

PERSONAL
POINTERSBrief Mention of Culverites and Their Friends Who Have Come and Gone

Mrs. Homer Mattix came down from Plymouth Thursday to call on old friends.

Ed Bradley left on Monday for Asheville, N. C., where his wife and son are spending the winter.

Mrs. Cecil Grayson, wife of the superintendent of the Kewanna schools, was in town Saturday to visit friends and watch the interesting work on the ice field.

Mr. and Mrs. Urias Menser have gone to Ohio for a visit of several weeks with relatives if the weather is favorable. They will stop at Tiffin to see their son Clarence.

H. A. Rockhill of Loda, Ill., was in town Sunday and Monday on his way home from Etna Green where he had been looking after the settlement of his mother's estate.

Rev. W. A. Walker is laid up with a severely strained back, the result of a fall which he received Saturday while returning from making a call on Comrade Michael Baker.

Jim Connell of Ft. Wayne, ex-game and fish warden for Lake Maxinkuckee, was in town this week shipping his furniture to Ft. Wayne. He is still in the employ of the State Fish and Game commission.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rarrick of York, N. D., have been visiting the W. S. Easterday family for a few days. They removed from the Burr Oak neighborhood about 18 years ago.

Levi Osborn of Chicago came into town Sunday on a combined business and visiting trip. He has been a city salesman for a Chicago drug sundries house for some time, but this week goes on the road with Illinois as his territory.

Chester Easterday is in a hospital at Logansport with a case of pneumonia. His father and grandfather, W. S. and Daniel Easterday, visited him Tuesday and found him doing as well as could be expected. Though the attack is a severe one, it is not alarming.

Will Seine Lake Manitou.

Since the cold spell the ice at Lake Manitou has become quite thick and it is thought that the seining of the lake of undesirable fish will be started soon. Deputy Game Warden Hisey is looking for the paraphernalia necessary for the seining to arrive any day now and work will probably start next week if the ice remains firm.

The work will be conducted by a Wisconsin firm, Thompson Bros., who seined Bass and Maxinkuckee lakes and many others in Northern Indiana during the past summer. They claim that the work can be done much more satisfactorily during the winter under the ice, and say that it is much easier to get the fish.

A special net has been constructed for the work on Manitou which will lack just 180 feet of being one mile long. Cedar fence posts with large posts of cork will be used as corks on the net and the work will start at the western end of the lake and work to the head.—Rochester Sentinel.

A Ladies' Aid's Afternoon.

The ladies of the Missionary and Aid society of the Reformed church were entertained at the country home of Mrs. Wilbur Brown last week Wednesday. The day was spent in knotting comforts, and several articles were made for the annual bazar to be held in the spring. At the noon hour thirty-nine partook of a bounteous dinner served by the hostess. Three new members were added to the society, making 45 active members.

Delightful Club Meeting.

The C. C. club was very pleasantly entertained at Mrs. W. O. Osborn's last Thursday afternoon. About twenty-five members were present to enjoy the interesting and entertaining literary and musical numbers rendered by different members. The hostess served delicious refreshments. The whole affair was such a complete success that it was unanimously decided that every fourth meeting of the club should be one of entertainment of this kind.

NOTES FROM THE ACADEMY

Record of the Past Week's Work and Pastimes at the School.

Last week Friday afternoon, instead of the usual walk, A, B, and C companies had a snow battle on the cavalry drill field. The companies were divided into two parties, one of which was commanded by Captain Rockwood and the other by Lieutenant Starbuck and his dog Spike. Lieutenant Starbuck's army was detailed to build a snow fort and defend it against Captain Rockwood's forces. The first attack failed, and so the parties changed sides. The second attack, however, was a complete success—the fort was taken and the defenders routed. As this victory ended the battle, the companies were dismissed. Captain Rockwood reported "all was lost save honor."

Guard mounting has been made without music for the last few days because Jack Frost has a way of tampering with the instruments.

On account of the cold weather the sentinels have been relieved every half hour instead of every two hours.

The Schumann Quintette, an organization presenting only instrumental music, gave an excellent concert before the battalion on last Friday evening. The entire program consisted of ensemble work and the range of selections included representative pieces of a number of the great masters of the past. As an educational feature the recital was valuable for the leader, Mr. Lampert, prefaced each selection with a short interpretative talk, explaining the circumstances of composition, the theme, and the development.

