State Police Arrest Six In Culver

Eleven Indiana State Police cars and many troopers arrived in Culver early on Monday morning to arrest six local residents on warrants issued following the return of 17 indictments against 12 persons by a Starke County grand jury. The arrests were made by officers from the Dunes Park and South Bend posts, with assistance from Culver police.

Arrested were: Tim Cooney, Charles Wakefield, Rex Schrimsher, Robert Schafer, Ron Humes, and Mike Stevens, all of Culver. Charges included a number of drug-related state offenses.

The Assistant U.S. Attorney in South Bend reported that these were not Federally-related arrests, and neither the Federal Bureau of Investigation nor the Drug Enforcement Agency were involved in the arrests, as local rumors proved unfounded.

Sgt. Howard Bashore of the Dunes Park post stated that the Monday arrests, which included six others not involving Culver residents, were the result of nine months of undercover work by Trooper Tom Frailey of Valparaiso.

Culver Police Chief Woodward stated Tuesday that "This is going to cut our drug traffic down in Culver."

These, and possible future arrests in drug-related cases, are in part the result of an informal exchange of information between various local and County police departments. The Culver Police Department has been active in this interchange, and information obtained in an arrest here may one day help produce arrests of suppliers in another area, reports Chief Woodward.

Holiday Vandalism

MUCH DAMAGE OVER FOURTH

Culver police reported several incidents of vandalism and property destruction over the Fourth of July holiday, including four apparently related incidents Thursday evening.

Two right-side tires were slashed

Valpo girl won their Soap Box Derby. She also plays in the Little League there. Times are sure changing. The stock market is so bad that three stocks I have been following went off the financial page and ended up in Help Wanted.

Bernie and I drink a certain soft drink. Recently the price went up, and it went up again just a few days ago. I didn't think much of the increase when I was told it was because of the rising cost of sugar, but then I remembered it was a "sugar free" diet drink! I guess sugar isn't free, after all...

Closing on a serious note, watch out for government unemployment statistics. After a person has remained out of work for a period of months without finding work, the Bureau of Labor Statistics drops that name from the "unemployed" column and into the unemployable figures, which are rarely considered by national reporters. So, when you hear that the latest government report shows a decrease in the unemployment rate, be careful: it may mean that there are thousands who have been out of work far too long for the good of the country and themselves.

on the town's second police car, causing damage in an amount of $100.

Two 90" by 120" plate glass windows were broken in the Town Hall when large rocks were thrown from across the street. The damage occurred around 11:00 p.m. and the incident was witnessed by passers-by. Replacement cost is approximately $600.00.

Obscene slogans were spray painted in gold, black and orange on the water side of the Culver Beach Lodge. These have been removed through the combined efforts of the Beach Staff and volunteers.

Norm Kelly, of Hatten Motors in Culver, reported the theft of the rear tires from two vehicles on his lot early Thursday. Police estimate the loss at around $200.

Culver Police Chief Richard Woodward reports that a juvenile from Culver is known to have caused much of the damage, and evidence is now being gathered in the case.

AFTER EIGHTY YEARS...
SOMETHING NEW!

This issue marks the 80th anniversary of the first issue of The Culver Citizen, which appeared on July 13, 1894 as The Marmont Herald. To herald that event, we are beginning the second stage of expansion for the new management.

What I would call the first stage was our conversion to offset printing and adding new equipment, including our typesetting computer. These changes came exactly a year ago with this issue, and the Culver community responded with almost quadrupled subscriptions over the level when we acquired the paper on July 12, 1973.

That stage in our growth literally required that we go "underground," since we moved the complete operation to our basement.

Well, like the TV commercial, we have an opportunity to see the light again, and this week we moved to new offices at 114 South Main Street. This move will be accompanied by regular office hours (something missing before) and even more quality equipment to serve you.

Of course, June weddings have left their mark on us, and the something new requires something old.

The "something old" is the return of an old columnist to the active contributing ranks here at the Citizen.

You will find within this issue the return of a regular column to be written by veteran Culver journalist Bob Kyle. I don't know whether it is his philosophy or his getting senile, but Bob assures me that his new column, while appearing under the same name, will not be the same as the old.

Many Citizen readers will remember the early Kyle column, appearing during the late Fifties during the period when the Citizen was published by the Cleveland family. To give you an example, one column began this way: "Having only a passing acquaintance with this town lately I'll let the readers down with a few innocuous remarks that will offend no one." Rarely during that period were Citizen readers thus "let down."

This column will also appear rather regularly, and will generally contain a number of things. The end may be far different than the beginning, so read on!

