School Safety Patrols: Some Facts

By Bernadette Zoss

The safety of school children going to and from schools in this country has been a concern of many people these days. With the opening of school each fall, motorists must be vigilant during the hours when children are going to or coming from school.

Over 35,000 communities in the United States have decided that the safety of their children is so vital that they have enlisted the aid of concerned adults in their areas, and have even recruited the children themselves, in an effort to get the kids to school safely. These communities are participants in the American Automobile Association School Safety Patrol and Adult Crossing Guard programs. Today, there are 800,000 student safety patrol members and 15,000 adult crossing guards making crossings safe for children all over the nation.

In operation since the early 1920's, when motorized traffic first became a hazard to school-age children, the programs have been instrumental in slashing the traffic death rate for children IN HALF, while the traffic death rate for all other age groups has DOUBLED.

In spite of these impressive figures, many communities have been hesitant to employ these programs for many reasons. Let's look at a few of these problems, and the conclusions thousands of communities have reached that override them.

First, the question of the children's safety is raised. How can an adult expect a child to lead other children safely across busy streets, no matter how mature the child may be for his age? The answer may be found in the fact that the Safety Patrols do not stop traffic. The patrol member stays on the curb, and merely helps the children ascertain whether there is a sufficient gap in traffic to cross safely. The judgment of the patrol member is especially valuable when very young students need to cross.

Adult crossing guards do not attempt to control traffic either — they merely create gaps in traffic when needed to allow children to cross. Adult guards can help even when mechanical signals are present at a crossing, since these signals often confuse children and offer more danger than protection. Adults are more than willing to offer their services for this vital function, and the funds required to pay them for their services is minimal compared to the value of their services, if funds are required at all.

The next question in the thoughts of some school officials is that of liability. Since individuals can now sue governments in some states now, this is indeed something to think about. In more than fifty years of participation in these programs, there has been NO decision in a court of record establishing the liability of any school official in regard to school safety patrol programs, according to the Chicago motor club.

School boards and other school officials may protect themselves in many instances by rigidly defining the scope of responsibility of the patrols, and insisting upon strict adherence to rules. School officials must weigh the risk of lawsuits against the risk the students face by crossing streets with no protection at all. Most officials decide that the risks associated with safety patrol programs are small compared to the risk of losing a young life because there was no patrol.

A further consideration is the educational value of school patrols. Membership in the safety patrol teaches responsibility, citizenship, and teamwork, to name only a few benefits. School safety patrols can be amply justified SOLELY for their educational value, and when the safety value is added, it becomes difficult NOT to justify establishing some sort of safety patrol program.

These are some of the facts that have influenced countless communities in their decision to provide safety patrols and adult crossing guards.

This is the typical traffic situation around the Elementary School at the end of the school day. Despite the energetic and effective efforts of Mrs. Eunice Schrimsher, one person can't be everywhere. Several corners in Culver need similar assistance.

Editorial

The question of child safety was raised this week by parents concerned for their children while walking to and from school. Their letter to public officials was first presented to last week's meeting of the School Board.

That letter is reproduced in this week's issue. The response of the School Board, as shown by the official meeting resume in this issue, was surprisingly frosty.

We believe that there is no more important subject for citizens to consider this fall than the question of child safety in Culver.

There is a safety problem in this town. One has only to watch the heavy traffic and the flow of children in and around the school areas to see the lack of supervision, the chances for accident. Small children travel streets that lead to the high school, and many walk on the main route through Culver. Feeder streets converge on the schools from all different directions, yet there is crossing assistance at only one corner in the whole town.

The vehicle traffic problem is compounded by two other factors. The main flow through town passes on North Main Street and Lake Shore Drive, with the heavy traffic passing very near the school. Also, the High School traffic is very heavy because faculty, staff and students come from a four county area, and most drive to school.

The solution to these many dangers is teamwork between many different groups in the community, including the School Board, the Town Board, the Police Department, parents and other citizens. Based upon our own investigation, conversation with concerned parents, the parent letter, and information from the Chicago Motor Club, the CITIZEN suggests consideration of the following ideas to lessen the possibility of tragedy in our town:

I. SCHOOL BOARD. The School Board should reconsider their role in the safety of children coming to and from school. The solution to improved safety is not an economic one, but rather one of coordination and planning. Lacking a P.T.A. or P.T.O., Culver must depend upon the Board members to help find solutions to these problems. The role of the Board is not lessened because there is no money in the budget for more crossing guards.

