Culver - A Growing Community

Culver - While some small towns are experiencing a decline in business, causing companies to move to larger cities, the opposite is true in Culver. In this town of 1,783 residents many businesses are being constructed and others have recently opened.

Under construction is the Shirt Shed, Inc., on Mill Street near State Highway 10. The home offices are located in Wabash. The company's main business is printing by a process of heat transfer, all types of slogans and pictures on T-shirts. The plant will employ approximately 150 mostly males, and representatives are in Culver now conducting interviews with prospective employees. Shirt Shed, Inc., plans to be operating in November.

The Millers' Merry Manor nursing home construction is progressing rapidly. This intermediate care facility will ultimately feature three wards of 22 beds each. The first wing is scheduled for a January 1980 opening. The entire construction should be finished by May of 1980. The nursing home, featuring a unique design, will offer activities and other programs which are found in a standard nursing home. It is located on School Street across from the Culver Community High School.

Also under construction is a new bowling alley, being built by Camelot Universal Corp. This is located near the junction of State Roads 10 and 17 across from Maxinkuckee Home Supply. According to Jim Sarna, partner of the operation, they are trying for a late November opening of eight lanes and plan on a 14-lane alley on completion.

A 20 unit Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) financed apartment complex also scheduled to be built on a one and one half acre site north of Academy Drive and west of Lakeshore Drive. Twenty apartments in two buildings, plus a community building, will be located at the site, according to Jim Locker, Lakeville, the project developer. Tom and Tony Sell of Bourbon and Tom Platt, Mishawaka, are also developers in this project. The purpose of these apartments is to provide housing for low to moderate income families through FmHA financing.

In July of this year the Pizza King opened on South Main in a remodeled existing building. Owners Bob Morgan and Connie Sprague report that they are being kept busy serving pizzas, sandwiches and salads.

In August, Mrs. Dorothy C. Barnes held an informal opening of her Cherry Villa artists gallery. She features arts and crafts and some antiques. Also on display are works of local artists. For the month of October water color paintings by Mrs. Emma Lou Martin of Culver are on exhibit. Mrs. Barnes plans a grand opening for the Gallery in the spring. Cherry Villa is located on Lake Maxinkuckee at the end of Mill Street.

Alford's IGA Foodliner store celebrated its first anniversary at their spacious store on Lakeshore Drive near the junction of State Roads 10 and 17 in July.

Many existing businesses, such as Maxinkuckee Home Supply have expanded and Boetsma Home Furnishings is under new management with longer hours for business, increased lines of furnishings. The Herb Center, a health food store, also located in an existing building on South Main.

The town has also built a new town garage on land donated to the community by McGill Manufacturing Co. This is located on Mill Street across from the Shirt Shed location. McGill, on Highway 17 and Mill Street, is the largest employer in Marshall County.

Also under construction is an ambulance garage and Emergency Medical Technician training room adjacent to the Town Hall. This will house the newly purchased ambulance and the back-up ambulance which was recently donated to the town by James Bonine of Bonine Funeral Home. Bonine ran the emergency service for 19 years prior to the town taking it over.

Many new homes are under construction, several on the shores of Lake Maxinkuckee, Indiana's second largest natural lake. The Buildings and Trades class instituted this year at CCHS has their project, a home on Highway 10, north of Millers Merry Manor, well underway. A completion date is set for the end of the second semester.

The nearby village of Leiters Ford in Fulton County saw construction of a new factory, Switches, Inc., and its now reported that they plan to expand which will result in more job openings in that area.

Despite inflation and forebodings of doom on the economic scene, Culver seems alive and well.

There are many progressive thinkers as can be noted by the half time festivities featured at the last high school football game. In frigid temperatures Vashiti and her Belly Dance Troupe performed before a delighted audience. Two of the dancers, Marilyn Kelly and Mary Louise Krieg are Culver residents.

This is the site of the Shirt Shed, Inc., construction. The plant is planning a November opening and will employ approximately 150.

The new bowling alley being built by Camelot Universal Corp., is located on Highway 10 and 17 just west of the junction. Builders are trying for a late November opening.

Millers Merry Manor unique design will feature 3 "pods" containing 22 beds each. The first wing is scheduled for a January 1980 opening.

Culver Police To Conduct Shoplifting Seminar

Culver - The Culver Police Department will be sponsoring a Shoplifting Seminar on October 18th, 7:00 p.m. at the Culver Town Hall. This meeting will be open to all local merchants. Various topics will be discussed pertaining to shoplifting methods. Detention laws pertaining to suspects will also be discussed along with details on what merchants can do to endorse preventative security. Some surprising statistics will be presented. Officer Terry Leahy will be presenting the program and films will be shown documenting the materials presented.

State Exchange Donates To United Fund

Culver - One of the first donations for this year's Culver-Union Twp., United Fund drive was made by State Exchange Bank. A check for $800 is being presented to the Co-Chairman, Robert Osborn, Jr., right by the bank's Vice President and Cashier, Jack Keldenich, left.