The move to new offices has been so hectic that, during a TV break, I was so confused I thought I actually understood a Dr. Pepper commercial! Watergate has begun to take over national television again. While I personally think that it is a privilege to watch the way our Constitution is growing and changing, I think the younger kids are going to have trouble in future years with English. Many now think English grammar has a new category, called the "Suspended Sentence!"

Did you hear the one about the politician who was so boring he could make people yawn in 64 languages?

My notebook reminds that I met Dave Overmyer in the Home Restaurant one morning early last week. He is out of the hospital and seems to be doing rather well. A

For Real Estate Service You Can Rely On — THOMAS REAL ESTATE Culver

Often times it is most convenient for you to get those necessary errands done before or after your normal working hours. For example, the Thomas Real Estate agency recently received a business call at 7:00 a.m. That same business day ended with another call at 10:00 p.m. Both of these calls had requests which received personal and prompt action by Thomas Real Estate. This was easily possible since Virginia and Jerry Thomas have the business in their home.

The Thomases have kept SERVICE as a goal. Whether there is monetary compensation does not necessarily enter the picture. For example, if you are interested in renting a place, Thomas Real Estate will inform you of rental property presently available, even if they are not to receive commission from either party. When individuals do enter contract with Thomas Real Estate to rent or sell for them, then the agency will not wait to be phoned, but will actively find prospects. As a seller or landlord you will find that the commission rate of Thomas Real Estate will compare favorably with any agency in the area. If you soon need help in real estate, it will easily be worth your time to talk with Thomas Real Estate before deciding on what course of action to take. Service with your best interest in mind is what they want.

CULVER NEWS AGENCY

It's The Citizen's 80th Birthday!

THIS WEEK MARKS THE 80TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE PUBLICATION OF THE NEWSPAPER NOW KNOWN AS "THE CULVER CITIZEN." IT WAS FOUNDED ON JULY 13, 1894 AS "THE MARMONT HERALD." IN CELEBRATING THE 50TH ANNIVERSARY ON JULY 12, 1944, THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE APPEARED IN THE CITIZEN. IT IS REPRINTED BELOW IN ITS ENTIRETY.

CITIZEN COMPLETES 50th YEAR

Founded By Nearpass As "Marmont Herald;" History Is Reviewed

Fifty years ago this week, July 13th to be exact, The Culver Citizen was born. A half century of faithful service to its community in recording the transient life of this vicinity!

We had planned for years that this occasion should be marked by a special anniversary issue, but wartime conditions, including a restriction on newsprint, precludes such an undertaking. Instead of an extensive review of the various activities, businesses and other phases of Culver and the surrounding territory, this golden anniversary will be limited to a historical account of the life of the paper.

Edwin R. Corwin in his history of Union Township, "One Township's Yesterdays," has related the history of The Citizen so well, based on exhaustive research studies, that it is being reprinted here in part:

On the 13th of July, 1894, appeared the first issue, Vol. I, Number 1, of "The Marmont Herald," George Nearpass, editor and publisher.

Hitchhiking Editor

Dave Smith tells the story of the coming of the first editor, and beyond a doubt he was the first of Marmont's citizens to meet and talk with the man who had the idea or "hunch" that Marmont finally was ripe for a newspaper. Dave, then a comparatively young man, was walking along the Hibbard Road when he met a man coming toward Marmont. The man, who was a stranger to Dave, was afoot. He said he was going to look the town over with the idea of starting a newspaper. No doubt he had come in on the Nickel Plate. The stranger proved to be George Nearpass.

That evening, at the customary friendly gathering of the men in the village (all were sociable in those days, and everyone was acquainted), Nearpass told of his plans. And he decided to stay. So he set up his press, and the "Marmont Herald" was started.

In Cramped Quarters

Union Township's first newspaper was begun in restricted space, in a small one-story frame building, located on the west side of Main Street between Jefferson and Madison Streets, where the Culver City Tavern is located in another building. The building was owned by John Osborn, the banker who financed Nearpass and stood "broadside" to the street because it had been so built to accommodate a photograph gallery. It was about 12 feet wide.

It was there, in the building on the Warner location that George Nearpass set up his humble hand-press and began the publishing of his weekly newspaper, with little in the way of equipment to help him on his journalistic way.

Arthur Morris was there when the first edition was in the making, and he retained a copy of that epochal news-sheet. He thinks his copy was the third off the hand-press.

Nearpass edited and published the "Marmont Herald" and the "Culver City Herald" for about ten years. Prior to that period of his newspaper career he had conducted the "Hobart Gazette." The "Marmont Herald" became the "Culver City Herald" when the name of the village was changed.

George E. Nearpass, son of the editor and publisher, writes: "I take from George P. Rowell & Sons American Newspaper Directory, published in 1895, the following listed therein:

"MARMONT—Marshall Co. pop. 374, on the Terre Haute and Indianapolis R.R., about 34 miles north of Logansport. Agriculture.

