption in 1944 substantially exceeded that of 1943."

During and since the war, cigarette smoking has continued to gain. The figures for the last half of 1949 are the first indication of a break in the climb.

H. S. DRIVING INSTRUCTION

High school driver training is described by safety experts as the best solution to the nation's traffic accident toll of 31,500 lives and 1,100,000 personal injuries on the highways.

Immediate reduction of accidents by 50 per cent was reported in Cleveland after driver training with behind-the-wheel instruction was introduced into the high schools. Analysis of driving records of 2352 Cleveland students showed that trained drivers had 2.80 accidents per 1,000 months of driving, while untrained drivers had 5.38 accidents per 1,000 months of driving.

Trained students had 16 per cent fewer traffic violation convictions during a two year period; studies show.

Nitrogen Boosts Wheat Yields

Indiana wheat farmers can profit by adopting the successful practices of approximately 2,000 wheat growers of the pocket area. In 1949 they produced an average of seven bushels more to the acre by the application of nitrogen fertilizer material where efficient phosphorus and potash had been applied at seeding time. H. R. Lathrope, extension agronomist at Purdue University, advises that nitrogen growth starts. He says that nitrogen should be applied in early spring, shortly after March 1, or before growth starts. This practice will induce tillering or stooling and supply the plant with materials for rapid growth.

The application of commercial nitrogen benefits the wheat as most soils are cold in early spring and they release very little nitrogen before wheat harvest. Wheat matures rapidly and the need for an early spring tonic is great, the agronomist explained.

Nitrogen material can be applied with a grain drill, fertilizer distributor, hand grass seeder or by airplane. Lathrope pointed out that legumes also grow well in wheat fields that have been well supplied with limestone, phosphorus and potash and which have good vertical drainage.

The carry-all bag to accompany the cotton coat holds the largest size grocery bag and has a waterproof cover for rainy days.

*The nitrogen material should be applied at the rate of about 20 pounds to 25 pounds of nitrogen per acre. The agronomist recommends application of 100 pounds of 20.5 per cent material

GOOD FARMERS MAKE GOOD SOILS

"Somehow the notion gets around," says Dr. E. Kellogg of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, "that originally our farm soils were highly productive; that is productive when first plowed. Many of them were, like the black lands in our Middle West and in central Eurasia, for example, and in some of the great deltas and alluvial valleys. But most soils are not. It is through liming and fertilization, drainage, irrigation, the introduction of legumes, and a host of other practices, that farmers have made their soils productive," explains Dr. Kellogg who is Chief of the Division of Soil Survey in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering.

"After all," he continues, "this is the important thing; not the productivity when first plowed; but the response of soils to management systems. There is no more reason for saying that large areas in the tropics are without an agricultural future than there is for saying that large areas in the eastern United States and Western Europe are without an agricultural future, simply because one gets low yields in the absence of management practices that depend upon science and industry. Science and industry are within man's control."

MARCH THE PRANKSTER

March, most of the time, is a prankster that loves a hearty laugh at someone else's expense. It makes the weatherman look ridiculous by riding blithely in on a lamb when the prediction was quite to the contrary. This Dr.-Jekyll-and-Mr.-Hyde month takes hilarious delight in snatching the hats of unsuspecting pedestrians and rolling them under automobiles or into mud puddles.

There are, of course, moments of kindness with which March can be associated. For March loosens winter's frigid grip and unlocks icebound brooks. It draws the sweet sap of the maple and swells the lilac buds. It beckons to the songbird and encourages the shy violet.

March, in more serious moods, gave birth to four Presidents of the United States—James Madison, Andrew Jackson, John Tyler, and Grover Cleveland—and brought forth three of the world's most noted composers, Johann Strauss, Franz Joseph Hayden, and Johann Sebastian Bach.

Major historical events for which March must receive credit include discovery of the South Pole by Amundsen in 1912, the founding of West Point Military Academy in 1802, the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimac, and the evacuation of Boston by the British in 1776.

But March, like all the other months, has commanded the respect of the poets. Says one:

Slayer of the winter, art thou here again?

O welcome, thou that bring'st the summer night!

March, it is quite obvious, has a split personality!

TWO CHICKENS FOR EVERY THREE POTS

If "a chicken in every pot" is desirable, what happens when there are only two chickens for every three pots? The answer to that question, says Robert F. Moore of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, goes a long way toward explaining the rapid rise during the last 25 years of the highly specialized "broiler industry."

