Playwright Joshua Logan Chosen CMA "Man Of The Year"

Culver - Joshua Logan, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and director of some of this century's most successful Broadway production, including Annie Get Your Gun, Picnic, Mister Roberts, and South Pacific, has been chosen by Culver Military Academy as its 1979 Man of the Year.

Mr. Logan, a 1927 graduate of CMA, will be honored by the Academy at its annual Man of the Year Award ceremony on Friday, May 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's Eppley Auditorium. Culver superintendent Dean John R. Mars will make the presentation at the special student convocation in Mr. Logan's honor.

Mr. Logan is the twelfth Culver alumnus to be honored as Man of the Year since the award was initiated in 1968.

Culver's man of the Year Award is presented each year to a CMA alumnus who has, in the school's opinion, distinguished himself by having attained "a high level of respect within his chosen profession and for noteworthy and significant contributions to American society." The selection is not necessarily based on service to Culver.

Joshua Logan was born in Texas, raised in Louisiana, and moved to Culver, Indiana, at the age of twelve, when his stepfather, Col. Howard Frank Noble, joined the faculty of Culver Military Academy located on the shores of northern Indiana's Lake Maxinkuckee. Mr. Logan's student career at CMA, which began in 1923, was eventually highlighted by winning of a regimental boxing championship, by his position as cartoonist on the Vedette, the Academy campus newspaper, and by his commission as a cadet lieutenant in his senior year.

However, says Logan in his autobiography Josh, published by Delacorte Press in 1976, "The day I got to know Charles Mather, professor of dramatics at Culver -- the day I entered his class -- I felt my life swerve and suddenly steady itself."

Under Mather's supervision, Mr. Logan became heavily involved in campus dramatic activities, and, at graduation ceremonies in 1927, was named the school's first recipient of the McDonald Award for "excellence and leadership in the cultural activities of Culver Military Academy."

Moving on to Princeton University, he quickly became president of the Triangle Club, the school's noted drama troupe, but then left Princeton in January, 1931, to study with Stanislavsky at the Moscow Arts Theatre. During his college summers, Mr. Logan was one of the founders of the University Players, whose members included Henry Fonda, Margaret Sullivan, Jimmy Stewart, Mildred Natwick, Myron McCormick and Breaugne Windust, all then unknown.

Following four years of active duty with the U. S. Army in World War II, he made a triumphant return to Broadway in 1946 with the block-buster Annie Get Your Gun, starring Ethel Merman, and followed that success with Mister Roberts in 1948, a play he also co-authored, South Pacific in 1949, which with Oscar Hammerstein II, he co-authored as well, and for which he shared the Pulitzer Prize, and Picnic, the Pulitzer Prize winning play of 1953.

As a playwright, Mr. Logan made additional Broadway contributions as co-author of Higher and Higher, Wish You Were Here, Fanny and as sole author The Wisteria Tree. In all of these he was both director and co-producer.

The stars with whom he has successfully worked include -- besides Miss Merman -- Helen Hayes, Mary Martin, Ezio Pinza, Walter Huston, Charles Boyer, Henry Fonda, Edward G. Robinson, Marion Brando and Marilyn Monroe.

Mr. Logan has written two books chronicling his many years on Broadway and in Hollywood: Josh, My Up and Down, In and Out Life (1976) and Movie Stars, Real People and Me (1978) both published by New York's Delacorte Press.

Mr. Logan who says, "My life and breath is the theatre," attributes much of his success to what others have come to call 'Logan's Law,' a principle which he claims to have learned from fellow playwright Maxwell Anderson, who, according to Logan, said:

"A play should take its protagonist through a series of experiences which lead to a climactic moment toward the end when he learns something, discovers something about himself and that he could have known all along but has been blind to."

"This discovery comes as such an emotionally shattering blow (and that's the key word, emotionally) that it changes the entire course of his life -- and that change must be for the better...The audience must feel and see the leading man or woman become wiser, and the discovery must happen onstage in front of their eyes. "And that doesn't mean a happy ending. If the hero is to die, then he just must make the discovery before he dies. Of course, the classic example is Oedipus. But it's true of Hamlet and Macbeth and down the line even to Jeeter Lester to Tobacco Road and De Lawd in Green Pastures. You'll find it in every successful play."