"Newspaper—Herald—published Fridays; 8 pages 13 x 20. Subscription $1.00 per year, established 1894 by Geo. E. Nearpass, Sr., editor and publisher. Independent."

The Birth Of a Paper

"In Marmont father called John Osborn, Sam Medbourn, E.B. Vanschoiack, Dr. B.W.S. Wiseman, Dr. O.H. Rea and many others, and told them if they would raise him a bonus he would start a paper in Marmont. They got busy, raised the bonus, and he moved his plant to marmont in 1894, and established the "Marmont Herald."

"His equipment consisted of an old Washington hand-press, and old foot-pump Gordon job press, a printer's stone and three cases of type.

"In those days there were a lot of tramp printers roaming over the country, and many of the old timers of Marmont will recall a printer by the name of Billy Millross, one of the best printers who ever held a stick of type. Billy worked for Dad several years.

"On publication day, and it took all day to print the paper, Sumner Wiseman, who is now Dr. Sumner Wiseman of Union Mills, Indiana, would run the press. Ed Gandy was the chief roller, when my brother Floyd could not be found. The roller was the one who put the ink on the type. My job was to take the papers off the press. Harry Medbourn was my substitute. Tim Wolfe also used to run the press and many others helped to get the paper out on publication day.

Sold To J.H. Koontz

"Dad published the paper in Culver for about nine years and sold it to J.H. Koontz, who changed the name to The Citizen.

"Father was one of the men who helped to change the name of Marmont to Culver. The first change was from Marmont to Culver City. Then, later, the name was changed to Culver. I think Dad sold the Herald to J.H. Koontz, April 27, 1903."

After leaving Culver, George Nearpass, Sr., and George Nearpass, Jr., launched the "Shipshe-wana Sun," at Shipshewana, Indiana. That was not long after the middle of August, 1905.

Editor Koontz then occupied the chair in the office at Culver. The "Art Annual," in 1905, gave the following information about the paper:

THE CULVER CITIZEN.—J. H. Koontz & Son, proprietors. 2,000 or more readers. Non-sectarian and non-partisan. A valuable plant, complete with the best type and publishing machinery. The job work was large. The success and profit of the newspaper was due, largely, to the work of the foreman, O.A. Gandy, who was "certainly a 'master mechanic' in his business."

The Citizen was sold by J.H. Koontz, and on April 1st, 1906, passed to the ownership of Arthur B. Holt, of Kankakee, Illinois. Mr. Holt had been one of the publishers of the "Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette," in that community.

Mr. Holt remained as editor through the years that saw Culver grow from a village to a town and the paper progressed accordingly. He had a distinct flair for writing with a personal touch that made his paper outstanding. He left the writing of high-powered editorials to the metropolitan papers, while he sought out the small, homely items that concerned the everyday life of his readers. His dry humor persistently cropped out in unexpected places. His long reign in the editor's chair formed an important chapter in the local history of journalism.

Paper to New Owners

On July 1, 1923, he relinquished his interests to M.R. Robinson and F.C. Leitnaker, who came to Culver from Kansas where they had been roommates in college. Both were young men and veterans of the World War. The circulation and size of The Citizen enlarged under their energetic management and became a leader in community activities.

Another change in management occurred November 11, 1926, when M.R. Robinson became the sole owner and publisher. In recent years The Citizen has won recognition in state contests for the best weekly papers and its editorials are frequently selected as outstanding by the National Editorial Association. A few years ago it won a prize for one of the best editorials in the country.

The Citizen is a non-political paper since it is the only paper in town and its publisher believes that all parties should in such a case be treated equally.

Let us take a little backward journey to that Friday the Thirteenth, as unlucky as it may sound, that first publication day in Union Township, in the month of July, 1894.

"The Veteran Printer, Chas. Alvord, is serenely sticking type in the Herald office, having arrived Friday evening," presumably of the week before. So says the first edition.

That First Issue

Said the editor on his editorial page: "We hereby send you a sample copy of The Marmont Herald, and having published our first issue under adverse circumstances, we beg that you will withhold severe criticism," etc. A sort of "beg-your-pardon" overture, but the paper was nothing to be ashamed of, after all was said and done. And the editor closed his editorial bow to the public with a proud little flourish, "...the only paper published in Union Township."