Rough Riders Visit St. Louis

Culver - The Rough Riders of northern Indiana's Culver Military Academy - Culver Girls Academy made their first public appearance of the current school year in a city that has special meaning for Culver Academy students and for the Rough Riders themselves.

They appeared twice daily October 5 - 6 at the St. Louis National Charity Horse Show, at Greensfelder Center, Queeny Park, St. Louis, Mo.

St. Louis was the home of Henry Harrison Culver, founder of the city's Wrought Iron Range Company and, later, of Culver Military Academy. It also was the site of the first performance of the Rough Riders. The original Rough Riders appeared at the 1904 Louisiana Purchase Exposition (World's Fair) with the famed Culver Black Horse Troop.

Composed of both Culver Military Academy cadets and Culver Girls Academy students, the Rough Riders are the only high school group in the United States currently performing their unique type of horsemanship. Many trick riders in circuses perform some Rough Rider tricks, but always with the horses on a long rope. The Rough Riders' mounts run free.

"Rough riding is a combination of gymnastics on horseback, Greco-Roman riding, and cavalry survival tactics," explains Timothy J. Warrick, Rough Rider coach. "Rough Riders perform pyramids, flying mounts at a gallop and Roman riding on galloping teams of two, three, and sometimes four horses going over jumps. They also do trick riding, doing tricks made famous by cowboy stars such as Roy Rogers and Gene Autry. They do trampoline flips over four, five and six horses, vault over horses and perform the monkey drill, a cavalry drill."

The Rough Riders and the Black Horse Troop preserve many of the drills and traditions of the U. S. Army Cavalry. The Black Horse Troop is the largest cavalry unit in the United States.

Also preserving and revitalizing tradition is the St. Louis National Charity Horse Show. Horse shows in Missouri date back to 1855, and the St. Louis show was a mainstay for the equestrian circuit for many years. However, it was not staged for 25 years until a group of interested citizens revived it last year. This year, the reborn event has 600 entries from the United States, Australia and Great Britain. The size of the arena limited the number of entries, or there would have been more, according to John Springer, who is working on the show.

Thirteen of the 25 Culver Rough Riders performed at the show. They were Philip P. Smith III, St. Louis; Francisco Buelna, Sinaloa, Mexico; Gary Charles, Jackson, Kentucky; David England, Narragansett, R. I.; Peter Lipscomb, N.Y.; N. Y.; Tom Lloyd, Montgomery, Ala. Kevin McCarthy, Encino, Calif.; Henry P. McIntosh V, Monterey, Calif.; Leigh J. Nacht, Canton, Ohio;

Christian Rasch, Guatemala City, Guatemala; Miguel Senior Jr., Caracas, Venezuela; Missy Montgomery, Grove City, Pa., and Susan Freshley, Sussex, England.

TAG DAY A HUGE SUCCESS

Culver - The Culver Community School Music Dept. would like to thank everyone who helped on Tag Day and also the generous donors of the community who made the program such a success.

The Music Booster will be holding an auction on Sunday, Oct. 21 at 1 p.m. at the Bus barns in back of the high school.

Residential Survey To Be Taken In Culver

Culver - The Culver Town Board members and Chamber of Commerce President Ron Tusing, announced today that the Town of Culver, for purposes of updating its planning program as well as application for federal grants, will be conducting a survey of its residents.

Information collected from the survey, according to Town Board President, Dan Adams, is "critical if the Town is to meet the requirements set down by the Farm Home Administration for approval of the Town's request for a grant of several thousand dollars."

Tusing added that the survey is an important part of the Town's matching requirements for the recently awarded Farm Home Administration grant. It will also provide planning information about the fire department, recreation facilities, zoning plans, drainage system, and location of business and industry in Culver.

Residents of Culver are invited to contribute the much needed information and opinions through the survey.

The actual legwork of collecting the information will be done on the Saturdays of October 13 and 27 by people from nearby Valparaiso University. They will be involved in the distribution, collection, and tabulation of the survey.

Board member Jan Williams added that she thinks "it is excellent for the University to help the city as it is." Both Tusing and Board President Adams hope Culver residents will help the University people in conducting the survey.

Board member Jan Williams added that she interests with Western ones when he studied modern dance in the United States with Eric Hawkins and mime with Etienne Decroux, the master who taught Merce Cunningham.

Blending modern dance, mime and Japanese theater, Hakoshima has created a unique mime style. He tells entire tales in mime. Though he performs some traditional-style mime sketches, he also "portrays" abstract concepts. The artist has toured extensively in Europe and taught at the Netherland Mime Theatre, Amsterdam; the Max Reinhardt School, Berlin.

Tickets for Hakoshima's performance are available by calling Harvey Firari, director of theater, at 842-3311, or at the box office the evening of the performance.

Hakoshima To Perform At Eppley Auditorium

Culver - Yass Hakoshima, one of the world's leading innovators in mime, will appear at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 17, at Eppley Auditorium on the campus of the Culver Military and Culver Girls Academy Culver.

Hakoshima has appeared and been lauded in the great cities of the world. This season he will perform in Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, the Wiesbaden (Germany) May Festival, the Berlin International Theatre Festival, and the Spoleto (Italy) Festival of Two Worlds.