The CITIZEN requested information about Safety Patrols and Adult Crossing Guards from the Chicago Motor Club. These materials have arrived, and prove that such a program is practical for Culver. The use of over 800,000 patrol members by over 35,000 schools in this country must be taken as an indicator of the effectiveness of these programs. There is no such program in Culver at this time.

Information about these programs is contained in a story this issue, and has been shared in detail with the President of the School Board. We urge the Board to consider this program. The problem is more than a day to day one, and should be handled by the Board rather than the Administration or Staff.

II. TOWN BOARD. The Town Board should also consider their role in improving the safety of children in Culver. More signs should be erected to remind drivers of the dangers to pedestrians. School zones should be enlarged to include heavily traveled streets near the schools. The street department should cut back hedges on corners that obscure visibility of drivers. If possible, funds should be found to increase the staff of paid crossing guards. Our one guard at present does a professional job and is most efficient (See pictures this issue). Yet she is only stationed at one corner, and at least four other crossings need supervision in Culver.

III. POLICE DEPARTMENT. The Police Department should begin to enforce more actively the parking restrictions across the street from the Elementary School so that children will not be tempted to run across to a waiting family car. Speeding in school areas should be ended. Even if it takes outside help, rented radar units, or other methods, vehicles should not be allowed to exceed the 15 mile per hour limit in school zones in Culver.

IV. PARENTS. The Parents of Culver also have a role in promoting child safety in Culver. Proper education of crossing techniques and walking safety can perhaps best be accomplished in the home. We urge each parent to be sure children know where to cross a street, and when. Perhaps a parent's time spent walking with a child to school one day will save that child's life.

V. OTHER CITIZENS. Others can also help. Are you retired? Do you have a half hour free in the morning or afternoon of any school day? If so, perhaps you are the volunteer our children need.

If you can help, telephone a member of the School Board, Town Board, the CITIZEN office, or the school your child attends. Also, attend the School Board meeting and the Town Board meeting, and let your representatives know of your concern.

We ask you to remember that children take life for granted. Adult must exercise extra care, both as a community and as individuals, to protect our children until they can better care for themselves.

SENIOR CITIZENS MEETING

EDITOR, THE CITIZEN: WE THANK YOU CULVER CITIZEN

Thanks to your paper we were able to transfer twelve tons of magazines, which we had collected over a year during our Scout Troop 290 paper drive.

The notice in your Culver Citizen brought a response from leaders of Little League (in a nearby town), and about eight trucks and many Little Leaguers and coaches arrived in Culver to pick up the magazines. (We did not have an outlet, by the neighboring Little League did.) We are happy to be relieved of the magazines, and happy that we could help out another worthwhile endeavor. Thanks again.

Superintendent of Schools
Culver Community School Corp.

Gentlemen:

There is not enough patrol for the children when they cross the busy streets to and from school. Mrs. Schrimsher is doing a fine job at the S.E. corner of the school, but how about the other areas where the children cross? The North Main Street curve (Bonine's Corner), also directly in front of the School, and the corner south of the school College and School St. What happened to the caution light that was there? We think these corners are the most heavily crossed when school is out, but there may be others.

At 11:00 A.M. the morning kindergarten class is dismissed and they need they need guidance across School Street. At 3:00 P.M. the High School is dismissed at approximately the same time at the Grade School, proving to be a real problem concerning the High School Students who drive down past the grade school area streets at the same time the children are walking home. Some mothers are picking up their children in cars because of this situation.

Other schools have the proper patrol across streets, why can't Culver? Suggestions: Safety Patrol—7th and 8th Grades; Hire retired people, capable of doing a good job; Hire anyone who will do a good job; also, have Policemen parked nearby to keep drivers cautious.

There are more children today, more students driving automobiles, and more automobiles in general; therefore, there is a definite need for the Culver Community School to have proper guidance across streets for our children. Don't wait for a tragedy to happen first, and then decide to do something about it.... proceed now and act upon this plea.