A hard-fought basket ball game on Saturday resulted in another victory for the cadet five who took their game from Crawfordville High school by the score of 34-30. The local team is showing a decided improvement in their ability to drop the ball into the basket after they have succeeded in getting within striking distance. On next Saturday they will meet Morgan Park academy.

The coming of the ice afforded the hockey enthusiasts their long sought opportunity for some games and the first outside contest was held on Saturday when the cadets won from Winona college by a score 5-1. Hickey and Geary led the playing for Culver.

Taking advantage of the sleighing possibilities a number of the cadets enjoyed a bobsled ride on Saturday evening. They made Plymouth their destination and had supper at the Ross House.

Farm Products Stand First.

The Chicago Record-Herald has been conducting an exhaustive investigation into the causes for the high cost of living. We quote from a recent article:

Farm products occupy the center of the stage in all "high cost" investigations for several reasons. In the first place they have advanced in price far more than any other group of commodities, thus due to several causes. Raw products have gone up far more rapidly than manufactured articles. The extreme fluctuations in the prices of various groups of commodities may be seen from the following figures furnished in the reports of the United States Department of Labor:

In 1912—
Farm products were 118.8 per cent higher than in 1896.
Food stuffs, etc., were 66.5 per cent higher than in 1896.
Cloths and clothing were 32.5 per cent higher than in 1897.
Fuel and lighting were 40.4 per cent higher than in 1898.
Metals and implements were 45.9 per cent higher than in 1898.
Lumber and building materials were 63.9 per cent higher than in 1897.
House furnishings were 26.6 per cent higher than in 1897.
Miscellaneous articles were 45.7 per cent higher than in 1896.
All manufactured commodities were 44 per cent higher than in 1897.

A Militant Church.

South Bend, Feb. 15.—Nearly 100 persons were injured today in a battle between a mob of 2,000, largely made up of women, and the law forces over possession of St. Casimir's Polish Catholic church. The parish house was badly wrecked.

The row was over the assignment of a priest who is objectionable to the parish.

THE TOWNSHIP ROADS

An Attempt to "Knock Them Out" By Judicial Proceedings Proves to Be Fruitless.

Yesterday, 18th, was the day set for the letting of the Union township road contracts. Several prospective bidders have been over the route, including the portion to be paved, getting facts as to the character of the soil, the lay of the land, and the proximity and quality of the gravel beds.

A little flurry was caused by the action of William O'Keefe in appealing to the circuit court from the order of the county commissioners establishing the road. A committee, consisting of S. C. Shilling, W. S. Easterday and Henry Zechiel, was appointed by the Commercial club to go to Plymouth and ascertain the facts. The committee interviewed the auditor, Mr. O'Keefe and Mr. Logan who is the attorney for the road petitioners. Mr. O'Keefe represented that his objection to the road was wholly against a bill for $1,100 which he alleged had been filed with the county commissioners (and by them allowed) by Mr. Logan as his fee, and was not against the fees of the engineer or the printer which are fixed by law. The attorney's fee, he said, was not so fixed, and the price of $100 per road was merely established by custom. Mr. Logan informed the committee that he had not filed a bill, but only an estimate; that he did not know what his bill would be—it might be $1,100 or it might be less, depending upon the amount of work he would be required to do, and that his bill would not be filed until his services were completed, but that the commissioners were obliged to know what all the possible items of expense might total in order to make the bond issue ample. The auditor confirmed Mr. Logan's statement that it was not a bill but an estimate that had been filed.

The hearing of the appeal came before Judge Bernetha last week. Mr. Logan set forth the fact as to his estimate, and furthermore cited the court to a fatal defect in Mr. O'Keefe's appeal, namely, the omission of an affidavit setting forth the grounds on which an appeal was taken. Mr. O'Keefe had merely filed an appeal bond, and the supreme court has decided that to complete a motion for an appeal an affidavit must accompany the bond. Mr. Martinale represented Mr. O'Keefe in court. After taking the matter under advisement for two days the court dismissed the appeal. Consequently there is now no legal bar to the letting of the contracts in case the bids come within the estimates made by the engineer. Nor will an excess bid on some of the roads prevent the letting of those that are within the estimate.