Born and educated in Japan, Hakoshima drew his early interests from his parents. His mother was an opera singer, and his father, an archeologist. Hakoshima studied music, Japanese literature, classic Japanese dance and Noh movement. He began to combine these

by Arlene Nix Wilder

LOOKING BACK

A friend of mine gave me the following article she'd clipped from Womans Day magazine because it reminded her of me.

WOMAN ENOUGH

by Erica Jong

because my grandmother's hours were apple cakes baking and dust motes gathering and linens yellowing and seams and hems inevitable unraveling - I almost never keep house, though really I like houses and wish I had a clean one.

Because my mother's minutes were sucked into the roar of the vacuum cleaner, because she waltzed with the washer-dryer and tore her hair waiting for repairs - I send out my laundry and live in a dusty house, though really I like clean houses as well as anyone. I am woman enough to love the kneading of bread as much as the feel of typewriter keys under my fingers - springy, springy. And the smell of clean laundry and simmering soup are almost as dear to me as the smell of paper and ink.

I wish there were not a choice; I wish I could be two women.

I wish the days could be longer. But they are short So I write while the dust piles up.

I sit at my typewriter remembering my grandmother and all my mothers, and the minutes they lost loving houses better than themselves.

And the man I love cleans up the kitchen grumbling only a little because he knows that after all these centuries

it is easier for him than for me

This brought to my memory, my grandmother. My mother's mother was sweet, kind and patient. My grandad owned a second hand store and when any of us kids made a purchase, Grandma would find out about it and give us our money back. I hope she didn't do this with all customers.

She had a full life doing what women were supposed to do in those days - keep a clean house, look after husband and children and suffer what might be termed "hardships" nowadays.

My mother did all those things, but worked outside the home sometimes during my growing up years. Even in her absence were we were aware of her love. She raised five kids who are now intelligent, productive adults with the possible exception of me.

I wonder what memories will stir my offsprings when they are my age. Maybe Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners (those I love to cook), a not quite so clean house as Grandma has. A mother who had the misfortune to own a typewriter and the insatiable desire to write.

Whatever their memories, I hope they look back with kindness and understanding. I was at home to keep a close eye on them while they were small, but when it became necessary to work outside the home, I hoped the earlier training had paid off.

I reasoned that since the Lord loaned them to me He would be on hand to watch over them in my absence.

The philosophy has worked thus far. I have three intelligent, productive adults and two teenagers at home whom I'm not quite sure are ready for the big, wide world.

Come to think of it - is the world ready for them? Anyway, kiddos, I'll be happy if you just look back with love.

Fithian announced that a member of his staff will be available in the mobile office to help individuals facing problems with the federal bureaucracy. Citizens also will be able to convey their views to Fithian's aide on matters facing Congress.

"A congressman must stay in touch with the people he represents," Fithian said, "and the mobile office is one of the best means of doing that. This service gives all citizens equal access to their congressional office, regardless of where they live."

Fithian noted that the 2nd District covers more than 5,000 square miles, including 113 cities and towns in 14 counties.

"The Office on Wheels enables me to bring Washington a bit closer to Indiana," he said.

The office will be at the Culver library from 11:45 to 12:25 on Tuesday, October 16.

W.A.FLEET UNIT AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY NEWS

Culver - The W. A. Fleet Unit 103 American Legion Auxiliary met at the Legion Home October 3rd. President Alice McCarthy opened the meeting with the prayer of patriotism from the Hoosier Auxiliary News. She conducted the ceremony of draping the charter in memory of two deceased members Leona Reed and Zetta Shaw.

The major portion of business was discussion of Christmas gifts Marion Hospital patients, who have little or no income may give to their families and friends. Auxiliary members had brought some gifts to be sent but the need is so great for the large number of patients the unit voted to supplement their gifts with a $100.00 check to the Marion Gift Shop to purchase additional most requested and desirable gifts. The unit also voted to send $15.00 to Cecelle Moore's Ditty bag project at Marion Hospital. Many patients enter and do not otherwise receive such items as combs, tooth brushes, tooth paste, etc. So the ditty bag fill a great need.

A surprise auction was held to benefit the Auxiliary General Fund. After serving refreshments hostess Pat Cultice auctioned the table centerpiece, a pepper plant, won by Helen Moore and the remaining orange drink won by Pres. Alice McCarthy. The unit then agreed to pay $1.00 each for the favors. Pat had at each place setting of a large pod of decorative flowering beans. All this enriched the fund by $14.00.

PUBLISHER'S 'PINION

by Dave Tranter

We pause for a few minutes during this National Fire Prevention Week from October 7 to 14, and "salute" the members of the local volunteer fire department. These men are generally available for quick response, whether the time be 2 p.m. or 2 a.m. They make it so everyone else in the community can sleep soundly with the assurance that if a dreaded fire occurs, the local fire department will respond immediately.

Your hometown newspaper, with great pride, prints the name of the fire departments and each fire fighter in the area. We invite you to look over this list and say "thank you" to them the next time you meet.