Sincerely,
Concerned parents

ELAINE EPLEY WEDS RICHARD MACKEY

Miss Elaine Epley and Mr. Richard Wayne Mackey exchanged vows in a 2 p.m. ceremony September 1 at Grace United Church of Christ, Culver, with Rev. John Krueger, pastor officiating.

The bride wore a gown of embroidered organza over taffeta, trimmed with bands of lace at the neck, sleeves, and hem. Her veil of Brussels Lace was bought in Europe as a gift for the bride by her mother and father. Her headpiece of Venetian Lace was brought to this country many years ago by her maternal grandmother.

and Capt. Jeffrey Honzik of Culver Military Academy.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. Richard Hershberger of Walkerton. She is the daughter of Mrs. Donald R. Petry of Hoopston, Ill., and the late Mr. Petry. Walmoth is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Walmoth of Auburn Heights, Mich.

A small reception was held in the church immediately following the ceremony. The couple will reside in Culver, where Walmoth is a member of the Culver Military Academy staff.

What is Substance?

This question is answered in the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon this week on Substance. From Math: 6:24,33. No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.

PART III—

PATENT MEDICINES

With all of the "Magic Elixirs" on the market, it's a wonder everybody doesn't have another Secretariat. Everything to make your horse the shiniest, healthiest, strongest, best-looking, cleanest, friendliest, and oh yes—the most loving of any to the other horse. Providing your neighbor doesn't use the same stuff, of course.

Seriously, the public really gets taken in this area of artificial aids. I'm going to break them down into three categories: coat conditioners, performance supplements, and hoof care products.

COAT CONDITIONERS come in many forms. Shampoos, spray-ons, liniments, and food supplements. A good, healthy coat comes from the right food and lots of care. I like to add a little linseed or soybean meal to the regular feed. Coat care comes from a lot of grooming. Keep the horse clean. A lot of currying will remove dead hair and stimulates the natural piles of the coat. These commercial shampoos do more to harm the coat, because they remove the oils. Coat conditioners can never replace loving care.

PERFORMANCE SUPPLEMENTS are also to be avoided. You cannot replace good nutrition with vitamin additives. For best performance you must figure your horse's needs (how much work you intend to do with him) and then find feeds with enough energy units. Your local grain dealer can help you with this. Or, if you want a complete breakdown of different grains and hays, you can obtain this information from the Animal Extension Service, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana 47906. The service is free and the advice is expert.

Remember, supplements are no substitute for good nutrition.

Finally, HOOF CARE PRODUCTS are the biggest money-makers of them all. Good hoof care comes from a good diet, exercise and sift ground to stand on, regular visits from the blacksmith, and keeping the hoofs clean.

Simple cures for thrush are a mixture of 75 percent iodine and 25 percent formaldehyde. Your local druggist can mix this up at a quarter the cost of the commercial product.

If it's a bad case, iodine crystals and turpentine can "burn" it out. These are low cost cures that work. Keep the hoofs soft with pine tar or inexpensive mineral oil. That's what ranchers use out West. This is inexpensive and works as good, if not better, than commercial products.

I don't want to leave you with the impression that all commercial products are no good. They aren't! Some things can be useful, but more importantly, there are remedies right at your fingertips that can save a lot of money.

The most important care-all is a good Veterinarian. His advice is free.

Memories From Past CITIZENS

September 12, 1968

At a meeting in Rochester Friday, the American Water Works Association presented the Culver Water Department a safety award for no lost time accidents. Verl McFeely received a personal award when he was presented the John Hurty Award for 30 years of outstanding service to the community.

A "Citation of Merit" for outstanding cooperation in President Lyndon B. Johnson's Natural Beauty Program has been awarded to the local Post Office and its employees. The award was announced by Congressman John Brademas whom he was advised by Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson that the citation is awarded only to those communities whose postal facilities have received superior ratings in rigid inspections by regional postal officials.

Sept. 11, 1963

Mrs. Nora Sheppard, 516 South Main St., has been invited, for the third consecutive year, to exhibit her paintings at the Third Annual Golf-Mill Art Fair which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14 and 15, from 10 a.m. until dusk at the Golf-Mill Shopping Center at Niles, Ill. School Board Hears Concerned Parents

The Culver Community Schools Corporation Board of School Trustees met in regular session in the Central Office On Tuesday, September 4, 1973.