Matrimonial.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Sour southwest of this city Tuesday night when their eldest daughter Nora E. was united in marriage to Harley Pontius of near Poplar Grove.

Promptly at 6:30 Mrs. Henry White began playing Mendelssohn's wedding march and the contracting parties, unattended, marched to the parlor where Rev. Tiedt of the Evangelical church at Culver pronounced them husband and wife. Congratulations followed, after which an elaborate wedding supper was served.

The bride wore a pretty dress of tan whipcord serge trimmed with a lighter shade of tan and lace. The groom wore the conventional black. The happy couple will at once begin housekeeping on the groom's farm near Poplar Grove.

Only the immediate families were invited to the marriage but the best wishes of a host of relatives and friends will go with Mr. and Mrs. Pontius as they start out together on life's journey.—Plymouth Republican.

A Postoffice Ruling.

An order has recently been issued which will prove a convenience to the public.

Letters and postal cards may be dispatched whether or not any postage is prepaid thereon. Other articles shall not be dispatched unless prepaid in part, and in all cases of insufficient prepayment double the deficiency shall be collected of the addressee. The option of no prepayment or part prepayment does not apply, however, to either letters or other articles mailed with the apparent intention of avoiding prepayment.

The old rule has been that when a letter has been, through carelessness, deposited in the postoffice without a stamp, it was held and the addressee was notified by card and required to enclose the necessary postage to the office of mailing. This involved delay which, in some cases, might prove a loss or a serious inconvenience.

Plucked Prizes at Plymouth.

At the county poultry show in Plymouth Dalrymple & May were successful in the competition of their birds against a fine showing by distant as well as local exhibitors.

In the White Orpington class May took 2d, 3d and 4th prizes on pullet, 4th on cockerel, and 3d on pen. The well-known J. S. Brady & Son of Parker's Landing, Va., were the big exhibitors in this class.

In the White Rock class Dalrymple took 1st and 2d on hen, 1st on cockerel, 1st and 2d on pullet and 1st on pen.

An Exciting Runaway.

Esta, the daughter of Schuyler Overmyer, living south of the lake, was the heroine of a runaway adventure on Tuesday evening. She was returning home from the high school, driving a young horse which she had been using since last fall. At the railroad crossing near the outlet the horse took fright and ran. The cutter was an old one and when it struck some bridge timbers by the side of the road one runner gave way. In another moment the other runner, carrying all the weight of the vehicle and its occupant, broke down, and the crossbar of the thills dropped upon the horse's heels. Miss Overmyer never "gave up the ship," however, but clung to the lines and to her seat notwithstanding only the cutter box was left. By sheer persistence she stopped the runaway horse which some men, who had just come from fishing, took charge of while Miss Overmyer went to Chadwick's and telephoned to her father to come after her.

Elevator Catches Fire.

The Castleman-Williamson elevator had a narrow escape from destruction on Saturday forenoon. When Arthur Castleman was starting the engine he saw a blaze in the elevator tower. By the time a ladder could be raised and water carried up the timbers supporting the shafting were well ablaze. An alarm had been telephoned and the fire bell brought out the fire company—and everybody else who wasn't bedfast. The fire had no doubt caught from an overheated journal the day before and had considerably waited until an opportune time before breaking out.

Mrs. Daniel Leighty.

Mrs. Daniel Leighty died in Culver Thursday at the age of 78 years, 6 months and 18 days. Her husband died six weeks ago. There are four sons and one daughter left of the family. One son is in South Dakota, one in Iowa, and two in Culver. The daughter also lives near Culver. Mrs. Leighty was a member of the Dunkard church for 47 years. The funeral was held Sunday at the Dunkard church in Burr Oak, Rev. J. F. Appleman officiating. He was assisted by Elder Schwahn of Wakarusa, who has been holding revival meeting there.

Masonic Funeral.

Fourteen members of Henry H. Culver lodge, F. and A. M., attended the burial of an old-time member, Henry Nier of Plymouth, who died quite suddenly in Rochester. The body was brought to Twin Lakes station on Saturday and taken to the McElrath cemetery north of Ribbard where the Masonic brethren received it and held the burial service of the order.