Page One of Edition One displays a "Business Directory," which mentions the Village Board; the churches, two of them, (the M.E. Church, Henry Ross, pastor; and Grace Reform, J.W. Barber, pastor); and the societies, and the physicians, B.W.S. Wiseman and O.A. Rea. Also, Notary Public, Oliver Morris and attorneys, Adam E. Wise, of Plymouth, and R.C. O'Blines of Argos. Then comes Herbert B. Nealy, instructor in music, and J.M. Ohler, tonsorial artist (not a mere barber; they were artists back in those days). After the artists (music and tonsorializing) one finds Kreuzberger Park, near the lake, where after being cleanly shaven and dolled up, on this hot July day, one may go, and perhaps hear a little music. The Lake View Hotel, farther on, sitting atop a lakeside bluff, has Frank D. Lampson as manager. Then one may visit the Marmont Exchange Bank.

Guiding us on our way is George Nearpass, "publisher of the official paper of Union Township."

What's What In Marmont

The region's foremost institution, "The Culver Academy," gets two columns of the front page, as it should. And, of course, "Lake Maxinkuckee! Pleasure Resort" is extolled, (using a favorite editor-word).

"There is talk," says the paper, "of building a brick block from Vanschoiack's store to Beaver's saloon, by capitalists from abroad. It occurs to us that would be a pretty good location, as there is a store there that sells everything from a toothpick up."

About fifty students are attending the Summer School at the Culver Academy. The academy and the summer school are both in the infancy, just about getting started.

Ratzier has put up a branch gallery in Marmont and will make sittings every Tuesday.

Turning to the advertisements, of which there is a goodly display, the business world having rallied valiantly around the new publisher's standard, one reads a true story of Marmont as it was.

Who Was Who

Sam Easterday dealt in furniture and was the undertaker.

D.E. Zeziel kept a grocery. Urias Menser was General Hardware.

F. Smyth & Co. had bakery goods.

Mrs. J.W. Quick advertised the latest French styles in millinery.

L.C. Wiseman kept drugs and medicines.

Dillon & Castleman were grain dealers.

W.H. Wilson was the blacksmith.

Henry Oyler was the boot and shoe repairer.

F.W. Mow kept the livery, feed and sale stable.

C.L. Morris & Co. were in the lumber business.

Hayden Rea operated a harness shop.

The Exchange Grocery and Meat Market was kept by E.B. Vanschoiack.

Nussbaum, Meyer and Company had the "big store."

Ozias Duddleson sold pianos and organs.

William Swygart was general drayman.

As time wore on Marmont's newspaper and printery grew little by little until at length the expansion thereof demanded larger quarters. The thin building on Main Street became too thin and a fatter building was sought. The newspaper establishment next occupied fairly broad quarters in a building on East Washington Street.

It is there now, in doubly broad quarters, for it occupies the whole first floor.

On Early Town Board

Such was Mr. Corwin's history of The Citizen through the years. In glancing over that valuable and rare first issue, it is noted that Mr. Corwin didn't mention that the Village Board was composed of John W. Souder, Sam E. Medbourn and M.F. Mosher as trustees; F.T. Carl, clerk; H.M. Speyer, treasurer; and J.F. Cromley, Marshal.

The societies were the K.O.T.M. with Samuel Ulry, Com, and Urias Menser, record keeper; the K. of P. with D.P. Young, C.C., and B.W.S. Wiseman, K. of R.

W.W. Osborn was president of the Marmont Exchange Bank with Amos Osborn, vice president; John Osborn, cashier; and Charles H. Curtis, assistant cashier. Mr.

Curtis was also a dealer in bicycles.

Shirts sold for 29c; overalls for 37c; sugar for 5c lb., and coffee for 19c.

Captain Morris operated the Steamer Peerless and met all the trains to carry passengers to all the hotels, as well as conducting excursions.

W.S. Marks was manager of the collonade Hotel, rates $2.00 per day.

Rev. J.H. MacKenzie was president of the Culver Academy which gave a "liberal education under masters of experience and ability. Military drill and gymnastics."

The paper was all handset as it continued to be through the years until December, 1918, when Mr. Holt installed a typesetting machine. Four pages of the paper were "ready print," that is printed in Chicago with general news and features that were good in any paper.

This office has complete bound files of all issues since May 7, 1903, when Mr. Koontz became the editor of The Culver Citizen. Only three issues of The Marmont Herald and two of the Culver City Herald are on file. There is no copy of the Culver Herald. Evidently Mr. Nearpass didn't realize the importance of keeping copies of each issue on file.

Into Larger Quarters

Just to keep the record straight it might be added that Mr. Corwin omitted one home of The Citizen. It was in a two-story building that gave way to Johnson's Service Station years after the paper moved to its present location.

Here The Citizen has expanded, taking over the entire first floor and basement after the Northern Indiana Public Service Company moved to its present quarters. Modern machinery and equipment have been added from time to time until none of the machinery is left that was in the shop 21 years ago. Modern automatic presses and machinery have been installed, giving The Citizen the best equipped newspaper-commercial printing plant in any town its size in the entire state.