National 4-H Week is also being observed this week throughout the area. The 4-H program is a valuable part of the informal education of local youngsters. The 4-H philosophy of learn-by-doing has encouraged young people to learn and apply real-life skills and to become competent, productive citizens.

Your hometown newspaper is proud to be a part of committees where 4-H is a very active organization.

This week is a very busy week in that it is also National Newspaper Week. President Carter has issued a proclamation honoring the newspapers of America and the important role they play in keeping the public informed. Newspapers are especially important to the smaller communities where television and radio stations do not exist. The local newspaper is the only media bearing this great responsibility.

Your hometown newspaper recognizes this large obligation and continually pledges itself to "keep the people informed."

Retirement Can Be Sweet - Even Making Cider

by A. J. Wilder

Myron Benner taught at Culver Military Academy since 1946 and when he decided to take an early retirement he commented to his wife, Ruth, that he'd like to realize a dream they'd had since they were first married -- to have a few acres of land.

The few acres turned out to be a 10 acre apple orchard near Monterey. Mrs. Benner reports that one week they were picking apples and they were buying the orchard the next week.

Then came the cider mill project. Myron purchased a bright red hammermill and a 12-ton hydraulic jack along with special racks and nylon cloths. He designed the press around the size of the mill and racks. After having a metal frame welded for the jack, with an added T-iron for strength, Myron used an antique wood bed frame (from one of the houses he's boards to make oak table structure to house the solid contraction, the whole He painted the metal parts red and covered everything, but the motor with FDA approved plastic varnish. On the first pressing, he lost more between the boards than what went into the jugs, his wife reports. Some caulking and a new varnish job solved that and now even rain doesn't keep him away from his orchard.

Mr. Benner washes the apples and sorts them. On my visit to the orchard, she said, "You may have noticed the school teacher perfectionist touch." Following her meticulous washing and sorting of the apples, her husband again sorts them as he feeds them into the hammermill. He also filters after the cider comes through the nylon and again as it goes into the jugs.

Another do-it-yourself project resulted when Benner discovered that new spray equipment cost over $3,000. He put together a workable unit made from a used farm spray tank, plumbing pieces, hoses and a minimum of purchased pumps and valves.

He spent long days at the orchard spraying, chopping out poison, pruning and mowing.

The fact that he's enjoying every minute is evident when you see the elated look on his face while he's making the cider. He said, "It's beautiful out here. I enjoy seeing people heap baskets with apples and I appreciate nature's gifts."

As if this weren't all time consuming enough, Benner also purchases and renovates old homes. Some are divided into apartments. He's working on a home now that hasn't been occupied since 1950. It was necessary to install plumbing, new electrical wiring and lower ceilings.

Retirement to Myron Benner doesn't mean whiling the hours away in a rocking chair. He's busier than ever and enjoying life to the fullest.

National Fire Prevention Week - Oct. 7 To 13

West Lafayette - Every October the nation observes Fire Prevention Week, and Americans are reminded of the terrible losses that fires inflict. This year, the week-long observance is Oct. 7-13.

"The importance of fire prevention cannot be over-emphasized," stresses Bill Field, Extension safety specialist at Purdue University.

"When you consider that last year over 35 million fires claimed more than 10,000 lives in our nation and many times that number were injured, you realize the great tragedy of fires," he adds. Fire losses totaled nearly $6.06 billion last year in this country, he continues. And that's almost twice the value of all farm products produced in Indiana in a single year.

Remember, says the specialist, that it takes three things to produce fire. These are fuel (something to burn), air (oxygen), and heat (something to set it off). If only two of these elements are present, you won't have a fire. So prevention is seeing that these three things -- fuel, air, and heat -- never get together.

Some principal causes of fires are heating and cooking equipment, electrical devices, sloppy "housekeeping," smoking, flammable liquids and gases, and lightning.

Fire from cooking equipment often involves igniting combustibles--curtains, napkins, towels, clothing, etc., or a flare-up of things being cooked. So keep flammable materials away from the range or stove. And don't wear loose or dangling clothing when cooking. Teach children to respect a stove or oven even when it appears to be turned off.

Modern home heating systems are safe when properly operated and maintained. So inspect and maintain heating systems and portable heaters according to manufacturer's recommendations or have a service man do so.

Keep your home, garage and or storage building tidy. Housekeeping for fire prevention means reducing the amount of unneeded things that will burn. Always arrange rooms, furnishings and stored items so that flammables and combustibles are safely away from ignition sources.

Smoking is involved in about 39 percent of all fatal fires, says Field. Smoking, including the use of matches and lighters, can trigger fire in several ways: falling asleep while smoking, smoking in places with flammable and combustible materials, discarding tobacco or match without seeing that it is "out" or in a proper ashtray or receptacle. Be sure your smoke or match is out when discarded. And don't smoke when you are apt to fall asleep. As always, keep matches and lighters away from children.

Remember, paint solvents and certain paints, as well as many household products, are flammable materials. Store these with extra care. Never store large quantities of gasoline and be sure small quantities are kept in approved containers.