On Wednesday night of next week the C. H. S. will play Ora. Unless something arises this will be the last game on the local floor this season. Elkhart has been scheduled for March 13, but as that is the date of the state tournament the game will probably be canceled. This game will end the high school basketball career of Sawyer, Davis, Mawhorter and Shaw. Turn out and watch them make this game one long to be remembered in the athletic history of the maroon and white.

One week from Saturday night the 6th, 7th and 8th grades will give a joint literary entertainment at the school house. An admittance fee of about 15 cents will be charged to buy maps, charts, dictionaries and other much needed equipment for the two rooms.

Postmaster Osborn paid a visit to the school Monday and gave an interesting and instructive talk to each of the rooms.

At a recent board meeting it was decided to lengthen the school term two weeks, thus making 84 months.

The Laporte basket ball team will play the local five at Crook's hall Friday night.

Rev. Kenrich gave a very inspiring talk at chapel Monday.

A Jolly Evening.

After the firemen's supper Friday evening twenty of the Neeswangee council and their friends having secured Haag & Miller's big bobsled and the requisite amount of oysters and crackers, drove to the McFarland home north of town where they met with an equal supply of roast chicken, cake, etc., to which they tried to do justice, although severely hampered by the previous generous supply of oysters and mush handed them by the fire boys. Interesting games were played, Sam Lenon easily eclipsing the bunch in his part in the barnyard chorus. Music and general enjoyment kept them until the "wee wee" hours.

Pastry and Candy Sale.

The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church will have a pastry and candy sale Saturday afternoon, Feb. 21, at Speyer Bros.

THE WEEK
IN CULVERLittle Items of Local Happenings of Interest to People in Town and Country

—The Rochester Sentinel last week published ten road petitions.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brooke are rejoicing over the arrival of a son last Friday, the 13th.

—Knox lost one its most prominent and well-beloved citizens in the death of Oratio D. Fuller, president of the First National bank.

—Editor Boys and his wife of Plymouth received a valentine last Saturday that they're thinking a whole lot of. They have named it Elizabeth.

—John and Will Osborn and S. C. Shilling have accepted an invitation to address a road meeting at Tippecanoe a week from next Saturday night.

—A large quantity of the material for the electric light line, including four tons of copper wire, was put into the basement of the Austin building Tuesday.

—Welcome Miller, the Plymouth piano tuner, whom nearly everybody in Culver knows, is about to erect a theater building, 120x22, in Knox. It is already leased for five years.

—The supper given by the fire company netted nearly $35. This was not quite as much as was expected, but the night was cold and the boys realized that this kept away many whose "hearts were in the right place" if their stomachs were not.

—A. B. Crampton of Delphi is a candidate for the office of grand commander of the department of Indiana, G. A. R. Captain Crampton made a mighty fine impression on the comrades while here at his regimental reunion in 1912, and we are not likely to miss it if we predict that Henry Speyer post will give his claims serious consideration.

—Twenty-eight couples, some of them from Monterey, Plymouth and other points as far away, attended the dance at Crook's pavilion Saturday night and afterward enjoyed an oyster supper at Hayes'. Among those present were some Plymouth girls whose escorts had failed them but who were determined not to let anything so insignificant fool them out of a good time.

—Oliver, Clark Ferrier's little son, is making slow but sure progress toward recovery from tuberculosis of the bone of his right arm. Treatment was started a number of months ago before the case was accurately diagnosed. Dr. Murphy of Chicago, one of America's authorities on diseases of the bone, was consulted and under his treatment Oliver is improving. He still carries his arm in a cast.

Young People's Pleasures.

About 25 members of the freshmen class were entertained by Benlah Buchanan and Helen Gandy at a valentine party at the Buchanan home on Friday evening. The house was appropriately decorated with festoons of hearts and darts. The evening was spent in games and contests in which Cupids occupied a the honor. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. G. Beck entertained a dozen little girls at her home on Thursday evening from 4 to 6 in honor of her daughter Dorothea's birthday. The young folks spent the time most enjoyably in games and an old fashioned taffy pull.

The sophomore class journeyed to the home of Clifford Loser, near Poplar Grove on Tuesday evening, where they enjoyed an oyster supper and an all around good time.