Editorial Policy

In looking backward today we can see some things that might better have been done differently, but the main policy of The Citizen would not be changed from what it has been under the various editors. We have tried to deal fairly with all. In rare instances when it has been necessary to break with friend in matters of public policy or to publish news that those concerned resented, there has been no joy in such breaks or publications, but each has been accompanied by a tugging of heartstrings that was excused only on the ground that it was made necessary because of a newspaper's duty to its readers and to the community it serves.

The Citizen has not been a crusading newspaper. We have tried to lead community thinking in paths that were right as it was given us to see the right. We have never gone about bashing heads with an editorial club just for the joy of hurting someone.

On this our fiftieth birthday, as we reflect on the years that are past, we feel a great surge of gratitude welling up in our hearts for the friendships of those years.

Material success means little if friendships are lost. The Citizen's circle of friends has grown with the years and these friends have been of the golden variety. We pay sincere tribute to them on this golden anniversary.

We want to pay tribute to the

...It Must Be THE LAKE WATER

By Bob Kyle

Resumption of LAKEWATER after a run of 65 issues was prompted by "Let's Get Together!", in which I suggested that the Culver Hotel, now vacant, be acquired to be named Osborn Center as a recreation center for our retired citizens, a meeting place and headquarters for various organizations and the upper floors for rent on a term basis to persons no longer able to maintain their larger homes. In future installments I will, of course, consider other topics.

Never in my long experience as a journalist have I received such a spontaneous response. Mrs. Lake-water says she thinks it was the best of hundreds of newspaper and magazine pieces I have done in my 55 years of writing for money. This, however, was free love of toying with an idea that lay in the incubator for many moons.

The Senior Citizens sponsored the initial meeting in which every organization and every interested person was invited to attend. Forty-six persons showed interest and the initial steps to be taken were explained.

Then out of the blue came a Federal Housing and Urban Development representative and an attorney to meet with Mr. Donald Muehlhausen, Mrs. Kyle and myself to explain what they had to offer; mainly, (1) HUD to build a permanent structure for the elderly, a matter of two years planning and building, and (2) acquiring the Culver Hotel and supplying a home for persons in three months at the most. We told HUD that there was an immediate need and five women would close their homes and two men, once tenants of the hotel, could be quartered there again.

The first step for the Town Trustees would be to establish a Housing Authority of five or seven members at the next Town Board meeting Monday, July 15th, at 7:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, due to enthusiasm, a number of erroneous statements were floating about, but soon died due to impatience more than anything else.

Several letters have been received, three of which are printed here in part. From that grand and gracious lady who spent more than fifty summers on the lake and until she could no longer drive her familiar red Chrysler. Now at 86, suffering near-blindness, she says, "If donations are in order to buy the old hotel I'll be there."

Mrs. Jane Scruggs, our proficient public librarian, writes: "The meeting for retired people was very enlightening. Retired from what? This is an ever active group, going from one phase of life into another with ambition and knowledge that is not seen in the younger generations. With practically all of the Culver citizens and surrounding communities giving their support it could only be a success."

What can the Library do to support this aging group? There are 14,000 books, records for every occasion from wedding music to square dance calling, records to learn a foreign language or typing, and poems on Indiana. Cassettes are now being ordered for those hard of hearing, slides with records for stay-at-home travelers, slides of interesting blooming plants.

AROUND AND ABOUT: Just reported total assets of State Exchange Bank $140 millions, with a steady increase of more than $10 millions yearly...Jess Overmyer, Eagle Lodge manager, says they had 85 dinners Saturday night. Three Sisters and Corner Tavern likewise full of strangers...Mrs. Ora Reed presided at ritualistic meeting local Legion Post. She reported on district meeting and was elected district chaplain...Eddie Amond, formerly of Culver and now of Indianapolis, appointed GOP state Ethnic Group president...Some kids are like ketchup bottles. You have to slap their bottoms to get them moving...The vengeful vandals who threw large rocks through the Town Hall and painted graffiti obscenities directed at the police at the town park lodge are fast being traced down. The hall loss of two plate glass windows are covered by insurance and to paint over the wall and signs at the park can be done for $40 and a lot of hard work by the women interested in maintaining a beautiful park. Enough said but a lot of thoughts if police get the guilty culprits.

THIS COLUMN, the first since 1964 when my recent illness began, has helped my recovery, along with a Sunday dinner of Steak Jardineire consisting of de lux Swiss steak smothered in new potatoes left with skins on, Hungarian peppers, Tenderpod string beans, Little Marvel peas, Goldenhart carrots so young that their voices hadn't changed, sweet onions, beets left with the skin on so they wouldn't bleed, and a touch of fresh mint, feathery dill and pungent parsley. This was topped with our own pedigreed red raspberries named Cardinal after the late Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis, who used to come into the raspberry patch and eat them off the canes, when he was a parish priest in Indianapolis.