Many fires also result from defects in or misuse of electricity, reminds Field. Electrical wiring often fails due to faulty installation, overloading, physical damage, aging or deterioration. So inspect wiring periodically and do not overload circuits. Never overuse a circuit.

If you have a family or small children, practice fire safety drills regularly so that each member knows what to do in case of a fire. Stress that once outside, they are to remain outside. And for the safety of your loved ones, install a fire warning system. It could save their lives.

ARGOS SENIORS SEE THE BREATH OF LIFE

by Barbara Hann

Argos - After being greeted by Sharon Mevis the Argos Senior Citizens were mostly all wanting to know what was going to happen to our program if we refuse to have 5 meals each week. No one is ready to give up the good thing that has happened to our little community bringing folks closer together and making each one concerned about their neighbors and friends, and making many new friends. Also having a place they can visit and eat and chat at the same time is important.

We haven't solved this problem as yet but hopefully some solution will be found and we needn't worry, we won't let you down folks.

Reports on the ill were given. Hazel Thompson has been released from the hospital and is with her daughter in Bourbon. Gladys Gates is improving but must be careful of her diet.

Sharon introduced our guest speaker, Sandy Cook, from the Red Cross who is teaching C.P.R. She brought her manikin who was waiting for help. Sandy gave instruction on how to keep a patient alive until help can be found and the heart and lungs can function on their own. If the brain is deprived from oxygen 4 to 6 minutes brain damage can be expected.

Ways to tell if the patient has had a heart attack are to check for a pulse, watch for excessive sweating, shortness of breath, comatose, pain in the left arm, tightness across the chest. Tap the patient on the shoulder, if no response, check for pulse. If you know how to give C.P.R. start immediately. If not call for help, the first 5 minutes are the most important.

Sandy also gave the courses to be taught to classes in First Aid, "Dial A Friend" service and others available.

Sharon read an article shared by Grover Shafer, a poem for devotion and offered noon time prayer.

Hospital Auxiliary No. 7 volunteers served the meal. Shells from Florida filled with fall flowers decorated the tables and were given as prizes. They were arranged by Marie Ringle. Others helping were Barbara Castleman, Lida Thompson and Evelyn Beam.

Prizes were won by Vance Fenstermaker, Ed Rathbun, Edna Shafer and Elmer Hann. Volunteers for next week will be the Hi Neighbor Club. Call 892-5012 for reservations.

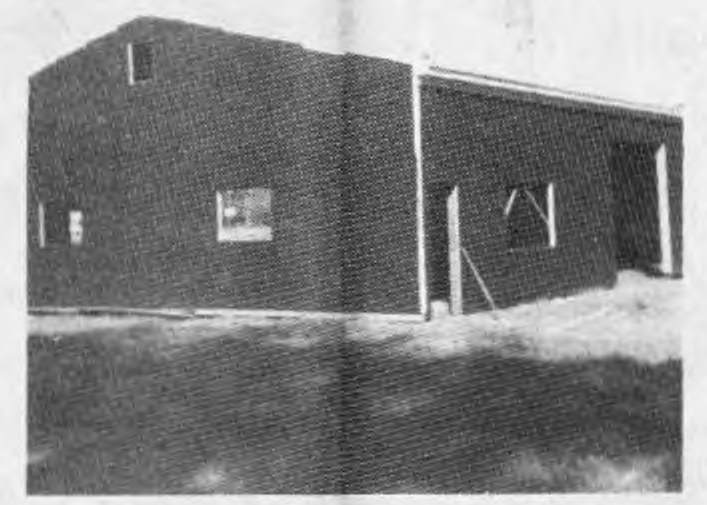

Volunteer firemen - there when you need them. Photo is last year's grain elevator fire in Culver. We salute our volunteer firemen this week, but appreciate them all year.

Letters to Editor

On the occasion of National Newspaper Week, October 7-13, I would like to express my appreciation for your paper's many services to the community.

As Director of the Indianapolis VA Regional Office, I am personally aware and very appreciative of the role your newspaper has played in keeping the local community informed on public issues, including news and information concerning veterans.

On the many services provided by your newspaper and the nation's press, one has been the vital role it has played in informing the public about the needs of veterans. In the past year, your newspaper has printed numerous items relating to veterans. As a direct result of this and other support, veterans enjoy the Free World's most comprehensive system of benefits.

The Veterans Administration, which will celebrate its 50th anniversary on July 21, 1980, today operates 172 medical centers, more than 400 clinics, nursing homes, and domiciliarys, and 58 Regional offices and 141 cemetery sites and locations throughout the nation that serve our 30 million living veterans.

In Indiana, we have 1 Regional office, 3 medical centers, and 1 outpatient clinic that serves over 727,000 Indiana veterans and their dependents and we just wanted you to know that we appreciate your support in helping us to meet our nation's obligations to these veterans. You truly perform a great service.

Wm. H. Brewster
Director

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Friend:

It is a great pleasure to be again serving as Christmas Gift Chairman for the Mental Health Association in Marshall County. This year's Slogan "Christmas...Caring and Sharing" really says it all.