May Be Delegate Convention.

It is expected that Marshall and Fulton counties will soon decide as to what method will be adopted for the selection of candidates for judge and prosecutor. There is understood to be a desire for a delegate convention in Fulton county. Marshall county may agree to this but many think the convention should be held before the date of our county primaries—Plymouth Democrat.

S. N. Stevens and Adam E. Wise have announced as candidates for judge, and Judge Bernetha is understood to be a candidate.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

Nothing that she had rung the bell, the judge held up a warning hand. "Don't do it that way. You leave it to me. I won't have to tell more than one or two of them." He chuckled. "I'll step in on my way out and tell you what effect it has."

"Yes, do, judge."

"Are you ready for Higgins?"

"Yes; tell him to come in."

Going to the door, the judge beckoned to the man, who was waiting in the shop beyond, and the gangling, plainly heavy-minded and exceedingly intense foreman entered.

"How do you feel today, Joe?" the judge asked kindly.

"I don't feel very well," Higgins answered gloomily and frowning.

The judge looked at him, smiling, not entirely with approval. "You never do, do you, Joe?" Higgins made no answer; the judge laughed and disappeared.

"Well, what is it, Higgins?" Josie inquired without delay, looking up at the unpleasantly faced creature as if she had no time to waste.

He came forward lurchingly, nervously twisting his cap in powerful hands; but there was nothing of the suppliant about him; rather he seemed almost to be inclined to threaten. "I want to ask you a question, Miss Richards."

"Go right ahead."

"I'll expect you to tell me the truth now!"

She flashed an angry look at him. "I'm not in the habit of lying."

He gazed at her with lowered head and frowning face. His words came slowly, as if he found it difficult to find them; but he did not speak with hesitation; indeed, there was that about him which hinted at the labor union orator.

"I'm talking for every man in the plant," he began, with rising voice, endeavoring to be impressive. "We had a meeting this morning, and we want to know whether this concern is going into the trust or not! We decided that we're entitled to some information, and that's what I'm here for; to find out what you know about it."

This naturally angered her. She was not one to be browbeaten, and he was plainly trying to browbeat her. She flushed vividly. "I don't know anything about it."

His voice reached a tone higher in its pitch. "Well, if you don't, who does?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

Now, he was definitely bullying. "Well, we must have an answer, one way or the other. It's our work and our living, and we've got to know where we are at."

She paid no attention to his definitely offensive manner now. "You'll have to get your information from the man who owns the plant."

"Well, where's he?"

"Right here in town."

He was amazed. He had not dreamed of this. "Young Jones here in town?"

"The Business Will Need Your Attention."

"Yes; he's stopping at the Grand hotel."

"When did he get here?"

"Last evening."

"Have you seen him?"

"Yes."

It was plain enough that Higgins' most vivid suspicions were aroused. He looked at her accusingly. His voice was even louder than it had been. "He got here last evening, eh? Then that settles it!" He went to her desk and leaned across it as if indicting her. "He came here with that trust fellow, didn't he?"

Now she, in turn, was really surprised. "What trust fellow?"

"Pembroke; one of the head men of the Consolidated."

None but a fool could have doubted her amazement and her worry as she rose and walked closer to him. "Is Pembroke here in town?"

"Oh," he sneered. "You didn't know that, eh?"

"I certainly did not."

He did not quite believe her, yet took a certain pleasure in imparting the distressing news to her, on the chance that she was truthful and had not before heard it. "Well, he's here. Several of the men saw him and recognized him. I suppose he's here with Jones to close us out. Is that it?"

"I don't know any more about it than you do, Higgins."

This did not impress or interest him. "You say the young fellow's stopping at the Grand?"

"Yes."

"Well, nobody here knows anything about it."

"I believe he registered under another name." She could have bitten off her tongue for letting this slip out.

Instantly the man assumed that this confirmed his most unfavorable prognostications. "Ah, ha! Well, what did he do that for?"

"How should I know?"

"Well," he shouted, "I guess I do! It's because he is a sneak! He knows it's a rotten thing he's doing and he's afraid of the consequences." He strode up and down the room in deep and heavy thought. "The men are not in a very good temper, and, you mark my words, there'll be the devil to pay."