Poesy on our gate:

I used to love my garden
But now my love is dead
For I found a bachelor's button
In black-eyed Susan's bed.

scores of men and women who have been a part of the inner circle of The Citizen through the years. Today there is a number of loyal and conscientious people sending in news from towns and communities covered by The Citizen, all for one purpose—to give you clean and timely news, without prejudice or political favor, a newspaper worthy to go into any home. This is the heritage passed on to the present editor by his capable predecessors to whom we pay our deep and sincere respect for their contributions in making The Citizen what it is today.

Result Of Cooperation

That The Citizen today enjoys the largest circulation in its history is not the result of any one person, but rather the fact that The Citizen is a family of workers sharing together the common purpose—to do the best job possible at all times. A fine spirit of cooperation exists. To that spirit we attribute whatever success we have achieved in the publishing of this paper.

On this anniversary we extend to all of you our thanks for your support, your friendship, and your good wishes. May the next 50 years of The Citizen record as great a growth and progress in this community as has the past half-century!

DO YOU LABEL YOURSELF SHY?

Relying more on God's unchanging love and less on ourselves, we can ease out of the shyness that hinders progress.

Found Money

Phyllis was having tea in an open-air cafe when she spied a wallet under a nearby table. A look inside revealed $900 in cash but no identification. Dutifully, Phyllis left the wallet with the proprietor of the cafe, to be held for a possible claimant.

Months passed, and no claimant appeared. Finally Phyllis decided it was now hers to keep. But the proprietor demurred.

"The wallet was found on my premises," he pointed out in a court hearing. "Therefore, unless the original owner shows up, it belongs to me."

However, the court ordered him to hand the wallet and the money over to Phyllis. The court said lost property found in a public place, not traceable to the original owner, may be retained by the finder.

Most courts endorse this rule. Unclaimed money (or other valuables) found in public places, like the lobby of a hotel or the aisle of a supermarket, are usually awarded to the finder rather than the management.

Does it matter if the finder was a company employee? Generally, no.

Thus, a bank teller who found a diamond ring near the entry way was held entitled to keep it as against the bank. So long as it was not part of his job to find lost articles, said the court, he was "on his own" in making this discovery.

It may indeed matter, though, if the item was not technically lost but only mislaid (that is, laid down on purpose, then left behind by mistake).

Such a case arose when a customer in a barber shop noticed a wallet that had been forgotten on a table. When no owner could be located the customer and the barber went to court to settle the right to the wallet.

This time, the court ruled in favor of the barber, not the customer. The court said the fact that the owner of the wallet had originally placed it on the table meant that he had entrusted it to the custody of the shop.

THREE RIVERS FESTIVAL HAS SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Something for all ages is featured in "Fantasia '74," the theme of the sixth annual Three Rivers Festival being held through July 14th in Fort Wayne.

Often called "America's greatest variety of festival events," this year's festival expects to draw more than one million persons.

Nine events running continuously throughout the festival are among the 90 events scheduled for the nine-day festival. The International Village, Bavarian Beer Tent, excursion boat rides, art exhibits, the "Great Ideas of Western Man" display, Amishville U.S.A., Farmer's Market, and special prices at the Children's Zoo, will be available to the public throughout the festival.

One of the favorites from past years is again featured this year, the International Village. During each day of the festival the International Village will offer a multitude of native art, costumes, and crafts displays by the city's local ethnic groups. Ethnic food delicacies will be on sale and native vocal and dancing groups will be performing in International Village during the entire festival.

Each day of the Three Rivers Festival a different ethnic group will be saluted. Foreign cuisine and artifacts will abound during Polish Day, Afro-American Day, Chinese Day, Greek Day, Scandinavian Day, Jewish Cultural Day, Spanish-American Day, Macedonian Day, and Ukrainian Day.

Such unusual and entertaining events as a skeeling game are scheduled for festival-goers' pleasure. On July 12th at 6:30 p.m. the action-packed skeeling game will be played between WLYV and the Pepsi Komets. In this contest, the two teams will challenge each other in an exciting game of hockey played on three-wheeled roller skates.

A different type of art exhibit will be held all day July 14th, for the Culinary Arts display. Works of art designed and crafted by hotel chefs of Fort Wayne will be exhibited and auctioned.

Volunteers of the county fire departments and auxiliaries meet in battle on July 13th at 1:00 p.m. in a fun-filled water contest. The match will be followed at 2:00 p.m. by a fashion show featuring displays from today and yesterday.