Mrs. Warren Bickel and Mrs. Wendell Nelson, representing interested parents in the north-east part of Culver, were present and presented the Board and Superintendent a letter requesting more school crossing guards or patrols. The letter had been signed by several parents. The Superintendent explained that it was the responsibility of the Civil Authorities to provide the school crossing guards or patrol. He advised them that the State Board of Accounts would not approve the School Corporation to spend money to pay personnel to patrol the school crossings. The Board was receptive to the concerns of these parents. Mrs. Bickel and Mrs. Nelson indicated that they would take their request to the Town Board. Mr. Allen, Superintendent, advised a letter would be sent to the Town Board from the Central Office regarding their request, to have more assistance at school crossings, especially during the morning and afternoon rush.

Development of a Girl's Inter-Scholastic Athletic Program was discussed and approved by the Board. The Girl's Physical Education instructors will supervise this program.

Superintendent Allen advised the Board that approval had been obtained from the Fulton County Health Department for revamping of the Leiters Ford School's sewage system.

The Superintendent was authorized to prepare specification and advertise for bids on three 66 passenger size school buses.

The Board was updated on the work programs of various projects in the corporation — the blacktopping of the parking lot and tennis court is completed and efforts are being made to obtain top soil to complete the athletic and baseball field.

Superintendent Allen reports that the School Board conducted a public hearing on the 1974 school budget on August 30, 1973. The Board approved the budget and tax levies as advertised.

From the Goss House

We are pleased to announce this week that the circulation of the CITIZEN has doubled. We will distribute by mail, combined with counter sales at our local retail dealers, double the number of apid issues that were recorded when the management of this publication changed hands at the end of June.

This means that we owe a special "thank you" to those of you who have helped us with your trust and faith by starting up your expired subscriptions, and by renewing existing subscriptions.

The great number of subscriptions taken in recent weeks accounts for the delays experienced by some in the start of their CITIZEN. We hope no one was greatly inconvenienced.

For those of you who will be moving to warmer places soon, we ask advance warning about your address change. We are sure to make the change if you send us a note.

Another bit of interesting news this week is that the high school paper will soon return to the pages of the CITIZEN. This will give students in our high school the opportunity to see their work in print, and to work with the offset printing method. It will give our readers the opportunity to keep in touch with the school activities.

The school newspaper has appeared in the CITIZEN on numerous occasion during the nearly-eighty year life of this publication. Appearing in past years as "The School Bell," the new name will be different and representative of the changes which have been made in the school system, this newspaper, and the world of printing.

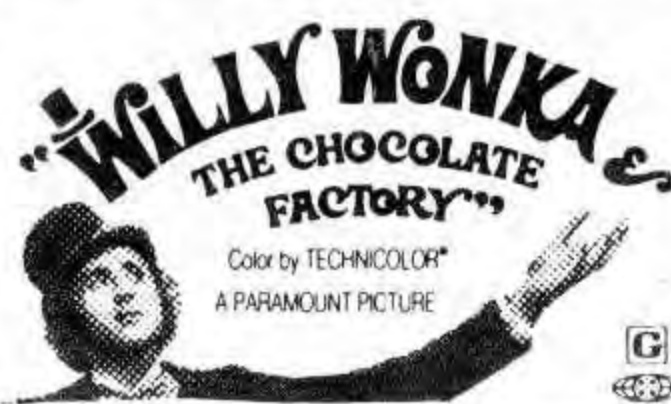

The typesetting computer should have arrived in Culver by the time you read this issue. Promised for many weeks, the machine was shipped August 25th from Connecticut. Sitting in Boston for 10 days, several heated telephone calls finally got it on its way, and its arrival was promised "absolutely" for Wednesday, with the installation engineer scheduled to come to Culver on Thursday. Let's hope....

The new sign has been erected in front of the new CITIZEN office at 307 North Main Street. A little tree work will make it more visible, and this will be accomplished in the near future. Our telephone number remains the same, however—it is in the telephone book. The old office is now abandoned.