"Can You Beat That?"

around here before this day's over unless we get some satisfaction and find out exactly what he intends to do!"

Josie looked at him with cold and angry eyes. For an instant she had been frightened. She had got the better of her fear now, and in her voice were both contempt and warning. "I wouldn't talk like that, if I were you, Higgins!"

He approached her threateningly. "Oh, you're on their side, are you? I thought so!"

Again he went close to her, almost as if he meant to do her some violence. His face was black with rage, his fists were clenched.

"I never did believe in you. I told the men this morning. For all we know, you've been working for the interests of the trust all the time!"

Her wrath was boiling fiercely now, and she showed the stuff of which she was made. She went closer still to Higgins, never wavering; giving back no inch, although he towered above her, shaking with wrath, and worked his clenching fingers ominously.

"That will be about enough now, Higgins; you get out of this office."

"I'd like to see anybody try to put me out till I'm ready to go!" he shouted.

To his amazement and to hers, it now developed that they had had a listener. An unexcited voice spoke from one side.

"Good morning, Miss Richards."

She whirled, recognizing instantly the tones. "Good morning, Mr. Jones."

Higgins stood there speechless, gazing at the newcomer with dropping jaw. Jackson waited not a second after he had greeted Josie, but marched up to the belligerent foreman and stood facing him, small but determined, not six inches from the powerful, red-shirted figure.

Instantly the foreman's manner changed. From the bully he became the fawn. "Oh, hello, Mr. Jones! I didn't know you were in town."

"Yes, you did," said Jackson slowly, coldly. "Miss Richards just told you. I've been standing out there listening to what you had to say. I remember you, Higgins. The only good thing I remember of you was that you were funny when you had cramps in the swimming hole. You always were a grouch and forever nosing in other people's affairs. Now, I want to tell you something. This plant belongs to me, and it's nobody's business whether I keep it, or sell it, or give it away. Do you understand?"

"Well," said Higgins, half in apology, half dully, "the men asked me to come here and get the information."

"They didn't ask you to come here and insult this girl, did they? Now, I'll put you out of the office, and throw you out of the plant, and drive you out of the town if I hear any more red-fire talk out of you."

He paused, and Higgins stood, quite humbled.

"The trust isn't going to buy this plant," Broadway continued, while not only Higgins, but Josie, gazed at him intently, gratefully, startled by the overwhelmingly good news, "for the simple reason that it isn't for sale, and you can go and tell the men I said so."

Higgins now was much abashed. "I'm sorry I was hasty, Mr. Jones. I didn't mean to lose my temper."

"You don't want to lose your job, do you?"

"No, sir."

"Then go on; get out of here."

"Yes, sir." The big workman turned to Josie. "I hope you'll forgive me, Miss Richards. I know I've got a rotten disposition, but my heart's in the right place."

"I understand," said Josie, who had known him all her life.

"I'll tell the men what you said, Mr. Jones," he said to his employer—that employer who had, in the past, employed no one more important than a butler, a chauffeur, a Jap cook, or, temporarily, a waiter or a bellboy. It gave Broadway quite a little shock. "Gosh! What a relief it will be to them all! It's made a different man out of me already."

To their amazement he broke down, blubbering like a mammoth child.

"Well, what are you crying about?" said Jackson, utterly nonplussed.

"Because I'm happy," said the contradictory Higgins. "There'll be others to cry outside. You don't know what it means to us—it saves our homes and families, too, maybe." With that and still intently blubbering, he left them.

"Can you beat that?" asked Broadway, turning back to Josie. "He's a nice, cheerful little fellow! I'd like to be around him a whole lot!"

ASHEVILLE'S CLIMATE IS FINE

A Noteworthy Feature of North Carolina's Famed Resort.

Editor Citizen: With your permission I will again write with reference with some of the grand things that may be enjoyed here. This time it will be the climate. Here is where I have become so fascinated that I could wish myself permanently located. The climate is certainly all I could wish. In the winter we should have cool weather in order that we may enjoy health—and we have it. Summer conditions would not be good. The lowest temperature since we are here was 18 above zero. That was on the 8th of this month; and the highest was on the 28th of January. The mean temperature is said to be 55. The highest in the last twelve years was 91 and the lowest was 1 below two years ago, and only one day.