"For when the protagonist has this revelation, one which raises his moral stature, the audience can grow vicariously along with him. Thus people leave the theatre feeling better, healthier-minded than when they arrived. It's an exciting experience. And that excitement makes a play live."

It is for just such excitement, with Joshua Logan has brought to countless American audiences over the past forty years, that his alma mater will honor him on Friday, May 18.

Lunar Rock In Culver

The rocks are small samples from bigger rocks taken back from the lunar surface by the astronauts on the many APOLLO missions to the moon. Both schools used these rocks and the accompanying film and slide presentation in their science classes to give to their students a better understanding of this very highly successful scientific and technical project conducted by the United States.

The rocks and film were obtained from the Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by a joint effort of Mr. Adams and Mr. Baker.

Mushroom People Are Out Again

After receiving a long distance phone call from my son and lovely cards and gifts from my daughters on Mother's Day, I decided to spend the rest of the day writing. Among other items for the Monday deadline, I had a column to do. I started three or four paragraphs several times and couldn't get my act together.

I decided to take the rest of the day off and run this column from last year, entitled:

Mushroom Hunters Beware!
Until moving to Indiana, I was totally unaware that there were so many seemingly normal adults who take part each spring and fall in a ritual shrouded in secrecy. They call it "Mushroom Hunting."

People ask if I've been mushroom hunting yet and when I reply, "No," I'm greeted with looks of disbelief. One person even questioned if I'd been institutionalized and just escaped.

Since I couldn't fight 'em, I decided to join 'em. This led to another new discovery. Successful mushroomers won't tell you where to hunt. A group in Monterey, carrying bags laden with the delectable delicacies, would only reveal that they found them in Wisconsin.

Another man mentioned that he was leaving the following day for his annual mushroom pilgrimage to Michigan.

I couldn't afford to go out of state to climes unknown, so I questioned more Hoosiers about favorite haunts. All I got was an evasive, "Over there," or "in the woods," and one specific answer, "in Marshall County." That was really narrowing it down.

Then someone said they heard on a scanner that one of the local gentry was mushroom hunting in a golf cart. The next time I see a parked golf cart, I'm going to search for the owner and spy on him until he leads me to the elusive sponge.

Since I was getting no cooperation, I decided to eat my steak, sans mushrooms, and retire early. Darned if I didn't dream about them. I accidentally came upon a spot in the woods laden with acres of the beauties. Looking around, slyly, to make sure I wasn't followed, I started gathering them by the bags full.

Returning to the car with almost more than I could carry, I planned on taking my find home and coming back with more empty bags. A man spotted me, screeched to a halt, got out of his car and ran into the woods. I looked on, helplessly. Then, to my amazement, a giant mushroom friend attacked and devoured him, then winked at me. I drove off into the sunset, certain my cache was safe. My cache was safe.

I woke up with a smile on my face, muttering, "That'll teach 'em not to tell me where to hunt mushrooms."

The next time you go into the woods to hunt mushrooms, beware of the one that wink. They're my friends.

(Editors note: The local gentry hunting mushrooms in a golf cart was my friend, Sam Medbourn, who died in March. The friend who makes the annual trek to Michigan is Don Scales of Crass Creek. He probably hunted them last weekend so I'll ask how he did and get a handful for my next steak.)

I hope every mother had as happy a day as I did. I ended up at my daughter's for a steak dinner -- without mushrooms.

WALNUT TOWNSHIP EXTENSION CLUB HOLDS MEET

by Barbara Hann

Argos - The Walnut Township Homemakers Club held their monthly meeting May 2nd at the Argos State Exchange Bank Friendship room with 20 members present.

Alberta Middaugh the club president opened the meeting by greeting the members and a special greeting to the ones who had been on vacation and have now arrived home. The club creed and the flag pledges were recited. Marjorie Snyder gave the devotions with a mothers day theme. She read several mothers day poems and a prayer.

Roll call was answered with something I cherish and many things were shown; a sugar spoon, a watch, a carved shoe, a dish, some who didn't bring anything told of things they had at home and couldn't bring or forgot.

Citizenship was given by Catherine Bolinger and she told of the Conn band instrument factory in Elkhart, started in 1855, but as early as 1873 he received a bruised lip and invented a rubber mouthpiece for the cornet so he could continue to play his instrument. They are the largest band instrument makers of the world although there are several subsidiaries who make them too.