People whose illnesses are emotional or mental share the same needs for love and concern that we care and want to 'share' in this Christmas Gifts effort. It is our firm intention to make certain that mental patients in Logansport State Hospital and those in Marshall County facilities are remembered with a festive Christmas. With your help this will happen.

An available pamphlet suggests appropriate gift items. If you wish more, please contact our office or me personally. Collection centers will be available throughout the county and at the Mental Health office for your convenience. Should you prefer to have us do your shopping, just send your contribution to the above address, and we'll be your personal shopper.

Volunteers are always needed for our Christmas Gift project. If you or anyone in your organization would like to help, or attend the Christmas party at Logansport Hospital, please let me know. An early December deadline is necessary.

Please join us in this worthwhile effort and help make Christmas a time of warmth and joy for those who might otherwise have a bleak and lonely Holiday Season. Thank you for your generosity and cooperation...as we "Care and Share".

Sincerely yours,
Mental Health Assn.

Culver - Superintendent of Culver Community schools, William F. Mills and Citizen Editor, Arlene Nix, were invited to the high school Advanced Foods class recently for a real treat. Students prepared a delicious German meal which started off with a toss salad with German dressing and a glass of cider. They were then treated to Beef Stroganoff with homemade noodles and German Potato Salad. For dessert there was Black Forest cake, a chocolate cake with white icing, topped with cherries. The teacher of the class, Mrs. Donna Schwartz and her students are to be commended for a fine meal, expertly prepared and served.

The library has recently received several new books on this popular hobby of doll collecting. They are: Antique Collector's Dolls, I and II by Patricia R. Smith Shirley Temple Dolls and Collectibles also by Patricia R. Smith and Guide to Schoenhut's Dolls Toys and Circus by M. Elaine and Dan Buser. We also have books on how to dress dolls and dollhouses.

If reading is one of your hobbies, here are a few new ones we have just for you. The Establishment by Howard Fast, The Dead Zone by Stephen King, Aunt Bernas Cope Book by Erna Bombeck and Marvella - A Personal Journey by Marvella Bayh.

The Girl Scouts will be adopting a Senior Citizen this year. Anyone wishing to be adopted by a local Girl Scout may do so by calling Teri Young 542-2514 or Pat Weaver 542-2552. New girls are always welcome to join our troop. We meet on the 2nd Tuesday of each month starting November 13th.

Remember, there will be no school on October 25th and 26th due to the Teachers Convention.

The Monterey Community people are proud of their local Volunteer Firemen and we think they deserve a lot of credit for what they do.

We should all stop to think, would we risk our lives in order to save someone's house, car, garage, barn, etc. This is exactly what these firemen do everytime they go out on a fire call.

These men have helped out on calls even outside our own area, such as Culver, Leiters Ford, Bass Lake and Winamac. We have a good bunch of guys and the community wants to say "thanks."

See the complete list of Monterey Firemen in this week's "Salute to Local Firemen."

Keep up the good work guys!!

Your Local Newspaper Saves You A Walk To The Town Square

Of course, most towns don't actually have a "town square" any more, but before the days of newspapers, there had to be a central place where important public notices were posted. Today, your newspaper fulfills the same function as the old town square posting board. The legal notices, found in your newspaper, mark the history and progress of your community. They call the attention of interested parties to the bid-letting for the new high school, auditorium or swimming pool... street improvement projects... sewage and water systems and the many other items that are synonymous with your community's growth. They can also be concerned with the citizen's obligation to jury duty, the administration of a deceased neighbor's estate.

Publication of the transactions of local and state governmental bodies, and the financial statements of private firms with wide public interest, such as financial institutions, safeguard the taxpayer's pocketbook and his constitutional rights.

Few public notices are published in the country ruled by a dictator. In a democracy, everyone has a tremendous stake in preserving the freedom of the press -- and the citizen's right to know.

ARGOS WOMEN MEET

by Louisa Davis, Sec.

Argos - The Argos United Methodist Women met at 2 p.m. at the church on October 4. Bernice Masterman's opening devotion was on faith, how to increase it and how to use it.

Vice-president, Virginia Redinger, was in charge of the business meeting. Officers were elected for 1980 including Irene Mahoney as president, Virginia Redinger as vice president, Louisa Davis as secretary, Ruth Gordon as treasurer, and Florence Northrop, Bernice Masterman, Mary Ritter, Mary Stephenson, Anita Krom, Thelma Gates and Esther Wickizer as chairmen of various committees. Announcements were made. We are cooperating with Trinity, Plymouth, UMW on "China Day" on November 8. Anita Krom is our representative for this. The next rummage sale is on November 17. Louisa Davis reported on an article from "New World Outlook" which dealt in story form with the question of whether the church should emphasize evangelism or social action.

Ruth Gordon presented the pledge service which was called "Pearl of Great Price". The pearl represents our relationship to God. Matthew 6 tells us not to lay up earthly treasures but heavenly ones. Certainly it's not wrong to care responsibly for our possessions but these may be taken away while heavenly ones will always remain. God wants us to share our treasures and how well we do this shows how well we follow Christ. The way our pledge money is used was explained. Pledge cards were filled out, put on an altar and consecrated.