The "two chickens for every three pots" dilemma is a tribute to the fruitfulness of the American hen—and her keeper. In the last 25 years, Moore points out, U. S. Department of Agriculture records show that average annual production has mounted until two hens—usually pullets—now supply as many eggs a year as three hens did in 1925. The demand for poultry meat increases in step with the demand for eggs, with demand for proportionately as many more steaks as omelets. But the hen that is not now needed in the laying pen furnishes no meat to go with the dumplings in the third kettle.

Raising "broilers" to provide fried chicken instead of stewed fowl has proved not only a welcome but thoroughly practical and economical way of making up this fowl shortage. Development of industrialized incubation, and of methods of sorting chicks by sex has also favored the broiler business.

State Assn. Names Veteran as "Driver of the Year, 1949"

During World War II, Lloyd Reisner, Indianapolis truck driver spent a good portion of his 4-year enlistment in the South Pacific islands, and among other things, Lloyd gleaned some knowledge of first aid. This knowledge of first aid is bringing Lloyd plaudits that he never dreamed of back there in the war days.

Recently Reisner was selected Indiana "Driver of the Year" by the Driver-of-the-Month Committee of the Indiana Motor Truck Association after consideration of the records of seven drivers who were honored during the past year as Indiana "Driver of the Month" title winners.

Reisner's selection was based on an incident which occurred near Louisville, Kentucky, last June. Reisner was proceeding cautiously down a long grade in a downpour of rain when he noticed a car crosswise of the payment, the horn blowing constantly. He pulled his outfit off the highway and ran to the car. He found a mother and her 9-year old daughter in the car, which had been in an accident. The girl's teeth had been knocked out, her mouth and face severely lacerated, and she was in danger of suffocating from a throat hemorrhage. The mother was suffering from shock.

Renders First Aid

Reisner began rendering first aid to the girl and attempting to hail motorists in hope that one would take the child to a hospital. None offered to do so, possibly due to bloody condition of the accident victim. In desperation, the truck driver commandeered a motorist, took the child in his arms and got into the car. He applied pressure to the arteries around her throat and arrested the bleeding as they sped to St. Anthony's Hospital at Louisville. After the mother and daughter were safe in the hospital, Lloyd hitch-hiked rides back to his tractor-trailer.

A month after the incident, Lloyd received this letter from the little girl, Barbara Jean Zehnder:

"I went to the doctor's today and he said I am getting along fine. I'll start with the dentist soon. Always be careful so nothing will ever happen to you. I am sending you a little gift—a shirt and a tie. When you come to Louisville, come out to see us. Your little friend, Barbara Jean."

Arthritis Afflicts Seven Million Persons

Arthritis is the great crippler of mankind. It has pained and plagued human beings for thousands of years. More people suffer from arthritis and other rheumatic diseases than the total number suffering from tuberculosis, diabetes, cancer, and heart disease combined.

It is estimated there are seven million victims of arthritis and rheumatic diseases, and 97 per cent of all persons who live beyond middle life develop some change in the bones and joints characteristic of rheumatism.

The most crippling sort of chronic arthritis begins before the age of 40. The people thus afflicted are generally young people run down by overwork, poor nutrition or chronic infection.

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation has issued some rules that, if followed, will help reduce rheumatic disease. They are: Keep body weight normal for height, age, and body build; maintain good posture and walking habits; get enough rest and sleep, and don't worry; get daily exercise, but guard against strain or injury to joints and muscles; keep warm and dry during cold, wet weather; and eat foods rich in vitamins and minerals.

Hog Raising Hours Saved by Housing

Convenient housing for the brood sow can be step No. 1 in cutting down the usual five to seven hours of work required to produce a market hog.

Methods used by efficient hog producers which have cut down this time to about half the amount have been studied by Lowell Hardin, work simplification specialist at Purdue University. He points out advantages of individual farrowing houses located either near the farmstead or in a field, and the central farrowing house plan supplemented by farrowing houses. Details of these two general plans are discussed in the leaflet, "Simplifying Chores," No. 274 of the Agricultural Extension Service which is available free from county agent or the University.

Whichever system is used, number of tips for economy labor and equipment are offered by Hardin. He suggests the use of a temporary feed storage such as an empty house or small portable building if farrowing houses are not near the farmstead.

There should be enough farrowing space so that all sows farrow in a short period to market pigs uniform, reduce robbing to get hogs to market earlier. Use of supplemental heat at farrowing is one of the greatest savings of time and energy and also helps pigs, Hardin said.