A report on the style show and achievement night was given. The lesson on understanding the welfare was given by Evelyn Bourroughs. She told of the several kinds of welfare available to the needy and ADC or Aid to dependent children, Aid to the Blind, aid to the aging, and an aid to crippled children. Foster Home care and nursing home care are all administered through the welfare department.

A delicious dessert was served by Marjorie and Mary Ruth Snyder at a table decorated with spring flowers.

Much fun was derived from a white elephant sale which netted the club over $48.00 this seems to be a regular May project with Barbara Hann as Auctioneer.

ATTENTION SENIORS!!!

The graduating class of 1979 will be walking down the aisle this Sunday afternoon to receive their diploma. This will mark a milestone in their careers. Some will go on to higher education, some will choose military service and several will enter the work force.

To those going to college or enter military, we wish them well and hope they attain their goals. We invite them to consider their hometown when they enter the work force later in life.

For those planning to enter the work force in the next several weeks, we urge them to look over the many fine employment possibilities available in the hometown community or closeby. Local business and industry offer many excellent career opportunities. The graduating seniors are invited to visit with local business and industry personnel offices to discuss employment.

Our communities are close enough to the large metropolitan areas that you can live and work here and still enjoy the things a big city has to offer. It is a proven fact that raising children in small town America is much better than in the asphalt jungles of the big city. The cost of living is generally lower - thus, a resident locally can enjoy an equal, or even better, standard of living, than his big city counterpart, for a lot less money.

Another opportunity available to the graduating senior is the possibility of living in the hometown and working in a nearby metropolitan area. This offers the family a chance to enjoy local life while still being in the mainstream of large business activities. The growth of rural America in the past several years proves that many families are choosing this way of life.

It is tempting for the graduate to immediately head for the city after graduation to seek fame and fortune. The glitter of the bright lights and the television version of life in suburbia encourages the youth of today to become a part of this life-style. Many will go this route. Statistics prove that many of these same people will return to rural America when they discover the problems and their children reach school age.

The local community has been extremely proud of this graduating class of 1979. This class, and the many before it, have helped to make the community a better place to live and work. We now ask that you consider joining the local community on a lifetime basis.

Hazel Thompson Coats, Hazel Thompson Coats, Supreme Inspector of the Indiana Order of Rainbow For Girls, who is hospitalized with a leg injury. Following the formal closing, refreshments were served in the social rooms with Rita Ulch presiding at the punch bowl. She was assisted by Debra Butler and Ruth Birk.

ESTHER CIRCLE VISITS SHUT-INS

Argos - The Esther Circle from the United Methodist Church held their annual eat-out at Grandma's Kitchen on Wednesday, May 9. After a lovely meal of oven steak, a short business meeting was held. Each shared a poem or read an article. Then all went to visit a home bound member, Eloise Bowell. We miss having her.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

"AHS Alumni salutes and proud of Green Dragon accomplishments. Like opportunity to honor them at Banquet 26th. Be nice to greet fellow alumni from Argos too. See each other every day; oh yes at the grocery, clubs, churches, no excuse to one not to attach. Some of us travel distances and are disappointed. A successful banquet needs attendance and cooperation of all; home and away. Help your officers whether at Argos, Plymouth or all Alumni Association." Gilbert Becker

5 YEARS CELEBRATED BY ARGOS BAPTISTS

Argos - On Sunday, May 13th, the First Baptist Church of Argos, will celebrate their Silver Anniversary with special activities scheduled. Evangelist Richard Kilian of Lakeland, Florida, will preach at the 9:30 a.m. service. Dinner will be served at noon. At 1:00 p.m., a time of informal fellowship will be enjoyed by visiting friends and guests, along with sandwiches and coffee. The Evening Service commences at 7:00 p.m. and will feature the King's Witness quartet of Elkhart and Evangelist Kilian. After the two hour program, friends are invited to share in the anniversary cake.

A brief history of the Church reveals that on November 1, 1954, the Rev. Alfred Colwell, with the help of Burton Bartling, began a two week series of evangelistic meetings in what was formerly the Church of God. The Rev. Colwell called a meeting to select temporary officers for the purpose of organizing a Baptist Church. The Church of God which had been leased by the Argos Union Bible Conference was secured for use. Attendance on the first Sunday was about thirty-three. Regular services every Sunday followed with Mr.