The hostesses, Lela Elliott, Dora Mae Deamer, Esther Farmer, and Eileen Benjamin, served pumpkin pie and "fixin's" from tables with lovely fall decorations.

"Most members participate in 4-H through organized clubs, special interest groups, short term projects, camping, television series, and programs planned to meet their specific needs in the communities," he adds.

During 1978, 1015 County youths were enrolled in 39 organized 4-H clubs.

CULVER GIRLS ACADEMY FOUNDING STONE UNVEILED

Culver - Though rain plagued Homecoming activities at the Culver Academies Saturday, Mother Nature did stop the downpour long enough to enable the unveiling of the Culver Girls Academy Founding Stone in front of Linden Hall of the campus.

The stone donated by the Culver Mothers Club of Los Angeles, recognizes the 16 members of the Culver Academy for Girls Founding Class, the Class of 1972, and is a memorial to the late Phyllis (Mrs. Robert) McKee of Los Angeles. Her daughter, Karen Lynn, was a member of the Class of '72 and her husband, Robert, is a member of the Culver Military Academy Class of '43 and a life member of the Culver Legion, the Academies' alumni body.

Mrs. McKee was very active in the Los Angeles Mothers Club. Mr. McKee unveiled the stone, and his daughter attended the ceremony.

"The spirit is one of elation," said Dean John R. Mars, Academy superintendent, in his welcoming speech. "We do feel we have a moment of history here."

When the late Dean Ernest B. Benson, a prime proponent of the girls school concept, first discussed the idea of Culver Girls Academy with the Culver faculty in the late 1960's "I was ambivalent about whether to have a girls' school at this bastion of male supremacy," Dean Mars noted. "I was so wrong."

Having the coordinate education of girls at the Academies, Mars now admitted, is "consonant to good education."

"Anyone who was an undergraduate at the Academy in the 1940's, 50s or 60s, remembers staring out the windows of Main Barracks on cancel weekends, wondering just who those lovely creatures were," the dean recalled. "Our cadets are much more at home with co-eds now."

The continued success of the Girls Academy is due to "beginning at the beginning," Dean Mars said. Rather than merging with an already-established girls school, the Academy chose to develop its own program, incorporating the spirit and academic traditions of the military academy.

"From the beginning, we had strong leadership and support from the faculty, students, alumni and patrons," he noted. "Now, we have crystallized a program with counselors who stay and are concerned, and with excellent resident directors."

Nothing the founding role of the late Dean Benson, Dean Mars added, "I think that the success of Culver Girls Academy even before its inception was based in large part in Dean (Mary Frances) England (dean of Culver Girls Academy)." Describing her as an articulate, determined, supportive person who is a "quality" administrator, he said, "We would be hard-pressed to find someone half as good."

Dean England herself praised the Class of '72. "The founding class spent a lot of time and creativity in starting its own council and devising the school's prefect system."

The late Mrs. McKee was "very active and committed to serving Culver," Dean England said. "This is a very lovely and important gift."

Besides Miss McKee, other members of the Founding Class who attended were Carol L. Jones and Brenda Kowatch Gard. Culver Girls Academy's 1979-80 senior prefect, Cynthia Brooke, also spoke. Others attending were William S. Banfield II, director of alumni affairs, Mrs. John R. Mars, student leaders from both Culver Girls Academy and Culver Military Academy, members of the faculty, distinguished members of the Culver Legion, and friends and patrons.

Plymouth - Foreign investors hold an interest in about 4 million acres of U.S. agricultural land, according to a preliminary data examined by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and announced here recently by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

The review indicates foreign owners hold less than one-half of 1 percent of all private U.S. agricultural land.

The estimate is based on a preliminary review of 4,500 reports filed as of September 1 by foreign investors under the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978.

Bergland said distribution patterns indicate that foreign ownership is heavily concentrated in the South and West.

or wet wood is burning, it may take 20 to 25 percent of the thermal value of the wood heat to evaporate and drive off the moisture which is contained. Green wood does not burn easily and, in order to keep the fire burning, it is often necessary to add a lot of fuel and provide excessive draft, thereby decreasing the efficiency of the unit. The excess air needed for combustion must be heated and it escapes up the chimney wasting heat that should be used to heat the house.

What is creosote? Wood smoke almost always contains some unburned gases and a god of unburned tar-like liquids. Some of these materials will condense on the inside of the chimney, just as steam condenses on any cold surface. The condensation is a black, tacky, fluid when first formed. When it dries, it is flaky and shiny. Creosote has approximately the same thermal value as fuel oil. Not only does it reduce the effective size of the chimney, but an accumulation of this material constitutes a serious fire hazard.

Does green wood cause creosote? Yes. Indirectly, green wood does cause creosote. The exhaust gases cool as they rise up the chimney. If the temperature falls below the dew point, any moisture contained in these gases will condense on the inside of the chimney, absorb the various products of incomplete combustion and form creosote. When green wood is burned, the exhaust gases carry a high moisture content in addition, because of the heat required for evaporation, these gases are cooler and more likely to condense than would be the case with dry wood. Charcoal may be formed more readily if the unit is over charged particularly in milder weather. With overcharging (too much wood in unit) the draft fan will be off a greater percentage of time, coals will be formed which will become covered with ash in turn will smother the coals to form charcoal. Any coals in the furnace should be sired before more wood is added to it.