But what I most admire is the fact that they do not have any severe electrical or wind storms. I don't fear the electrical storms so much, but I certainly do not like heavy wind storms. It is claimed to be on account of the high altitude. They have no sultry weather; there is always a gentle refreshing breeze, hence no great amount of humidity, therefore no severe storms.

This is a midway station between the North and South. People come here from the North to escape the rigors of the climate, and many come here to recuperate their health, especially those afflicted with rheumatism and pulmonary troubles. Especially is this said to be true of Ohio people, and our own state has its quota here as well as most other states in the Union. In the spring they come from Florida and other Southern states, but I am told more from Florida on account of the malaria and the pestiferous "skeeters." Malaria, they say, does not exist here, and I do not see how it could, with the sanitary conditions enforced by the officials. No snow has covered the ground since the 3d of January until the 13th of this month. The children have been playing on the lawns the greater part of the time since we are here.

When we first came here I thought I would pay my attention to the scenic side of the question, but changed my mind; the scenic may show up later. D. A. ELICK, Asheville, N. C., Box 118.

Important Measures.

Some of the most important public improvements in the United States now under contemplation in congress involve the concern of Northern Indiana. First is the proposed barge canal from Toledo to Lake Michigan, for the survey of which Congressman Cline and Senator Shively have worked industriously and successfully for several years. The surveyors are now at work estimating the probable cost of each of the proposed canal routes. Then there is the undertaking by Senator Shively and men Congress Barnhart and Peterson to secure government authorization to remove the Mokena, Ill., rock ledge from the Kankakee river which now prevents the successful drainage of the millions of acres of rich land in Northern Indiana. Then too, there is the good roads bill, which is of vast interest to the people of the northern part of the state and which is likely soon to become a law. All these propositions are of special concern to the 10th, 12th and 13th congressional districts and the congressmen and senators in these districts are active in behalf of all three of the proposed improvements.

The Indiana Democratic Editorial association is a large and influential organization. Prospective candidates for public office in the democratic party do not launch their barks on the political sea until they have consulted these editorial forecasters and ascertained the direction of the wind and the conditions of the political atmosphere. Consequently the men at the head of the association have a political standing which is entitled to respect. The Citizen, which has no politics, but is interested in everything in which the politicians and party editors are interested, is glad to learn that H. F. Schriker, our near neighbor of the Starke County Democrat, has been elected second vice-president of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association. Mr. Schriker is a good democrat, a good editor and a good neighbor.

NEWS OF LOCAL CHURCHES

EVANGELICAL.

A called meeting for all the members of the church and those interested in the church to meet on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the classroom to consider important business. It is important that every member be present.

J. E. Young, Pastor.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

It was a great delight to see the interest that all seemed to take in our services last Sunday. Our only disappointment was the smallness of the crowd who attended the Frances E. Willard memorial service held by the local W. C. T. U. It was a splendid service, but would have been better had more attended. All services will be held at regular hours next Sunday. The evening service will mark the opening of the revival meeting, which we are hoping will result in much good to the kingdom of God. May all the christian people of Culver join in this effort. We believe that all who are concerned about the welfare of the unsaved will do so. Get right with God and take a definite stand for righteousness. Get into the church where you can work with the most satisfaction to yourself and your co-laborers. Take some time to think favorably of this very important matter. Make up your mind that by the help of Almighty God you will be about the Master's business during the balance of your lifetime. "He that endreth to the end shall be saved." You cannot win the prize unless you run the entire race. And there is no one to beat but the devil. Come and hear the gospel sung and the "good news" preached.

POPLAR GROVE.

Services next Sunday as follows: Sunday school, 10; sermon by the pastor, 2:30.

J. F. Kenrich, Pastor.

Card of Thanks.

The fire company desires to thank all who contributed toward making its supper a success. We thank the business men for their liberal donations, the ladies for their help in preparing and serving, and to those ladies who made and sold candy, and to the public for their patronage. Culver Vol. Fire Co.

For Sale.—Fine heifer calf, one-half Holstein, $10; also an extra well bred Holstein male just ready for service. Will sell cheap at $40. Claude R. Newman.