If farrowing houses are located more than 200 feet from a water source, water can be hauled in tank wagons, barrels or portable fountains. Guides for arrangement of houses are easy accessibility, possible circular paths for travel for chores, and planned round trips of such length that feed or water can be carried in a complete trip.

Diagrams of four systems of arrangement of houses are given in the leaflet. Advantages and disadvantages of each plan are discussed.

1950 Poultry Profits Depend on Practices

Although the unfavorable price for poultry and eggs has resulted in some poultry raisers being still undecided as to 1950 operations, poultry records kept co-operatively with Purdue University prove that efficient operations continue to pay.

Alexander Gordeuk, extension poultryman, points out that good poultrymen start their program by avoidance of overcrowding in the brooder house or later in the hen house. To be on the safe side, many allow more house space than considered normal, at least four square feet per hen and not more than two chicks per square foot at the start.

Feeding a good starting mesh for the first 6 or 8 weeks will guarantee a good husky chick ready to go on the range. Extra care and proper feeding throughout the growing period will help the flockowners to house top-notch pullets in the fall.

"It will be doubly important to take extra special care of eggs this year so that they go to market in the best of condition," Gordeuk stresses. The best prices are paid for the best eggs.

Those farmers who "just keep a few hens" might well consider cutting the number down this year to just enough for home egg supply. About 15 to 25 hens should be sufficient for this purpose. Indications are that 1950 will be a year when the "average farm flock" might not do so well. Flockowners must decide to take time to do a better job or they should cut down to a few hens for the family, the Purdue specialist advises.

Fresh Milk Now Hauled Long Distances

Long distance shipment of fresh fluid milk was a food supply development of the 1940's which has probably passed its peak and is likely to be less important in the 50's, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In general there has been an increase in production in local areas that now brings the normal "short haul" supply into fair balance with the demand for most of the year at least, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. At times there have been milk shipments from Minnesota for Florida. Other areas have drawn on the Mid-West for milk that would otherwise have been used

Louis F. Herrmann of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics explains that the long-distance hauling of fluid milk got under way just before the outbreak of World War II, when large Army camps were established in the South, and needed more milk than local suppliers could provide. Later a general rise in civilian milk drinking caused a continuation of shipments.

Typical of the situation are the conditions which Herrmann found as recently as 1948 in Memphis where the local supply is usually adequate, but in which shortages may arise in seasons of low production. For Memphis the importations in 1948 were from Wisconsin, and the hauls averaged more than 650 miles. Trucking charges alone were slightly more than 3 cents a quart on this supplementary milk, and other incidental charges brought the costs to Memphis distributors to nearly 5 cents a quart above the price to the Wisconsin dairymen. This, he points out, is substantially the difference which favors the local dairymen in an area that just about meets its own need for milk.

Health Board Statistical Division Has Big Job

The task of "bookkeeping for humanity" is shown by just one monthly report of H. M. Wright, director of the Division of Vital Records, Indiana State Board of Health, which reveals that birth certificates for an average month total 7,905 and death certificates 3,449.

A total of 2,922 copies of birth certificates was requested by mail during the month; 370 telephone requests were taken; 245 death certificates were requested by mail and 89 by telephone.

Thirty confidential reports of epilepsy were reported during the one month and fourteen confidential reports of blindness recorded.

The number of certificates of adoption filed was 253; seven disinterment permits were issued; 346 sample death transcripts taken for the National Office of Vital Statistics and 112 auto fatality transcripts were made for the national office.

Microfilmed certificates handled during the month totaled 11,364 and 330 photostats of non-resident deaths were made. A total of 5,195 birth notifications were typed; 2,753 index cards written and 124 checks were made for various agencies.

The game of auction bridge originated in India.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE . . .

If you are covered by Social Security you will be interested in the following statement by A. J. Altmeyer as Chairman of the Social Security Board:

"The (Social Security) Act does not meet—and indeed was never expected to meet—ALL our security needs . . . Neither the present law nor any other act of Government can make a man 'secure.' All social legislation can do . . . is to furnish the individual a solid footing on which to achieve security for himself."

I would be glad to explain to you just how the Social Security benefits apply in your own case, and how life insurance can provide the more complete protection you want for your family and yourself.

March Is Opening Of Measles Season

While measles is prevalent every month; March, April and May are regarded as the "measles months." The disease reaches its peak during this period, with April the month having the highest incidence in Indiana.