Bartling in charge.

A charter membership was opened which included Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bartling, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newburg, Manford Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Norris, Dan McFarland, Dick Rowe, and Mrs. Nora Wittmaack. The church held its first business meeting in December 1954. Officers were elected. Mr. Bartling was extended a call to be pastor of the church.

On November 15, 1955, the Argos Union Bible Conference sub-leased the property to the First Baptist Church of Argos, sub-lease to expire on June 27, 2037. The church was incorporated by the State of Indiana on May 2, 1957. In 1959, the church building was completely renovated.

Through the years, the church attendance grew, making the church building inadequate. Church Growth

Services was called in 1969 to help work out a plan for church growth with the possibility of a new building. A new location of five acres was offered by Loy Fishburn. The property is immediately east of his farm on Road 10, the present pastor, Ray Oviatt, who came to Argos in 1965, the congregation has invested over a quarter of a million dollars in a very lovely church building, which was dedicated in March of 1973. Since that time, the congregation had doubled in attendance. Plans are in the making for enlargement of the auditorium.

Other pastors who have served the Church throughout its 25 years besides its founding pastor, Burton Bartling 1954-1958, were Fred Cron 1958-1961, and Charles Dinwiddle, Jr. 1962-1965. Nora Wittmaack, the oldest living charter member, is a resident of the Kingston Nursing Home in Plymouth.

KEEPSAKE SEEN BY HOMEMAKERS

Argos - Jewelry, dolls, dishes and old family pictures were among the treasured keepsakes brought by members of the Green Township Homemakers Club to the Tuesday meeting in the home of Julia King. These keepsakes were displayed as 16 members answered roll call. Emma Gilchrist and Lori Sargent were guests.

Mark Heckaman, vice-president, presided. Mary Ann Fishburn told of the origin of Mother's Day for her devotions. Anna M. Jarvis is credited with establishing the day in the United States; however, observation of such a day dates back to the Greek Empire and in the 14th Century, Mothering Day was observed in England.

donated towards tables and chairs for the new exhibit building at the 4-H fairgrounds. The newly established open show for Home Economics will be open to Marshall County residents or to a resident of another county if she belongs to a Marshall County Home Extension Club. Information concerning categories is available at the Extension office.

Rosetta Harrell pointed out that over a million men have died defending freedom for this country and the very least we can do is show a real interest and honor them on Memorial Day which will be observed on May 28 this year.

Doris Miller told about glass which is, she stated, a part of the human way of life. No one knows where it originated, but it is known it dates back to 4100 B.C. It is so important because it can be made cheaply, is durable and can be rolled, molded, blown or drawn into fabrics. There were 116 glass plants in operation in Indiana in 1899, today there are only 50.

In giving the lesson on Understanding the Welfare Program, Virginia Redinger related that welfare was a township responsibility until 1935 when county, state and federal programs came into being. The county pays completely in some, state and federal in others. Current programs available to those who meet the criteria are Aid to Dependent Children, Old Age Assistance, Disability Assistance, Blind Assistance, County Home Assistance, Nursing Home Assistance, Medicaid, Crippled Children, Foster Care and Food Stamps. For more information, contact the Welfare Office at 109 N. Walnut Street, Plymouth.

Court Awareness Day will be May 11 and Officers Training will be June 11. Louise Voreis, Julia King and Lida Thompson will serve the Argos REAL Meal on May 28.

Mary Heckaman will entertain the club in her home on June 12. Mary Anna Fishburn will install the new officers and country officers will be guests. Dara Yoder will give the lesson on What Values Are Being Taught Today.

By Mike Schwartz

Last week the CCHS girls' track team relinquished their 2-year hold on the Northern States Conference Track and Field Meet crown handing the title over to New Prairie. The losing margin was 4 points at the finish, although the meet wasn't as close as the final score indicated. The New Prairie depth was too much for the Cavaliers to overcome.

The Wiggin twins, Anne and Robin paced the Cavaliers with record-breaking performances in the high jump and long jump respectively. Robin's 17-7 performance is presently the best in the South Bend area.