Concerts to suit just about every taste - from folk, country and western and rock to jazz - are scheduled throughout the festival.

The Three Rivers Festival "goes to the dogs" during the Unusual Dogs of the World Parade. Also for canine lovers, the Fort Wayne Obedience Training Club presents a demonstration of all phases of obedience work, performed by some 50 different breeds of dogs.

"Snoopy" gets into the act with the Flying Circuits, which present an airplane flying show by remote control. Skilled pilots demonstrate their talents in a program of education, fun and thrills.

The whole family will be delighted by the ice cream social, Shrine Band concert, theatre performances, pony rides, clowns and story tellers, as well as the many other unique attractions and displays.

Serving to promote and preserve the historic and cultural heritage of Fort Wayne, every event of the Three Rivers Festival will reflect the variety and uniqueness of its theme, "Fantasia '74."

Fulton County Attraction

ROUND BARN FESTIVAL THIS WEEKEND

Fulton County's fourth annual Round Barn Festival, centering on Rochester, opens Friday, July 12th, for a three-day weekend run. All of the features that have made the Festival so popular with visitors the past three years remain on the schedule, with some promising additions.

The top attractions, of course, are Fulton County's 13 round barns, which make this area the Round Barn Capital of Indiana.

Tours of the barns will leave the Courthouse square in Rochester at regular intervals throughout the three days. Visitors may choose one of three tours, which also include stops at a restored one-room schoolhouse and antique farm tractor displays.

The annual Round Barn Festival parade, attracting bands and floats from throughout northern Indiana, will begin at 10:00 a.m. Saturday.

Special features in the Festival this year are a period fashions dress revue Saturday at 6:00 p.m., a stage revue of hit Broadway songs on the Courthouse square at 4:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday, a Western Square Dance Friday night on Eighth Street, and a muzzle loading rifle shoot Saturday and Sunday.

All the tested Festival features return. They include a Carnival of Arts show, concession booths featuring homemade foods and handcrafted items, a horse shoe pitch Saturday afternoon, flea market and antique show, a farmer's market and a firemen's waterball contest.

There will be a water ski show on nearby Lake Manitou Sunday afternoon. The museum of the Fulton County Historical Society will be open daily. Sunday morning an outdoor church service will be held in front of the Fulton County Library.

Much of the Festival's fame comes from its homemade foods. These include pancake and sausage breakfasts Saturday and Sunday, chicken and noodle dinners Saturday and Sunday, iron kettle ham and bean suppers daily and chicken barbecue daily.

Also from the chapter 'Prayer' in the Christian Science Textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy—"To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me, keep my commandments.'" The habitual struggle to be always good is unceasing prayer."

All are welcome to our church services, and to use the Reading Room. See directory for address.

News About Books

Records
MILLION SELLER HITS is a new recording by Duke Ellington and the true-blue Hoosier Hoagy Carmichael. Also features One Hundred and One Strings. In the jazz theme is the 1917 ORIGINAL DIXIELAND BAND, produced by Mike Lipskin, and is an RCA Victor recording. NOW AND THEN, by Richard and Karen Carpenter, the famous team. MUSIC PEOPLE features 40 great artists presenting several kinds of popular music.

Cassettes
FOLK SONGS OF EARLY AMERICA. This cassette demonstrates early American folk songs of the New England and the Virginia settlers and points out the differences between the two settlements. MUSIC OF THE CIVIL WAR, the songs that follow the armies. The Civil War not only produced more songs but also some of the best; on this program many selections are played. MUSIC OF SMOKE AND STEEL, a program of the working man's words and music. Music seems to be a natural outgrowth of the rhythm of the work of men working together as a labor gang and these songs are presented as a basic part of America's musical heritage. Robert Frost: MEANING IN POETRY; the poet describes the purpose and structure of good poetry. Mr. Frost reads his most moving poems, talks about poetry as a dramatic play of ideas, and chides modern poets for the flat statements that form much of their work. Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee: PLAYING THE BLUES, with Peter Seeger. This program is a session of blues.

Art Reproductions
 Seven new art reproductions have been added to the art section Fragonard's A YOUNG GIRL READING; Myers' ONCE UPON A TIME and TELL ME A STORY, a pair of pictures, the first a picture of a young boy, the second of a young girl. Another reprint in the children's class is PIERROT WITH FLOWERS by Picasso. An American landscape is Paul Sample's MAPLE SUGARING IN VERMONT. There is also a still life by Robert Douglas Hunter and a nude, SOLITUDE, by Kamchorn.

The theme of the convention was "Pass It On" and during the Thursday business meeting $43,000 was distributed to various mission churches and projects throughout the state and nation. Through the members' efforts, the gospel will be passed on through these new mission beginnings.