Measles remains an important disease, mainly because it is communicable for several days before the rash appears. It starts with symptoms similar to an ordinary cold. Red and watery eyes and cough appear eight or ten days after exposure to measles. The rash appears in about 12 or 14 days after exposure, first on the forehead and neck, and later over the entire body. The rash lasts three or four days, gradually fading. The disease is communicable for about five days after the rash disappears.

Pneumonia is the complication most feared during an attack of measles. There are other complications, chiefly infection of the middle ear. Several cases of infection of the brain occur during a large epidemic of measles.

Most of the deaths due to measles and its complications could be prevented by prompt use of new serums. The serum is administered to those exposed, or at first symptoms of the disease.

Measles is primarily a disease of pre-school children, although all those who never have had the disease should guard against it.

Potato consumption in the United States had declined from 195 pounds per person in 1910 to 118 pounds by 1948.

Celebrates 86th Birthday

Rev. John A. Tiedt celebrated his 86th birthday last Wednesday, March 15, with a dinner. He received many cards. He was happy. He did not know he had so many friends. His son, W. B. Tiedt, could not be home for the occasion as he is touring and working in Milwaukee, Wis., and other cities. He sent greetings over Western Union to his father and a gift. His daughter, Ruth, and family also sent greetings and a gift.

Mrs. Esther Osborn was visiting with her son, Dr. William and Mrs. Osborn, at Joliet, Ill., and came home to be with her parents for the occasion, and Rev. and Mrs. Cox of Syracuse, Ind., brought Mrs. Esther Osborn home early on Wednesday noon. We were surely surprised.

Rev. Tiedt has been quite sick since Jan. 15 and not out of doors or at church since then. He is improving slowly.

Rev. and Mrs. Roederer presented him with a nice large black print Bible for his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cromley and children came Wednesday evening after prayer meeting with a large Sunshine box of different kinds of fruit from the Prayer Group Youth of our church for Mr. Tiedt. Mrs. Sims brought a chicken. Mrs. Alvin Zechiel brought strawberries and peaches.

We wish to thank all friends and loved ones from Dayton, Ohio, and Culver for their thoughtfulness; also the Prayer Group Youth, and here are the names given us: Larry Crabb, Marian Warner, Glen Crabb, David Warner, Elaine Warner, Lois Condon, Frieda Condon, James Harper, and Allan Crabb.

And we must not forget Alvin Zechiel and his good helper, the Good Samaritan, who cut down the old maple tree for wood to burn when coal was short. Thank you, Alvin. God bless all in Jesus' name. Rev. and Mrs. John Tiedt.

In open jumping competition against adult riders from the Chicago area, cadets captured second and fourth places for ribbons.

This final game gave the cadet polo team a season record of 13 and 3 losses.

Gayble Theatre Installs Plastic Mold Screen

Patrons of the Gayble Theatre of North Judson will see a remarkable use of plastics when the hit features are flashed on the theatre's unique new picture screen.

Known technically as the Walker plastic molded, the Gayble has the distinction of being one of the first in this area to bring to movie patrons the advantages of this new kind of motion picture screen.

The use of plastics for motion picture screens is something entirely new and it's employment makes possible a vastly improved screen surface adding to greater picture enjoyment. While the average type of screen has a flat surface, the plastic screen has a surface that is molded into a series of elliptical contours characterized by three sets of waves. These contours, or tiny hills and valleys increase the total reflective area of the screen and provide it with actual depth, forming what projection engineers call a multi-plane image surface.

The contoured surface of the new screen doubles the illusion of depth and is said to bring out the richness and beauty of the film. It doubles the range of tones. As the range is increased, deeper tones appear, contrast is sharpened, blacks are blacker, reds are redder and whites are whiter.

GRADUATE'S NUMBER IN CONCERT

Music written especially for concert bands, including a number by a University of Wisconsin graduate student, will predominate in the annual Palm Sunday (April 2) program which the University Concert band will give in the Wisconsin Union theater, according to the Wisconsin State Journal.

The student is Richard Bowles, Culver, Ind., and his composition is "Easter Festival." This will be its first public performance.

In connection with the university music school's Shoenberg festival, the band will play that composer's only band work - "Theme and Variations." The program also will include "Grand Symphony for Band," Berlioz; "Overture for Band," Mendelssohn; "Royal Fireworks Music," Handel; and "Les Preludes," Liszt.

Emmett R. Sarig, acting director of the band during the absence of Prof. Raymond F. Dyorak will conduct the concert.