How much moisture is contained in wood? Many softwoods have a moisture content in the vicinity of 55 percent when they are freshly cut. The popular hardwoods have moisture contents of about 45 percent. Air-dried wood has a moisture content of about 15 percent and kiln-dried wood may have a moisture content of less than 10 percent when it is fresh from the kiln?

What causes wood to rot? When wood is cut, it is very susceptible to the growth of fungi, which converts the wood to water, carbon dioxide, and heat, just as does a fire. This rotting decreases the wood's energy. The fungi are most productive when three conditions are met: the temperature is between 60 and 90 degrees F, the wood's moisture content is above 30 percent, and ample oxygen is available. Thus, wood does not rot appreciably when it is dry, in the winter, or when it is submerged in the water, but it should not be allowed to lie on the ground during the summer.

How can this rotting be prevented? When the wood has been cut into stovewood lengths, and split, it should be piled outside during the months of June, July and August. Two poles should be placed on the ground to serve as rails to keep the firewood off the moist ground and the wood should be piled up in such a way that it is well exposed to the sun and the wind. The moisture content of the wood will drop until it reached equilibrium with the ambient weather conditions. When the relative humidity is 60 percent, the equilibrium moisture content is about 11 percent. When the wood has reached this equilibrium moisture content, it is said to be "air-dried." Around mid-August, it should be placed under cover so that it will not reabsorb moisture from the rain and snow before it is used.

Why this concern about allowing the wood to dry? Green or wet wood is undesirable for several reasons. Green or wet woods tend to mildew and rot which causes a significant reduction in the thermal value. When green

DIRECTORY ASSISTANCE NUMBER CHANGED

Culver - Indiana Bell later this month will begin a state wide change in the local directory assistance number from the present 411 to 1-411.

The change will take effect in Mishawaka, Osceola and Culver on November 4 and South Bend on December 9. The statewide conversion to 1-411 should be completed by mid December.

Jack Sogard, Bell division manager of operator service, said the change is part of Bell's plan to begin charging for directory assistance calls in excess of a monthly allowance in early 1980.

"The use of 1-411 for local directory assistance will enable us to record billing information on existing equipment," he said. "Although the new number will be phased in over the next several months, customers will not be charged for any directory assistance calls until the plan begins."

Sogard said other directory assistance numbers will remain the same.

For directory assistance outside a customer's local calling area but still in the same area code (Gary customer calling South Bend—both in the 219 area code), the number remains 1-555-1212, he said.

For directory assistance in another area code (Evansville customer in 812 area calling Indianapolis in 317 area), the number remains 1-area code-555-1212.

The Indiana Bell directory assistance charging plan, as approved by the Public Service Commission, calls for a monthly allowance of five free calls to local directory assistance (1-411) per month.

In addition, there is an allowance of one call to the customer's home area code directory assistance number (1-555-1212) for each customer-dialed long distance call within the same area code, up to a maximum of five per month.

A charge of 20 cents will apply for each customer-dialed local and home area code directory assistance call in excess of the monthly allowance.

Sutton. The newspaper had a press run of 1,250 copies for its inaugural edition. Winamac county seat of Pulaski County, has a long history of competitive newspapers, but not for many years has the town had two competing controlled circulation newspapers.

A subscription campaign which ended Oct. 1 resulted in most of the first press run, Sutton said. "the community has been so supportive of our efforts we're convinced the paper will be successful," he said.

The paper is published by Winamac Press Co., Inc., which already had The Independent, a free circulation paper that had gained acceptance as a newspaper. Much of the news formerly carried in that paper was shifted into the new controlled circulation paper Sutton said.

Publisher is Douglas F. Haley. Officers of the company are William F. Gulas, president, Gary; Betty Gulas, vice president, Gary; Sutton, vice president; Haley, secretary-treasurer.

The paper is a member of the Winamac Chamber of Commerce. Application is pending for membership in several state and national newspaper associations.

Sutton is the former editor of The Pulaski County Journal, and a former general assignments reporter for his hometown Hartford City, Ind. News-Times. He attended Indiana University and Blackford County High School. He is secretary-treasurer of the Winamac Chamber of Commerce.

Census Survey To Be Conducted On Education & Nursery School Enrollment

Helen Sherbondy
Argos - A sample of households in their area will be included in an annual survey of education to be taken the week of October 15-19 by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce. Stanley D. Moore, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Chicago, says that interviewers will visit homes to obtain information about current school enrollment from nursery school through college. This information helps measure current trends in education and helps determine the need for additional or expanded educational facilities. The questions on education will supplement those asked regularly in the monthly survey on the employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau of Labor.

Results of the monthly employment survey provide data on conditions in the labor force, prime indicators of the economic health of the country. For example, in August the survey indicated that of the 103.0 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 96.9 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 6.0 percent, up from 5.7 percent in July. Personal information supplied in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals.