MUSIC PROGRAM EXPANDED

With the goal of improving and enlarging the choral program of the Culver Community Schools, Mrs. Barbara Taylor has been employed to teach vocal music for grades 6 through 12 for the 1974 school year. Mr. Clayton Moon has been transferred to the Aubbeenaubee-Monterey Schools and will be a full time vocal instructor there, plus instrumental director for grades 1 through 5.

Mrs. Taylor comes to the Culver schools well qualified. She is a graduate of Zephyrhills High School in Zephyrhills, Florida. She attended Florida State University and Maryland State College before transferring to Indiana University's famed Music School where she earned her degree and since has done graduate work at the University. For the past four years she has taught music in the Columbus, Indiana school system.

Mrs. Taylor has wide choral experience not only in schools but in conducting church choirs. She is a soloist and accomplished pianist. In Columbus, she directed the choir of the First Lutheran Church.

Mr. Taylor is on the faculty of the North Judson school system. The Taylors have two children and they will reside in Culver.

CROSSROADS CENTER OBTAINS MATCHING FUND GRANT

Crossroads Rehabilitation Center has been awarded a Federal matching fund grant of $203,278.00 to conduct a rehabilitation program for the severely handicapped deaf. The announcement was made June 28th by Norman P. Reeves, Crossroads' president.

Under the terms of the matching grant, HEW will provide a maximum of $182,500.00 each year for three years and Crossroads will provide $20,778.00 each year to finance the program.

Eugene W. Petersen, Crossroads' manager of deaf services, has been named project director for the new program.

The project is designed to provide comprehensive rehabilitation services for severely handicapped deaf from throughout the Midwest. The special program will stress communication therapy and on-the-job training and also assist deaf persons in coping with the problems of finding employment and adjusting to an independent life.

Crossroads services for the deaf blends evaluation and habilitation of multiply disabled deaf children, high school students and other young deaf people with the evaluation and rehabilitation of a large variety of severely handicapped deaf adults from a five state area.

SUMMER SCHOOL EVENTS OPEN TO PUBLIC

During their seven-week session, the Culver Summer Schools have scheduled numerous events open to the public.

Each Saturday evening through August 3rd, the Woodcraft Camp students present original Indian stories at a Council Fire. Beginning at 8:00 p.m. and lasting for about 45 minutes, the Indian lore events take place in the Woodcraft Council Ring of Culver's wooded "Bird Sanctuary."

Sunday chapel services are conducted by the Rev. Cal Couch at 11:00 a.m. in the Culver Memorial Chapel through August 4th. A student choir accompanies the church services.

Each Sunday at 6:30 p.m., Woodcrafters, Naval School Midshipmen, Cavalry Troopers and Aviation School Cadets participate in garrison parades on the Riding Hall Terrace. The colorful array involves boys from 9 through 18 each Sunday through August 4th.

The Summer Naval Band will perform in concert July 7th, 14th, 21st, 28th and August 8th in the Eugene C. Eppley Auditorium at 4:00 p.m. The Band will also present its annual Moonlight Serenades for Lake Maxinkuckee residents and visitors August 3rd and 4th at 8:00 p.m.

The Eppley Auditorium will be the scene this summer for other cultural events. A talent show is scheduled for July 19th and it will include a "Punch and Judy" show and a light and sound student demonstration under the direction of Harvey Firari, Culver's theater director. The talent show will include a modern dance presentation supervised by Kathy Mitzell.

NAGY APPOINTED DEAN AT ACADEMIES

The Culver Educational Foundation has announced the appointment of Alexander D. Nagy, dean of students at Culver Military and the Culver Academy for Girls, as dean of the Academy, effective July 1st.

Culver's dean of the Academy is responsible for the college preparatory schools' total educational experience. Through the faculty and staff, the dean develops the program of studies, the schedule and student progress, and the extra-curricular programs. He supervises evaluation of student achievement, teaching and counseling, and is also in charge of college relations.

Other faculty responsibilities include faculty recruiting and supervision. At Culver, the position is most akin to that of a public high school principal.

Nagy first came to Culver in 1956 as a history instructor and served as a cadet counselor from 1958 through 1967. Promotions to senior and then master instructor led to his appointment as chairman of the history department in 1967, a position in which he served until his appointment as dean of students in 1971.

Are Hook's Drug Store newsstands managed by old fashioned over-30 stick-in-the-mud prudes who are strictly from nowhere?

Some people think so.

But a lot more people think otherwise. That's why we sell only clean, tasteful literature in Hook's. And you won't be offended. Your children won't learn the sordid, seamy facts of life at any of our newsstands.

Hook's are family drug stores. And we plan to keep them that way. You can depend on it.