Meanwhile, in proving that it isn't impossible to improve while losing, the CCHS golf team shot a 185 last week against TVS, the lowest score shot by a Cavalier team in 3 years. While going winless this year, the team continues to show improvement week-by-week. Inconsistency is the team's biggest foe.

Speaking of golf, Steve Neff, tournament director for the Culver - Maxinkuckee First Annual City Golf Tournament says entries are coming in slower than anticipated. Don't forget all entries for the June 9 - 10 tournament must be in by May 31. Fore!

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank all the people who helped me out during my illness. I'm not really sure who they all were, but thanks anyway. A special thanks to the EMT's, they deserve much credit for the work they do. The Culver ambulance service is something for the communities to be proud of. They are very prompt and courteous. I received so many nice cards, flowers, plants, and telephone calls. The doctors and nursing staff at Winamac was great. I truly appreciate all the kindness shown to me.
Sincerely,
Pat Weaver

ARGOS SENIOR CITIZENS HEAR ABOUT TEST HOME

by Barbara Hann

Argos - On Monday morning you can see the Argos Senior Citizens all going towards the United Methodist Church for their weekly visit and a REAL meal with their friends. Monday the 14th there were 44 of them, all glad to be able to get outside.

Sharon Mevis greeted all with her cheery smile. "What's new around Argos" is always a beginner, and "Mothers Day" was the topic. With some family dinners, some went out to eat. One family cook-out was enjoyed with 14 present. Then the children's flower was discussed; The dandelion. A child can pick as many of them as they wish without being scolded for picking mommys flowers. They can make leis, bouquets, pick them to pieces, or put them and hold them under their chin to see if they like butter, or just pick them for fun and let them lay and wilt and no one cares. Parents think they look lovely in their carpet of green grass but wish they would just go away.

Sharon then introduced the guest speaker of the day, Mrs. William Schoolman (Rachel). Their home is a test home for mentally retarded or handicapped young men. They started about five years ago while living in South Bend. They took in a young boy from a broken home who was kicked out of his home. The mother and father were divorced and the boy was hard to handle and the mother couldn't cope with him. The Schoolmans took him in and after this it seemed when ever a boy needed a home he just ended up in their home. The funding at that time was very poor but the boys were fed and cared for. Their home was a bit crowded for they had four children of their own. So they began looking for a farm. They finally found one but it still wasn't large enough so the house was remodeled to make room for their family and the garage was made into a comfortable dormitory for their foster sons, which now number 4. They have their own bath, beds, chests of drawers, clothes hampers, a T.V., stereo and radios. They live with the rest of the family and spend most of their time with them but if they want peace and quiet and that's hard to come by in a family of 10, (the youngsters of Schoolmans children is a boy 7, a girl 9, and a boy 11 and 12). The boys can go to their dorm and read or just relax. Rachel teaches these men or boys, as they all have an age barrier, some can't read or write, one is a mongoloid and very loveable, one has seizures; all have brain damage.

They are taught to do their own laundry, each has his night to help cook the evening meal. They are taught to wash dishes, make their own beds, take a turn cleaning their bathroom, and cleaning their room. This is all check by Rachel. They wash dishes with one of the Schoolman children taking a turn with them.

Rachel is a bookkeeper, a banker, a business manager, for them. She is called to conferences with the Logan Center on the progress of these young men. They are inspected by the State Fire Marshal and the Board of Health.

The Prayer was given by Sharon Mevis. She read a poem shared by Lucy Good "Moments of Gold" before the meal. The Hospital Auxiliary No.7 volunteered to serve the meal. Mary Olin, Dora Mae Deamer, Evelyn Beam and Lida Thompson did a very nice job. The tables were decorated by Marie Ringle. Sea shells with flowers in them were on the tables. Door prizes were won by Lona Shafer, Elson Reed, also flowers from last weeks young farmers were won by Lela Elliott, Clara Stephenson, Clara Nicholes and Rachel Schoolman.

Next weeks program will be The Rentz Triplets and their mother. We had them a year ago. It will be fun to see the change a year can make in their lives.

The menu will be pineapple juice, fish squares with tartar sauce, cole slaw, hash brown potatoes, birthday cake, bread, margarine, milk, tea and coffee.

Call in reservations to 892-5012 before noon Friday.
